MRS. MONTGOMERY TO WOMEN

Their Duty Is To Make Expositions at St. Louis and Portland Sprint Success-Oriental Exhibits for Lewis and Clark Fair.

"Whether it be a log cable or an Indian tepse, the State of Oregon should have ome port of a building at the Louislans Purchase Exposition, to be held at St. Louis in 1901, said Mrs. J. B. Montgomery, in the course of her remarks be-fore the Woman's Club last night at the nitarian Church, on Seventh street. Mrs. Montgomery made a vigorous plea in be-half of a state building at St. Louis, and received much applause from the large audience assembled for the clear way in which she stated the case. Mrs. Montgomery said in part:
"I scarcely know where to begin, but I suppose you would like to know about the board of lady managers of the Louisiona Purchase Exposition, and that will lead on to the subject of aid for the Lewis and Clark and the St. Louis Expositions. It seems to me that Oregon owes it to herself to be well represented at St. Louis, and every dollar that she will spend there will come back double-fold.

The board of lady managers was formed by an act of Congress, and it was said that it grew out of a desire of President McKinley to honor women. The board originally consisted of 21 members, and because there are 44 states, one member could not be allotted to every state. We were allotted by districts, and I have the nor to represent Utah, Idaho, Oregon and Washington. The last meeting the board was held September 20. V were entertained most beautifully at the meeting, taken to the Country Club, and given a delicious luncheon. In the afternoon was the state allotment, but we could not be present, because we had to hold our meeting. The State of Washington had two representatives there to accept the site, but there was not one Oregon. Oklahoma's Governor d $75,000. Tennessee, Kentucky, Kansas, Arkansas, all had representative there, and you can imagine how I felt when there was no one to speak for us, just when we were about to hold an ex hibition of our own. "It has been decided that we will have an exhibition here, and it is our duty to make it successful. We should not only have such a display as has been held be-fore, but it should be socially successful. We can get money from the Legislature but the women must be prominent, for they will be the hostesses. This is where our duty begins. Every woman abould use her influence to have the Legislature make sufficient appropriation for a building at St. Louis. All the towns and vil-lages in the State of Oregon should have women's clubs to see about this matter, what they can do for the two great expositions, the Lewis and Clark, and the Louisiana Purchase.

'In the various circulars, in speaking of the Lewis and Clark Exposition, it is almemorate the great lourney, and to show up the Orient. The St. Louis Fair will be along the same lines. Aided by the Government there have been agents in the Philippines for the past two years gathering exhibits. Every phase of native life will be represented, and Oregon should secure this exhibit after St. Louis has brought back the same way, and that we be allowed to use all we want for the Lewis and Clark Centennial. Nothing would be better than to show that they have passed through the port of Portland They have agents in Corea, China and Japan, and should we spend every dollar that we have for the centennial, we could never get such an interesting exhibit as that. This may be second hand, but I think that there would be nothing better.

"At Chicago, Virginia had a building, and the leading ladles of the state acted as hostesses to the visitors, and the same was true of Missouri; indeed, all the states had buildings and hostesses there. The question of cash should be a ques

Abbot, of the Bureau of Public Roads Inquiries, Mrs. Abigali Scott Duni-way and Director Leo Friede, of the Lewis and Clark Fair Board. All of these speak with the remarks of Mrs. Montgomery and all spoke of the pressing necessity of attending to the matter at once.

The doctrine of appropriation is perhaps most original contribution of our Western civilization to the science of jurisprudence. According to this doctrine, a right to the use of the water of natural streams, not already appropriated by others, may be acquired by simple appro-priation, irrespective of the ownership of printion, irrespective of the ownership of the lands through which the stream may flow, or any other considerations.

The Supreme Court of Oregon has adopted this doctrine of appropriation, and used the following language: The law regards the appropriation which is first in time to be prior in right, and that such repriation constitutes a vested right, which courts will protect and enforce. There is no occasion for a constitutional merdment or a legislative act, and both of the questions asked at the beginning of the questions asser at the beginning of this letter are answered in the negative. Capital that comes to our state and is invested in irrigation will be protected, and is secure. These laws should be and is secure. These laws should known by people inviting capital to state. A. #### TALKS ON MUSHROOMS.

Dr. Harry Lane Describes Edible Varieties at the Cooking School.

The lecture on "Mushrooms" given by Dr. Harry Lane yesterday afternoon at the School of Domestic Science was a revelation to his audience, most of whom have been carefully brought up to believe that any mushroom other than the com mon "meadow" variety is a toadstool and therefore a deadly poison.

Dr. Line is recognized as the best au-thority on mushrooms in the state, and is very enthusiastic about them, declaring that they have a feod value exceeding that of many vegetables. The lecture was illustrated with numerous specimens of fungi gathered by Dr. Lane for this purpose. These specimens were of great variety in color and size, from the common little white puffball to the deadly

Another nickel-in-the-slot machine, but played this sme only for drinks or cigars, was on exhibition in the Municipal Court yesterday, when Henry Scheufler, of the Grotto saloon, Third and Yamhill streets, was charged with conducting a device of the character of a nickel-in-the-slot ma-chine, October 31. The case was tried be-fore four jurors, Frank Dooley, J. W. Blain, W. T. Turner and Thomas Farrell, and, after half an hour's deliberation, they returned a verdict of not guilty.

The complaint sworn to by Police Sergeant Church stated that the defendant's machine had been played for money, checks and slugs as representatives of value, and that in the playing an element of chance existed. Church showed that this notice was attached to the machine: "This machine can be played for cigars or drinks only. Minors positively prohib-ited from playing." # HIGH SCHOOL SHUT OUT

Grand Stand by Hill Takes the Heart Out of High School, Which Never Recovers.

HILL MILITARY ACADEMY WINS

HARD-FOUGHT GAME.

The Hill Military Academy football eleven won a hard-fought game from the team from the Portland High School on Multnomah Field yesterday afternoon, by a score of 6 to 0. The game was a close contest from start to finish, and it was a matter of conjecture all the time which would be the victorious team.

The High School players played harder ball in the first half than they did in the second, which partly accounts for their defeat. The Hill tally, made in the middle of the first half, was the result of a great stand taken at a time when the High School boys were putting up a superior game. Instead of keeping up the game the High School players seemed to lose heart, and permitted the Hill players to hold the two teams near the middle of the gridiron the rest of the contest.

Hill won the kick-off, and sent the ball 40 yards down the field, only to see it worked back again in a few minutes by flerce line plunges by the High School players. At the center line Hill took a brace and held the High School for downs, getting the ball. The ball was then car-ried steadily toward the High School goal until the 23-yard line was reached, and here fumbles were so frequent that the soldier boye could advance no further. The High School boys could do nothing when the spheroid was turned over to them, and were forced to punt. Holcomb kicked the ball 28 yards, and then, by the finest run of the day, Holman, quarter of the Hill team, carried the ball to the High School goal line, 50 yards away. He kicked the goal a moment later, and made the score 6 to 0, in just 10 minutes and 35

The High School kicked off 45 yards, and the Hills worked the ball to the 20-yard line, when they could carry it no further and were forced to punt, Martin kicking the ball 15 yards. The High School could not advance, and the ball was given to Hill again on the 20-yard line. After two downs the High School took it on a fumble and punted to Hill's 10-yard line. Hi carried the ball three yards to the cente of the fleid, when time was called.

to Hill, who carried the ball up past th center line and lost it on downs. Th Highs could do nothing, and, after severa changes of hands, the ball went to th High School on the center line. Holcom punted 30 yards, but Hill could not keep it, and the Highs tried to carry it on. Hil got the pigskin on a fumble on the 45-yar line, and here it remained the rest of the game, changing hands all the time on fum and hit the line hard on the plunges. Hol-comb, for the High School, and Wilhelm and Marshall were the bright stars, and it up a bigger score. Captain Chester Hughes, of the High School team, was out of the game, having broken his arm a few weeks The line-up was as follows:

Coffee Makes Some People Helpless.

loam, Mo., says: "I was born with a ner-vous temperament, and this was increased by my parents giving me coffee when a child, unconscious of its bad effect on my nervous system. In time, a cup of coffee in the morning invariably soured on my stomach, and a single cup at night would make me nervous and wakeful and often cause a distressing heartburn. Last year I laid in bed all Summer with ner-vous prostration, a complete wreck from coffee drinking. I craved a good, nourishing, hot drink and commenced to use Postum Food Coffee.
"There was a gradual improvement in my health almost from the commence-ment of using Postum. I could sleep well, the heartburn and nervousness dispeared, my stomach trouble stopped and now (a year later) I have gone from the sick bed into the store behind the counter day after day; from a helpless to a stirring business woman, with new life and strength, new hopes and ambition; from the pale, weak 102-pound woman to my present weight of 129 pounds. Thanks o Postum.

AEOLIAN RECITAL.

According to popular demand, Mr. M. B. Wells has decided to resume the free Acolian recitals, which were so full of genuine interest and pleasure to all lovers of music during the past three seasons. The first recital for this season wil, be given tonight in the beautiful recital hall

353-355 Washington street, corner Park . For this "opening" night, a special programme has been in preparation, which will be rendered on the Acolian-pipe-organ, orchestrelle and by means of the danola, and a rare treat is in store for those who will be so fortunate as to at-tend. Seats are free and all are cordially invited. Nothing in Portland has ever beer riven that made it possible to increase the desire for hearing good music as have these Acollan recitals. Even if you lived in New York or Boston, you would have no better opportunity, though at great expense, of hearing the best works of the masters in music than is afforded at these recitals, and so it will be with gen-uine pleasure and satisfaction that the music-loving people of Portland will note the continuance of the Acolian recitals during the coming Winter months.

Now is the time to take a good Fall medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best. It purifies the blood.

'amanita," which is a brilliant yellow, haded with scarlet, in color, and is the only poisonous one of the Oregon mushrooms as far as Dr. Lane has been able

"The best way to acquire a knowledge of our edible mushrooms," said Dr. Lane, "is to study them in the light of the primary characters employed in botanical classifications, and therefore in their nat-ural relation to each other. "One type of the three most important groups is the 'gasteromyceten,' or fungi-whose spores are produced in the in-terior of the plant, an example of which is the well-known puffball, "Those-fungi whose spores are produced on the lower surface of the cap are known as hymenomyceten, of which the common mendow mushroom is a good "All warm-blooded animals have the finished. All these goods and exhibits vital habit of absorbing oxygen from the should be brought through the port of air and giving off what is known as car-Portland, and at the time a contract bonic acid gas or carbonic oxide as a chine three days when the police took it should be made requiring that they be waste product; with the ordinary form of away. These slugs that came out of the vegetable life the reversed rule holds true, and they have the fixed vital habit of absorbing carbonic oxide from the air and In return give off as waste product the oxygen which is so vitally necessary to the being of all animal life. Thus, owing to the inscrutable laws of Nature, a balance is maintained between the life hab-its of the two most highly organized kingdoms within her possessions "Now, in contravention to all the known laws with which she governs, the family of fungi bave the same habits of life as do the warm-blooded animals, and absort oxygen from the surrounding air and give off carbonic oxide as a waste product. "There is no distinguishing rule by which you may tell an edible fungus from a poisonous one. Each variety and species must be learned even as we learn to recognize cortain trees and flowers. In the first place, the one safe rule and the rule from which you must not de-part will be to eat no specimen of fun-familiar. "A large number of fung! are edible and wholesome; a few are poisonous. It is the part of wisdom to learn the distinguishing characteristics of such as are known to be noxious and of a re-apectable number of those that are known to be good, rather than to discard all species upon account of the evil repute of the few. "There are certain popular tests for the identification of mushrooms and teadstools which are so utterly whim-sical and unreliable that I wish to call your attention to them. These are of interest merely from the fact that they are full of errors and have a wide culation among the people. One of these foolish tests is that if a mushroom has a pleasant taste and odor it is safe food.
