AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

SHIELDS PARK (13th and Washington)—The Volcanos, Dalton and Lewis; vaudeville and music.

TO ENFORCE SIGN ORDINANCE.—All business signs not in accordance with the ordinance will be ordered to be taken down today by the police. This means that ordinance No. 718, dealing with all sorts of business signs attached to buildings, will be strictly enforced hereafter.

PURE FOOD DELEGATES SPEND SUNDAY.—The delegates to the National Pure Food and Dairy Commissioners' convention spent a quiet day in Portland yesterday, resting up from their week's work at sightseeing. In the afternoon they took a car ride to the farm of Richard Scott, near Milwaukie, where they spent a pleasant afternoon. Today they will take a trip to Corvallis and return by way of Albany and Salem, and on night they will leave for Seattle, from whence they will go to Salt Lake City, and thence to their homes. The delegates are very much pleased with their afternoon in the Scott farm, and say that they were royally entertained, and that the farm is a model one.

JOHN L. COX SERIOUSLY ILL.—As the result of a runaway accident, June 23, John L. Cox, of Pendleton, brother of the late L. B. Cox, is now confined in the Good Samaritan Hospital with the chances unfavorable for his recovery. He has had neither sensation nor the power of movement in his lower limbs since the accident, and his condition has grown constantly worse. He was operated upon at Pendleton, and a part of one of his vertebrae removed, but of late his condition has become so alarming that it was seen that the best possible treatment would be required to save his life, and he was brought to the hospital. On June 23, Cox was driving a team down a hill from Camas Prairie, and the dashboard of his wagon broke, and striking the horses, scared them so that they became unruly and ran away from the hill. Near the bottom of the hill the wagon struck a log, and he was thrown from it, striking another log and breaking his back. He is now in a bad condition, and the doctors have but little hope of his recovery.

BOAT OF DROWNED MAN FOUND.—The body of a drowned man, apparently that of a German, was found floating yesterday in Mock's slough, Willamette River, near University Park, by two boys, James Gowlan and Richard Brown. They telephoned to Coroner Finley, and after a good deal of difficulty, at the head lay at the bottom of a steep bank, it was taken to the Coroner's office. Third and Jefferson streets. The body is that of a man between 30 and 40 years of age, and had probably been in the river about two weeks. The clothes were a suit of blue overalls, light black coat, black and white striped shirt, and on his feet were a pair of heavy working shoes. His hair is sandy, mixed with gray, and from the appearance of the man's face he was either a German or was of German descent. There were no letters or papers found in his clothing. There were no marks of violence found on the body. The Coroner will further inquire into the case today.

CHAMBER FOR ADORATION.—The number of children admitted to the Receiving Home of the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society of Oregon are daily increasing. During the past week 10 children have been received, therefore, it is necessary that there should be an increase in the number of homes found for them. At the present time there are 43 in the Receiving Home, among whom are some very desirable children, both boys and girls. The society also has under its care for legal adoption a boy infant nearly 2 years old, and a newly born girl baby. Both these infants are of good parentage and calculated to make a home happy for any family who desires to adopt a little one. Further information will be given by communicating with Superintendent Gault at the City Hotel, 23 Fourth street, or with the officers at the Receiving Home by Oregon telephone East 5.

GREAT INCOGNITO OF RED MEN HERE.—Dr. Edwin D. Wiley, Great Incoognito of the Red Men, arrived from Des Moines, yesterday morning, and was met at the Grand Central depot by a delegation from the local wigwam. He was escorted to the Portland Hotel, where he remained the day receiving callers and chatting with friends. Today he will go to Astoria, where he is booked to address the Red Men at an evening meeting, and to his city tomorrow morning, he will be taken for a carriage drive, and will be given a banquet in the evening. On Wednesday the distinguished visitor will go to Cascade Locks, where he will be given a reception by the local Red Men.

WRONG MAN JUMPED ON. O. E. Tate's Jaw is Broken in an Unfortunate Adventure.

To be taken for the wrong man is sometimes hard luck, and O. E. Tate, who recently arrived from Seattle, is now wearing his jaw in a plaster of paris cast, on account of an adventure of this kind. He was kicked in the jaw by David S. Anderson, who thought that he was a man that had interfered in a quarrel between his wife and another woman, and besides being badly bruised his jaw was broken.

Mr. Tate and his wife were walking up Second street, and as they were about Jefferson they were met by a friend, who stopped them and said: "You should have been a few moments sooner, and you would have seen a fight between two women." Just then Anderson overtook them and without any warning struck

GOLF CLUBHOUSE ENLARGED.

The clubhouse of the Waverly Golf Association, at Sellwood, is being enlarged. An addition is being built to the west end of the old building to provide larger quarters.

good many people hope to hear often, formed part of the praise service yesterday morning at the First Presbyterian Church, when the church quartet sang unaccompanied W. H. Calcott's setting of the hymn, "Intercession," to the words of the hymn, "When the Weary Seeking Rest." The members of the quartet were: Mrs. May Dearborn Schwab, Mrs. Frank J. Raley, H. W. Hogue and Dom. Zan. The singers were not visible, as they were seated behind the choir screen, and when Edgar K. Courson sounded the opening chord, the hymn was heard in piano effect. The voices blended so well together that it almost seemed as if one voice were singing, and the harmony was rich. The unaccompanied hymn added to the beauty of the service. A musical student who was present afterward said: "Other choirs should take up this idea. We make and buy grand musical instruments, such as the organ and piano, but none of them for human feeling and pathos can equal the instrument God makes—the human voice, well trained."

TO BOOM ELKS' CARNIVAL. New and Unique Plans of Advertising Are Devised.

To bring to the gates of the Elks' Street Fair and Carnival almost the entire population of Oregon, Washington, and Idaho is the aim of the committee on promotion and advertising, consisting of E. W. Rowe, A. D. Charlton and Leon Hirsch. The plans that have been formed give assurance that what is lacking in time for exploiting the big event, will be made up in the strenuous effort of the committee to advertise the fair and its novel attractions throughout the entire Northwest.

In the first place the railroad and steamboat rates will be the most favorable ever made, and visitors will be given ample time to take in all the sights of the fair and to spend a few days in and about the city. Every Elks lodge in the Northwest will be invited to participate in the great parade on Elks' day, and to compete for prizes and honors. The parade will be a grand affair, and the various features of the fair, which promise to be the most valuable ever offered on a similar occasion. The advertising, as outlined by the committee, will consist of a number of big circulars—and for novelty will astonish the advertising world.

Liberal contracts are being made with the press so that the papers of the entire territory will be kept abreast with good matter descriptive of the main features of the event.

Thousands of sheets of pictorial paper illustrating the various features of the fair, and thousands more of printed sheets describing the fair, will adorn every billboard, barn and fence in the three states. Herald, whoopery, dookers and hand-bills will be scattered through every village and town, and left at the farmhouse doors by paid bill-posters. Railroad trains and depots will be supplied with banners and bills, while huge banners will float from the locomotives on all trains leaving the city for weeks before the fair opens.

The traveling method of the lodge and the delegates to the Elks' Grand Lodge meeting at Salt Lake will distribute bills and souvenirs of the carnival all along the way. Merchants and business houses will be supplied with envelope slips to enclose in their correspondence to out-of-town customers, and the 300 members of Portland Lodge of Elks will help in every conceivable manner, but the most striking of all the advertising schemes will be the balloons. On certain days to be duly announced in the daily papers, hundreds of paper balloons will be sent up simultaneously from all parts of the city and suburbs, each bearing an order for free admission to the fair for whoever shall find it. An immense canvas net, carrying a huge bomb loaded with hundreds of small cards, will be sent up on several occasions from Portland and the surrounding towns. When the balloon has reached a height of several thousand feet, the bomb will explode, scattering the tickets far and wide, and prizes in the way of season tickets to the fair will be offered for those finding and returning the greatest number of cards.

Many other novel devices for advertising the carnival are under consideration, and the committee will spare no effort to make this the best advertised amusement event the Northwest has ever known.

DEPUTIES APPOINTED BY CITY ATTORNEY McNARY.

John P. Kavanaugh, who has been appointed by City Attorney McNary as his chief deputy, is a graduate of Mount Angel College, and has been a resident of Portland for the past eight years.

J. J. Fitzgerald, is a graduate of the University of Oregon, and has been a resident of Portland for the past eight years.

John P. Kavanaugh, who has been appointed by City Attorney McNary as his chief deputy, is a graduate of Mount Angel College, and has been a resident of Portland for the past eight years.

J. J. Fitzgerald, who will serve as criminal deputy under City Attorney McNary, acted as Deputy District Attorney from 1892 until 1896. He had charge of all business pertaining to the Municipal and Justice Courts, and was frequently called upon to try cases in the criminal department of the State Circuit Court. His past experience has well fitted Mr. Fitzgerald for the position to which he has been appointed.

when it is opened, as it will be very soon, until the roadway is restored. There may be some legal point to be looked into before anything can be done. Councilman Sherritt says that he will co-operate with other members of the City Council in whatever measures may be decided on, and he, too, thinks that immediate action should be taken.

Another important consideration is the early relief of the Morrison-street bridge. This bridge is carrying the traffic of two bridges, and it is overtaken. There is a constant stream of heavy vehicles from early morning till late in the evening, besides the street-car service. While the danger line has probably not been reached, the bridge is light in construction and was not built for such heavy traffic, and it is considered that it should be replaced as soon as possible. The amount of traffic that now passes over the Morrison-street bridge can be better estimated when the draw is closed at any time during the day, and teams and street-cars accumulate on both sides of the draw.

SAMWILL'S FIRE PROTECTION. Insuran, Paulsen & Co.'s Mill and C. & S. Power Plant Well Guarded. A complete water system for fire protection for Insuran, Paulsen & Co.'s sawmill and the power plant of the City & Suburban Railway Company is in operation. District Engineer Holden has inspected the plant and expressed his satisfaction over the arrangement. A 2,000,000-gallon pump, in a concrete pit in the powerhouse of the electric company, furnishes the water. Six-inch mains run to different parts of the mill, and a heavy force can be turned on within a minute. The men are trained so they know what to do, and can be quickly organized into an effective fire company. The pump takes water from the Willamette River.

Besides these facilities for fighting fires in the central portion of the plant, there are hydrants attached to the four-inch city mains in other portions of the lumber yard. A fire would have to get a good start either in the mill or in the electric power plant that could not be drowned out by means of these facilities.

JOINT CAMPFIRE HELD. Summer Post and Summer Women's Relief Corps, G. A. R., at Reunion. A joint campfire was held in the Ross Hall, on Sunday, July 13, for the benefit of the Summer Post and Summer Relief Corps, G. A. R. There was a large attendance. Judge John E. Mayo presided. Long tables were set, and a repast of baked beans, sandwiches and hot coffee was spread. After the refreshments had been disposed of, an hour was devoted to short addresses. M. L. Pratt, commander of the Department of Oregon, made a short talk full of good things. C. J. Ward responded to a call and made a pleasing address. Mrs. DeWitt C. Miller, Mrs. Charles E. Smith and others of the Relief Corps made remarks. Toward the close, Summer Post Quartet, under the leadership of C. W. Tracey, rendered some stirring patriotic music.

Chairman Mayo then thanked the women of the Relief Corps for the honor and pleasure of their presence. He also spoke of the patriotism of the women in 1861 and during the war, and complimented the Relief Corps for its work in relieving old soldiers in distress. The mission of the auxiliary to see that no worthy veteran of the Civil War suffered, and to promote the growth of the Grand Army of the Republic in every possible way, was emphasized. After the program a social half-hour was spent. These campfires are the occasions when the veterans renew their comradeship begun on the battlefields 20 and 41 years ago.
