

RACE THROUGH FIRE

Washington Train in Forest Ablaze on All Sides.

GREEN RIVER A SEA OF FLAMES

Blaze Extends for Seven Miles—Tacoma Sends Aid—Buckley Mill Burns and Fire Spreads to Timber There.

Every logging camp in the Green River district, Washington, has been destroyed or is threatened with destruction by a forest fire which sprang up there yesterday. Fire descended upon one camp in a roaring sheet of flame, and the employees had a most thrilling escape. The water supply of Enumclaw has been cut off, and if the wind shifts the inhabitants are practically helpless. Fire which destroyed a sawmill at Buckley spread to the forest, but the village is now out of danger.

TACOMA, June 20.—A special to the Ledger from Hot Springs, Wash., says: For a distance of seven miles, the Green River valley is a sea of flames. Since noon today, Dr. Kloeber and the employees and guests of the Kloeber Green River Hot Springs have been persistently and successfully fighting the fire. The most valuable property was saved. A fire back and assistance asked for from Tacoma, which was promptly sent by Mayor Campbell. Near Maywood, three miles below here, a lumber camp has been burned out. On each side is a seething furnace, so hot that the crew of the relief train was compelled to seek protection inside the caboose while passing it.

Morgan's camp, one mile down, is partially destroyed, though it is believed the most valuable property was saved.

At Linton, nine miles below Hot Springs, are congregated the few settlers and woodmen of the vicinity. They declare the forest for miles around to be a Samar for heat in which every living thing must perish.

At Eagle Gorge, the same thing exists, the frightened inhabitants having hauled their effects to the depot platform, which is piled high with furniture. The place is in great danger because of the proximity of the forest to the cluster of buildings there. Twenty-two miles below here, just west of Kanaskat, on the Palmer cut-off several square miles of timber are in flames. On a spur of the railroad, there, bridges have been burned out. About 100 section hands are guarding the track, fighting the fire back, and attempting to keep it from crossing to the trees on the south side.

There are over 100 guests at the hotel, all of whom have spent an exciting day. Many of the ladies were badly frightened, while the danger was most imminent, but since the fire engine arrived, their fears have given place to confidence that the buildings can be saved.

The eastbound passenger train reached Capton, nine miles below here, at 5:30 o'clock this evening, but so fierce was the fire directly in front that the conductor dared not risk the train through it for several hours. It was nearly 9 o'clock before the signal was given to proceed, and then commenced a thrilling race for several miles. It appeared to the passengers that they were passing through a seething furnace. All windows were closed to protect them from the fierce flames while the train crew protected themselves as best they could. The passengers report seeing several cabins in flames about five miles below here. This is believed to be Woods' lumber camp.

BUCKLEY FIRE STARTS IN MILL. Property Destroyed and Blaze Extends to Forest.

TACOMA, June 20.—A special to the Ledger from Buckley, Wash., says: Fire started at 2 o'clock this morning at Mountain Mill, two miles from town, and after destroying all the mill property and the cars belonging to the Northern Pacific, which were standing on the siding, spread to the woods. The residence of J. Van Ransler, on the outskirts of Buckley, was destroyed. The Tacoma Fire Department sent a supply of hose, and as the wind abated, the flames were soon stopped, and at present the city is out of danger.

There are two fires raging through the heavy timber on the mountain side. One started at Mountain Mill, and the other in the Green River country. The former spread to Enumclaw, and the village had a narrow escape. Hansen Bros' mill, with all their lumber, was burned, and a mile of flume was destroyed by the fire. The destruction of the flume cut off the supply of water, and in case the wind dies and carries the fire toward town again, the inhabitants are practically helpless. Many farmhouses are supposed to have been in the track of the fire and destroyed. The Page Lumber Company's camp at Eagle Gorge was destroyed. Every camp in the Green River district is reported to be either destroyed or threatened with destruction. The Kangley shingle mill, located one mile from Kangley, is destroyed.

Fire is raging in the vicinity of Palmer. In the vicinity of Barnston, the fierce flames rapidly earned their way through a heavy growth of timber. The White River lumber mills, three miles from Enumclaw, and all the property has been destroyed.

The employees from Page's camp at Eagle Gorge arrived here at 9 o'clock, and tell a thrilling story of escape. Fire struck camp at noon today, descending upon it in a roaring sheet of flame. A narrow path by which they were saved was seen, and children to the number of 60 hurried through it. Three men feared to try to pass, and made their escape by wading through the river and up the line. It is reported that seven men from Buckley camp on Cedar River, which was burned, are missing, but the report cannot be verified.

STATE PRINTING CONTRACTS LET. Washington Also Provides for Desk Supplies for Officials.

OLYMPIA, Wash., June 20.—The State Printing Board held a session during the afternoon and evening to consider bids for state printing and desk supplies for the ensuing year from August 1. Only two members of the board—Auditor Atkinson and Secretary Nichols—were present. Governor McBride, the other member, was absent from the city. Bids for printing were submitted by the following firms: Olympia Printing Company, both of Olympia; Metropolitan Printing & Binding Company, Seattle; Inland Printing Company, Spokane; Allen & Lumber Company and the Pioneer Bank, of Tacoma. The awards were made as follows:

First class, legislative bills, etc. State Printing Company; second class, Senate and House Journals Inland Printing Company; third class, reports and legislative documents, Metropolitan Printing & Binding Company; fourth class, blank and circulars for Executive Department, Olympia Printing Company.

For the stationery and desk supplies five bids were submitted, as follows: E. H. Hoover & Co., Seattle; Lowman & Hanford Stationery & Printing Company, Seattle; M. S. Connor, Olympia; S. S. Churchill, Olympia, and John W. Graham, Spokane. Lowman & Hanford were awarded the contract for all supplies, as they had a large majority of low figures. The Capital Commissioner also held a session to open bids and award contracts for furnishing the Capitol annex, but adjourned this evening without taking action until tomorrow.

BANKERS ON A PLEASURE TRIP. Washington Meetings Likely to Result in a Northwest Association.

SEATTLE, June 20.—The banker delegates to the Washington State Bankers' Association, and their wives, to the number of 138, were taken on an excursion to Snoqualmie Falls today, and enjoyed a fine day. The excursion was arranged by the officers of the Power Company. Returning, the excursion train was run down to the shippers of Morah Bros., where the visitors were shown through the big plant that will turn out the battle-ship Nebraska. The day of recreation was greatly enjoyed after the business session of the day before, and the dinner and reception given the visitors last night. A business session will be held tomorrow morning, at which officers for the ensuing year and the place of meeting will be selected, after which the convention proper will adjourn. The afternoon will be given over to an inspection of the navy-yard at Bremerton, a special steamer having been chartered for the trip. An elaborate banquet is arranged for at the Hotelier Club for tomorrow night.

Whatcom is the only active candidate for the convention, and will probably be given to that city without opposition. Miles C. Moore is mentioned as a likely runner. He is not a candidate for the place, but it is understood that he is not averse to serving should the office come to him unbidden.

LIVELY ROW IN MILITIA

CAPTAIN CHARGED WITH STRIKING PRIVATES IN UNIFORM.

Court of Inquiry Makes Investigation—Fears Trouble Will Disrupt Crack Colfax Company.

COLFAX, Wash., June 20.—Company L, National Guard of Washington, of this city, is torn by internal dissensions that promise to disrupt the organization, and a sensational court-martial is almost assured. F. T. Baker, Captain of the company, is charged with striking an enlisted man, and charges have been preferred against him. A court of inquiry has investigated the matter and will make its report to Adjutant-General Drain as soon as the testimony can be transcribed.

Harry Marsh, a private, is the complaining witness against Captain Baker. It is alleged that the Captain, while in citizen's clothes, knocked Marsh, who was in uniform, down and tore his uniform from him, and also assaulted another private in the company.

The court of inquiry has arranged to print a lot of envelopes advertising the carnival and street fair to be held here in September, which will be given solely to merchants and individuals having a heavy correspondence.

RUSH FOR TIMBER LANDS. Many Willamette Valley People in Country Near Ashland.

ASHLAND, June 20.—The rush for timber lands in this section of Southern Oregon continues without abatement. During the past few days a large number of locators arrived from Polk County, and left for the pine belt of the Cascade Mountains, east of this city, to take up claims.

Will Celebrate July 4. This city will celebrate the Fourth of July with a grand carnival and barbecue and basket picnic in the Chautauque Grove during the day. A grand parade will be given in the evening on the plaza from 4 to 8 o'clock.

Dead Indian Road Free From Snow. The Dead Indian wagon road, the highway between this section and the Pelican Bay country of Klamath Lake, is now entirely free from snow and debris, and a large amount of travel is going over it for the first time in the season.

Increases Capital Stock. The Ashland Iron Works, of this city, has increased its capital stock to $50,000, and will make extensive improvements and additions to its plant. George Wilds, assistant master mechanic of the Southern Pacific Company, at Dunsmuir, has resigned his position, and will become actively interested in the business of the new corporation.

AN OREGON PIONEER OF 1853. The Late Jacob Rauch. OREGON CITY, June 20.—Jacob Rauch, who died here May 30 at the home of his son, W. J. Rauch, in Park Place, was an Oregon pioneer of 1853. He was born in Darmstadt, Germany, September 10, 1817, and came to the United States at the age of 14 years, settling in Simpson County, Illinois. He married Elizabeth Anderson in 1839. Mr. Rauch crossed the plains with an ox team in 1853, and took up a donation land claim in Clatsop County, Oregon, where he resided until his death. In 1883 he moved to Oregon City. Besides a wife he leaves three children—W. J. Rauch, of Park Place; Mrs. Margaret L. Felcher, of Grangeville, Idaho; and Mrs. Mary A. Madock, of Oregon City. He leaves two brothers, Peter Rauch, of Silverton, and George Rauch, of Canby. The remains were interred in the cemetery at Canby.

RAILWAY FRANCHISE IS GRANTED. Baker City Is to Have an Electric Street-Car System. BAKER CITY, June 20.—At a special meeting of the City Council last evening an ordinance was passed granting a franchise to C. L. Palmer, authorizing him to construct and maintain an electric street railway on the principal streets of this city. By the terms of the franchise Mr. Palmer must have a part of the system completed and in operation within closed doors. The testimony was taken down by R. H. Kipp, a stenographer, who is now transcribing it. Kipp was sworn to secrecy, and will not give out any information of the character of the testimony.

The affair has created a sensation here and fears are entertained that it may result in disorganizing Company L, which has built an armory here and is considered one of the crack companies of the state, having won the prize drill at Tacoma July 4, 1900. Captain Baker is a son of Thomas Baker, one of the pioneers of Colfax, and has spent the greater part of his life here. He has been Captain of Company L for some time, and is said to be a good military man. He has a number of friends and supporters, while Marsh also has a strong backing.

Canney Threatened by Fire. ASTORIA, Or., June 20.—The bunkhouse of Cook's old cannery at Clifton was destroyed by fire this afternoon. The cannery was threatened, but saved by those living in the vicinity. The property is now owned by the Columbia River Packers' Association.

POSE AGAIN COMES IN

NO TRACE OF CONVICTS TRACY AND MERRILL.

Officers Expect Outlaws to Show Up for Food Soon—Will Then Start Out.

VANCOUVER, Wash., June 20.—Sheriff Marsh and the posse, which left here yesterday afternoon to take the new show to the whereabouts of Tracy and Merrill, the escaped Oregon convicts, returned at 4 o'clock this afternoon, tired and dirty, but not disheartened. The officers think the convicts should be heard from again by tomorrow, as the food secured from Mrs. Martin will not last longer than through today.

On leaving the Martin place yesterday, the men took the military road north, and have not since been heard from. The horses were put on the scent when the men were last seen, and for a short distance followed their trail eagerly, but it led back to the road, where they lost it. Guard Carson, with the dogs, returned to this place with the posse, and will keep the dogs here till the men again come out for something to eat. Carson thinks that if the dogs can get scent of the convicts immediately following Merrill, they will have no difficulty keeping the trail.

Two of the party, Tom Trent and Slater, are still in the vicinity of Pioneer, and Ferrell, the brother of the guard killed at Salem, and an Indian scout, who was with the party at Gervais, are in the vicinity of La Center. Sheriff Huntington, with 10 men, are stationed along Lewis River, and today telephoned Sheriff Marsh that they would stay on guard as long as the outlaws are in this part of the state. Sheriff Marsh and posse will resume the hunt for the convicts on the morning west. The description of the men given by both Mrs. Martin and Targerson leaves not a particle of doubt that their unwelcome visitors were Tracy and Merrill.

THEIR PRISON CLOTHES FOUND. Prove Convicts Were Not Wounded in Battle at Penitentiary.

SALMON, June 20.—The prison suits of the fugitive convicts, Tracy and Merrill, have been recovered. J. R. Coleman, who lives about 34 miles southeast of Salem, found the discarded garments in the timber on his farm. On the morning of their escape, the men forced an entrance to the wood camp on Coleman's farm, where they appropriated a change of clothing, consisting of overalls and jackets. It now develops that the costumes were changed in the woods only a few rods distant from the cabin. This section was thoroughly gone over by the searching parties on the day of the men's escape, and it seems remarkable that a conflict did not take place, for the pursuers at many times must have been within a few yards of the murderers. The garments found by Mr. Coleman consisted of two pairs of trousers and a prison shirt. The last mentioned garment was the property of Tracy, bearing the number 688, by which Tracy was known in the prison. None of the garments were stained with blood, nor could any bullet holes be found to indicate that either of the men had been wounded. The right side of Tracy's jacket had been torn away beneath the sleeve, and has not been found. It is presumed that the fragment was used for wrapping up some of their ammunition or one of their fire pieces.

After several fruitless attempts to dispose of the child, she suddenly disappeared. She was alone in this city.

A message from Haines to the Coroner yesterday states that no trace of the man, woman or child had been discovered. If they murdered the child, they have evidently disposed of the body so effectively that it doubtless will never be found.

Ex-Bank President Held for Forgery. SPOKANE, Wash., June 20.—Charles Lyon, the deposed president of the First National Bank of Mount Vernon, Wash., is accused of forgery. E. C. Millon, vice-president of the bank, who caused the arrest of Lyon on a charge of misappropriating $5000 of the funds of the bank, today declared that Lyon had bought his stock in the bank by presenting a number of forged notes bearing the signatures of Eastern men. The bank did not dream of swindle until Lyon made an unauthorized draft on the New York correspondence of the bank. An investigation followed and Lyon was jailed. Millon expresses much chagrin at the manner in which himself and associates were taken in. The loss runs for the institution at $100,000. Lyon left for Skagit County in charge of the Sheriff tonight. Millon says the bank is protected.

Verdict of Guilty in Conspiracy Case. SEATTLE, June 20.—After five hours' deliberation, the jury in the conspiracy case against Dr. James G. Stewart and O. V. Lawson, last night returned a verdict of guilty as charged. No testimony was introduced by the defendants. Judge Griffin's instructions to the jury were considered by the attorneys for both prosecution and defense to be strongly favorable to the state. Stewart, through J. Fred Braid, offered to sell Lawson a copy of the answers to the state medical examination last January. Lawson gave Braid for the answers, but they proved to be the wrong ones, and the conspiracy was discovered.

Editor Charged With Libel. ABSEDEEN, Wash., June 20.—On complaint of W. H. Abel, the Montana historian, John J. Carney, editor of the Aberdeen Herald, was arrested here yesterday on a charge of criminal libel. Sheriff Huff served the warrant, and Mr. Carney, accompanied by his attorney, C. Cross, went to Montesano, waived a preliminary hearing, and gave bonds for appearance when the case shall be called by the court. The arrest grew out of an attack by Carney in his paper on Abel and the methods he had pursued in conducting certain cases here.
