FOR BETTER FOODS

National Congress Meets in Portland Today.

MANY DELEGATES ARE ON HAND

Met at Huntington by Oregon Committee-Great Trip Down Columbin River-Purposes of Convention.

About % delegates to the National conwention of the Food and Dairy Commis-sieners arrived last night, and the first session of the convention will be held at 9 o'clock at the headquarters of the Portland Board of Trade, in the Chamber of Commerce. The all-absorbing topic at the convention this year will be the passage onvention the year and any which will provide for uniform food legislation throughout the various states of the Union. At today's meeting this topic will be taken up by John Hamilton, Committed the control of the Union of the oner of Agriculture from Pennsylvamissioner of Agriculture from Pennsylva-nia. He will present reasons why a Na-tional food law should be enacted, and will read before the convention a bill which, if passed, would bring about the desired condition. The convention will last until Thursday afternoon, and the remainder of the time until Monday night remainder of the time until Monday night will be given up to visiting various points of interest in Oregon and becoming ac-quainted with Oregon methods and indus-tries. Monday night a grand banquet will be given at the Portland Hotel, after which the delegates will leave for Scattle, from whence they will go to Salt Lake and then return to their homes. All of the delegates express themselves as highly pleased with Oregon and Oregon people, and say that their trip across the continent has been a pleasant one. The trip down the Columbia was especially enjoyed by the visitors, and many who have seen most of the world's noted places deplaced that Columbia Biver scenery is clared that Columbia River scenery is Assistant Commissioner of Oregon. From Many Different States.

The delegates represent 17 different states. The party assembled at Chicago, from whence they came in special cars to The Dalles. William Kilpatric, secretary of the Railroad and Warehouse Commission of Illinois, who is a member of the party, is in charge of the excur-sion and railroad arrangements, and they cannot speak too highly of his efforts to make their trip an enjoyable one. A day was spent at Denver, where the party was royally entertained. A reception and banquet was tendered them at the Capitol, and a trolley ride was taken around the city. From Denver they went to Manitou, and took a trip to Pike's Peak, from where they sent a message to Governor Yates, of Illinois. They were also enter. tained at Glenwood.

At Huntington they were met by the reception committee from Oregon, and arrived in The Dalles at 5:20 yesterday morning. Here they boarded the steamer Dalles City, which had been sent to meet them, and the services of which the Regu-lator Line had given gratuitously, and the great trip down the Columbia was

Their Work Important. The delegates have an absorbing interest in their work and all are confident that success will crown their efforts to bring about better food conditions. work that we are undertaking," said Alfred H. Jones, State Food and Dairy Commissioner of Illinois, and president of the National Association, is no common work. We have before us a high ideal and the whole Nation will be benefited by our success. The prime object of our association is to have all food products inbeled, and for the label to tell exactly what they are or what they contain. W do not object to any food being sold that is not ibjurious to health; but we do ob-ject to deception being practiced so largely upon consumers. We do not object to the various products being adulterated, provided no harmful ingredient is used, but they must not be then sold as pure. The label must tell just what they contain. For example, it is all right to flavor a cheap syrup to make it resemble maple syrup, but it must not be sold for maple syrup and at maple syrup prices. Such work has a tendency to prevent the making of good, pure products, as it makes such unfair competition that these products cannot be sold. Some states have laws to this effect and others have not, while the laws in one state offer from making of good, pure products, as it makes such unfair competition that these products cannot be sold. Some states have laws to this effect and others have not, while the laws in one state differ from the laws in another. This also is very inconvenient and makes the products of one Washington.

National Law Needed. "The experience of the Food and Dairy Commissioners," said John Hamilton, who will deliver the address upon "National Food Legislation" today, "Is that a National law is needed. At present each state has laws different from the others, and manufacturers have difficulty to conform to the several laws. A National law that would provide for the proper branding of foods, with requirements as to strength and purity, would greatly sim-plify the work of the manufacturers and of the Food Commissioners of each state, The National law should provide for a of yesterday in Portland, leaving on the National committee of experts who should 8:30 P. The contract for the lighting of the city, which will be awarded next January, was brought before the Board of Public Works yesterday in the shape of a communication from George A. Driffill, president of the Reserve Foundry & Manufacturing Company, of Cleveland, O. In part the letter said:

We are informed that you are considering the matter of lighting your town with electric lights, and trust that you will take into consideration a proposition in reference to our system of street lighting which is being employed in the City of Cleveland and in quite a number of other large cities, and we know that you will credit us with being in a position to know which aystems are giving the greatest results

As an illustration, we are prepared to demonstrate to you beyond the ques-tion of a doubt that we can deliver full 100-candle power on the consumption of one quart of gasoline per night, and you can easily make your figures from this to prove what it will cost you if you wish to handle the lighting question yourselves, or if you wish us to install a number of lamps, and maintain them, we will figure with you along either line. We desire also to have you note the fact that in all the large cities they are getting away from all the large cities they are getting away from the electric light plants, for the simple reason that the lambs are up so very high that they do not properly light the street, where in our tnatance the lamps are down close to the street, and every unit of the light made is delivered in the place for which it was intended, and with positively no ender shadow, all of the light falling directly down and out, and every portion of the street, both sidewalk and read-han any other known lighting agency.

The letter was laid on the table, and will be taken up at a future time. City Engineer Elliott recommended that number of sidewalk improvements be de. One of these was at First and Columbia streets, in front of a building for which Mark Schlussel is agent. Mr. Schlussel had been ordered to make the improvement, but he failed to do so. There was some doubt in the City Engin-retention and distribution of the rainfall." eer's mind as to whether the repairs could be finde, as the ordinance called for a 12-foot sidewalk, and to build it would necessitate the cutting down of some shade trees. The members of the board also were in doubt about the matter, and Mr. Fillett was requested to see ter, and Mr. Elliott was requested to see the owner of the building and make some satisfactory arrangement with him.

Mr. Elliott asked for funds for the con-tinuance of street and sewer improvements, quite a number of which are now inder way. On the East Side, Mr. Elliott said, there are 27 streets, and on the West Side 53 streets and sewers that need attention. He said he needed an extra crew. The board decided to refer his request to the street committee of the Common Council, and if the committee should make a favorable response to recommend the passage of an ordinance pro-viding for the extra help.

Mesars. Williams and Breyman, composing the committee which had charge of the investigation of the protest of Dr. L. M. Davis against the construction of newers in Prescott and Borthwick streets, filed a report to the effect that the tax-payers in the district were divided in their opinion as to the need of the sewers. Some were in favor of the improvement, and others were against it, and the protest was referred back for further in-

A request for a water service at the Hospital for Contagious Diseases was re-ceived, and it was recommended that some provision be made for the persons who are now confined in the institution. Mayor Williams said the matter would be taken up by the Council committee on health and police, and pending the ac-tion by this body consideration of the petition was postponed.

City Engineer Elliott stated that when the waters receded he will be able to make an estimate for the improvement of North Front street. The northern portion of this thoroughfare has long been in a dangerous condition, but owing to the high water repairs could not be made. When the river recedes to its usual level Mr. Elliott will be able to make an esti-mate of the cost, and, as the material to be used will be secured from vessels arriving in ballast, the expense to the city will not be very high.

A request from the Oregon Historical Society for additional rooms in the City Hall was granted. The rooms asked for are at present unoccupied, but if they are needed by the city at any time, the soci-ety will be required to surrender them. Mr. Johnson, one of the prospective bidders for the City Market privilege, was allowed until September 1 in which to prepare his plans and specifications for market buildings, and to present his bid to the board. The date set for the reception of the bids was originally August 1, but Mr. Johnson said that a month's extension of time would enable him to prepare more acceptable plans.

We have all heard of the "retort courte An industrious German, Herr has enabled us to make the appropriate, if not courteous, retort by com-

The forest is to be one of the most extensive in the world, as it will include up-ward of 4,000,000 acres of land. The country, however, is not rich nor well adapted agriculture as at present practiced in this country, and the Government expects to obtain the desired tract for $10,000,000, While comparatively valueless for farming purposes, the region is of the highest value for forestry and also as a point of conservation of the water supply of a wide area of country.
In his speech on the bill Senator Depew said: "The Appalachian forest preserve

It runs through the States of Virginia, West Virginia, North and South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Tennessee. The slopes of these mountains are very steep, varying from 20 degrees at the portion of the street, the street, the street, the street, the street, the street of the street, with no under shadow to intercept.

There are 137 varieties, making this forest one of the most interesting in the world. The deep soil has been forming for a thousand years or more, and in its interlacing of tree roots and humus,

The lands affected by those streams on the Atlantic side of the mountains are 150 miles wide, while on the Mississippi Valley side they are much wider. The menace to them in the much wider. The menace to the fact that waste of the forest lies in the fact that the mountain region has a heavier rain-fall than any other portion of the United States except the North Pacific Coast. In the Winter the rain falls in torrents, and where the forests have been swept away the torrents rush down upon the low-lands, flooding everything and sometimes actually washing whole farms away

> Senator Depew in speaking of the de-struction of the forest said: "It has turned these peaceful waters into roaring floods, which have plowed deep and de-structive guilles through fertile fields and across grassy plains. One freshet in the Catawba River last Spring occasioned wholly by the deforesting of the moun-tains, awept away a million and a half dollars' worth of farms, buildings and stock. The damage done by the freshet of last year alone in the large territory fed by the streams and rivers which came from these mountains was estimated at over $18,000,000. This destruction cannot be repeated many years without turning into a desert the fairest portion of our country."
> While the Appalachian forest is far > away from us, California can watch with satisfaction the action of the Government in establishing and maintaining it. We also have a forestry problem to solve, and will be thankful for whatever help the National Government gives in such mat-ters. Out of the experiments to be made in the mountains of Virginia, North Carolina, South, Carolina, Tennessee, Georgia and Alabama lessons will be derived by which we may profit. The whole Unio in fact, may expect benefits from the measure, and future results may prove it one of the most important acts of legislation undertaken by this Congresa.
