AMUSEMENTS TONIGHT.

SHIELDS' PARK (18th and Washington)
Musical, the Lamonts, vaudeville and music.

GREAT ORGAN FOR MASONRY.—The Scottish Rite Masons have purchased a $10,000 Aeolian pipe-organ for their temple, which is now being constructed on the southwest corner of Lowndes and Morrison streets. The organ was purchased from the Aeolian Company, of New York, N. Y. It is of unusually large dimensions, and is of modern design, nothing like it ever having been seen in the Northwest. Unlike the ordinary pipe-organ, it contains a solo device, and is capable of producing an unusually wide range of notes. The organ will be shipped from New York about November 1, and will be fitted into its place in the Scottish Rite Temple in January. The committee in charge of the building work reports favorable progress, although the recent strike interrupted the work for several weeks.

CONSERVATION CARBON POPULAR.—The City and Suburban Railway Company has now in operation an observation car for the purpose of showing tourists and visitors the beauties of the city and vicinity. This is a plan that has had much success in San Francisco and other large cities, and the local people took the matter up to see what could be made of it. The first day the car was run there were about 50 people present for the ride, and it was found necessary to run the car on a hot day instead of the one first decided on. Two cars a day would not accommodate the increasing number, and now two cars are sent on each trip. They are of the largest size operated by the company, and hold about 35 persons with comfort on a hot day. A guide goes with each car, who uses a megaphone to tell the sightseers whatever of interest is passed on the run. Over 70 miles of track is covered on a trip, and all the interesting points of the city are visited, including St. Johns, Mount Tabor, the cemeteries and North and South Park.

CHARGE AGAINST POLICEMAN.—Written charges have been filed with the Board of Police Commissioners against Policeman L. G. Carpenter, of striking Willie Riggs, a boy, with a club, without cause. It is set forth in the complaint that on the night of May 19, 1902, Carpenter entered a saloon at Third and Burnside streets and seeing Riggs struck him on the head with a club three times, rendering him unconscious. It is further alleged that Carpenter on May 13, by mistake, beat an orphan named Frank Barton, and afterwards Carpenter solicited the aid of another policeman to get Barton to drop the matter, saying he took money to do so. J. H. Hitchings appears as attorney in the case.

NO MINING DELEGATES YET NAMED.—At the meeting of the Chamber of Commerce committee on mines and mining yesterday afternoon, the matter of naming the delegates to the International Mining Congress to be held at Butte next month was held over until it could be learned who had been appointed by the state and Mayor Williams. The committee did not desire that the same persons be named that had already been selected by the state and city executives, and rather than name anybody, it was thought better to defer action until the next meeting. The matter of advertising the mining districts and interests of the state was also considered, but nothing definite was decided on.

CROWDS AT SWIMMING BATHS.—The Portland Public Baths attracted hundreds of pleasure-seekers yesterday. All through the day the swimming space was filled, boys occupying the establishment in the forenoon and men in the afternoon. During the evening hours, hundreds of women went over for a cool plunge. As yesterday was the hottest day of the season, the river was at its lowest stage, and those who visited the free bath declared it the best institution in the city. A good swim is a pleasure at any time, but especially so on a hot day. It is estimated that 2500 people visited the free baths yesterday.

OFF FOR CRATER LAKE.—Will G. Steed and a party of 12 persons left Portland last night on the 8:30 train for Medford. There they will take wagons for Crater Lake. Several more excursionists will join the party on the way south, so that by the time the lake is reached there will be about 30, all told. This party will consist of Thomas Geer and wife, W. G. Steed, James Steed, and Isaac John Buckley, Newport; Hotel Flavel, at Flavel; L. V. Raymond, Westport; J. M. Conklin, Seaside; F. D. McLean, Willhoit Springs; Bingham Springs Hotel, Bingham Springs; the party will be sent by mail to those who leave orders that that effect at the counting-room of The Oregonian.

THE OREGONIAN AT SUMMER RESORTS.—The Daily and Sunday Oregonian may be had from Lawler & Co., Seaside; H. B. Woodruff, Long Beach, and Isaac John Buckley, Newport; Hotel Flavel, at Flavel; L. V. Raymond, Westport; J. M. Conklin, Seaside; F. D. McLean, Willhoit Springs; Bingham Springs Hotel, Bingham Springs; the party will be sent by mail to those who leave orders that that effect at the counting-room of The Oregonian.

For specifications see the concession committee at Carnival headquarters, Seventh and Stark streets. The committee reserves the right to reject any and all bids. W. H. Olson, Chairman. OREGON CITY BOATS leave Taylor street week days at 8:30, 11:30 A. M., 2:15 P. M. Round trip, 25c. A most delightful way to spend three hours.

DEATH OF ARTHUR S. GIBBS.—Arthur S. Gibbs died yesterday afternoon at 4:30, at Good Samaritan hospital, after an illness of a few days. Although he has been an invalid for several years past, his death was unexpected at this time, as he was only confined to his bed three days. Mr. Gibbs was formerly with the O. R. & N. Co. under C. H. Moss, and later was cashier of the Oregon Improvement Company, and Pacific Coast Company, at Seattle. He was a prominent Mason, having received his Master Mason degree in Harmony Lodge, No. 12, A. F. & A. M., in 1886, and for a number of years held the secretaryship. He was a member of Portland Chapter, Royal Arch Masons, and Oregon Commandery, Knights Templar, and later deputed and became a member of the several bodies at Seattle. He was also a member of the Sons of the American Revolution. He was born at Hillsdale, Mich., April 23, 1837. On April 5, 1858, he was married to Miss Alice Clay. The widow and two sons, Leon, aged 15, and Arthur, aged 6, survive him. The funeral will be held under the auspices of the Masonic lodges, from Taylor Street Methodist Episcopal Church, at 2 P. M. Friday.

IMPROVEMENT OF EAST OAK STREET.—City Engineer Elliott is preparing an estimate for the improvement of the improvement of East Oak street from East Fourth to East Twelfth, and he will soon have things in such shape that bids may be advertised for. An ordinance authorizing the improvement was recently passed by the Council, and a number of property-owners along the dilapidated roadway and other parts of the street have been anxiously inquiring as to when work will be begun. The lives of several deputies of the City Engineer and at least one Councilman have been made burdensome of late by these inquiries, and of a strange part of the difficulty is that they are not believed when they tell why no work has been done. Many street ordinances were in the hands of the City Engineer before the Oak-street ordinance was passed, and of course it has to take its turn, but it will be reached in a short time.

RETURNS FROM EUROPEAN TOUR.—Dorsey B. Smith, private secretary to President A. L. Mohler, of the O. R. & N. Co., returned to Portland yesterday, after a seven months' tour of Europe. After leaving this city, early in January, Mr. Smith went direct to Paris, where he spent a few weeks. In February he went to Italy, where he spent several months amid the historic ruins of antiquity. Late in the Spring he journeyed to Munich, afterwards visiting Berlin and Dresden. After a pleasant tour through Norway, Sweden and Denmark, Mr. Smith turned his steps southward, going to Switzerland, where he witnessed a storm in the Alps. After a three weeks' journey through the historic scenes of England, Scotland and Ireland, Mr. Smith sailed for New York, where he joined President Mohler, the two going down to Old Point Comfort, where the Mohler family is spending the summer.

DEATH OF W. H. ANDRUS.—W. H. Andrus, a pioneer resident of Portland, and for many years a joint proprietor of the Old Occidental Hotel, died last evening of heart failure, at Good Samaritan Hospital. Mr. Andrus had been ailing for some time, and for several weeks had been confined to the hospital, where the best of medical aid failed to restore him to health. He was 65 years old. At one time Mr. Andrus was Captain of Police in this city, and served a term in the Common Court back in the 70s. His wife died in 1886, and his only living relative is his daughter, Mrs. O. W. Eastham, of Oregon City. While in the hotel business, Mr. Andrus was associated with the late Ben Norden. The funeral will be held tomorrow morning, from Holman's undertaking establishment.

ANENT EUGENE ALLIANCE.

President Graves on University-Divinity School Relation.
UNIVERSITY STATION, Seattle, Aug. 2.—(To the Editor.)—I should not of my own initiative venture to comment on the vigorous editorial in last Sunday's Oregonian, with reference to the divinity school at Eugene City, in your state, and its relations to your state university. When asked to print my opinion, however, I must admit that I am not much in sympathy with the spirit of the article. It is easy to talk about the complete separation of the church and state, but this will never be entirely possible as long as we remain a Christian Nation. Both institutions must always deal with many subjects in common, such as family relations, general morals, and education.

Further than this I believe that our greatest welfare will in many instances result from the co-operation of these institutions. If, for example, the numerous weak denominational colleges of our country were grouped around the state universities, both would be better off. Each denomination could, at one-twentieth of the expense, obtain every advantage that could be procured from a well-endowed denominational college of its own. The various colleges could support their own chairs of Biblical literature and other subjects that the university could not properly provide, and the teachers of languages, mathematics, sciences, engineering and other subjects would not be many times multiplied over the actual demand. On the other hand, the state university would have a religious atmosphere about it which could not otherwise be created.

This plan has been favored by many great men in the history of the United States, particularly by that master mind, Thomas Jefferson. It has been much discussed of late, and various denominations have built institutions at the state universities of Michigan, Wisconsin, Virginia and West Virginia, California and Missouri. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that the University of Oregon and seminaries in conjunction with their state universities. The Canadian universities at Toronto, Montreal, Winnipeg and elsewhere have had college groups of this character for some years. Even conservative Oxford has shown the value of such co-operation. The principal objections to this union of interests, outside of those of expediency, come from two sources—the people without religious convictions and the extreme denominationalists. In my judgment, both are standing in the way of the best interests of the country, and eventually higher education will be organized largely according to the plan I have dictated.
