AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

THEATER PARK (12th and Washington)—The Volcanos; Dalton and Lewis; vaudeville and music.

THE TENDERLOIN HEARD FROM.—A petition was received by Judge Williams yesterday, asking that he request the police commission "not to force the saloons and people on Fourth street from Ankeny to Gilson from their present abode for the reason that they have been to considerable expense to fit up the houses they have and it would necessitate their removal to other quarters." A change, the petition stated, would disturb existing conditions which have not proved inimical to the interests of the city. The "saloons and people" represented in the petition are the respectable houses, against which the mayor directed the attention of the authorities in his inaugural message. In the message the saloons were not mentioned and only the women standing in front of their homes were referred to. The petition bore the signatures of the proprietors of a number of "all-night" fruit stores, several dealers in second-hand goods and some others who are dependent upon the Whitechapel trade.

SURVEYING ROUTE OF LINE TO PROPOSED FAIR SITE.—A force of surveyors was put in the field yesterday to make an examination of the route suggested by Engineer Grendahl, of the Southern Pacific, for a street-rail line to the City Park for the Lewis and Clark Exposition. It is said that it will be found a very expensive line to build, but the companies interested desire to have accurate data to guide them in presenting the matter to those who will select the fair site, and to this end the City & Suburban and the Portland Railway Company have begun the joint survey. It will be so nearly completed by Thursday that a reliable statement may be framed as to the practicability of building the line to accommodate the exposition. And it is understood that upon the conclusion thus reached will depend much of the City Park's chance of selection for the fair site. The surveyors are advised to quote for their opinions of the matter in advance of the report of their engineers now in the field.

GOLD FROM COFFEE CRACK.—Captain J. P. Shaw, who has a bunch of placers claims on Coffee Creek, has received a handful of dust that remains one of exhibits from Alaska. The grains are coarse and flat, and range from the size of a pinhead to that of a medium Lima bean. Captain Shaw says the gold from his mine is the purest that goes to the San Francisco Mint, running full 99 to the ounce. The Coffee Creek placers have been worked in a small way for a great many years, but never systematically. Results have paid well for the desultory operations, but the difficulty of combining interests so as to develop the placer, on a large scale has been so great that no considerable development was possible. Matters are now so arranged that systematic development is possible, and Captain Shaw purposes to put in a hydraulic plant that will suffice for the whole of his nest of claims.

GARDEN TRUCK AT NORTH BEACH.—M. Timm, a rancher living near Tigra, Wash., surprised Portland people at the beach a few days ago by delivering, in the regular course of filling orders from his garden, some peaches and plums. He did credit to any vegetable display at a fair. The peas were in pods five inches long and nearly an inch in diameter, and came out fresh and tender and green, notwithstanding their huge size. The lettuce heads were as large as good-sized cabbages, one measuring eight inches in diameter and being as crisp and sweet as anybody could wish. The corn was considerable pride in exhibiting the products of his garden and assured his customers that the rancher bordering Long Beach can do as well as anybody else, though the price of board. He was inclined to think that even Oregon could not beat his record for vegetables.

MONUMENT COMMITTEE TO MEET.—The members of the general committee having in charge the erection of the monument to the Second Oregon Volunteers are requested by Chairman Scott and Secretary Gantenben to meet in the business rooms of the Chamber of Commerce, 366 Washington street, Wednesday, July 16, at 2 o'clock P. M., for the consideration of reports of special committees on sites and designs for the monument. The members of the committee are: H. H. Howe, H. W. Scott, James Jackson, H. W. Corbett, O. Summers, C. L. Gantenben, C. E. McDonnell, A. L. Barbur, D. S. Cohen, C. P. Beebe, S. E. Joseph, W. E. George, Charles E. Ladd, Ben Selling, W. C. Campbell, Mrs. Henry Jones and Mrs. William Alvord. It is hoped that all the members of the committee will be present.

NAMED BY CITY ENGINEERS.—Two new appointments were announced by City Engineer Elliott yesterday afternoon. John K. Carr was named as Sidewalk Inspector on the East Side, to succeed C. M. Murphy, and Fred Buchtel was appointed Rodman on the West Side. Several places remain to be filled, but Mr. Elliott will not announce their appointments until he is fully acquainted with the needs of his office.

BRIDGE NEARLY READY FOR TRAVEL.—County Commissioner Showers states that the Madison street bridge will be open for car travel on Thursday if there is no delay in the receipt of materials necessary in repairing the structure. Foot passengers will also be allowed to use the bridge, but it will be some time before the bridge can be used for teams. The repairs will not be fully completed before Fall.

POSITIONS IN CIVIL SERVICE.—The United States Civil Service examinations, announced that on August 12 examinations will be held in this city for the position of clerk, Department of State, nautical expert in the hydrographic office, and an electroply and provincial surveyor in the Philippine service. Persons desiring to compete should call on or address Z. A. Leigh, Postoffice Department.

LICENSE COMMITTEE MEETS.—A meeting of the license committee of the Common Council was held yesterday afternoon and a number of renewals and transfers of liquor licenses were authorized. The committee recommended that a license to conduct a saloon at the Irvington race track be granted to Helman & Simpson, the licensees of the track.

NO SCHOOL BOARD MEETING.—The regular meeting of the Board of Education, which was to have been held yesterday, was postponed until tonight on account of the absence of Chairman Beach from the city, the sickness of Mr. Warren and the absence of Mr. Wernberg, due to the sickness of his children.

IMPROVEMENT OF FOURTH STREET DELAYED.—The work of improving Fourth street for some reason unexplained by the contractor, has been at a standstill for over a week. The last block laid was in front of the City Hall. Part of the old wooden blocks in front of the Courthouse and between Main and Madison streets have been removed, and a barricade has been placed on the east side of the street at the corner of Madison to keep the traffic from passing. Tar kettle stands on the same corner, and barrels of tar are scattered along some distance. The preparation of the wood blocks for the work was delayed at Jones' mill yesterday, and as there is a lot of the proper kind of lumber on hand, it is probable that there will be no further delay before the blocks for the entire job are completed. It is intended that the work of laying blocks shall be resumed Wednesday or Thursday and continued till the contract is finished. The somewhat long time taken in completing the pavement on Fourth street has been found little fault with, as such delays seemed the order of the day.

LAWYER'S UNEXPLAINABLE CONDUCT.—An attorney who was noticed yesterday returning a book which I got from him, he had borrowed, explained that while he knew it was contrary to the general practice for lawyers to return borrowed volumes until tomorrow, he was carrying at the law library, and he was subject to a fine of 25 cents per day if he did not bring them back as agreed. "However," he remarked, "I sometimes return books which I get from my friends. I sent my stenographer with a law office the other day with four or five books that I had borrowed, and he reported that the lawyer was so surprised that he nearly jumped out of his chair." Recently John F. Logan, law librarian, suggested that attorneys bring all borrowed books to the law library, and that he would distribute them to the proper offices. I would save lawyers from going from office to office to make a clean-up.

NEW SIDEWALK CRACKED.—The new sidewalk in front of the plaza in front of the new Northbeach station, in a number of places, but it is stated by persons informed in this class of work that the cracks where they are barely discernible and hardly noticeable, and will not affect the wear of the walk any. When the sidewalk was laid A. J. Marshall acted as inspector for the city, and saw that the cement was of the proper quality. The cracks were called for in the contract was put in. The cracks may be due to lack of thorough mixing of the different materials, the work is not due to roots of trees, as the work is in an as perfect position as when put down.

FOUND DROWNED; THAT'S ALL.—An inquest was held yesterday by Coroner Flinn into the case of the unknown man who was found on the beach near the Malcom Campbell, of this place, was the wife of Professor Washington Darrow, who in 1885 bought mining stock in Crisp-Clack on Coffee Creek, became a member of the Tenth United States Cavalry, became a lieutenant and was killed in Cuba in 1898. Mrs. Darrow had with her deposited the night certificates in a trunk where they might have been found. The day after it had not been for the veriest accident. It seems that the present Mrs. Campbell in conversing with George Barlick, a mining expert, learned that the certificates were still valid, and later it transpired that their value is $30,000.

TROUBLE THREE BEERS LAME.—Lame, and apparently suffering from poor eyesight and defective hearing, Tom Ahern, an elderly man, was in the Municipal Court yesterday, charged with drunkenness. The police stated that he has been drunk for a week, and that it required a long time to get him to the police station. All this was explained with a good deal of difficulty to Ahern, and at each sentence he said: "Eh?" Then he spoke as follows: "I wasn't drunk; I fell into a hole in the sidewalk and hurt one of my legs." After a long interrogation he ultimately admitted that on the day he was arrested he "got away with three beers" for five days in jail," remarked Municipal Judge Hogue, speaking in his ordinary tone of voice. It was then that Ahern looked sharply at the judge and walked downstairs to call with a shaking voice that Judge had said. He probably guessed it.

OLD HARRY'S MATE DIES.—Hippo, the veteran fire hose and mate of "Old Harry" who died Friday night, followed his companion into the grave yesterday. Hippo and Harry composed the team of Chemical No. 4, stationed at Highland, and both were old in the service. The former had been considered a sturdy horse and had shown no signs of ill health until rheumatism made its appearance Sunday night, about two days after his mate died of indigestion. Hippo struggled with the inflammation, and in his struggles he broke a leg, and he had to be killed yesterday afternoon. The death of the two horses leaves the High-wheel engine without a team, and unless the Common Council, at its meeting tomorrow, should provide for the purchase of horses, the apparatus will have to be hauled to fires by hand.

WHAT IS DRESSED IN FUR.—Dressed in a pair of knickerbockers and other portions of a brown tweed suit, C. H. Smith, colored, who insisted that he is a barber by trade, appeared yesterday before Municipal Judge Hogue charged with vagrancy. He listened to the charge in a languid manner, and played with his Fedora hat. The police evidence is that the woman had some money in him, but it is doubtful if this fact can be established to the satisfaction of the court. Smith pleaded not guilty, and was held under $50 bail for a hearing tomorrow, when witnesses will be present.

PLENTY OF SLABWAD TO BURN.—Notwithstanding the teamsters' strike, slabwad is being freely delivered all over the city, and is piled up on the edge of sidewalks, waiting to be burned for years, so that it may dry, and be ready for use by the time winter approaches. Country people who have cordwood to sell are just starting a thriving business. They contract to furnish dry and cordwood for private residences, and guarantee full measure. As customers as a rule do not know where to find them, they have to obtain most of their orders by means of soliciting.

WRITS COLLAR LINE BOAT.—Astoria daily excursion, leaving foot Alder street 7 A. M., except Sunday, returning from Astoria 7 P. M., except Sunday. This is a lovely ride down the broad and magnificent Columbia River, passing immense salmon canneries, sealing grounds, fish-traps, all now in operation. Hundreds of fishing boats sail every net, catching the royal chinook salmon. Fine meals, attentive officers. The ideal trip for pleasure. See "Dallies" electric sign. Both phone Main 31.

HOW HE DROVE HIS ARM.—George J. Moore, a letter-carrier, met with a peculiar accident Sunday afternoon. While conversing with a friend on the porch of his home at 434 Knott street, he suddenly slipped and fell, and was thrown to the ground six feet below. His arm was broken above the wrist, but he was able to be about yesterday, and although he felt somewhat better, he said he expected to be back to work within a week or two.

FIRE DEPARTMENT HIRES HORSES.—There are six horses short at present in the Fire Department, due to death, sickness and constant hard work caused by there being no reserve horses to assist the others. Six horses were accordingly hired yesterday, and all fire apparatus is in service again.

HAWKENS MADE TO SECURE LICENSES.—Five Italians, F. Piazza, Frank Greco, Joseph Greco, Joseph Pimcoo and John Josephy, were before Municipal Judge Hogue yesterday, charged with having peddled fruit without having obtained licenses, and were discharged on condition that they obtain licenses at once. This was done in service again.

MOONLIGHT EXCURSION.—All K. of P. and friends of Iveson Temple will attend their moonlight excursion Wednesday, July 16. Dancing and good time.

GALE STRIKES THE TOWN. SHATTERS COSTLY WINDOW AND TEARS UP A TREE. Slightly Elm in H. W. Corbett's Yard Prostrated by the Blow—Telegraph Wires Down.

A slight touch of a wind storm which was prevailing in the Southwest and in Northwestern Washington was felt by Portland yesterday afternoon. Although the velocity of the wind did not exceed 25 miles an hour at any time, it was sufficient to interrupt the telephone and messenger service in some districts, to shatter a pane-glass window on Morrison street near the northeast corner of Third and to send an elm tree in the yard of the Hon. H. W. Corbett crashing to the ground. North and south of the city telegraphic communication was interrupted. The wires of all the companies were down, and Forecast Official Beals was unable to receive any news from the north or south. At 2 o'clock he sent out storm warnings to the stations at the mouth of the Columbia and on the Straits of Fuca, but he was unable to get a response from either. He received a dispatch from the new Northbeach station, on the Columbia near the ocean, stating that the velocity of the wind there was 23 miles an hour, and that no damage had been done. This was the last he heard from the coast.

In the city the wind would hardly have been noticed had it not been for the clouds of dust it carried and the later-dropping showers that were shifted several times during the afternoon. In every street the dust sent people scurrying into stores and doorways, and in the shipping district teamsters had to turn their horses, drawing heavily loaded trucks, about, and drive in the direction of the wind, for the animals balked at the sweeping sand. The retail district bore the appearance of having been cleared by a civic improvement cyclone. The wires needed protection from the flying dust and the dealers carried them inside the store. The quality of the sidewalks was loosened it, and another sent it crumbling over the heads of two women who were standing in front of the store. The glass fell to the sidewalk in fragments, and the women were as frightened as they would have been had Tracy and Merrill suddenly appeared before them. Neither one was injured, and the only damage was to the owner of the building, who lost the glass.

The wind, which increased to a small-sized gale about 3 o'clock, felled an elm tree in the yard of the Hon. H. W. Corbett's grounds quicker than the work could have been done by a woodman's ax. The elm had passed through many storms, and it was almost carried away by one a few years ago, but it sent down before the comparatively slight wind of yesterday.

One break of the gale that was amusing everybody, but the victim occurred in front of the Chinese laundry on Second and Oak streets. A Chinaman who was said to be a doctor, carried a steaming boiler into the laundry, and he had retired it with a kerosene oil can, and then entered to his place of business. Some of his countrymen said the bucket contained medicine, and while they were talking about the value of the medicine, gust of wind swept the can away and carried it 50 feet down the street. The medicine was covered with dust, and when the doctor came to shake his hat at some imaginary person on the street, emptied the bucket and went inside.

MURDERER BELDING AWAIT TRIAL.—Funeral of His Victim. There was a large attendance of friends yesterday at the funeral services of Mgr. McCroskey and Mrs. Belding, who were shot and killed Friday by A. L. Belding, a former inmate of the Oregon State Penitentiary, who was shot and killed in the street near the corner of Third and Flanders streets. The funeral took place at J. P. Finley & Sons' undertaking parlors, and Rev. Dr. Talbot, pastor of Taylor-street Methodist Church, officiated. Many beautiful floral tributes were received, and interment took place at the family lot in Lone Fir cemetery. District Attorney Chamberlain has issued information against A. L. Belding, the county jail in a day or two, where he will be carefully watched.

E. P. McCroskey, 236 1/2 Morrison street, whose mother and sister were buried yesterday, takes exception to some of the statements made by A. L. Belding, the latter's arrest. "After seeing my father at the hospital, I do not clearly understand what Belding means when he says he tried to protect his boy, at the time of the shooting," said McCroskey, last night, to an Oregonian man. "My mother and sister were shot through an open window, as Belding stood on the porch. First of all, Belding shot Woodward, and then he shot my mother in the back, as she was on a lounge. Hearing the shots, my sister came running across the room, and her husband shot her. She ran down the hall toward the rear part of the house, and when her husband shot again the bullet struck my father, who ran to get his revolver. In the firing, my sister and Woodward were run out of the house, and in the street, when my father and Belding began to exchange shots at each other. The boy was not in the house at that time, so I don't see how his father could protect him, as he calls it. I also wish to state that since the boy's birth Belding has not contributed anything like his share toward his support, nor has he shown any affection for him. Woodward never lived at my father's house, Fifth and Flanders."

SHOW IN THE RAIN. People Sit With Raised Umbrellas at Shields' Park.

In spite of the heavy wind and big rain drops a good-sized audience witnessed the performance at Shields' Park last night. The place was dotted with umbrellas, and the singing of the orchestra was not put out of commission by the rain, but the entire programme was given.

DALTON AND LEWIS, dancing comedians, made their first appearance, and made a decided hit. Howard, a clever comedian and his wooden-shoe dancing, was novel. Miss Lewis introduced a number of character dances. They will be on the bill all week.

COOL BODIES Made by Appetizing Food.

You can feel as "fit as a Lord" in hot weather if you eat sensibly. If you aren't entirely happy in hot weather suppose you quit your way and try ours. Take a cold sponge bath, dress leisurely and sit down to a breakfast of Grape-Nuts and cream, a little fruit and a cup of Postum Food Coffee. Don't fear, you won't starve; on the contrary, that "jordy feeling" will take possession of you by lunch time.

Grape-Nuts is a concentrated food and contains as much nourishment as bulky body-heating food like meat, potatoes, etc. Its crisp distinctness will appeal to your palate and the result is a very marked difference in the temperature of the body and the certainty of ease and perfect digestion.

Quit coffee; it unnaturally stimulates the brain and nerves, heating the body and causing an uneven temperature. Postum Food Coffee; it has a charming flavor when properly made and does not affect the nervous system, but assists the brain to work with ease and clearness. Experience and experiment in food and its application to the human body has brought out these facts. They can be made use of and add materially to the comfort of the user during the hot weather.

Look through the recipe book in each Grape-Nuts package for delicious puddings, entrées, salads and desserts.
