BUTTE, Mont., June 12.—Timely hitting in the eighth and ninth innings won the second game of the series for Butte today by a score of 5 to 2 in a contest replete with fast fielding and no new features. A two-base hit by Treadway in the eighth scored Ward and gave the Miners the one run they needed to win the game. Two more in the ninth were scored on a long drive to right field by Ward. The game from a scientific standpoint was as good a one as could be desired. Although Butte's work in the field was good, Portland played magnificent ball, and redeemed itself for the miserable exhibition of the day before.

Both Witbeck and Hawley pitched championship ball, but Hawley kept his hits scattered, although for that matter there was little bunching on Witbeck, aside from the first inning. There was one rather questionable decision in the seventh, which gave Portland its first run. It was a long drive to right by Deisel. Many believed it was a foul, and Treadway evidently thought so too, for, after failing to catch it, he took his time in fielding the leather home, and Witbeck, who had made second on his pretty double, scored.

Portland made its second score in the eighth on an error by Houtz, who allowed a ball knocked to left to roll through his legs. Butte scored two runs in the first on singles by Kane and Ward and a double by Marshall. After that there were no tallies until the seventh. Only thre men faced Hawley in the last of the ninth, and fly balls by L. Mahaffey and Witbeck and an easy one to Hawley from Muller's stick ended the game. The score:

"CAN'T RUN ME," SAYS LUCAS.

League President Will Do Things in His Own Way.

SPOKANE, Wash., June 12.—"No club will intimidate me in the matter of selecting or discharging umpires," declared President W. H. Lucas, of the Pacific Northwest Baseball League, today. "Whenever a change is necessary, I will make it myself, and not until then. If Portland was running the league it is Probable Mullane would not stay; but Portland is not running the league. We must have discipline on the ball field. That is our stock in trade. Mullane was perfectly right in sending Vigneux out of Sunday's game."

TACOMA WINS GOOD GAME.

Two Unassisted Double Plays by Fisher and Elsey.

TACOMA, June 12. — The Tigers won again today by superior playing, although the fielding of both teams was ragged at intervals. Spokane's three runs all came off errors, coupled with timely hits. Features of the game included two double plays, one by "Chick" Fisher, unassisted, and the other by Elsey, unassisted. Score:

HELENA WINS AGAIN.

A Pitchers' Battle in Which Seattle Suffers.

HELENA, Mont., June 12.—In the finest exhibition of baseball seen in Helena this season, Helena won the second game of the series from Seattle. It was a pitchers' battle, and Thompson, steady at critical times, received excellent support, McGilligan's lone error not being costly. Hurley's error at first was responsible for one of Helena's runs. The baserunning of the visitors was the feature. Dalrymple made a heroic effort to steal home when two men were out in the seventh. It was on Hickey's third strike, and Hickey was fanned just as Dalrymple touched the plate. Mullane refused to allow Dalrymple to score, and the player attempted to assault the umpire. Dalrymple was fined $5, and put on the bench.

Pitcher Hogg received word today of the death of his father in Pueblo, Colo., and will leave for that place tonight. This materially weakens Dugdale's team. The score:

ALUMNI TEAM AGAIN BEATEN.

Monograms Defeat California Visitors in Poor Ball Game.

Again the college alumni baseball team from California had its game won and then lost it. This time it was the local Monogram team that carried off the victory, score 11 to 7. The game was slow and practically featureless. Harkins, in the box for the Monograms, for the first four innings, had no control, and his work was so bad that he had to be removed, and McDermott substituted. His pitching was a great deal better, and enabled the Monograms to win the game. Zamloch, for the visitors, also had little control.

The Monogram team presented a new line-up. Windle, McDermott and Litt were new men on the team. The change of pitchers necessitated an all-around change in the team, Wickham being brought in to third to take McDermott's place, and Harkins going into the field. Zan hurt his finger, and was forced to quit catching. He exchanged places with Oliver in right field. Boettiger, of the alumni nine, was also injured behind the bat, and Miller, who had been playing a poor game at second, was put in his place. Emerson replaced Miller at second.

The game was slow and uninteresting throughout. Both teams are capable of putting up a better article of ball. The score itself best tells the story of the game. For the first four innings it looked as if everything was going in favor of the alumni team. Harkins was landed on hard in both the third and fourth. In the third Harkins hit a man, gave a pass, a wild pitch, and allowed three singles and a two-bagger, which netted three runs. In the fourth he hit another man, which, with two hits and an error by Parrott, let in three more runs. After that, Harkins, Parrott and Oliver brought in five runs, giving the lead to the Monograms.

After that both teams settled down, and for an inning and a half gave the spectators an exhibition of what might be called good ballplaying. The score:

Grim Badly in Need of Pitchers.

TACOMA, Wash., June 12.—Manager Grim, of the Spokane baseball team, is in a bad predicament for pitchers. Russell seems to have suddenly weakened, has been batted out of the box twice in the second inning, and Glendon's arm is lame. This leaves him Kostal alone. If Grim had any intention of signing Starkels, a crack Tacoma amateur, with great speed, that chance has gone, for Manager Andrews has signed the man, a right fielder and extra pitcher.

CHAMPION'S NEW RECORD

RIDES FASTEST MILE IN COMPETITIVE RACE.

Elkes Lowers Figures for Long-Distance Motor-Paced Events—Other Sporting News.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—Albert Champion, of France, defeated Howard Freeman, of Portland, Or., in two straight heats of a 10-mile motor-paced race at Coliseum Park tonight. The first heat was won by three laps and the second by three and a half laps. Champion's time for the 10 miles in the first heat was 14:27, a new world's record, beating that of 14:47, made at Baltimore Tuesday night. His time for the second heat was 14:06, or over 20 seconds better than in the first heat. Champion broke all records in this heat for paced competition from 1 to 10 miles, inclusive. He now holds these records together with the new marks for 15 to 25 miles, made at Boston Saturday.

In the second heat of tonight's race Champion rode the third mile in 1:22 2-5, the fastest mile ever ridden in a competitive race.

Breaks a String of Records.

BOSTON, June 12.—Harry Elkes, in winning the Brassard race at Charles River Park bicycle track tonight, broke all the world's records in a distance motor-paced race from one to 41 miles, and in making 41 miles 250 yards for the hour, broke the record of 40 miles 330 yards, made by Will Stinson at Brockton last year. The event had Elkes, Bobby Walthour, Nat Butler and Charles McConnell as contestants. Only Walthour figured in the running, he being eight and a half laps behind at the finish. Elkes' time follows: For five miles, 7:16 1-5; for 10 miles, 14:24; for 15 miles, 21:24 3-5, beating Stinson's record by 58 seconds; for 20 miles, 28:40½, or 1:12 ahead; for 25 miles, 35:56 3-5, or 1:19 ahead; for 30 miles, 43:16 4-5, or 2:02½ ahead; for 35 miles, 50:30 3-5, or 2:12 ahead. Just before the finish Elkes left his pace through the crowd running on the track. Elkes' fastest mile, the eleventh, was made in 1:23 1-5.

GREAT PARADE TONIGHT.

Riverside Club Prepares for Race Meet Tomorrow.

For some time past the members of the Riverside Driving Club have been making an effort toward the improvement of the streets and roads about Portland. Saturday afternoon a race meet will be held at the Irvington track, and the proceeds will be given toward the improvement of the roads. Tonight, at 7:30 o'clock, a parade will start on Sixth street, and it is the desire of the club that every one owning vehicles shall join in the parade. The Hunt Club will be represented. Governor-elect Chamberlain, Mayor Rowe and Mayor-elect Williams will be in the parade. The object is to show what a large percentage of the people are affected by the condition of the roads, and to endeavor to interest them in the cause.

"If only all who own vehicles could be made to take an interest in the work," said a member of the club last night, "a great deal of improvement could be accomplished."

Much interest is being taken in the coming race meet, and the club will endeavor to make it a fine exhibition. There will be two running races, under the auspices of the Portland Hunt Club.

No Yale Boxers at Coronation.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., June 12.—In connection with the departure from New York of a team of college boxers, to appear in the National Athletic Club ring at the coronation festivities in London, the Yale University officials have given out for publication a letter from R. C. Lehman, the well-known English college sportsman. The letter has reference to one written by Dr. W. G. Anderson, director of the Yale Gymnasium, who was instructed by the Yale authorities to notify both Oxford and Cambridge that Yale is in no way to be represented in the boxing carnival. Mr. Lehman's letter says he has taken steps to bring the matter before the proper authorities at Oxford and Cambridge, and that he hopes "to nip the scheme in the bud."

Grand Western Handicap.

DENVER, June 12.—The Grand Western handicap tournament, under the auspices of the Denver Trap Club, was begun today at the Orchard Place range. There were about 400 persons present. The 63 entries in today's events included shooters from Nebraska, Minnesota, Kansas, Utah and Colorado. Two women were in the list, Mrs. Bennett and Mrs. Bardsley, of Alamosa, Colo. Today's programme included eight events of 25 targets each, and the Denver Trap Club's handicap of 100 targets. The latter was not finished except by a few of the contestants. W. H. Herr finished his 100 shots, breaking 99 targets. Charles Younkman and L. Royce were among those who completed 75 shots in the handicap, each having 75 hits. H. C. Hirchey, of Minneapolis, champion wing shot of America, missed three targets out of the 200 in the eight 25-target events. Aside from Hirchey, who was barred from participation in the purses offered, the highest average for the day was 191 out of 200, in which Dominie A. Heirgood, J. S. Sedam and Charles Younkman tied. The tournament will last tomorrow and Saturday.

Women's Golf Tournament.

NEW YORK, June 12. — The second round of the match play for the woman's Metropolitan golf championship at the Essex Country Club today was notable for the remarkably fast game played by the present champion, Miss Genevieve Haecker. Her card of 77 for the 18 holes is probably the best made in this country by a woman. Summary of the championship round:

Mrs. William Shippen, Morris County, beat Miss C. G. Willis, Morris County, four up, two to play; Miss Helene Hernandez, Essex County, beat Miss Grace Ellis, Balustrol, two up, one to play; Mrs. H. A. Manice, Balustrol, beat Miss N. P. Rogers, three up, one to play; Miss Genevieve Haecker, Apawamis, beat Miss Ruth Underhill, Nassau, seven up, six to play.

To Practice for Cricket.

The first practice cricket match this season between members of the Portland Cricket Club and several sailors belonging to British ships now in port will take place on the Multnomah Club grounds Saturday evening at 6:30 o'clock. Captain Cawston asks for a good turn-out of members.

Storks Decreasing.

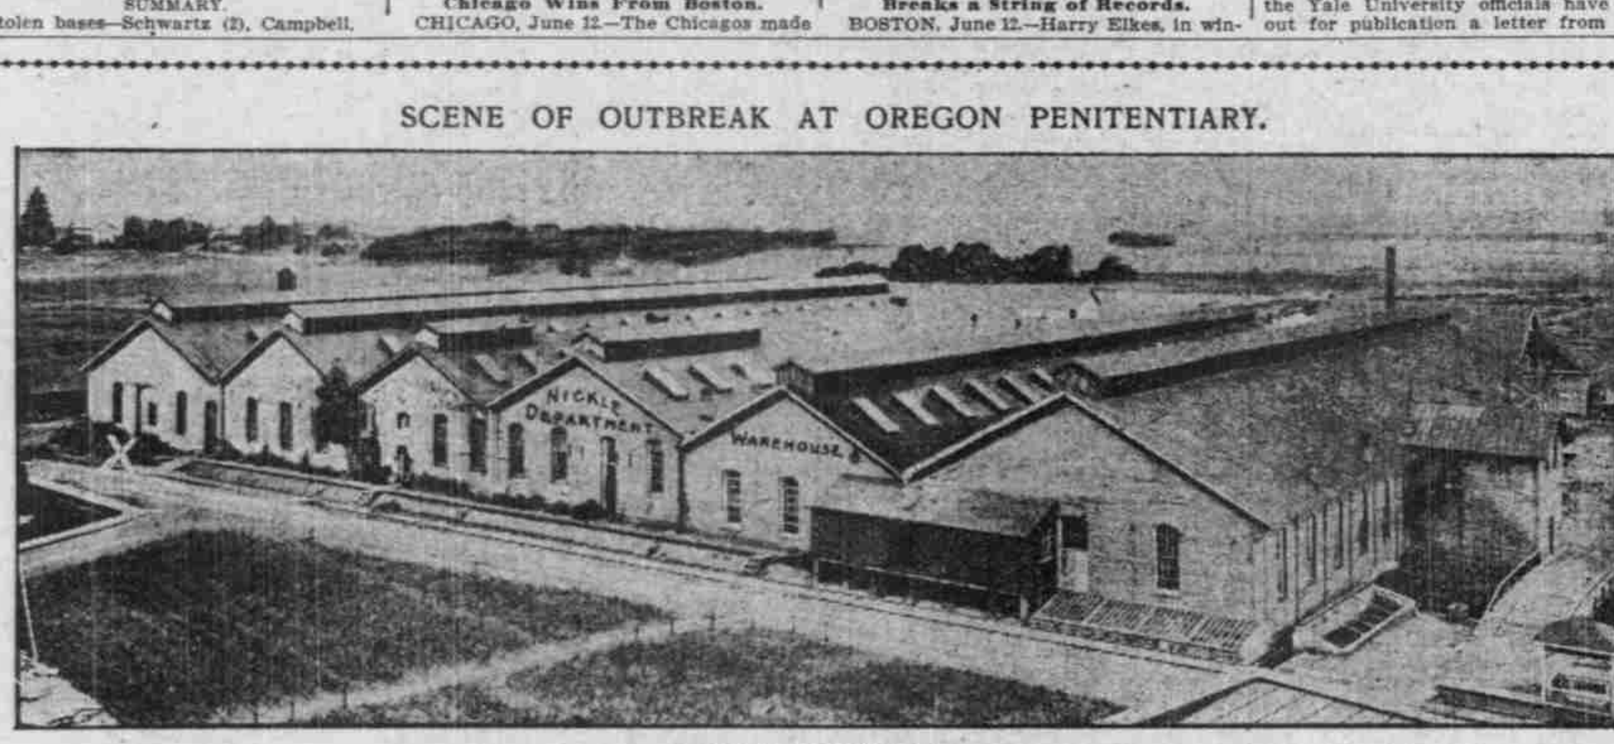
Philadelphia Record.

If the North German farmer looks with equanimity upon the gradual disappearance of the stork, the Northern tourist in quest of the quaint and picturesque will hear of the vanishing of the long-legged, red-beaked bird with unmixed regret. And what will the children say, whom Hans Andersen has told stories of the stork so wonderful that the bird seems part and parcel of fairyland? But the facts are that within the last half century the number of storks in Schleswig-Holstein has steadily decreased. Villages which used to be the home of over 60 families of storks, and where sometimes six stork nests could be counted on the roof of one farmer's buildings, hardly show a single nest now. Yet the arrival of the stork was always hailed with delight by the natives, and it was counted as much a sign of good luck if a stork built on a roof as in other parts of Germany it is to have a swallow build under the eaves.

Bank of France Swindled.

PARIS, June 12.—An employe of the Bank of France, who was entrusted with the care of collateral securities, abstracted a number of these documents and through the help of a friend borrowed money on them from the Bank of France itself. The newspapers say the sum lost by the bank amounts to 450,000 francs.

SCENE OF OUTBREAK AT OREGON PENITENTIARY.



THE STOVE FOUNDRY.

SALEM, June 11.—The picture herewith reproduced shows the stove foundry shops at the Oregon Penitentiary, where two convicts made a break for liberty last Monday morning. The shop marked with an "X" is the one in which the firing began. The shops are in the rear of the prison and inside the prison inclosure. The wall around the prison grounds is of brick, and is about 18 feet high. At each of the corners is a small guardhouse, with glass windows all around. On the outside of the wall, and about four feet from the top, a narrow steel platform extends clear around the wall. Upon this the guards walk as they pace forward and back on their beats. No officer is allowed to carry a gun inside the prison wall where the men are at work. The shops face toward the west. Tracy and Merrill shot the shop guard in charge of them, and drove out the others. They then rushed out the rear door and began firing at the guards on the wall. Jones was shot in his box at the northeast corner, and Ross and Tiffany were fired at on the north wall. The convicts procured a ladder from the shop and hurried with it to the east wall, where they placed it, climbed to the top of the wall and jumped to the ground outside. The distance they ran from the shop to the wall was about 100 feet. After scaling the wall they were in a vacant field, and had to run several hundred yards before getting under the cover of brush. They took a southeasterly direction, and it is supposed made a circuit around the City of Salem, coming in at the southern part of town Monday night. In their first day's travel they had the protection of timber only part of the way, and must have walked more or less in the open.

At a distance of 30 feet from the prison wall on the inside is a white line drawn on the ground, known as the dead line. Every prisoner is shown this line on his entrance to the prison, and is told that if he ever crosses that line he will be instantly shot. The picture here presented is by courtesy of the Loewenberg-Going Company, lessees of the penitentiary stove foundry.

HARRIMAN AND OREGON

NEW YORK RAILROAD ORGANIZER FOND OF THIS STATE.

Testimonial to His Genius From the Prominent Editor of Children's Publications in Philadelphia.

Rev. G. Henry Smythe, Ph. D., D. D., LL. D., of Philadelphia, editor-in-chief of the Sunshine publications for children, is at the Calumet, on his way to St. Paul and Chicago, having stopped over in Portland to see President Harriman about lands in Oregon and the Northwest. Dr. Smythe is one of the leading educators in the North. He has built the American University in East Tennessee into fine proportions. In an address at Knoxville, the other day, Dr. Smythe said:

"You gentlemen may be asked, What has been done in this state during the last decade? You can answer that Tennessee has increased in population since 1892 more than Kansas, Nevada, Wyoming, Colorado and Nebraska, all put together. And this steady, onward movement holds good from the Mississippi to the Columbia. I shall not be surprised if I am told, in 1912, that Los Angeles and Portland contain over half a million souls, with a wholesome corresponding increase all along the Pacific Coast."

As to his reasons for his stopping in Portland, Dr. Smythe said:

"I made a speech in Houston, in reference to the marked ability of the Southern Pacific in bringing colonists to Texas and Southern California. What I said then about Colonel S. F. B. Morse, passenger traffic manager of that great system, will apply equally to one who has just left our midst:

In the realm of the blind, the one-eyed man is King. Harriman, of the Southern Pacific, has vision. He is a prophet and seer. No other railroad magnate has such an uplift and inspiration. California and Oregon are his twin foster children; their future his aim and goal. To him the Northwest is another name for opportunity. President Harriman has reversed many of the ideas which hold in railroad business and traffic management. A demand for cheap and trashy land, for instance, has no influence with him. There is a vast difference, he says, between making a life and making a living, between character and coin. He has demonstrated that people want the best for the right price, and California and Oregon have the best, and people pay the price. Sensational clap-trap is not necessary to secure custom for his road. In 1870 the population of the United States was 38,000,000. Today it is 80,000,000. In 1920 it will be 130,000,000, and in 1940 200,000,000, and of this assured increase over 40,000,000 will be in Texas, California and Oregon.

"If Mr. Harriman is known in every civilized railroad center, it is by his works, for he is a silent man, a doer and not a talker. This great Northwest is the open sesame through which uncounted millions seek to pass from their present straitened environments and almost hopeless outlook to obtain farms, homes and a comfortable competency in Oregon, the banner state of the New Northwest.

"Mr. Harriman follows no leadership, he copies no man, his purposes, like his road, defy approach, and with him to mention Oregon is to make a friend. To listen to one of his inspirational talks as he lifts the spangled curtain of the future, where flows the Oregon, and not wish to get a farm on one side or the other of his road would appear a thing impossible. Harriman has done more for the Northwest than any other man in the country.

"Successful men, great merchants, eminent financiers, men of National and international fame, genial, gifted men, distinguished for power, for patience, for organized effort, will be found in every government and in every clime. No two of them owe their success to the same methods or the same talents. What sends one man up will send another down. What makes one man's fortune beggars another. One man limps in a procession while another heads the forlorn hope. Mr. Harriman has placed his name among the railroad worthies of the age. His road has produced a revolution in agricultural industries. The system by which an ear of corn or a stalk of wheat can be made to feed a family or build a school originated with him, and by him has been perfected. He is today the marked man in his special line, and 40 states are keeping tab on him. He is a veritable Moses of the multitude, and the Canaan of his hopes is—Oregon!

"Immense and complicated as his business is, he holds everything in his own hands, does his own thinking, makes his own deals, maps out his own campaigns, and keeps his own counsel. His system, though peculiar, takes with all. He does not believe in poor lands purshed for pelf, nor has a falsehood ever stained his conscience or blurred a sentence of his statements. Far-seeing, cool-headed, with uncommon judgment and good sense, he has waited for the verdict of the people. That verdict has been rendered, and its justice and value attested by everything that bears the imprint of Harriman, and the increasing traffic of his road from year to year. He has a standard up to which his statistics must come; to go beyond that is impossible.

"People are not fools. The settler of today is the voter of tomorrow. If Oregon lands were not the best, the shrewd public would long ago have found it out and said so. Personality and printeres' ink have aided Harriman, perhaps, in his career, but he would attract attention anywhere. His face beams with forceful intelligence and goodness. His unquestioned integrity is manifest to all, with his strong common sense, and what the world calls level-headedness. I spent just two hours in Mr. Harriman's company. It would be impossible to reproduce in type the piquant personality which abounded in that delightful interview."

The President's Arlington Address.

Brooklyn Eagle.

The splendor of the President's Memorial day address is the splendor of illuminated manhood. The strength of it is the strength of manifest right. Not, we think, since Lincoln's words at Gettysburg, has the constitutional commander-in-chief of the Army and of the Navy of the United States said that which will be long remembered, or which more deserves always to be kept in mind. Truly, the baptism of duty and the touch of destiny have made—or revealed—this President to be a thinker and a leader who can carry his countrymen with him in all things in which he is just himself, forgetful of party, compact of patriotism, resolute for the right, and as scornful of political cunning as of personal consequences.

The address is in all parts patriotic and eloquent, but in none merely rhetorical. It sums the past, portrays the present, and faces the future. Its summary of the past is accurate to nicety, and discriminating to the very shade of justice. Its portraiture of the present not only glorifies the Army and the Navy as a whole, but scarifies those of their number who have yielded to the temptation to retaliate on savages the outrages of savages on our men. It also classes and characterizes the wholesale contemners of the Army in words that will neither down nor die. The President likewise meets the propositions not merely of the hour, but of the far future with regard to the Philippines in a way to show that ordered liberty, graduated government, regulated right, taught truth and trained purpose of fittedness for freedom, enter into the veritable missionary movement of our Army in the archipelago.

The programme is and looms so large as to appall some. The details are so many as to fatigue others. Both the magnitude of the project and the multitude of the particulars invite pessimism, stimulate apprehension and lately did give apparent immunity to partisan defamation. But the work of contemporary copperheadism has been overdone. Those who resorted to it are running away from it and denying their responsibility for it. This Nation never did desert, decry, defame or fail to honor its Army or its Navy. This Nation never will. It has set them to no tasks of which it is ashamed; to none by which the world has not been made better; to none which has not made the bounds of ordered freedom wider yet. The liberated thought, the stored statesmanship and the luminous and pulsing power of the President's words today lift the occasion of the address to a high importance and make and mark an event of long and shaping significance in our history.

GAINING JAPAN'S TRADE.

United States Now Sending Many Goods to That Country.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—The United States is making rapid gains in the share which she furnishes of the importations of Japan. The "annual returns of the foreign trade of the Empire of Japan" for the year 1901 has just been received by the Treasury Bureau of Statistics. It shows that the United States, which in 1881 furnished less than 6 per cent of the imports of Japan, supplied 17 per cent of those imports in 1901, and that the United Kingdom, our chief rival in that trade, which supplied over 52 per cent of those imports in 1881, furnished but 20 per cent of Japan's importations in 1901. The total value of Japan's imports from the United States in 1881 was 1,781,108 yen, and in 1901 42,769,429 yen. The total value of Japan's imports from the United Kingdom in 1881 was 16,364,740 yen, and in 1901 was 50,575,788.

The United States now stands second in the list of non-Asiatic countries in the imports of Japan, and falls but a few thousand yen below India, the only Asiatic country which ranks with the United States in the imports of Japan. Comparing 1901 with 1892, the growth of the principal countries of the world in the imports of Japan are shown by the following table:

	1892. Yen.	1901. Yen.
United Kingdom	20,789,332	50,575,788
British India	7,662,003	42,779,904
United States	5,998,653	42,769,429
Germany	6,375,048	28,320,191
China	12,509,410	27,256,586
Hong Kong	6,985,722	11,141,783
Belgium	951,537	5,810,836

Subsidy Bill Not Taken Up.

WASHINGTON, June 12.—There was an unusually large attendance at the meeting today of the House committee on merchant marine and fisheries, and it was expected that the ship subsidy bill might be considered. The subject was not brought up, however, and an arrangement was made for a further hearing of Mr. Furuseth, representing labor bodies, in relation to the provisions affecting sailors.

Floored.

Chicago Record-Herald.

"What's the matter with the poor man?" cried a dozen excited people in chorus.

The policeman at the door of the fashionable restaurant ordered them back and said: "Heart disease. He took a girl in here to get supper after the play. She ordered a steak."

Specialists For MEN

Not Weakness, Symptoms!

By far the greater number of patients seeking relief for so-called weakness are strong, robust men in every other respect. Loss of vitality, prematureness, etc., are not weaknesses, but the symptoms of inflammatory processes in the Prostate Gland (so-called neck of bladder), caused by contracted disorders and too-often-repeated and too-long-continued excitement. Under our local plan of treatment, directed toward reducing the enlarged and swollen Prostate, immediate results, as indicated by increased circulation and renewed strength, are observed. Our colored chart of the organs, which we send free on application, is interesting to any one wishing to study the anatomy of the male.

Consultations free and no charge whatever for treatment of any case in which cure is not effected.
