

WHEAT MARKET

Australia Appears as Big Buyer in Portland.

IN CONSEQUENCE OF DROUGHT

North Pacific Ports Also Secure All of Australia's Former Trade With South Africa—High Price Paid for Export.

The shipment of a cargo of wheat from Portland to Australia is one of the possibilities in the grain trade...

Australian buyers have already purchased some cargo of Pacific Coast wheat from Oregon for Australia...

That the South African and incidentally the Australian trade is largely responsible for these prices is shown by the fact that the greater part of the wheat that has been sold during the past week has been at prices in excess of the export values...

Some of the highest prices for wheat since 1888, when the Letter boom was on, and that the South African and incidentally the Australian trade is largely responsible for these prices is shown by the fact that the greater part of the wheat that has been sold during the past week has been at prices in excess of the export values...

The fact figures that have been paid for wheat within the past week have had the effect of checking the selling movement, the fact that local prices are above a parity with the European market not appealing to the farmers, who expect wheat to go higher...

The South African business has aided in causing heavier shipments than have ever been known so early in the season...

In addition to the wheat secured for shipment from San Francisco to Australia, and the reported engagements from this port, there have been two or three shipments of Canadian wheat...
