

MET-DEATH IN GALE

Ten Fishermen Lose Their Lives on Fraser River.

MANY HAVE VERY CLOSE CALLS

One Man Rescued From Bottom of Skiff Died Before He Reached Shore—High Wind Has Been Blowing Two Days.

VANCOUVER, B. C., July 25.—The heavy gale which has been blowing for the past 48 hours is responsible for two known deaths, and there is every reason to believe that 8 or 9 other men have been drowned in the storm-tossed waters. Last night two Indians found an upturned boat off the middle arm of the Fraser River, and upon investigation found a man clinging to it and supporting himself in the water among the floats of his fishing net. The man did not live to reach shore. When landed at the Fraser River, he was found to be dead. He had been identified as being that of Erits Fabian, well known, having posed as the inventor of a navigable airship. Entangled in the net among the floats, Fabian was supporting himself by a coat containing a number of letters addressed to Florian Schmalz. It has been learned that Schmalz and Fabian had been fishing together, and there is reason to believe that Schmalz was also drowned.

Two men—Sam Hunt and Tom Crankshaw—fishing for the Canadian Pacific cannery, have been missing since Sunday night, and it is believed they have been drowned.

A number of capstern fishing-boats have been seen in the gulf. Four fishing boats capsized off the main river, and it is believed the eight occupants were drowned. A boat containing two white men turned turtle off the Sand Heads light, but the occupants were rescued. One boat belonging to the English Bay cannery escaped 200 yards off English Bay beach. Its occupants were rescued.

HOPS MAY GO TO 25 CENTS.

Oregon Association Receives Good Eastern Advice.

SALEM, July 25.—(Special.)—Manager James Winstanley, of the Oregon Hop-growers' Association, received advice from New York today to the effect that 25 to 35 cents has been offered in that state for hops of the crop of 1902. Based upon this news, Mr. Winstanley concludes that 25 cents or better will soon be offered in Oregon. There is always a difference of 4 cents per pound between the prices in New York and Oregon. It is also reported that sales of Oregon hops of 1902 were made more than a week ago in New York at 25 cents, which would mean 21 cents here. Mr. Winstanley's correspondent predicts 30 cents as the price which will be reached later in the season.

So far as can be learned, no offer has been made here of more than 20 cents. One dealer said a few days ago:

"Hops are worth more than 20 cents, but there is no use to offer it unless 25 cents can be had. I have some hops to sell at 20 cents will refuse 22, or 23 cents. At the even figure of 25 cents, which some growers have set their minds upon, some sales might be made. But there is no use making any offer at all until we have 25 cents. When that point is reached and a few sales are made, the remaining growers will hold for 20 cents or more. I do not say the market will be reached, but that growers will not sell at less than that just now. While I expect hope to go up, I wouldn't want my name to be connected with such a prediction, for some would question it, and if the prediction should not come true I would be laughed at. Growers must study the market, and sell when the conditions seem best and not follow any man's predictions."

"This weather is perfect, and is doing us lots of good," says Mr. Winstanley. "Even if we do not get a drop of rain until the middle of August, we will still have a good crop. Continued hot weather would reduce the yield, but improve the quality. It is desirable that the present weather continue a week longer and then a drenching rain will do the trick. After that we will want warm weather again."

"The hot weather is killing off the lice very rapidly, nevertheless, spraying and shall keep at it. Spraying is necessary, but I am too poor a man to neglect it. Spraying is a sort of insurance on the hop crop. If the conditions remain favorable it appears as though the growers get no return for his spraying, but if the weather is favorable to the propagation of lice the grower who sprays gets the benefit of it. The poor man cannot afford to take the chance of losing his crop, in order to save the expense of spraying."

Mr. Winstanley estimates the Oregon crop at 80,000 to 85,000 bales, but says that no good estimate can be made until the hops have formed, so that it can be known how thick the burrs will be on the laterals.

Oregon Mining Stock Exchange.

PORTLAND, July 25.

Table with columns for stock names and prices. Includes Alaska M. & N., Bronza, Oregonian, etc.

SALEM, Or., July 25.—(Special.)—L. E. Gardner, of this city, has rigged up a family excursion bicycle such as one humorous papers were pleased to picture a few years ago as one of the possibilities of that vehicle. Gardner attracted wide attention when he appeared on the streets of Salem today after having taken his wife, two children and a camping outfit to Mehama, 30 miles distant in the foothills of the Cascade Mountains.

The wheel used by Mr. Gardner is an old tandem. The front seat is fastened as far back as possible, and just behind it hangs a large telescope traveling bag that will hold 75 to 100 pounds of camping outfit. Extending through the frame of the bicycle, and fastened to the upright tube holding the rear seatpost is a steel rod about three feet long. At each end of this is a chair made with frame of steel and seat of canvas. The two chairs are for the two children 3 and 5 years of age. While taking his family to the mountains, Mr. Gardner rides on the rear seat. His wife sits on the front seat, and has a child on either side of him. For cross-country traveling, where there are no railroads, the bicycle has proved a kind of a conveyance. Mr. Gardner made six to eight miles per hour without great exertion, and after making two trips to Mehama and back, he well pleased with his contrivance. Its advantage over a buying itself with the "meritorious service" medals, which are intended to go to those officers who rendered particularly gallant service in the West Indian naval campaign.

only four persons have been decorated on the "meritorious service" medals. These are Lieutenant Richmond Pearson Hobson, for his well-known feat with the Merrimac; Lieutenant Ward and Lieutenant Buck, for their perilous secret mission into Spain; and Lieutenant Victor Blue, for his famous work in connection with the location of the Spanish fleet in Santiago Harbor.

It is understood that meritorious service medals also are intended for the American officers and men who rendered exceptional service in the rescue of the drowning officers and men of the detached Spanish fleet at Santiago. The reports of the rescue showed that the Spanish themselves shouted warnings to the rescuers not to approach for fear of the exploding merrimac, but the Americans persisted in their efforts to save in the face of imminent destruction. The main function of the award board is not to specify individuals for recognition, but to select certain services which seem worthy of commemoration by medals.

RUSSIAN TRUST CONFERENCE.

State Department Has Received a Copy of the Note.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Through the United States Charge of Embassy at St. Petersburg, Mr. Riddle, of the State Department, has just received a copy of the Russian note touching upon trusts, which has excited so much comment in Europe. This note, which takes the form of a circular, was identified and was handed in St. Petersburg to the representatives of all the powers that participated in the Brussels sugar conference, and in addition, to Mr. Riddle, for transmission to his Government at Washington. It is supposed the Russian Government supplies the United States as a matter of information, and a courtesy. Certain it is that in the present view the United States executive cannot participate in such a conference as is described, by reason of limitations that cannot be escaped, even if there were no other objection.

From a perusal of the note it appears that its references to trusts have attracted the principal share of public attention, although the whole note appears to be framed as an argument in support of the Russian system of regulating sugar production and export. The reference to an international trust conference is equally noticeable, especially in the shape of an alternative proposal, or rather suggestion, only in case the soundness of the Russian contention in support of its present system is successfully challenged.

The State Department cannot do more at this stage than it has done, namely, a return of polite acknowledgment through Mr. Riddle of the note, and watch developments in Europe. It is not supposed that there will be any action toward calling another conference, but rather that the discussion as to the character of the Russian system of regulation of sugar production will proceed, certainly up to the date set for the application of the agreement reached, and the stoppage of sugar bounties and the exclusion from importation of bounty-aided sugars. That action will, it is expected, precipitate some decision upon the Russian proposals.

WILL VISIT NAVY-YARDS.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—Secretary Moody left Washington today, and will not return until September 1. He goes to inspect the Navy yards, and will remain at Sagamore Hill over Sunday. He will have with him on the cruise he will make during the month on the Dolphin, Senator Hale, Representative Cannon, of Illinois; Representative Foss, of Illinois; Representative Dayton, of West Virginia, and Representative Meyer, of Louisiana, all members of the naval committee of Congress except Mr. Cannon, who is chairman of the appropriations committee.

Secretary Moody will take with him the papers in the case of Paymaster Sullivan, of the Navy, and after making his recommendation in the case will turn them over to the President for final action. President will decide whether Paymaster

TOO MUCH SEWING

Women Should Be Careful Not to Overdo Themselves.

The Experience of Mrs. Prank, Wife of the Town Clerk of Millersville, Minn.

The woman with the responsibility of a home and family on her shoulders has always been given to overdoing herself. As a result, almost every day we hear of one breaking down. Her nerves have given way or her strength has failed. Such was the experience of Mrs. Prank, wife of J. M. Prank, Town Clerk of Millersville, Douglas County, Minn. She says:

"I had been sewing a great deal and it was too much for me. Between that and my other household duties I began to feel very nervous. I had no appetite, and there was a feeling of heaviness around my heart, so bad at times that it seemed as if I couldn't get any air. I was so nervous always that any little thing would upset me. Nothing that I could do gave me any relief, and it became so bad that I was obliged to neglect my housework. I had nervous prostration.

"Some time in March, after I had been sitting for several months, I heard of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People and began taking them. I felt a little better, and that made me willing to give them a thorough trial. I took the pills regularly for two months and by that time my health was completely restored.

"I am glad of this chance to tell how easily and thoroughly I was cured by Pink Pills for Pale People. I keep them in the house all the time, and strongly recommend them to all who are afflicted as I was."

The note which cured Mrs. Prank acted directly on the blood and nerves and in that are different from any other medicine. They cure locomotor ataxia, partial paralysis, St. Vitus' dance, vertigo, neuritis, rheumatism, nervous headache, after-effects of the grip, palpitation of the heart, pale and sallow complexion, and all forms of weakness either in men or women. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are sent to all druggists, and will be sent direct from Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Schenectady, N. Y., postpaid, on receipt of price, fifty cents per bottle, or two dollars and a half. Do not be deceived when a clerk tells you that he has a blood and nerve pill "made from the same formula as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People." He does not know what the formula is, and he could not make the pills if he did.

Sullivan is to be retired or dropped from the rolls of the Navy, the retiring board having found him unfit for further service.
