Miss Mueller Says "He Was Mine, and Mine Alone."

WIRES AUTHORITIES AS MUCH

She Leaves Boise for St. Paul and Promises to Punish a Number of Men for the Death of Her Lover.

BOISE, Idaho, Oct. 20 .- (Special.) - Miss Alexia J. Muller, the sweetheart and betrothed wife of Jim Younger, the noted outlaw, who committed suicide in St Paul Saturday night, has been in Boise about three months, and has been living at the home of Mrs. Freuch, Sixth and State streets. The news of the sulcide was secured by her from newspaper dispatches, but later a dispatch was received from her sister, announcing the tragedy. She was deeply affected.

Miss Muller intended to start for St. Paul this morning, but met with a disappointment. Her sister stated money would be sent her, but it did not arrive, and Miss Muller was obliged to remain until tonight. During the day Miss Muller sent a dispatch to the authorities at St. Paul. saying: "Jim's body is mine; it must be

"He Is Mine and Mine Alone."

Discussing the tragedy today, she said: "Jim wrote me under the date of October 16, stating he had given up all hope and was out of work. Saturday he felegraphed me: 'Don't write.' He was driven to this act by his persecutors. I am his wife, you know, spiritually. No scandal has ever attached to my name. But before God he is mine and mine alone. My life will be to place him right before the world. I have wired the authorities to cremate his body. It was to Boise was to regain her health, which was much broken. She had completed her outing and was preparing to start home in a short time. Miss Muller is about 30 years of age. She and Jim Younger expected to marry this fall or next Spring. She became acquainted with the man during the prosecution of prison mission work. He attracted her; she became convinced he was innocent and she actively interested herself in securing his liberty. It is apparent that Miss Muller rather feared that Younger would commit suicide. She was not surprised? when the news came. Now that he is dead she will attempt to set some matters right which she alleges are wrong. It is her claim that he was innocent and suffered for others. From what she says of Cole Younger, the brother, it is evident she believes that Jim suffered to shield him from punishment for crimes not known to the public. She is also incensed against the Warden of the Minnesota Penitentiary, and it is apparent she intends to make some disclosures of alleged wrongdoing on his part during the time Jim was confined there. The time has come, she says, for the guilty to suffer. There is a tale to be unfolded and she proposes to unfold it.

Expected to Marry Soon. The purpose of Miss Muller in coming

Miss Muller is from an influential family. Her father is living in St. Paul. She wrote a history of the Police and Fire Departments of St. Paul and did work on the Salt Lake Herald during the Presidential campaign of 1900. She is now writing a novel. She left this afternoon for St. Paul. She is a woman of independent means.

Authorities Will Hold It Until Ar rival of Younger's Sister! ST. PAUL, Oct. 20 .- The disposition to be made of Jim Younger's body has not yet been determined. The body has been embalmed and will be kept here until Mrs. Ella Rollins, of Dallas, Tex., sister of the Younger brothers, can be heard from. When alive Younger frequently expressed the wish that his body be cremated when he died. This pian will be carried out. TAFT ANSWERS TEACHERS Complaints About Philippine Positions Not Well Founded.

WARHINGTON, Oct. 20 .- Some time ago complaints were made by school teachers in the Philippines about the hardships ch they endured. It was asserted that good places were given to a few teach-ers and bad places to others. Complaint also was made that the condition of the currency caused a loss to the teachers, and that the commissary supplies of the nsular administration were not good, All these complaints were referred to Govern-or Taft. His reply has now been received at the War Department. Governor Taft says that in the very na-ture of things the teachers had to enter upon duties which were largely of a mis-sionary character and hardships were certain to be the portion of some. It was impossible to make all assignments equal, but as the facts became known, efforts would be made to equalize the duties of teachers, so that all would share in the pleasant duties as well as in the arduous

FOREST CITY, Ark., Oct. 20.-Charles Young, a negro charged with assaulting and afterward murdering Mrs. Ed Lewis, a white woman, was burned tonight by a mob of infuriated citizens of this county. The Sheriff used every effort against this extreme measure. He had telephoned to Judge Hutton, who had promised to come tomorrow and give immediate trial for the negro, and the leaders of the mob had given the Sheriff positive pledges that they would await the trial and take no violent measure. THE CONVICT AND THE GIRL WHOM LEGAL FICTION KEPT APART.

The suicide of James Younger, the paroled convict, is the climax of a tragic omance. Though actually alive and able to love as intensely as any man, he was legally dead, and therefore incapable of entering into a marriage contract. Despairing of overcoming the legal obstacles to his union with Miss Alixia Mueller, the girl whose love he won when he lay wounded in prison, he ended all with James Younger and his two brothers were sentenced to life imprisonment, No vember 21, 1876, for the murder of J. L. Herwood, cashier of a Northfield, Minn., bank. On July 14, 1901, the Younger brothers were released from prison

James Younger was badly shot about the mouth and shoulders during the flerce battle in which he was captured near Madelia, two weeks after the Northfield raid, and while he was in prison was frequently ill. Miss Mueller, a pretty girl then residing in Stillwater, in the family of a deputy warden, had constant access to the penitentiary, and became interested in Younger because of his feebleness, and often took delicacies to him. They soon became firm friends, and Younger told the young woman the troubles of his chreer as guerril matrimony as well nigh hopeless, as Younger was scheduled to remain at Stillwater Penitentiary the remainder of his life.

Then the parole came, and the couple were not long in reaching the conclusion to get married. Miss Moeller's St. Paul relatives are people of prominence, one of them having been recently a member of the Legislature, and considerable objec-tion was raised to the proposed nuptials because of the stigma which it was feared would attach to the bride. Reluctant consent, however, was obtained from the blood kin, and Younger, happy over his conquest, repaired to the County Clerk

Mr. Rogers, the Clerk, generous, though just, hesitated, and, doubting his power in the premises, placed the case before Attorney-General Douglas. He said the league needed assistance in Ireland because the people there were disarmed, because they were not allowed free speech, a free discussion in the press, the liberty of public meeting, and, lastly, a trial by jury. This, he said, is tyranny. He recounted some of the experiences of John O'Donnell and William Redmond ir trying to address meetings. The platform and resolutions were then presented. They pledged the convention to undying allegiance in the cause of Ireland's independence, assert the right of the Irish race to carry on the war against England by means of honorable weapons; essert the belief that the leaders in Ireland are best fitted to direct and carry on the contest; demand the arraignment of England at the bar of public opinion through dissemination of facts regarding her rule; declare that the United Irish League is the only menace to England's rule in Ireland, and, finally, urge upon the members of this country to contribute liberally to the cause. The convention adjourned until temorrow.

ADDRESS OF PRESIDENT FINERTY.

He Upbraids Britain for Alleged Wrongs Visited Upon Ireland. BOSTON, Oct. 20.—President Finerty, in opening the convention said the delegates of American citizens and allies of their Irish kindred to lift up their voices in behalf of Ireland's tillers of the soil to own the land they cultivate. New 60,000 Irish husbandmen are farmer proprietors, and they are so because of the labors and sacrifices of Parnell and Davitt. O'Brien and Dillon, Biggar and Redmond, who followed in the track of the ploneers for Irish liberty.

Before they came the Irish lands were the property of all the people and were held in trust by monarch, prince and chief. But the invaders did not respect the laws which governed ancient Ireland and which were, in the main, models of wisdom and justice. On the contrary, they overrode them tice. On the contrary, they overrode them from the first, and after vanquishing fathers and brothers in the field or by traitor methods they married the daugh-ters by force and laid claim to the lands which were the common property of all the Irish people and not of a favored and "Ireland did not tamely submit to this new and violent condition of affairs, but as history tells has fought long and persistently for liberty. The Anglo-Norman feudal system was paramount in Ireland until Parnell, supported by the Land League of which the United Irish League is the lineal successor, made a breach in its brazen shield. Catholics and Pagit estants alike were persecuted and the outrages forced them to emigrate to the American colonies, where they took their part in the war for independence. Since January 1, 1901, Ireland has been, to all intents and purposes, an English payvince. The union act wiped out, as far as parchment and seal could do it, her distinctive nationality, but the hearts and hands of the bulk of the Irish people have been and are inflamed and raised against the provincial condition. They have not accepted the brand of social and political

"English rule stands self-condemned by the official reports of its own servants, which show that Ireland has today a smaller population than she had in 1801. and that within the last 60 years 1,250,000 of her people starved to death; more than 2,000,000 were evicted from their holdings and 4,000,000 at least sought refuge from British tyranny in this and other free countries. A government, whether native or foreign, that could and can find no remedy for this wholesale destruction of an ancient and highly endowed people has no right to exist. It has sinned against the beneficence of God and the inherent rights of mankind.

"Under more favorable conditions the Irish people would be entirely justified in resorting to arms to end this huge iniquity. Right and justice are on their side and present opportunity alone is want-With a powerful ally to furnish her with the nucleus of an army and with the munitions of war, Ireland, by putting every able-bodied man in the field, could win her independence, but without such an ally nothing short of a miracle could render her victorious. The young people, the pride and flower of their country, will remain at home and, beneath the genial skies of their native land, make her fertile soil blossom as a rose. And with prosperity will come liberty, its handmaiden.

"England herself must be growing tired of the cruel Irish landlords whom she upholds by her Sheriffs and her soldier effort in behalf of their clients, the landlords. They have dug up the gaunt and ghastly remains of old Edward I, the hammer of the Scotch, and with this rusty, rotten old hammer they are at-tempting to put down the United Irish League. They have hammered a dozen Irish members of Parliament and about 300 local leaders into jall.

A year has not elapsed since the United Irish League of America was temporarily organized. In spite of sense-less opposition in some quarters and un-manly apathy in others it has increased and multiplied throughout the American continent and has furnished the true men in England with a respectable amount of the sinews of war to carry on in a manly manner the noble struggle for land and presperity. The Pretestants of the North and the Catholics of the South have joine hands for the salvation of their cour try which presages a long day of glory

Class of Advertisements. PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 20 .- A service emory of friends and members who have died during the year was a touching fea-ture of the fourth day's sesion of the National W. C. T. U. convention. Reports of superintendents were also presented.

During the forenoon 10-minute reports were made by seven superintendents. Mrs. Emilie D. Martin, of New York, re-ported for the department of literature and art. Mrs. Martin said there was no more hopeful sign on the horizon of the organization than that it had gained the influence of public sentiment. The press reflects public sentiment and during the past year the journals of the country have given larger space to purity and temperance.

Mrs. Martin asked for the adoption of a resolution passed by the New York Coun-ty W. C. T. U. as follows:

It Removes the Germs of Disease, Invigorates and Rejuvenates.

Thousands of men and women who have neglected the work of physical recupera-tion in the Summer months, are now car-rying a burden of disease. In the majority of cases impure and poisoned blood and a sluggish circulation are the direct causes of suffering and misery. Are you dear reader, one of the unhappy victims? If so, the life stream must be made pure, the health-wrecking laxity of the blood vessels must be corrected, the nerves and thesues must be nourished. Paine's Celery Compound is the medicine that physicians recommend for the increase of pure blood in the arteries, and for arousing the purifying organs to cast off the impurities that give rise to disease. Mr. James F. Hudson, Spring Ridge, La.,

was a terrible sufferer from impure blood; he tells how he banished his troubles: "From some cause my blood became in pure and resulted in boils and pimples. At one time I suffered from 27 boils. Catarrh

This disease affects all the mucous membranes, which form the skin within the body and line the nose, the throat, the Eustachian tubes, the bronchial tubes, the lungs and are connected continuously with the lining of all the organs of the body. Catarrh usually begins with cold in the head. The discharge creeps up the nose, causing distress in the head and throat, and then inflames the little air tubes leading to the middle ear. A NEW INDUSTRY.

The Effect of the Foresters' Labors on Posterity.

The forester, while not ignoring the de-nands of his own pocketbook, works for the remotest posterity. When he clears a tract of the wilderness of its century-old timber he sows the seed for a new forest, although the new crop will not mature for another century. He seeks even by the scientific direction of nature's work to leave for posterity a better forest than he found. Surely, then, forestry is not an art to be practiced by an individual. The simple lumbering of our forefathers, making the most profit for today and ignoring the morrow, is more attractive. Since the forester cur-tails his profits by making provision for posterity, forestry can only be practiced by the state or by great investment corporations, operating on so large a scale that the distant future must enter into the calculations of this generation. Strictly economic considerations de-mand that the state prevent the despoiling of our American forests by lumbe men and pulpmakers. The yearly lum-ber harvest in this country now amounts to more than 40,000,000,000 feet. Great tracts of virgin forest land have been de-vastated and no provision made for the future. The increasing demand for daily newspapers and many editions of them is having a marked effect on forests close to the centers of densest population. A single New York newspaper 140 tons of paper every day, or 190,000,000 pounds a year. Every day in the year 30 acres of timber must be cut to feed the presses of this single newspaper. an exceptionally large consumption of wood pulp-the largest in the world-but other newspapers approach tals con-sumption, and the yearly cut of pulp-makers is rapidly increasing. In conse-quence, the available supplies of spruce are diminishing in the United States, and the pulpmakers are moving northward into the Canadian forests for their raw By the creation of great forests and reservations by the National and state governments, like the 3,000,000-acre pre-serve in the Adirondacks and the proposed Appalachian preserve, the state in-tends to set certain barriers to stay the progress of the lumbermen and pulpmakers. But professional foresters point out that the best interests of the Nation are not being conserved by the present policy of forbidding the cutting of trees on state lands. Alarmed by the denuding of American forest lands, the idea has gained ground that it is a crime to cut down a tree. "Woodmen, spare that tree!" is the cry. But it is as idle to forbid the harvesting of wood crops when they reach maturity as it would be to forbid a farmer to reap his grain. must have food from the fields and from the forests. As well stop the min ing of iron ore as set barriers against lumbermen. Timber must be had, and millions of trees must be felled every year. What is demanded is not prohibi-tive legislation, but scientific sylviculture, so that new wood crops may be raised to provide for future demands.

nobody but those who put it there knew of its existence. This knowledge was not anatomically and a point of congestion, pression that this debate was never reported outside the columns of the Congressional Record. What Mr. Moody meant was that it was not generally known to the people of the nation that there was any duty on anthracite coal in the bill, and, indeed, the act is so worded as to prevent its being evident to the gen-eral public that it is there. That was certainly the effect in this quarter. It will be remembered that when it was first stated, after the coal scarcity began to be serious, that there was a duty on an-thracite coal, it was at once denied in the Peculiar To Itself
