Commercial Treaty Between Britain and China.

IT IS CONDITIONALLY ACCEPTED

Provides for Joint Commission of the Powers to Secure Peace Brtween Christians and Non-Converts-Other Subjects.

SHANGHAI, July 27 .- The draft of the commercial treaty between Great Britain and China has been conditionally accepted by the Chinese Government, but clause 8, dealing with the abolition of the likin, still awaits the approval of the British Government. This clause provides that in return for a surfax equivalent to 114 times the duty leviable under the protocol of 1901, China shall abolish all likin duties, stations and barriers and every form of internal taxation on British goods, guaranteeing them against exactions and de-Inyn.

Other articles deal with the registration of trade-marks, the navigation of the Yangise and Canton Rivers, bonded wareouses, the equalization of duties on junks and steamers, facilities for draftsacks, the establishment of a national currency, the revision of the mining regulations, new regulations for the navigation of inland waters, the opening of Kong Mun as a treaty port on the West River, and the appointment of joint commissions to settle disputes. In article 12 Great Britain agrees to relinquish her extra-territorial rights when the reform of the Chinese judicial system and the establishment of an effective administration shall warrant so doing.

By article 13 Great Britain agrees hereafter to participate in a joint commission if such be formed, representing China and the treaty powers, with the object of investigating the missionary question and devising means to secure peaceful relations between Christians and non-converts. Article 8 shall become effective in January. 1905, subject to the other powers entering similar agreements, and China agrees on the same date to open four new treaty ports-Chang Sha, Nanking, Wan Hsten and Wal Chou. China retains unimpaired the right to tax salt, native oplum and native produce for international consump was issued, "The injunction was issued on June 19," said Mr. Wilson, "and the meeting com-plained of was held the next night. Mother Jones was the only speaker, and none of the men arrested said a word publicly to the miners. The only thing proved against them was that they applauded the re-marks of Mother Jones. They were ar-rested the moment the meeting was over, so that they had no chance to speak if they wanted to do so. I do not see how man can be committed to jail for such a trivial offense as this, and I believe the habeas sorpus proceedings will set them was the large number of women, many of ...em well dressed, who actually participated. Nor were these all Cierical in their sympathies, for the anti-Cierical women were also out in strong force, and they occasionally made things lively for their Clerical sisters, which the police had some difficulty in preventing. In one had some dimculty in preventing. In one instance a detachment of mounted guards had to rescue three well-dressed indies from the hands of a group of Socialist women who were bent on mobbing them. The Ciericais made several attempts to reach the Place Beauveau, on which the Elysee Palace and the Ministry of the Ihterior are situated, but were prevented from doing so by strong cordons of police and municipal guards, who were stationed at all the approaches in order to prevent demonstrations in front of these buildings,

The demonstrations culminated when a group of 30 ladies, some in carriages and some on foot, headed by Mesdames Reille, De Mun, Cibiel and Depommerol, attempt-ed to reach the Ministry of the Interior in order to present to Premier Combes a petition on behalf of the Sisters. The police, however, refused to allow them to pass. Subsequently the Ciericals made an angry rush on the cordon guarding Avenue Gabrielle, and the soldiers had to use the butts of their guns to keep back the crowd. Another violent incident occurred on the Champs Elysees, where the crowd began throwing the small iron chairs on the aldewalks among the feet of the horses of the mounted guards. One horse fell, injuring his rider. A number of prominent Nationalists, including Deputics Millevoye and Auffray, and several municipal Councillors were conspicuous in the crowd, and were much ovated by their followers and hooted by the anti-Ciericals. - aged 10, 12 and 14 years, were killed by an engine on the Seaboard Air Line today. They were walking across a trestle.

Governor Hunt Arrives.

NEW YORK, July 27 .- Governor Willlam Hunt has arrived from Porto Rico on the steamer Como. Attorney-General James S. Harlan accompanied him. Governor Hunt will join his family at Casenovia, N. Y., and Mr. Harian will join his at Murray Bay, in Canada. Both will re-turn to Porto Bloo in September. Gover-

York. During the evening he became suddenly ill and the physician who has been attending his family was called. The patient remained in bed until about noon today, when he arose, and after dressing himself, sat for a while on the porch of his cottage. There were so many telegrams and personal inquiries regard-ing his condition, however, that he soon retired indoors and denied himself to newspaper reporters and other callers. Mr. Schwab expects to return to New York in two or three days.
