Yesterday's ball game was a battle of Yesterday's ball game was a battle of the giants. For il innings the Portland favorite, George Engle, worked from the slab with eight good men behind him against the tall, lean and lanky Wisga, with an equal number of balltossers supporting him. During all these limings neither a Webfoot nor a Senator had been able to go around the bags and then touch his foot on the rubber. It was the next inning that decided the struggle next inning that decided the struggle when "Pull Em Up" Shaffer came in for a run on a single and two-bagger. Portland tried hard in its half of the inning, but could not get the run to

It is doubtful if a prettier struggle has ever been witnessed by a cheering Sun-day crowd in this city. Every one of the 18 men was in the game to win, and britliant plays were made from every posi-tion in the game. Sensational stops, pretty catches, quick throws, in fact, everything that goes to make ideal base-ball, were exhibited pesterday.

Pitchers on Their Mettle. Engle and Wiggs pitched great ball. Wiggs had the greater speed, but Engle was the steadier. Both had an abundance was the steader. Both awa an adminate of curves. Both twirlers were called upon to pull their respective teams out of tight places several times. At such times Wigsz would put on his strike-out clothes and put the men out of the way with his curves. Engle, in his turn, got the hits well in the air where his fielders could handle them. handle them.

It was right in the first inning that Portland started to show some good fielding. Harris pulled in a fly that Peeples had knocked almost to the right field fence, and Flannery sent a hot liner. straight to Engle, who held on to it. In the second Harris made another good play by throwing a man out at first from Portland got a man to third in the sec ond, but could not moore, Anderson hit to center for a safe one. Ziegler flew out, A hit by Harris past shortstop put An-derson on third with one man out, Deisel hit into right field, and it looked as if a run were certain, but McGilligan fielded the ball nicely, caught Deisel at first and held Anderson on third. Vigneux flew out to Flannery.

A base on balls and a stolen base got third inning after two men had been retired, but he could got no further. In the same inning Portland again came close to scoring. Hits by Muller and Van Buren put both those men on the bags, and each stole another base. With a man on third and one on second and but one out, Wiggs appeared to be in a tight hole. However, he recovered him-self and struck out both Weed and An-

Only Error in the Fifth,

In the fifth the only error of the game was made. Vigneux, the first man up, hit the ball to Peeples, who fell. He threw the ball when on the ground, but the baserupner reached first in safety. Engle got to first when Vigneux was retired at second. The pitcher went along to sec-end, when Sullivan dropped the third strike on Muller, and to third when the ball was thrown to first. Van Buren flew out, instead of making a hit to score the Hannivan was the first Helena man to reach the third bag. This he did by landing the ball in left field for three bases when there was no one out. Then it was that Engle kept the hits in the air. Peeples, Flannery and Shaffer, all good stickers, sent up easy files, and the side was retired. When the ninth came the 5000 spectators wondered just how long the game was going to last. Peeples came to the bat first for Helena and knocked a fly to Harris. Engle put a few knots in his arm, and Jack Flannery struck out. Af-ter him came Shaffer, the gentlemen with a tree for a bat and the star hitter of the team. He tried to put the ball over the fence, but fared as did his manager. Ziegier started the crowd yelling when he opened Portland's half of the inning by hitting past third for a single. Then it was Wiggs' turn to settle down, and Harris and Delsel were forced to succumb to his curves. Vigneux retired at first. Three Extra lanings.

Then it was that Umpire Chauncey Fisher proclaimed that the Helena and Portland baseball teams should convene in ap extra session and proceed upon the same line of work as they had been pur-suing during the last nine innings until some work was accomplished. It then came about that the Senators proved that they belonged to the upper house, and the Webfooters were turned out like a lot

But three men faced Engle in the 10th, and they were retired with ease. Engle opened the same inning for Portland, but was put out at first. Muller drew a pass to first and stole second. He got to third when Van Buren was retired at first. Weed was at the bat, and, with two men out, it looked as if Muller would share the fate of the other players; that is, come within one notch of reaching home, Suddenly, just as the ball left Wiggs' hand, the restless Max started for the plate. For a brief second the crowd was held in awed suspense, which broke loose in a sigh as Sulltvan touched Mulier in his slide, and cut off the chances of his scoring. It was a risky play, but Portland had everything to win, so Muller tried it. Under other circumstances he might have reached the plate in safety, but as it was, the ball came straight to

Sullivan—that about tells the whole story of Portland's defeat. Flannery, the first up in the 12th, went out at first, for followed with a hit to left field, and stole second. Sullivan was next, and bit the ball back of Deisel. Just as the Portland shortstop was going to pick up the ball it hit something and gianced aside. By the time it had been recov-ered, Shaffer had scored and Suillvan

A weak piece of Portland's batting order came up in the locals' part of the 12th. Harris hit the ball, but Peeples caught him at first. Deisei struck out, and Portland's hopes looked exceedingly dlm. Vigneux cams up and got a base on balls. Engle came to the bat, and it was up to him to win his own game, but he could do nothing more than strike out, and ended one of the hardest struggless ever seen on a local diamond. The score: HELENA

PITCHERS BATTLE AT SPOKANE. Butte Wins On Errors in the Tenth Inning.

SPOKANE, Aug. 3.—Errors of the Spo-kane infield gave Butte the game today in the loth inning, after the fastest playing seen on the home grounds this season. Pfeister and Dowling, opposing pitchers were in great form, and the entire game was one of brilliant fielding and excellent battery work. The score: SPOKANE.

the only regular umpire, with the exception of Mullane, that Mr. Lucas has seen fit to send to Portland. In the games he umpired here there has been no room for complaint. With the release of Cunningham, of course another local umpire had to be put on the staff. Just why Mr. Lucas sends all his amateurs to Portland to he with the case of th is hard to understand. The Helena series has come and gone.

As far as settling the dispute which nine is to hold third place. Portland or Helena, no result was obtained, and the tie is still on. The series opened with both clubs tied at 4%, and of the six games played, each nine won three, and now both are still claiming third position. It is true that each club is three points nearer the top of the list than when the series commenced, but that gives little satisfaction.

The games played with Helena were of high order, and the series closed with a The Portland pitching staff is showing led the list, with Lajole second, and for awhile they were tied. The latest average gives Lajoie the lead with 418, and Dela-hanty second with 408. Delahanty's record so far this season is: Games, 67; at bat, 255; runs, 57; hits, 104; stolen bases, 11. His hits include 19 two-baggers, nine three-baggers and six home runs.

It is a shame that a league that is a large and strong as the Pacific Northwest League should not be able to get three competent umpires to officiate at the game during the entire season. In the umpire suestion hard luck has certainly followed the league. First it was Mullane, whose work was so bad that it will be remembered for many a day. With his retirement came the amateurs. Temparary umpires can hardly be expected to give but as it was the ball came straight to
