DISCUSS TEACHERS' WORK

MARION COUNTY INSTITUTE ADDRESSED BY EDUCATORS.

Superintendent Rigler Talks on Arithmetic and Reading—"Course of Study," by Ackerman.

SALEM, Nov. 6.—(Special.)—The attendance at the Marion County Teachers' Institute, now in session in this city, shows something of the change that has taken place in the ranks of the teaching profession in the last few years.

The sessions of the institute today proved as interesting as those of yesterday, and the teachers securing very valuable assistance from the lectures delivered before them.

The practical talks by Superintendent Rigler, of the Portland public schools, are especially helpful to the large number of teachers who find difficulty in teaching arithmetic to beginners. Professor Rigler's resourcefulness in devising plans by which the arithmetical processes may be easily explained and understood gives his lectures a particular value in an educational meeting of this kind. Today he illustrated the large range of use that may be made of such common objects as a tin can, a gun wad in teaching addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

Superintendent Rigler also discussed the subject of "Primary Reading," giving the teachers many new ideas regarding the methods that will be found most successful in teaching this subject to the children who have just begun attending school.

Superintendent of Public Instruction J. H. Ackerman continued his lecture of yesterday on the subject of "Study," Oregon public school teachers have found the uniform course of great assistance in their work, particularly in the matter of grading. Pupils who change from one school to another are more easily placed in their proper classes than they were under the old lack of system, under which each teacher arranged his own course.

The change in text-books last year made some changes necessary in the course of study, and these changes received a part of Superintendent Ackerman's attention today. He particularly emphasized the importance of requiring a pupil to complete a grade thoroughly before he receives a promotion, for work poorly done in one grade will give trouble in all the remainder of the course unless it is made up. He said that it is also desirable that as soon as a pupil has completed a course he should be promoted, not only as a reward and acknowledgment of the work accomplished, but as a means of keeping the pupil interested in his studies. In schools that are conducted only six months in the year, instead of nine, teachers should not try to make the years in the course correspond with the school year.

Lectures on map study and methods in reading were delivered during the day by Professor Gillan, and the institute was closed with a very interesting address on "Schoolroom Decoration," by Superintendent L. R. Traver, of the Salem public schools.

Trotter brought suit for $250 for damages alleged to have been suffered by reason of errors in the surveys of the streets of Stayton. He recovered judgment for $500 and Judge Burnett ruled that he would be granted a new trial unless the plaintiff would accept $150 in satisfaction of the judgment. Trotter would not accept the $150 and the case will be retried.

TO HARNESS GLACIER. Boston Capitalists to Install Electric Plant at Mount Rainier.

BOSTON, Nov. 6.—Engineers are being sent from this city to Tacoma and Seattle to begin work on a project which has for its chief aim the harnessing of the waters of the Puget Sound Glacier, on Mount Rainier, State of Washington, for water-power purposes. It is claimed that if successful this will be the first instance where glacial waters have been used directly to provide power. Stone & Webster, of Boston, who have installed a great many street railways in all parts of the country, are undertaking the work, in order to provide the cities of Tacoma and Seattle with electric light and power.

The plan is to construct from the glacier a tume 11 miles long, through which a head of water will flow sufficient to generate 50,000 horsepower. The water in running through the flume will drop 60 feet, and through penstocks will be diverted into turbines connected with electric generators.
