Larger Steamer Than Lime Branch Listed for Portland.

NINE THOUSAND TONS CAPACITY

Comes From San Francisco to Lond Wheat-Pass of Brander Makes Fast Trip From Royal Roads.

The mammoth freighter Lime Branch which leaves down the river this morning, will hold for a short time only the prestige of being the largest vessel that ever entered the Columbia River, for a still larger ship of the same line will arrive in Portland before the Lime Branch is ready for sea at Asteria. Advices from San Francisco report the steamship Poplar Branch as chartered to load wheat at Portland, and the big freighter will sail from the Bay City tomorrow or next day. While the Poplar Branch is a larger steamer than the Lime Branch, the difference in her favor is only sufficient to make good her claim to that fitle without much leeway, for the gross regis-tered tonnage of the Poplar Branch is 535 while that of the Lime Branch is 5379 tons. That this difference of eight tons in the gross register is not outwardly ap-parent to the casual observer it can be understood when it is stated that the only difference in their dimensions is a mat-ter of two-tenths of a foot in the length of the steamers, the Poplar Branch being 236.2 feet long while the Lime Branch is but 236 feet. Their other dimensions are ac follows: Beam 56.2 feet, depth of hold 25.8 feet.

Their engines are necessarily in machines, for they push these big ves-seis through the water at a 10-knot gait without much difficulty. They are of the triple expansion type with cylinders 25-44 and 72 inches in diameter by 48 inch stroke. The Lime Branch which leaves down the river this morning will have on board when she sails from Astoria 7615 short tons of wheat, and 1400 tons of coal, a total of over 3000 tons dead weight, and the Poplar Branch will carry practi-cally the same amount. The Poplar cally the same amount. The Poplar Branch is not yet a year old. She steamed Branch is not yet a year old. She steamed away from the yards in Sunderland on her maiden trip last April, crossing the Atlantic to New York where she loaded for Hong Kong and Munita. She reached Hong Kong July 14 and sailed on July 22 for Manila. From the latter port she for Manila. went to Kutchinutzu for coal, sailing on September 9 for San Francisco, where she was under charter to load for the United Kingdom. She made such a slow passage across the Pacific that she was 48 hours too late in arriving to eave her charter and has been lying idle until yesterday when she was reported chartered for Portland loading.

The Poplar Brench is in command of Captain Anderson, who was in Portland with the Almond Branch when that steamer was swept down against the Morrison street bridge shout two years ago while trying to get through the bridges during a freshet in the river.

E. P. Lars, a Dawson man, has invented a new paddle wheel for river steamers. The great feature of the invention is that the paddles do away with all resistance or reduce it to such a minimum that it is hardly perceptible. The paddles swing free after passing a certain point past the center. It is well known that in an undershot wheel after the paddle has reached its full depth it has to lift a certain portion of water to raise itself clear of the water.

CONVENTION LONGSHOREMEN'S PREPARES PLANS.

Const Convention Committee for That End-Organizer in the Field.

Delegates from all important points on the Coast, from San Diego to Nome, Alaska, were in attendance at the opening session of the first convention of the In ternational Longshoremen, Marine and Transport Workers' Association of the Northwest, which was held at the Union hall yesterday. Daniel J. Keefe, the international president, presided. The main work of yesterday's session was to perfect plans for the establishment of a central organization to have charge of the work in the Northwest, and the committee that had this in charge proposed in its report that a per capita tax be levied on all of the unions for the purpose of keeping an organizer and a paid secretary, who would of the bar at a r. "We are thoroughly convinced," they say, "that the cause of the coal miners to a just one and we are willing to do all in our power to help them win. It is a principle upon which our organ-ization is founded to assist other unions

The aid of the business men of the city and others that feel sympathy for the strikers will also be asked, and any that have donations for this cause are requested to send them to A. R. Lawton, at Glass & Prudhomme's on Second and Washington, or to notify him, and a man will be sent to collect them. For some time the Federated Trades Council has been trying to stir up an interest in this work of relief, and has made repeated appeals both to the citizens and the unions. The fact that the trouble is so far away has seemed to act as a damper and the union people have not realized the immediate necessity for action. All have expressed a will-ingness to do their share of anything that was undertaken, but at this it has seemed to stop. No general meeting has been

CHINESE FEUD SETTLED AN

LEM GAW'S BODY FOUND WITH HIS HEAD CRUSHED.

Criticism on Food at Banquet Believed to Have Revived Leon Quam's Old Enmity.

An old feud, which broke out afresh over remarks passed concerning the quality of food at a Chinese supper, led to the brutal murder yesterday of Lew Gaw, about 55 years old, residing at 193 Second street. Somebody attacked him in his room and beat him on the head with an iron bar, until his skull was crushed. The police suspect that his assailant is Leon Quam, who assisted in the decoration of the Chinese loss-house on Second street near Oak, and who has disappeared. Considerable mystery surrounds the case as most of the Chinese who could shed light on the situation are cousins and they decline to say anything for fear of breaking family ties.

It is at least known that late Sunday evening. Lem Gaw and Leon Quam were scated at supper in a Chinese house on Second street, the place being handsome-

STUDENTS ON A LARK.

Police Are Called Out but Arrive Too Late in Two Instances.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 6.-Two riot calls were sent to police headquartors today to suppress incipient riots started by 200 medical students, who smashed the windows in the Medico-Chirurgical College and the Kansas City Medical College. The students, bent on committing their usual pranks incident to the Fa.i festivities, started from the East Side this forenoon, creating a din as they marched through the streets. At the Medico-Chirurgical College, on the East Side, dozens of windows were smashed and students were When the police arrived in response to the janitor's riot call the students had departed for the Kansas City Medical College on the West Side. There similar scenes were enacted, and the work of the students was completed before the police caught up with them. Half a dozen students were hurt, but none seriously.

The students made their escape before arrests could be made.

UNIVERSITY NEEDS MONEY.

President of Columbia Places the Figure at $10,000,000.

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.-In his annual port issued today. President Nicholas Murray Butler, of Columbia University, says the institution is without adequate grounds and buildings, and without sufficlent income to care properly for the work that has already been undertaken. The president reports the value of the property of the university to be $21,312,554.
"Men in middle life," says the report, "who have devoted years to the success ful pursuit of investigation and to teach-ing in their chosen fields are giving okilled service to the university for smaller compensation than is often paid to an experienced clerk." To pay debts, to buy needed lands, to build needed buildings and for general pur-poses, President Butler says Columbia University needs $10,000,000. The present general debt of the university is nearly $3,000,000 and the annual interest payment to be met is about $100,000. On the topic of length of college course President Butler says there is no valid reason why the college course should be of uniform length for all classes of students Columbia University opens her 140th year with about 5000 students and a teaching

It was nearly 5 o'clock before they made their reports, and then the convention adjourned,

Plan of Organization. The most important report was that of the organization committee. The one absorbing aim of the delegates now is to perfect a Coast organization that will bring all of the Coast unions in close

"We want to have the same scale of wages everywhere," they say, "and we want the conditions under which we labor to be the same. Then we want our unions so united that, when one firm refuses to recognize the union scale, we will be in a position to demand recognition."

The plan recommended appears to meet with general approval, and there seems to be every assurance that a local or-ganizer will be put in the field. J. A. Madsen is the organizer for this district appointed at the National convention, but the funds allowed by that organization are not sufficient to allow him to give up all of his time to the work, and the dele-gates think that the field demands one man's constant attention.

The delegates present are as follows:

called and aside from a few small donations made by some of the organizations no funds have been raised. The action of the printers, however, has shown them that the attempt is an earnest one and has brought the work before them. No time has yet been set for the general meeting, but A. R. Lawton, secretary of the Federated Trades Council, who has had charge of the work thus far, stated yesterday that the meeting would be called in the near future and that he had every assurance that there would be a generous response to the call. "The amount cannot be sent at once," said he, "for the other unions will probably do the same as the printers have done, and levy an assessment which will be collected by the end of the month. In the meantime we will make a systematic canvass among the citizens, and see if they will not add something to the amount we are able to raise. Several of the business men have assured me that their sym-pathy is with the coal miners and have said that they will help if there is a fund started. We have made several public calls, but this does not seem to impress them with the real necessity of immediate action and the contribution is put off from time to time and never comes.
