AMERICANS UNABLE TO LAND.

Japan Holds Marcus Island, but Will Have to Face Indemnity Suit.

HONOLULU, Sept. 18, via San Francisco, Sept. 18.—The schooner Julia E. Whalen has returned from Marcus Island, arriving here September 16, without having accomplished the purpose for which she set out. When she arrived at Marcus there was a force of Japanese marines on shore, and she was prevented from landing by the Americans. Under the circumstances Captain Rosehill, of the Whalen, decided not to attempt to land, his force being much less than the force of the Japanese, and the Marcus Island Gun Company will now make a claim against the Japanese Government for indemnity, basing its claim on the alleged title of the Japanese to the island. Rosehill arrived at the island on the day after the Japanese warship Kasagi left. The Kasagi landed 15 armed marines and left them on the island to protect the interests of the Japanese Government, being compelled to return home for coal. Her commander left with Lieutenant Akimoto, in command of the marines, a letter from K. Ishii, secretary to the Imperial Minister of Foreign Affairs, addressed to Captain Rosehill and stating the position of the Japanese Government in the matter. The letter stated that the warship had been compelled to leave, on account of a lack of coal, explained that Japan claimed the island by virtue of occupancy previous to that of Rosehill, and expressed a hope that he would avoid a conflict and that the controversy to be settled by the American and Japanese Governments. The guno company will make a claim on the Japanese Government for possession of the island, alleging that Captain Rosehill's occupancy was prior to that of the Japanese, and will also ask for indemnity for the loss of the trip of the schooner Whalen to Marcus.

Boxers Making Trouble

ANOTHER GREAT UPRISING IN CHINA IS PROBABLE.

Trouble Arises From Exorbitant Taxation and Resentment Against the Presence of Missionaries.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 18.—China is on the verge of another Boxer uprising which may equal that of 1900, according to mail advices received at the State Department from Minister Conger, dated last month. The trouble appears to arise principally from exorbitant taxation, combined with resentment against the presence of missionaries, thus justifying the judgment of the Department of State, which pointed out to the powers that the demand for excessive indemnities would result in serious internal troubles in China.

Mr. Conger's first advice bears date of August 4, from Peking, and he reports serious anti-foreign riots near Chen Tufu in the province of Sze Chuan, in which a number of native Christians were massacred and chapels destroyed. Mr. Conger reports that he has been notified by telegraphic messages that there were an American medical missionary at Chen Tufu, not only addressing the Chinese Foreign Office by letter, but calling there in person to demand adequate protection for missionaries and the native Christians from the local officials. He also addressed a note to Prince Ching at the Foreign Office, stating that there were several American missionaries and many chapels and converts in Sze Chuan, and that it was necessary that immediate provision be taken to stamp out these troubles at their very inception.

In his answer, Prince Ching inclosed a copy of the following imperial edict: "Some time ago a number of local outbreaks were taken together in the district of the Yang and made trouble; whereupon I dispatched troops to disperse them. The leading criminal, Li Cheng Church, and others were arrested and executed, but now the magistrates of the place, Me Cheng Chi, reports that a thousand strong, suddenly made a night attack and destroyed a church, which the British or American society had built. The preacher, Chu Cheng Wei, and four church members were killed. They also burned some houses and killed three Christians. I sent troops in all haste and deputed besides an official with rank of Tao Tai to proceed with braves to attend to this matter.

"Such fierce and lawless outbreaks should certainly be quickly put down. They must on no occasion be allowed to spread. We command Kwei Chun strictly to order the troops to disperse the rebels and their followers, to capture the ringleaders, and to punish them according to the rigor of the law, and so nip the rebellion in the bud. We feel a great anxiety for the mission, and for the Christians who, for no fault of their own, have lost their lives, and so command that adequate relief may be at once given.

As for Ma Cheng Chi, the magistrate of the Yang, who it is said, has not long been in the office, because he was long in taking precautionary measures, we demand that he be removed from office, and that he be given a limited time within which to capture the criminals. As there may be outbreaks in other places who rouse the suspicions of people, spread rumors and make trouble, the local authorities should be strictly instructed to make careful search and put a stop to all such things; to take special precautions so as to get rid of bad characters, and to encourage the law-abiding people. They must give real protection to the chapels and missionaries, without the least relaxation.

"Besides sending a telegram to the Viceroy of Sze Chuen that he should at once carry out the imperial will as in duty bound, we have reverently copied the edict, and sent it for your excellency's information.

"Dated 21st day of the fifth month (June 25, 1902)."

Another despatch from the Foreign Office to Minister Conger, dated July 2, states that the Viceroy reported that the missionary killed was Chinese, and quite a number of leading Boxers had been captured, and a sharp lookout was being kept for those still at large.

Mr. Conger again had occasion to address the Foreign Office on July 20, informing them that Dr. Conwright had again reported that robberies and massacres were occurring daily; that all were in great danger, and that he had demanded protection in vain. The Minister urged the Foreign Office to take more effective measures "in order to avoid the fearful responsibility of a further loss of life and property."

The Foreign Office replied that several edicts had been issued directing the Viceroy to suppress the troubles. It had received a telegram from that official stating that the rebel Hsing Ching He, of Jen Chou Hsiao, made his appearance suddenly at the head of a crowd and burned a chapel and some 20 odd houses early in the night, and also killed a Christian. He also committed other outrages, whereupon the Viceroy dispatched troops to the scene, who killed some 20 people. The leader of the riot was captured and orders were given to have him beheaded and the province reported that there was no need for the missionaries to seek temporary refuge.

Chinese Version of the Attack.
PEKIN, Sept. 18.—The Boxer attack on Cheng Tufu, capital of Sze Chuen Province, was reported by the Chinese Foreign Office as an attempt to suppress the anti-foreign riots near Chen Tufu, in the province of Sze Chuan, in which a number of native Christians were massacred and chapels destroyed. Mr. Conger reports that he has been notified by telegraphic messages that there were an American medical missionary at Chen Tufu, not only addressing the Chinese Foreign Office by letter, but calling there in person to demand adequate protection for missionaries and the native Christians from the local officials. He also addressed a note to Prince Ching at the Foreign Office, stating that there were several American missionaries and many chapels and converts in Sze Chuan, and that it was necessary that immediate provision be taken to stamp out these troubles at their very inception.

In his answer, Prince Ching inclosed a copy of the following imperial edict: "Some time ago a number of local outbreaks were taken together in the district of the Yang and made trouble; whereupon I dispatched troops to disperse them. likely to have no effect, however well meant. "The Roumanian Jews have been treated as benevolent and despicable aliens at every step in their lives, although many did service for Roumania on the field of battle. They live on sufferance; they must contribute to the cost of government like the Gentiles, yet they have not the rights even of gypsies. They are prevented from giving their children a proper education; they must screen themselves behind a Roumanian citizen if they wish to exercise any of the rights of citizenship. There is no security for them. It is this want of security and fair play on the part of the great mass of the Roumanian people which drives the Jews out of Roumania. In a constant stream they pass through Vienna en route to the west; that is, England, the United States, Canada, etc."

In an editorial article the Standard says Secretary of State Hay's note is likely to cause the powers some embarrassment. Referring to the dispatch of its Vienna correspondent, that journal says this message quite confirms Secretary Hay, and that "President Roosevelt has the double right to speak in the name of humanity."

"We need not inquire too closely," continues the Standard, "whether the United States has really suffered to an appreciable extent by the immigration of the Jews from the Danube. If the entire Jewish population of 20,000 persons crossed the Atlantic they would speedily be lost in the vast population of the United States. However, the course taken by King Charles' government has the approval of nobody except rabid anti-Semites. Obvious as this is, we doubt, however, whether Secretary Hay's note can produce any effect. European powers have already spoken and have been disregarded. The use of force alone could compel Roumania to grant equality to the Jews, and we see no prospect that force could be applied. The remedy would be worse than the evil. No single power would be allowed to undertake the task, and common action seems beyond the bounds of possibility."
