THE BAKER THEATER (cor. 3d and Yamhill sts.)—Last two performances, matinee today at 2:15, this evening at 8:15, the great New York success, "The District Attorney," presented by the incomparable Nefil Stock Company.

CORDRAY'S THEATER—Matinee at 2:15, evening at 8:15, last two performances of Lincoln J. Carter's Southern comedy-drama, "Down Mobile."

LIVING EXHIBIT CATCHES ON FIRE.—The half-grown lad who was employed a day or two ago to demonstrate the working of a cabinet bath in the window of a Washington-street drug store did not see much chance in the job to distinguish himself. He is quite satisfied, however, with the showing he made, and the manager of the store is about himself again. All the boy had to do was to sit in the heated cabinet, with his head protruding, and perspire and look pleasant. He got along very well for a while, being let out occasionally to cool off by promenading through the store in a bath robe put on over his clothes. The "work" became monotonous after a while, and the lad restless, and in wriggling about he upset the lamp which heated the cabinet, and set fire to his robe. It burned slowly for a time, being inclosed, but finally the tail of his jacket and rear of his pantaloons caught, and it was time to take action. With a yell and a bound he flung the cabinet aside, landed on the floor some distance from the window, and in his burning robes rushed frantically through the crowd of customers to a lavatory in the rear. The customers were of course alarmed, while the manager had a premonitory shock of nervous prostration. A porter in the lavatory quickly extinguished the fire by kicking it out, and the lad was paid off and sent home, but the thought of the sensation he created in his wild race through the store repays him for this. The manager of the store says a man never knows what trouble is until he undertakes advertising with moving figures or living persons, in a display window.

HE SEEMS TO MEAN BUSINESS.—The Wyoming man who has his eye on Portland as a location for a meat-packing plant apparently means business. He writes to the Board of Trade as follows: "I have the matter of establishing the plant in Portland well in hand, and beg to state that the parties who are associated with me thoroughly understand the business. I shall shortly be in a position to push the matter to a conclusion. I feel safe in saying that the citizens of Portland will be thoroughly satisfied with the ability of the gentlemen who are associated with me to develop this business." The man appears to be so much in earnest that he has sent the following prepaid telegram to the board: "Please give the names of all firms in the slaughtering business in Portland and in the immediate vicinity. Show the location of each on the map of Portland. Give the number of hogs, sheep and cattle slaughtered by each in the past year, also the number of each marketed by each in Portland."

MAZAMAS TO ENJOY OUTING TODAY.—Those who are not Mazamas but by their association with the club are entitled to participate in the social outing this afternoon at Macleay Park need not remain away for fear that the meeting is for the transaction of formal business. Colonel Hawkins says the features of the outing will be the lunch around the campfires, the tramp homeward, and general sociability. The instructions are that every one must come armed with a basket of lunch, a tin cup for the coffee supplied by the Mazamas, and a Chinese lantern for the tramp across the hills to the City Park. Short skirts and heavy shoes will also be in order. Several members of the bar, together with other prominent men, have been invited, and a rare good time is promised by those in charge. Those who cannot be on hand at 3 P. M. are requested to join the throng whenever possible.

FOURTH NOW A FINE STREET.—Since the new pavement has been completed on Fourth street, that thoroughfare is the scene of much business and building activity. At one time, teamsters shunned the street, fearing that their wagons might fall through the holes in the wood blocks and get lost, but now scores of vehicles pass by every minute, and property along the street is picking up, to use the real estate term. The two fine large buildings of Henry Weinhard, the proposed structure by Wells, Fargo & Co. and numerous smaller buildings that will be erected in the near future will make Fourth street as busy as any street in Portland. The Southern Pacific is doing its share in the general march of improvement by laying better rails and new roadbed.

WHO WANTS A "MIDWAY" SIGN?—The Elks' Street Fair and Carnival and Jabour's Oriental Circus, 1902, is a thing of the past, but there still hangs across Seventh street, in a glory of white paint, a large electric sign, "Midway." This sign was originally at the entrance of the Midway, and when the Carnival was disbanded and the affair carted away, the sign was evidently too high for the devastators to get hold of, and consequently they let it hang. It is about 25 feet long, and several feet high, and it may fall any day and kill the workingmen on the improvement for the street. The sign is a topic for much conversation, and it has been suggested that it be packed up and shipped to the St. Louis Fair.

DELINQUENT LICENSES PAID.—Delinquent license-payers took advantage of the last day of grace yesterday and filled the offices of the City Treasurer and the City Auditor from the time they were opened in the morning until they closed in the afternoon. While the delinquents represented every class subject to the ordinance, the majority were men engaged in the liquor business. The saloonmen as a rule are the first to pass their money to the Treasurer upon the opening of each quarter, but this quarter has proved an exception, for one-third of them failed to appear until yesterday, and then they had to stand in line from 10 minutes to an hour before they could reach the counter. Nearly all of them had the same excuse to make—preparing for the Winter's business. While there are a number of delinquents in the other classes, the amounts due are not so large as during the same period of the preceding quarter, but the same energetic means to enforce collections will be taken. Today License Officer MacEachern will prepare a list of delinquents, and will have warrants issued for their arrest. Those who pay before the Treasurer closes his books today will escape prosecution, but the others, who will be taken before Judge Hogue, will have to pay both the license and a fine.

DAY OF ATONEMENT SERVICES.—The Atonement day services at the Temple Beth Israel were opened last evening at 7 o'clock. The temple was filled to its utmost capacity, and the ushers say that 400 people were turned away from the doors. Dr. Stephen S. Wise delivered an interesting and thoughtful sermon upon "True and False Atonement," and the choir, under the direction of Mrs. Rose Bloch Bauer, rendered special music, which has been in preparation for this occasion for the past two months. J. Adrian Epping sang the canto parts, and will continue to do so during the services of today. The music was entirely new, being specially composed by Slesinger for Atonement services, and had never been sung before by this choir. The English anthems were: "Thy Hallowed Presence," by Carter, and the "Hark, Hark, My Soul," of Harry Rowe Shelley. Many of the most beautiful portions were in Hebrew, and the audience was perfectly silent while the choir gave the sonorous intonations of that tongue. The services will be continued today from 10 o'clock until 6, when the sacred day will be ended. Dr. Wise will deliver two addresses, and the choir, accompanied by the organist, Miss Leonora Fisher, will present other special musical numbers.

BAILEY NOT OUT FOR $7000.—"Just tell them that I'm not out for any more money for my office," said Dairy and Food Commissioner J. W. Bailey, yesterday. "The report has been going around that I intended to ask the Legislature for $7000 annually. I wish to denounce the report as false. I am quite satisfied with the $2900 the state sets aside for my work. I think that my deputy and I are doing faithful service for the taxpayers, and that we can continue to do so for the next two years on the same appropriation. All I shall ask for are several minor changes in the pure food law. More stringent regulations are needed as to vinegar, condensed milk and spices, in order to give the public better protection. I shall ask the Legislature for a law requiring squares or rolls of butter to weigh 32 or 16 ounces. As to whether I shall ask to have the standard for milk raised from 3 to 3½ per cent, I have not yet decided."

CHARGED WITH PASSING BAD CHECKS.—F. D. Hatch was arrested yesterday charged with obtaining money under false pretenses, and they police say they have a clear case against him. He did not forge any one's name to the checks, so is not guilty of forgery. He becomes acquainted with men, and then gets them to cash a check in his own name, although he knows at the time that he has no money in the bank. Most of the checks are on Ladd & Tilton, and the cashier last night stated that the man had never had an account there. The account with him is a trivial matter, however, and he succeeds in cashing his checks among some of the good people of the city. Woodard, Clarke & Co. have one for $10 and are still waiting for his account to grow so that they can cash it. William Hass, who made the complaint, had a check for $5, and Detective Cordano knows of another of $15 on the same man.

TEACHERS MAY GET CHECKS TODAY.—The teachers in the public schools completed the first month of the Fall term yesterday, and checks for their salaries were prepared for them by School Clerk Allen. Only a few called during the afternoon, but the clerk is preparing for the usual Saturday rush, and he expects to have a crowded office today. Owing to the increase in the number of teachers, salary day is attended by more or less work, and the sooner the checks are disposed of the less is the difficulty in straightening up the books. As the Board of Education will hold its regular meeting Monday, the teachers are requested to call for their salaries today.

THIEVES STEAL DIAMONDS.—Thieves broke into the home of H. Husted, who lives at 394 Tenth street, Thursday, and stole two diamond earrings that he values at about $100. No trace has yet been found of the robbers. It is supposed that they watched the house, and waited until every one was out, and then went in and seized the plunder. Mr. Husted left the house for awhile about 8 o'clock, and when he returned found his diamonds were gone. He thinks that they were stolen about that time. Nothing else was taken.

AH GOW CHARGED WITH MURDER.—The detectives still believed that Ah Gow, held on suspicion, was implicated in the murder of Lem Gow at a Chinese lodging-house last Monday night, and a charge of murder has been filed against him. His attorneys had applied for a writ of habeas corpus, and in order to hold him it was necessary to make the charge. A witness swore that he had seen him coming out of the house where the murder was committed on the night of the crime, and he was held on this evidence.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT.—Al Thompson was arrested yesterday, charged with embezzlement. It is said that he bought a bicycle on the installment plan and then sold it.

Personal force, executive ability and bouyant originality have made John Philip Sousa the head of the finest band in America. In an organization that boasts the best soloists, that prides itself on its roll of well-known names, Mr. Sousa is the master spirit. His concerts yesterday wakened the old enthusiasm, added to the number of his admirers and made his coming the foremost event of the season in music.

A military band has its limitations and these were recognized in the programmes yesterday. In his own department of lively, popular marches and the music of motion generally, Mr. Sousa is unrivalled. His new work, notably, "Imperial Edward," is on an equality with his earlier pieces, and the audience enjoyed them more than some of the more ambitious numbers on the list. With a courtesy not unusual in band leaders he responded to encore after encore, willingly, promptly and with spirit. That is the undying charm of his concerts, swift transitions, melody everywhere, life and buoyancy.

In his soloists Mr. Sousa is usually happy. Mr. Kennecke was very fine in his rendition of his number on the cornet and when he responded with the "Lost Chord," he won the house's gratitude. As a trombone soloist Mr. Pryor stands in the first rank, and his encore piece was also well received.

The two women, Miss Liebling and Miss Jenkins, had a heavier burden to bear, and gave far more room for appreciative criticism. Miss Liebling was very disappointing, indeed. She has a voice of excellent training, a register that she commands pretty well, but absolutely no feeling, no color is evident in her singing. For vocal pyrotechnics she is marvellous. But after a while such mere vocalization becomes tiresome, then cloying and finally exasperating. Miss Liebling, if she professes to be an artist, should realize that God does not give a woman a fine voice that she may win applause by using it as a tin whistle. Miss Liebling has undoubted talent, undoubted training of the most effective sort, but she degrades her art.

Miss Jenkins is a far better musician Her playing is very good, and she made Musin's "Caprice de Concert" a lovely and attractive number.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"The Penitent" at the Marquam.

Tonight only, at the Marquam Grand Theater, "The Penitent" will be presented. The drama is taken from Hall Caine's novel of the same name, and the story is said to have lost none of the heart interest or the sway of passion. Its production will be upon a scale of magnificence rarely equalled, and the scenic effects will aid much in the depiction of the intense emotions and the locale of the play. In "The Penitent" Hall Caine is said to have portrayed the whole gamut of emotions so effectively that even his most devoted admirers will be surprised at the denouement. The cast will be expensive, while the scenery bids fair to exceed most productions of Mr. Caine's works.

This Afternoon at the Baker.

Saturday matinees are becoming very popular at the Baker Theater. It is a common occurrence to see this popular playhouse crowded to the doors at every matinee.

When Manager Baker was asked how he accounted for the large attendance at the matinees, he said: "We endeavor to see that the ladies and children are well cared for, giving them plays that would not offend the most delicate sensibilities, and particularly catering to the homes, as a stock company is essentially a home organization."

This afternoon "The District Attorney" will be presented. This play has been running all week and meeting with great success. Tonight will be the last performance, and "The District Attorney" will then rest his case with the jury.

Hall Caine's "The Christian."

Everything is in readiness for the big production of "The Christian" at the Baker Theater tomorrow afternoon. Yesterday the scenic rehearsal occupied all day, it being necessary to have all the little details carefully looked after. The production will be one that will be long remembered. Mr. King, the artist, has all the drawings and models of the original production, which were secured with the right to produce the play, and has painted some beautiful scenery. All the incidental music, the same as used in the original production, is in the hands of Frank Griffin, the leader of the Baker orchestra, and with the assistance of the competent musicians under his leadership nothing will be lacking. The company has been admirably cast. Charles Wyngate will make an ideal John Storm. It would be hard to imagine a more perfectly fitted character, more forceful to interpret it. He is ably assisted by Miss Countiss as Glory Quayle, the young, girlish daughter of Parson Quayle (W. S. Dills), who is so completely won by the man who plays the love-mad priest, William Bernard, as Horatio Drake, has played the part with Edward Morgan, as also did Mina Gleason, as Mrs. Callender, and Lillian Rhoads, as Lettie, making three of the characters that are thoroughly at ease in the play. Elsie Esmond will make an ideal Polly Love, and Howard Russel, as Brother Paul, will have a part in which he is at home. So those who attend the Baker Theater the coming week will see a production of Hall Caine's powerful play that will be long remembered.

Matinee at Cordray's Today.

"Down Mobile," Lincoln J. Carter's latest Southern melodrama, which has been playing to well-pleased audiences at Cordray's during the week, will be given its final presentations this afternoon and evening. The stage settings and the fire scene have attracted special attention.

"Liberty Belles."

This morning at 10 o'clock will begin the sale of seats for "The Liberty Belles," which will be the attraction at the Marquam Grand Theater next Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

"Nevada" Next Week.

With tomorrow's matinee, Miss Elsa Ryan will begin a week's production of the Western melodrama, "Nevada," at Cordray's Theater. Miss Ryan, whose brief stage career has won her many laurels, is supported in this play by a very able company. The story is said to be one of unflagging interest, enlivened by comedy of the neatest description.

Football Coach for McMinnville.

M'MINNVILLE, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Horace McBride, the college football coach, will reach McMinnville this evening. The college students congratulate themselves upon securing so efficient a coach. Manager Smith has nearly completed the schedule for the season. The college expects to put out the best team of its history, as the line is much heavier than last year, though the men behind the line will be somewhat lighter. The team expects to play about eight games during the season.

Small Fire at Albion.

ALBION, Wash., Oct. 10.—(Special.)—fire here Wednesday night destroyed the harness store of Ed Stover and the residences occupied by Abe Miller, Professor N. E. Watkins, of Edward's College, and O. A. Marti, a student. The contents of the dwellings were saved and the loss of the building is covered by insurance.
