BUTTE, Mont., Aug. 22.—(Special.)— Engle proved a puzzler for the Minera this afternoon and the hits of McCloskey's sluggers came like dollars to a beggar. Portland played an erroriess The visitors took the lead in the second inning and cinched in the eighth. One Butte man made the circuit in the second but not again until the ninth was Miner able to reach the home plate. Sutte played in hard luck. On two occasions with one man out and a runner on second and third the side was retired without a score. Ollie Burns, for Butte, who has been out of the game for weaks, was given excellent support, and that fact accounts for the limited num-ber of rune made by Vigneux's men. If it had not been for the successful bunting of the visitors in the eighth, a base on balls and two wild pitches by Burns, the score might have been different, for this would have meant four runs for each team and a chance in the 10th for the locals to do something. Butte went to but first and only three men swung a club. Butte saved a run in Portland's half by an old trick. With two out and Van Buren on third Zearfoes made a bluff of throwing to second to catch Weed, who was prancing along the line from first, the Webfoot on third started for home but realized that he was being tricked and started back. Too late, Zearfoss had only thrown the ball to Burns, although his motion looked as if the ball would not stop any short of the other side of the range. Burns whipped the ball to McIntyre, and caught Van Buren off the base somewhere between a quarter and a half mile. Butte carned a run in the second on Houtz's threebagger and a long fly to center on which Houtz scored. Portland soon overcame

Vigneux started the trouble with a neat double. Muller singled him in and Harris went to the bench. Detsel hit to Marshall in right field and although Mulier scored. Joe caught Deisel at first with a pretty throw to Huston. Then an unfortunate thing occurred. Eagle hit one to Kane, but Billy three wild to Huston and the ball went over the fence to the right field theselvers. ANOTHER GAME FOR HELENA. Scattle Team Unable to Defeat Senators.

HELENA, Aug. 22.—The game that Willie Hogg pitched today was entitled to win in any man's country, but Flan-nery's rabbit-foot was still working, and Blagle was given so much better support than that accorded the coast pitcher, that the champions did not have a lookin, the Senators thus scoring their sixth consecutive victory. Single opened wild. and filled the bases with but one out in the first, but Scattle could not score. In the ninth, after two were out, Schmeer made a wild throw to first, which, followed by Hogg's two-bagger, robbed Slagle of a shut-out. Scattle had men on bases in all but two innings. Score:

being rushed along as rapidly as possible. Three blocks of the new track have been completed, and care began to run over it Thursday. It is a little rough yet, on account of some of the cement grout sticking to the rails, but this will soon wear off, and the track will be as smooth as any in the city. The track has been torn up as far as Twenty-second street, and new ralls have been laid as far as Twenty-first street. Thursday the big iron-melting machine was busy welding the rail joints, and today the men in charge of the concrete work will commence operations again. A switch for the accommodation of care that run only as far as the Exposition building is now being put in near Twentieth street. One of the many conveniences is an electric drill, that is operated by current from the trolley wire, and is used for the purpose of drilling bolt holes in the ralls. The machine is on email wheels, and, as the rails are very heavy to drill by hand, much time and labor is saved. It takes a full week for the concrete work to get theroughly dry, and, as the company does not want to risk ruining the new track, the cars are kept off of it as long as possible. The public is put to very little inconvenience, and even this is lost sight of in the thought that the new tracks will be so much superior to the old.

BACHELORS OF COMMERCE England Is Following Our Lead in Teaching the Science of Business.

In his address before the National Edu-cational Association, to which we have already called attention, Dr. A. E. Winship said: "Commerce has had a new birth on the threshold of the 20th century, and it is no longer a question whether commercial studies have any disciplinary power, but whether in comparison with them other studies have any." Mr. Arthur Chamberlain, one of the most successful business men of the English Midlands, recently made this announcement to the olders of one of his many com-"The University of Birmingham is going to undertake what has never before been undertaken in England-the teaching of commercial methods as a scihas attracted no little attention. A short time ago the degree convocation of the Birmingham University bestowed upon Professor Ashley, who has made a close study of commercial education in this country and Germany, the degree of first

Thus the institution will shortly have a faculty of commerce. This is not so much an experiment in England as it is a tribute to America, which has rather taken the lead in this matter, even if she has not yet systematized her processes to the extent that is proposed at Birmingham. It is an acknowledgement that we are on the right track in this matter. To a greater and newly discovered principle of law which reduces them to the level of a chattel, and which gives them no more to say as to their future than that which we accord to the higher institutions for the learned professions. They certainly do not need professions. They certainly do not need the professions of the learned professions. less training for engaging in those great operations which are now enlisting some of the master minds of the country. Profeesor Ashley says: "There is a of medicine for the doctors and a faculty of law for the lawyers, so there ought to be a faculty of commerce for the commer means with us different things at different institutions. There, the order has been marked out, and first in it comes accounting. This does not mean "accountancy," as the commercial faculty there phrase it, though sensible bookkeeping will be one of the fundamentals, but the ability to interpret accounts so as to gauge the earning capacity of business. Next comes business policy, meaning capitalization, reserve funds, policy as to the payment of dividends, circumstances in which apparently unprofitable orders may wisely be acceptant. ed, and the extent to which different in-dustries or branches of industry may be combined under one management. Modern languages are also to be taught, though the head of the department does not make that of first importance, for he declares that "business men have no more use for the man who makes had bargains in three languages than for the man who makes had bargains in one."

It is an interesting coincidence that the new impulse in the direction of commercial education in this country comes at the same time that we are getting ready to add to the adminstrative departments of our Government a department of commerce. There has hitherto been, perhaps, more of commercial overnight and direc-tion in the British Government than in our own, but it has been reserved, apparently, to the United States to first recognize the intimate relation between our commerce and the training of the young men into whose hands it must be intrust ed. We do not see much mention of busi ness ethics in the general scheme of com-mercial training, but it seems to us that is the most important branch of the sub ject. That is the safety valve of the

Mrs. Chauncey M. Depew is dissatisfied with the "social conditions obtaining in Washington," She expects to live in she says, "for there are only two sets; those in the swim and those not." Mrs. Mrs. Depews acciological observations are su-perficial and erroneous. In every city there are three sets; of those in the swim, of those who are not, and of those who think they are. This third set is by far the largest. It is this set that maintains sassiety journals and contribute, postage prepaid, copy for massiety editors. It increases the earnings of caterers, waiters and performers on string and wind in-struments, and thus satisfies others as well as itself

We like to think of Dr. Depew in Paris. We see him discussing niceties of lan-guage with the members of the Academic, furnishing the comedians in a revue with gags, working off some of his best and oldest stories on Le Rire, yawning at the jockey club, holding buttonholes as well as the floor at American banquets.
