THE O. N. G. IN CAMP

1300 GUARDSMEN ON HAND

Regulars Are Marching From Vancouver and Will Arrive Saturday-City Will Tender Visitors a Reception.

For lack of funds, the encampment of the Oregon National Guard will continue only six instead of eight days. The militiamen went into camp at Alhany yesterday, and will begin drilling today. The troops present a better ap-pearance than ever before, and the best thering in the history of the guard is anticipated.

CAMP WILLIAMS, ALBANY, July 17 .-(Staff correspondence.)-Pleased over the insurance of a six days' encampment, and eager to show their ability as sol diers, the companies of the Oregon National Guard that arrived here today turned to their work with a vim, and by evening camp was pitched and in order, and tomorrow the regular routine of drill work will be taken up. Their camp is situated about a mile southeast of Albany, and in honor of Mayor Williame, of Portland, has been named Camp Willfams. In the neighborhood of 1900 uniformed men are in the camp, and it is an imposing scene to stand upon the porch of the building in which General Beebe has his headquarters, and which is situated in the center of the camp, and look over the array of sturdy men, ready to fly to the defense of their country at the least alarm. The first to arrive were Company G and Hospital Corps, of Albany, who reached camp about 9 o'clock this morning. Troop A, from Lebanon, consisting of about 28 men, arrived about 11 A. M. The next arrivals were on the special train from Portland, which arrived at 11:30, and bringing the entire Third Regiment and Light Battery A, of Portland; and Companies D. Woodburn, and F, of Salem, of the Fourth Regiment, in command of Colonel Everett, of Portland. The remainder of the Fourth Regiment arrived on the regular train at $:45, and was in , command of Colonel Yoran, of Eugene. The first separate battalion, infantry, from La Grande arrived this evening and will be ready for work in the morning. Word was received from the regulars that left Vancouver, and they are expected here by Saturday night.

The presence of these stalwart advocates of a railroad commission spurred the friends of the Governor's plan to action, and the next thing was the bringing out of Mr. Bratt as a candidate for chairman. In addition, working for Mr. scores of delegates from the country were at work with might and main for Mr. Bratt, who is himself a farmer.

Ex-Senator John L. Wilson and United States Minister to Chile Henry L. Wilson, backed by their immediate supporters, asked Governor McBride to call off his friends, and when they became convinced that the Governor would do nothing for them they went out on the street to make a contest in Murphy's interest. The Wilsons sent every man they could think of to the Governor, begging him to quit. The Governor replica invariably that he had nothing to do with the matter, and could not control the vigorous organization put up by Mz. Wilson's oppenents if he would. At 10:20 o'clock tonight Charles Sweeney, T. D. Rockwell, F. M. Dudley, J. A. Start From Portland.

Upon leaving Portland at 8:15, guards were stationed at the platforms of the cars and the men were not allowed to pass to and fro. A special detachment was sent to guard the baggage car, and every precaution was taken that would be taken in time of war. Quartermaster L. H. Knapp, who had charge of the train, was kept busy attending to the various details and responding to the many requests that were made of him. Each company is allowed one extra man, and one of them had utilized this privilege by bringing a negro to do their cooking for them. Just at his busiest time Quartermaster Knapp was stopped by this individual, who it seems had at some time been put off a train.

"Here," said he, "I will give you this now," presenting a request for his transportation.

"I don't-want it now," said the Quartermaster. "Wait until I am taking up the fares."

"I won't be put off, will I?" was the reply, and he would not be content until he had received assurance that he would not be put off.

Such incidents as this, together with the necessary regular work that naturally falls to the lot of the Quartermaster, kept that worthy gentleman well exercised until the militiamen had passed Salem and the last of the baggage was safe in the hands of the guards in the baggage car. As for the rest of the party, it is safe to say that little of care or worry crossed their minds after they boarded the train and were sure that they would not be left out of the big encampment. As they passed each town along the road cheer after cheer was sent up, and in many cases they were answered with a vim. Girls were especially attracted by the imposing uniforms, and many handkerchiefs were waved in greeting as the train passed on its way to Camp Williams. The regimental band, consisting of 22 pieces, and under the charge of Mr. Everent, accompanied the regiment, and at many points the people were favored with musical selections.

The regular train from the south was inte, and arrived about 4 o'clock, bringing five companies of the Fourth Regiment and the regimental band, Compa nies A and C and the band, consisting of 23 pieces, were from Eugene, Company E from Roseburg, Company H from Grant's Pars and Company B from Ashland.
