HARD WORK FOR SALMON.—The few deluded salmon which have of late undertaken to ascend the milky torrent of the Bandy River in search of spawning beds have had a terrible experience. First the boulders have been blasted out of the rapids along the river from Troutdale for a distance of 16 miles up to Minisinger's mill. Over 100 tons of powder were used on this job, and enough salmon were killed to supply the men employed with fresh fish. Now 180,000 railway ties are being rafted down the river; 60,000 from Bramhall's mill, 60,000 more from Johnson Bros.' mill further up, and 60,000 more from Minsinger's mill, 16 miles up. All these ties are now bumping their way down the swift stream to the boom at Troutdale, and in a few days the river at that point will be filled with them from bank to bank. It is necessary for the ties to be driven down the river while there is back water from the Columbia at Troutdale, as if there was any current there they would all be drawn under the boom and go off into the Columbia. The ties will be taken out at once and placed on cars for shipment East. The Carbolineum Avenarius Wood Preserving Company, which is preparing to erect a large plant at Troutdale for treating ties and bridge timbers, has received a rush order to treat 20,000 ties for Salt Lake and will erect a temporary plant for this job at once. Its permanent plant will be an extensive affair, as millions of ties will be shipped from Troutdale within the next few years.

MANY CHILDREN CARED FOR.—The regular monthly meeting of the trustees of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society of Oregon was held in the chambers of Judge Gilbert, Federal building, yesterday, when there were present: Hon. H. W. Corbett, president; Judge Gilbert, Judge Bellinger, Mrs. W. A. Buchanan, Mrs. Levi White, Mrs. C. R. Templeton and Mrs. A. G. Barker. The report of the superintendent, W. T. Gardner, showed that 24 children had been received during the month of May; that 42 children were on hand at May 1; that 34 have been sent to work or to various homes, leaving 32 on hand. It was reported that the Society's hospital contained no patients. The report of the ladies' advisory board was also read, and current bills were presented amounting to $437. It was unanimously decided not to hold any more meetings of the board until September, as it is usual to suspend board meetings during July and August.

COULDN'T GET WORK, THEY SAID.—John G. Cross and Roy Anton were before Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday, charged with stealing goods from O. R. & N. freight cars at the Terminal yards. They pleaded guilty. "What made you steal?" asked the Judge of Cross. "Well," he replied, "I arrived in town broke, and I could only get three days' work fixing a road in the East Side. Then I was stranded, and I stole so that I could get something to eat." "It's too bad to see a great big fellow like you unable to get work when the fruit ranch people cannot get enough men to pick the strawberry crop," remarked Deputy District Attorney Spencer. "Instead of picking strawberries he picked goods from cars," said the Judge. "Cross is sentenced to 10 months in the county jail and Anton to eight months."

GOOD NEWS ABOUT FRONT STREET.—Persons who have been complaining about the dangerous condition of the sidewalk at the southwest corner of Washington and Front streets will be pleased to learn that a new walk is soon to be laid there. Dr. W. K. Smith, owner of the property, was seen yesterday in regard to the walk, and stated that he had made arrangements for the construction of a cement walk in front of the building on the corner which would be laid as soon as there was no longer any danger of the work being interrupted by high water. The man who is to build the cement walk was around yesterday afternoon looking at the old wooden walk, and said he would build the new walk in a few days at farthest.

PAINTING OF PROFESSOR T. F. CAMPBELL.—A life-size painting of the late Thomas Franklin Campbell, president of Christian College, at Monmouth (now the State Normal School), from 1868-1882, has just been completed by E. W. Moore. The painting is to be presented to the institution during the approaching commencement exercises by the Memorial Association of the State Normal School, organized by the June class of 1892. The object of this association is to furnish the institution with similar memorials of pioneer educators connected with the school.

WHO KNEW THIS SAILOR?—According to advices received by the German Consulate of this city, Perry Elmer Scott, a native of Portland, Or., and a sailor by profession, came to his death on July 10, 1901, when he served on board the German ship J. W. Wendt. Further particulars may be obtained by the relatives of the deceased, who are unknown to the Consulate, at the office, 193½ First street.

DALY'S HEAVY SENTENCE.—William Daly, who has often been arrested, charged with being addicted to the use of morphine, was before Municipal Judge Cameron yesterday, charged with having cocaine in his possession unlawfully, and pleaded guilty. He was sentenced to 90 days in the county jail and to pay a fine of $200.

TROUBLE ONE HORSE MADE.—A balky horse attached to a laundry wagon gave an exhibition on Stark street in front of the Concord block just after noon yesterday, and attracted a very large audience. The horse exhibited only stubbornness; the "performing" was done by a score or more of people who knew how to start a balky horse. About all the conventional remedies were tried during the hour or more the performance lasted, and business in the neighborhood was paralyzed. First a piece of twine was slip-noosed on the animal's upper lip, and this was jerked and twisted without avail. Then strings were tied around the horse's ears, and they were hauled back flat. Next his tail was pulled loose, and a split stick put in his nose, but he remained firm. Then he was whipped under the belly and pounded on the back, and then his feet were lifted one after another and a pretense of extracting stones from his shoes made. Then the wagon was pushed against him as a hint to move, and all the strings were pulled simultaneously; but he only shook his head as much as to say, "No one has any strings on me," and then his ears were poured full of gravel and his eyes bandaged, and he was poked and punched, but it was "no go" with him. The driver had favored from the start waiting till the horse got ready to go, and after all were through fooling with him he went off at a trot. The crowd which lined the sidewalks, obstructed the street and filled all the windows in the block cheered, and this appeared not to please the brute, and he stopped again. The spectators had had their money's worth and would not stop any longer. But finally the horse moved on.

IN THE HEART OF PORTLAND.—The old shack at the corner of Fourth and Alder streets, formerly Vince's Market, appears likely to remain for some time a filthy and fitting monument to him. When the rent was raised from $125 to $225 per month and the occupants were "raised" out a month or two ago, it was probably supposed that, owing to its central location there would be a rush of persons anxious to lease it. Of course, no legitimate business which could go into such a shack could pay $225 per month for it; but it is understood that some one wanted it who thought that with a saloon below and a bagnio above he could pay the rent asked. If any such person existed he has not yet materialized, for a "for rent" placard has been posted on the building; but its appearance, even from the outside, is not enticing and the inside is worse. The open front of the lower story discloses a mass of filth and rubbish, and a large sum would have to be expended on the old shack before it could be made habitable, and, as the upper stories were inhabited by chickens and other poultry for a long time, it is doubtful if they could ever be made fit for human beings to live in again. No attempt has been made to clean up anything about the building; even the sidewalk on the Alder-street side is littered with stinking old fish boxes and dirt, which the sidewalk inspector should have looked after long ago. The building should be torn down, and probably will have to be, as it is certainly a nuisance.

EARLY TRAGEDY RECALLED.—The death of Mrs. Anna Schoppe a few days ago has recalled to the minds of many old-time citizens the tragedy which resulted in the death of her husband, Charles F. Schoppe, 26 years ago tomorrow. On the evening of June 13, 1874, Mr. Schoppe, who had been a member of the police force for some time, was on his way to the police station to tender his resignation, as he had been offered and had accepted a position as county jailer. As he was coming up Oak street between First and Second streets he heard a quarrel in progress in the Cozy saloon, near the corner of Second and went in. He found a carpenter named Gibson in a desperate altercation with a woman named as "Short-Fingered Nettie." Schoppe attempted to arrest Gibson, who drew a pistol. Schoppe clubbed his pistol and struck at Gibson, who discharged his pistol at the same instant. The blow knocked Gibson down, and Schoppe fell across him, and was dead in an instant. Gibson was tried and sentenced to imprisonment for life in the penitentiary, but after serving time for nine years, was pardoned out. His picture adornes the wall at the police station. Not another member of the police force has been shot in the 28 years since, except that James Barry, who died a year ago, was wounded in the arm by a pistol shot while attempting to arrest a tough a number of years ago.

WAS IT FAIR WARNING?—A sign of "fresh paint" written in Japanese characters does not convey much information to the kind of white men who visit Japanese billiard-rooms. The proprietors of such a place in the "bad lands" district found this out yesterday. They had been painting the interior a fiery flaming blood red, the color of a bull's heart, and in order to prevent their patrons from getting paint on their clothes posted placards, bearing the words "fresh paint" in Japanese characters around the walls, and on the bar. Two white men came in and after playing a game of pool leaned back against the bar, resting their elbows on the top. The placard, which looked like a copy of the foot prints of some prehistoric bird or crocodile, was not even noticed by them, and when they found that they were painted red they started in to turn the place inside out; but the Japs squared the matter with them, and peace was restored.

REAL ESTATE MARKET LIVELY.—Notwithstanding the falling off in building operations, caused by the strike, the movement in real estate is still lively, and prices are appreciating all the time. Persons who found themselves with a lot of what was then considered "outside property" on their hands when the slump came about nine years ago, and whose only consolation ever since has been that if they had put their money in some of the banks which failed they would have been worse off, are now feeling happy. There is a demand for the so-called outside property now at prices in many cases as high or higher than those of boom times, and investments are being made in tracts which were not considered outside property then.

TO OPEN 45-ACRE TRACT.—A tract of some 45 acres, lying east of Holladay's Addition, including the old Wasco Addition, has recently been purchased by Kentucky capitalists, through the Security Savings & Trust Company. They propose to have this tract laid out in lots and blocks for putting on the market in a style which has not heretofore been attempted, and which shows that these strangers have faith in the growth of this city. The plan is to have the streets graded and improved with gravel, water and gas pipes put in, cement sidewalks laid, shade trees planted along the streets, etc., and it is to be specified that no houses shall be erected on the tract costing less than $2000. The tract will be known as Holladay Park.

CISTERN COVER FALLS IN.—The plank cover to an old fire cistern at the intersection of Third and Stark streets, which was badly worn, broke in pieces yesterday under the foot of a truck horse and the pieces dropped out of sight, leaving a dangerous hole. The City Engineer's office was notified, and the matter attended to at once. These old fire cisterns are seldom if ever used now-a-days, and it would seem might as well be filled up. They have had their day, and were very serviceable when first constructed, but one of the large steam fire engines now in use would soon pump a cistern dry.

NEW DEER FOR CITY PARK.—L. L. Hawkins has been so busy of late that he has neglected to report the arrival of three deer from the Orient on the steamship Indravelli for the City Park. They were shipped to the care of Messrs. Balfour, Guthrie & Co., but whether they are Japanese or Chinese deer has not been ascertained. In either event they will probably be looked upon by the American deer in the park with as little favor as the Japanese and Chinese are by Americans.

CHARGED WITH THREATENING TO KILL.—After a strenuous search, W. H. Reed, of Corbett, was arrested yesterday in a room on the upper story of a Sixth-street hotel by Policeman Axel C. Welch, charged with threatening the life of Mrs. Jennie E. Lawton, a widow, residing on Ninth street, near Burnside. The warrant was issued by Municipal Judge Cameron, and the complaint recites the fact that Reed addressed Mrs. Lawton in these terms: "There are not enough officers in the city to get me away from you. If you don't make up with me and let me call on you when I want to I will kill you." Mrs. Lawton visited the police station, stating that she was alarmed for her safety and would not go to her home until assured by the police that Reed had been caught. Welch had a long search until he discovered Reed hiding in the hotel room. Reed stated to an Oregonian reporter that Mrs. Lawton was unnecessarily alarmed, and that he had not made any threats against the woman's life. Mrs. Lawton could not be found at her home last night. Reed was afterward released on bail being furnished for his appearance at court, and he insisted that the case would in all probability go no further.

OFFICERS OF MUSICAL CLUB.—At the annual meeting of the Musical Club of Portland, these officers were elected yesterday for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. W. E. Thomas; vice-president, Mrs. William Knight; secretary, Mrs. McKercher; treasurer, Mrs. Fletcher Linn; and members of the executive committee, Mrs. W. C. Alvord, Mrs. Mark Gill, and Mrs. W. L. Brewster. The various reports made showed that the club is in a flourishing condition. In the course of a general talk it was decided that the club shall manage the financial affairs and attend to the business details generally of the Portland symphony orchestra next season.

NOTICE TO MEMBERS Portland Hunt Club.—By request of the Riverside Driving Club you are invited to take part in the parade given by them Friday evening, June 13. It is earnestly requested that all who can participate in this event. Members who intend riding will please report to Mr. J. W. Cruthers at 7:15 P. M., corner Sixth and Pine streets. C. B. Williams, secretary. *

CHARGED WITH STEALING PICTURES.—Acting on telegraphic instructions from the Sheriff of Wasco County, Detectives Cordano and Archie Leonard arrested two young men named J. C. Hall and George B. Ward last night at Front and Alder streets, charged with the larceny of pictures.

FLOURISHED A REVOLVER.—While under the influence of liquor, Peter Jacobs was arrested last night by Policeman Welch at Sixth and Everett street as he was flourishing a revolver. Jacobs, who had about $17 in his possession at the time, was locked up at the police station.

FEW PEOPLE TO GO.

One Reason Why the Charleston Exposition Failed.

Frederic F. Taylor, who is chief of the agricultural department of the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, and one of the representatives of that institution who recently visited Portland and other cities of the Pacific Northwest to inspire a friendly interest in it, has written a letter to Secretary H. E. Reed, of the Lewis and Clark Centennial, in which he speaks of the causes for the financial failure of the Charleston enterprise, as follows:

On my trip South and East, I stopped in Charleston and attended the exposition about a week before its close. It is a very nice exposition, but it is the most gigantic frost, so far as I know, that has happened since the world was created. I presume that a large part of this unfortunate condition is due to one-half of the territory adjacent to Charleston being open sea, which does not yet bring many exposition visitors, and the other half is populated to the extent of 60 to 80 per cent by negroes, who would spend freely if they had any money. Strangely enough, however, they have never become wealthy from the munificent wages paid them. From any point of view, it is a great shame, since the exposition is good enough to have received liberal attendance.

FRUIT CROP DAMAGED.

But Apples Do Well in Fifth Oregon District.

Judd Geer, of Cove, Commissioner of the State Board of Horticulture for the Fifth District, reports as follows:

"The fruit crop in this district has been quite materially damaged by the cold, rainy season. The only crop that averages 100 over the entire district is apples. The percentage for the four principal fruitraising counties is as follows:

	Umatilla.	Union.	Malheur.	Baker.
Apples	100	100	100	100
Pears	50	50	50	100
Peaches	50	...	...	50
Prunes	50	20	75	100
Cherries	50	50	100	100
Grapes	100	...	75	50
Strawberries	70	100	75	100

A STRANGE SUICIDE.

Young Man Waded Out In Lake and Then Shot Himself.

The body of a young man supposed to be that of William Kempf, of Salem, was found in Kittredge's Lake, just below the city, about 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon. It was discovered by two men who were fishing in the vicinity and who immediately notified the Coroner. The men tied up the body and when the morgue officers were on their way to the scene they made an examination which resulted in the finding of a 38-calibre revolver at the bottom of the lake and two feet below the spot where they found the corpse floating. An examination of the body at the morgue showed that there was a bullet wound in the left temple. It is supposed that the man, determined to take his own life, walked out to his depth in the lake and then fired the fatal shot.

The body, which was badly decomposed, was evidently that of a young man of from 18 to 22 years. The clothes were of black and in the pocket of the coat were found two letters addressed to William Kempf, of Salem. Both were from young ladies. An inquest will be held this afternoon.

YEAR SOON TO CLOSE.

Class of Twenty-Nine From Portland Academy.

The 13th school year of Portland Academy is rapidly drawing to a close, and final examinations will commence next Wednesday morning. The class of 1902 is the largest yet graduated at the academy, consisting of 29 members. The annual commencement exercises will be held Friday evening, June 20, in the First Baptist Church on Twelfth and Taylor streets. The exercises will consist of the awarding of the several prizes offered by the friends of the school for excellence in class work, the Wilcox prize speaking contest and the giving of the diplomas. There will also be numerous musical selections by the chorus and glee club.

Those who will receive diplomas are: Irving Chandler and William Chandler, from Marshfield; Dolph Coolidge, from Colfax; Irwin Coyle, from Bridgetown, N. J.; Robert Kinney and Frank Sanborn, from Astoria; Charles Scott, from Cleone; John Strange, from Ashland; Elliott Corbett, Gordon Craig, Ella Doble, Ernestine Failing, Horace Fenton, Cleveland Holt, Bruce Honeyman, Marguerite Labbe, Harry Litt, Tam McArthur, Robert McLean, Henry Mears, Otis Morrill, AMee Mulford, Madeline Smith, Bernice Stewart, Plowden Stott, Elizabeth Strong, Robert Williams and Anna Wilson, from Portland; and Porter Frizzell, from The Dalles.

EPISODE RECALLED.

Finish of the Celebrated "Kelly Gang" of Bushrangers.

PORTLAND, June 11.—(To the Editor.)—The stand taken by Tracey and Merrill recalls the finish of the notorious "Kelly gang" of bushrangers in Australia in the 80s. Ned Kelly and his band, after boldly robbing bank after bank, were finally cornered in a frame building in a small town nearly 200 miles northwest of Melbourne. So constant was their fire that one or two attempts to burn them out resulted in a useless loss of life. Ned wore a complete rudely-made suit of armor, now in the possession of Australia's only baronet.

Although completely hemmed in, the house literally riddled with bullets, the government found it necessary to send a special train bearing a Gatling gun to destroy the building. Kelly's sister, a magnificent horsewoman and a good shot, was the principal scout for the bind. Kelly was finally taken, badly wounded. He succumbed before reaching the scaffold. The rest were killed during the fight, but the sister could not be given her deserts, partly for lack of proof and partly that her heroic deeds to save her brother paralyzed any jury that could be obtained. GEORGE KING.

C.K. HENRY'S "I TOLD YOU SO"

He Foresaw and Foretold Result of Fusion Movement.

If any man in Portland has a right to say "I told you so," regarding the recent election, Charles K. Henry must be admitted to first right to speak the words. In a very unique but impressive manner he has given expression to the sentiment. In the window of his office in the Chamber of Commerce building he has a placard bearing the legend: "Democrats, attention! Fusion—Faugh!"

Underneath these words is a newspaper clipping giving an account of the Democratic county convention in which Charles K. Henry led the fight against fusion but was defeated by ten votes. Next comes a cartoon showing D. Solis riding the Democratic mule through the mire into the Simon corral, urging the mule on by holding in front a pail of oats of promises. Following this is another cartoon of the day after election, showing a Democratic leader trying to pull the Democratic mule out at the little end of a fusion horn.

The placard attracts considerable attention and while it tells the history of the fusion movement it also says quite plainly, "I told you so."

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Kathryn Kidder at the Marquam.

Kathryn Kidder is sure to be greeted by one of the most fashionable audiences of the season when she appears here at the Marquam Theater Friday night, in her revival of David Garrick's sparkling old comedy, "The Country Girl." Miss Kidder has gradually risen to a place in the front rank of American actresses.

"The Country Girl" will be the play at the matinee Saturday, "Francillon," an emotional drama, of Alexander Dumas, Saturday night. The sale of seats opened yesterday morning.

The Pollard Opera Company.

The Pollard Juvenile Opera Company, which will appear at the Baker Theater for two weeks, beginning Sunday, is composed of the cleverest children on the stage. The repertoire is unusually extensive, including all the old favorites, as well as many new ones, and was not half exhausted during the engagement here this season. The announcement that the company is to return to Portland has been received with enthusiasm by the patrons of the house, and there is no doubt that the engagement will be a most successful one.

NO. 8 GETTING READY.

The committee on float and parade for Industry Lodge, No. 8, A. O. U. W., are sparing no pains to have the finest float and the greatest number of members in line Saturday evening. Members will meet at hall at 7 o'clock. SAM McKEE, Lodge Marshal.
