UP TO THE JURY

The Molineux Case Will Reach It Today.

Black Points Finger of Suspicion at Cornish.

DECLARES ACCUSED INNOCENT

State Relies Largely on the Testimony of the Handwriting Experts-Lawyers for Both Sides Make Great Speeches.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 .- The fate of Roland B. Molineux will be determined tomorrow. When court adjourned this evening Justice Lambert announced that he would allow Assistant District Attorney Osborne but 21/2 hours more to finish summing up, which means that the court will deliver its charge and the case will go to the jury during the afternoon. The courtroom was crowded to suffocation when at the opening of today's session ex-Governor Black rose to sum up for the defense. After a general defense of Molineux, Mr. Black passed to a scathing denunciation of Harry Cornish, to whose guilt, and not that of Molineux, he declared, every circumstance in the case di-

Mr. Osborne based his argument for the prosecution today largely on the testimony of the bandwriting experts, which, he said, conclusively showed Molineux to have been the writer of the poison-package address and of the other disputed ex-

In opening his address, ex-Governor Frank S. Black said Molineux was a director of the Knickerboxer Athletic Club. where Cornish was employed. Molineux did not like Cornish and he did not like Harpster. He had many friends in the club, and perhaps many enemies. Cornish wrote what Molineux considered an improper letter, and Molineux complained

"Was that any reason for Molineux sending to Cornish a quantity of poison sufficient to kill any man in that club?" asked Mr. Black. "Cornish insulted Molineux, and Molineux behaved like a gentieman, regarding the difference of their station, and passed on. Is that proof of murder? Nothing else under the sky has been produced here to indicate any motive Molineux could have for wanting to kill Cornish.

"The trouble between Cornish and Molineux occupied more than a year before the poison package appeared. No evidence has been presented here to show that in all that time Mr. Molineux had sald an unkind word or uttered one uncharitable thought toward Cornish. All the evidence in this case points away from Molineux and towards another man. I shall indicate who that man is before I sit down. The case points to that man just as surely as the needle points to the North star.'

Ridicules Testimony of State Ex-Governor Black ridiculed the testimony of Joseph Koch, the Broadway letter box man, who said Molineux rented a box from him and declared it to be the evidence of a man who "peddled his story and his eternal soul at the same time." The Governor took up the question of writing and declared that the Washington expert, Hay, was "a stupendous fraud" when he testified that none of the "request" writing made by Molineux contained a characteristic to be found in his other writing and in the disputed writing. Then he dwell at length upon the alleged suppression of evidence by nileged suppression of evidence by the District Attorney's office, and argued that the evidence might point to some that the evidence might point to some one other than Molineux. "The prosecution," he said, "has produced here the poison package wrapper, the envelope to the Burna letter we concede to have been written by Molineux, the envelope to the Harpster and the Barnett letters, but where are the envelopes to the Cornish letters? Not one of them has been presented in evidence. Why have they been suppressed? Did they show too much? You may forget to date your letters, but Uncle Sam never forgets. Did the Cornish envelopes show too

"In Molineux' desk, Newark, was a package of small envelopes used for in-closing cards. The detectives of the Dis-trict Attorney's office found them, but they did not match envelopes that accompanied the poisoned package, and so they were suppressed. Was that to shield anybody? It was a crime to murder Mrs. Adams, but it would be no less a crime to murder this man on the evidence in this case. You are asked to believe that no man can get cyanide of mercury un-less he approaches it with a mask; and in fact the prosecution asks you to be-lieve that it can only be got in Newark. If you want it you can get it. If any of you want cyanide of mercury get it when you go to lunch. Or, if you have not got time, I'll get you enough to poison every man within the sound of my voice, and it shall not cost you more than $5 cents." As to the Barnett letters Mr. Black

The Barnett Letters.

"I don't know and I don't care when and where they were malied, and Molineux does not know and he does not care." Counsel analyzed the testimony of the handwriting men to show how they dif-fered and how all had admitted, under cross-examination, that there were hundreds of characters in the disputed and conceded writings that in no way re-sembled each other.

'Molineux never wrote that address, I don't know who did, and in my opinion the man who wrote it has not appeared in

Coming to the connection of Cornish case, Mr. Black declared that he was not arguing for the punishment of any one, but that he believed it was his duty to show the whole case to the jury as he himself saw it.

"There was a crime and there was mo-tive," he said, "and the motive points to Harry S. Cornish."

Mr. Binck recited from the records the story of Cornish's divorce, his meeting with Mrs. Rogers, then separated from her husband, and her late divorce.

"Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Rogers' mother, was a good woman." Mr. Elack said. "Do you think she looked with complais-ance on the conditions that prevailed?" "There is motive, the great, consuming motive force for all things. The motive Cornish had against the life of Mrs. Adams compared to the motive Molineux had against the life of Cornish was as the volcano of Martinique to the lapping Mr. Black called attention to the evi-

Mr. Black called attention to the evidence given that the purchaser of the bottle-holder in which the palson was sent said he wanted the holder to match the silver on a lady's toilet table, and from that he argued that the purchaser knew the pattern of Mrs. Hogers silver. He also reviewed the testimony of Koch, the letter-box man, who said the renter of the private box wore a brown overcoat. Cornish denied while on the stand that he had any overcoat that Winter, but Mr. Black read from the last trial to show that he had one and that it was brown.

Cornish, who was in court, appeared to be little concerned by Mr. Black's line of argument. Once or twice when his name was mentioned he laughed aloud. Scoring for Cornish.

Referring to Cornish Mr. Black saids Cornish took that dirty little bottle home, out when did he take it? He did not take it home when he got it. He waited until he had arranged for five men to identify it nized it again after a period of four years. The state, he enid, had no remarkable coincidence to present like the testimony of Martin Huff, who happened into the Newark store just as the bottle-holder was being sold, and who two years later found himself working side by side with the brother of General Molineux. Coming to the question of motive, Mr. Osborne went on to show that Molineux had attempted to injure Cornish, even after Molineux had left the club, and cited as evidence the enduring nature of Molineux's ill will in the Scheffler letter written nearly a year after his resigna-tion from the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, and the letter about Harpster, Cornish's friend, sent to Stearns & Co. "We find," he went on, "that Molineux had the motive and we find that he had or could have had the poison. He was experimenting in the manufacture of ship's paint, and one of the uses of cyanide of ury is for the manufacture of ship's

"As to the purchase of the bottleholder," Mr. Osborne said, "Molineux was daily in Newark, and knew the Hartdein case of need. You are asked to notice that Cornish was willing to let his friend King take a dose of the stuff. Of course he was; but when he offered it to King the poison was not in the brome bottle. Professor Witthaus told you the poison was only at the top of the bottle and had not permeated the other stuff below. Cor-Mrs. Adams was subject to headaches, and 12 hours after the brome reached the flat Mrs. Adams had taken it. She was gone. There was nothing now to stand in the way of that unlimited passion which burns cities and destroys empires."

Mr. Black argued from the testimony of the chemical experts who analyzed the contents of the glass from which Mrs. Adams drank that Cornish lied when he said he drank a "good swallow" of the mixture, and quoted from Professor Witthaus' testimony to prove that half an inch depth of the mixture would have killed any one who took it. "Cornish never insted that liquid," Mr. Black said,

At the afternoon session ex-Governor Black traced Cornish's actions after Mrs. Adams' death, "Were his actions those Adams' death, "Were his actions those of an honest man?" he asked. "Why did he not go home and help Mra Rogers in her trouble? No, he wanted to pose. He showed himself to his chemist friend, Yoakum, and then went to bed in Yoakm's room at the club. Then he called in five friends to tell them how sick he was. What else did he do? He stayed away from the Adams flat until the funeral. He never dared to face that dead

Ex-Governor Black declared the case against Cornish far stronger than the case against Mollneux, "Every fact in the case," he said, "points to Cornish, and nothing except the test mony of the handwriting experts points to Molineux." Mr. Black closed at $:25.

State Begins Its Argument.

Assistant District Attorney Osborne, opening for the prosecution, ridiculed the theory of the counsel for the defense that the death of Mrs. Adams was the result of a deliberate design by Cornish, and argued it would be abourd to suppose that Cornish would go down to mail a pack-age to himself.

"It is not disputed by the defense," Mr. Osborne went on, "that the three Cornish letters and the poison package wrapping paper are in the same handwriting. Look at the corner Governor Black has put himself into trying to show that Cornisa is the criminal. Cornish must have taken the address from some purcel and then have secured the writer to write three letters for him and signed 'H. Cornish' to them. That writer would own Cornish hody and soul, and could hand him over to the law for conviction and electrocuthing of the sort? If ex-Governor Black's assumptions are true." Mr. Osborne said, "Cornish, without any necessity for doing so, handed over to the authorities the only means of tracing the crime to him and his associates, the poison wrapper, the poleon and the silver holder. Is that a fair reasoning?"

Osborne touched on ex-Governor Black's charge that the prosecution had suppressed the evidence of the envelopes and in the desk of Molineux.

"Now, I am not at all hurt by that charge," he said. "Governor Black did charge, he said. Governor black did not mean it personally, and I took it in a Pickwickian rense. He did not mean that any more than he meant that we suppressed the envelopes to the Cornish letters. He knows that we never had there epistles. The envelopes taken from Molineux's desk were given to the defense, and the other letters we suppressed were marked for identification in the last trial and eliminated from this trial because the defense thought we had enough handwriting exhibits without them.

Cornish's Absence From Funeral. Referring to the statement made by Mr. Black that Cornish did not attend the funeral of Mrs. Adams and dare not face the dead woman, Mr. Osborne read from the minutes to show that Cornish visited the flat before Mrs. Adams' body was removed, and that ex-Governor Black had refused to let him tell on the witnessstand why he was absent from the fuernor Black's contention that Cornish was shamming sick, and read the evidence of the doctors who attended Cornish in the Knickerbocker Athletic Club, who said they found him suffering from an irritant poisoning.

"The insinuation that a motive for the murder of Mrs. Adams could be found in Cornish's feleings for Mrs. Rogers, the pert called by the defense, proved his contention that Molineux wrote the poison package wrapper. Carvalho said the wrapper address was not disguised suffi. ciently to hide the characteristics of the natural hand of the writer.

"By whom do I convict Molineux of "By whom do I convict Molineux of that writing?" he demanded. "Out of the muoths of his enemies? No. Out of the mouths of his enemies? No Out of the Mewark who knew Molineux and his writing, and who had no enmity toward Molineux, stated they were sure Molineux wrote those disputed writings. I am satisfied to let that portion of the accusation against Molineux rest upon the testimony of Carvalho."

Mr. Osborne declared no man could.

mony of Carvalho."

Mr. Osborne declared no man could avoid seeing the likeness between the characters in the conceded writing of Moicharacters in the conceded willing of Mol-lineux and the poison package wrapper. He argued the writer dared not entirely hide his hand or use printing characters or a typewriter, for fear of defeating his object by arousing the suspicion of the re-cipient of the package.

The sender of that package had to use a pen. He found himself having to de-cide," counsel said, "between the Scylla of doubt and the Charybdis of his own identity

MASON TO PROVE AN ALABI.

Important Witness Found in Boston "Jack the Ripper" Case.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 10.-In the "Jack the Ripper" case a woman who called last night at Cambridge police bendquarters visited the jail today with Mr. Ware, counsel for Mason. A thick vell concealed her face. After a short conversation with Sheriff Fairburn she left. This women will figure as one of the witnesses for the defense. Mr. Ware refused to give out the name of the woman. He intimated that she will be a witness to establish on allbi for Mason. Harry Mason had a long interview with his brother, the defendant, today. They talked over the case and discussed the evidence which would be produced in court to prove that Alan Mason was not at Waverly at the time that Miss Morton was murdered.

At the conclusion of the interview Harry Mason declared his conviction that his brother would be dis-charged. He spoke in strong terms of the confession which Perry, the negro, had made, charging that his brother had given him the McPhee and Morton watches, Herry Mason said Perry was lying in order to shield himself and pos-sibly another person. Perry declared is sibly another person. Parry declared in his confession that he received Miss Mc-Phee's watch from Mason about 7 or 8 o'clock one evening, probably October 3. Now the Somerville police have estab lished that Miss McPhee was assaulted about 10 o'clock. Jeweler Nemser's written record showed that the sale of the watch occurred October 4.

Promoter Indicted for Fraud. KANSAS CITY, Nov. 18.-Theodore Stenger, of tals city, a well-known promoter, was today indicted by the Grand Jury on a charge of promoting a mining fraud. The case was worked up by a local Postofilee inspector, who presented evidence to the jury tending to show that Stenger, who had advertised for sale shures in a copper mining company in Arizona, represented that the company Arizona, represented that the company owned four mines, whereas, it is alleged, it controlled but one. Stenger has lived in Karcas City for the past 20 years.

Youthful Murderer Sentenced. SALT LAKE CITY, Nov. 16.—Roy Kaighn, the youtaful slayer of Willard C. Haynes, a well-known Chicago traveling man, was this afternoon scatteneed to five years in the penitentiary. It is said the case will be appealed to the Supreme Court. The murder occurred in the ro-tunds of the Knutsford Hotel, November 26, 1901, and was the outcome of attentions paid by Haynes to a sister of

VISITING LOWER LONDON.

Premier Balfour Makes the Princi-Inl Speech at Banquet and Deals With Affairs of the Nation.

LONDON, Nov. 10 .- Today, for the first time in the history of London, the Lord Mayor's procession traversed the unfash-ionable thoroughfare of Pettisoat Lane, in the heart of the Ghetto, in recognition of the heart of the Ghetto, in recognition of the Jewish ancestry of Sir Marcons Samuel, the new Lord Mayor. Jewish London especially celebrated the event. The process inhabitants of Whitechapel and Hounds Ditch were banqueted at the expense of their wealthier coreligionists, The quaint annual progress of the chief executive of the city through the streets of the metropolis was probably more brilliant than usual. A unique feature was a float representative of the Angio-Japanese alliance, surmounted by the arms of both countries and surrounded by a guard of Japanese and British blue

The annual banquet given by the Lord Mayor this evening was attended by about 1000 persons. Among those present were members of the Cabinet and of the House of Commons, Foreign Ambassadors and city dignitaries. Premier Belfour, replying to the toast, "His Majesty's Ministers," referred to the splendid services rendered by the colonies during the South African War, which showed, he said, that they were not mere sleeping partners in the imperial firm. An unanswered question, however, was whether the war would be followed by a not loss or suc-cessful peace. The Premier said he looked to the future of South Africa in a hopeful, but not a too sanguine spirit, as every source of wealth there was practically dried up. He said he believed much good would come of Colonial Sec-retary Chamberlain's visit to South Africa, which would be only the first of a lot from the succession of such visits. He said the time was not ripe for closer constitutional relations between the colonies and the mother country.

Mr. Balfour declared that he knew nothing about the "fantastic bargains," invented by the press upon the occasion of the visit of a "great and friendly Sovereign to his nearest relatives." Emperor William, according to the Premier, nad no political motives in coming to see King Edward.

Dealing with the situation in Somall land, Mr. Balfoyr said that waterless waste and fanalics were always difficult problems to deal with, but that the Somalliand question was not of great im-portance in the national development, except as it brought into high relief the friendly feelings of Italy toward Great

He said he believed that every great power in Europe was not only desirous of peace, but firmly resolved that peace should be permanent. He deprecated international permanent. He deprecated international prejudices of any kind, especially the anti-English feeling on the Continent over the Boer War, as endangering the concert of Europe, "which in the past has been a great instrument of peace, and which s destined to play an even greater part in the preserving of the civilization of Christendom than it has during the years recently elapsed."

Vessels Will Soon Be Stationed on

Coast of North and South America. BERLIN, Nov. 10,-The Imperial Marin Ministry has decided to assign several cruisers to duty on the Pacific Coast of North and South America, when vessels now being completed become available; The Western American squadron will be permanently established, not for any specific purpose, but in accordance with general navy dispositions. Like the Eastern American squadron, it will not have a hase. Vessels will simply be sent to variouh ports according to the requirements of the moment. The creation of permanent stations in American waters, as well as elsewhere in the world, is in consequence of the ex-panding of the navy. The marine authorities recognize more clearly than ever the many owned land bases but they per ceive that there is no prospect of securing any such territorial privileges in the Western Hemisphere, and will naturally therefore, in time of peace rely on refit-ting in American docks and ports.

INDIA IS PROSPERING. Good Conditions Prevail Despite the

Ravages of Famine. LONDON, Nov. 10 .- Lord George Ham lton, the Indian Secretary, in submitting the Indian budget statement in the House of Commons today, pictured the increasing prosperity of India, in spite of the ravages of famine, and said the only ravages of famine, and said the only item showing a decrease in revenue was onium. The income for the current year was so ample that the government had decided to make a special grant of $7,500,-600 for the relief of the sufferers from drouth and famine, and the Secretary ceed $8,500,000. The Secretary paid a high tribute to the Viceroy of India, Lord Curzon of Keddleston.

GIVES VITALITY, VIGOR AND STRENGTH TO DEBILITA-TED AND RUNDOWN WOMEN.

It is maintained by many distinguished writers that the greatness of a nation de-pends much upon the physical condition of its women. The general conditions which contribute to the health and long life are those which do not imply a rapid and unequa! exhaustion of those powers by which life is maintained. While we assert that the women of our land stand recriess for beauty and the virtues that make them lovable, we cannot hide the fact that there are thousands in our miner who, owing to overwork, worry, household cares, and an unequal exhaustion of life power, have become weak, nervous, sleepess, and debilitated.

We bring to the attention of all weary, despondent, hopeless, and sickly women earth's great rescuer and health-builder. Paine's Celery Compound. LORD MAYOR ON PARADE Woman's Wealth Is Health The People Know And Believe Them

The Splendid Record of Drs. Copeland and Montgomery for Years In this Community Gives Confidence and Faith to the People as They Read the Wonderful Results of Their Treat-

For 10 years Drs. Copeland and Montgomery have conducted in this city the largest practice ever known in the history of the Northwest. The people know them. Their fame has grown in the strong light of intimacy and permanency. Medical pretenders and bogus healers of every variety have come and gone, passed in the night, unable to endure the daytime acquaintance. But with time and intimacy the fame of Drs. Copeland and Montgomery has grown stronger.

The testimony supporting their practice has come from reputable citizens, neighbors, dwellers in the city and residents in this vicinity, and whose reputation and movements are well known or may be known to all who care to inquire.

Such testimony is enduring proof that Drs. Copeland and Montgomery are really curing, not merely helping, or relieving, not merely improving and benefiting alone, but curing the disease.
