SMITH MUST HANG

New Trial Refused to Negro Murderer.

THERE MAY BE DOUBLE EVENT

Judge George Disposes of Plens of Defense for New Trial-Scaffold Is Ready and Smith May Die Beside Belding.

The death sentence will be pronounced by Judge George Wednesday upon George Smith, the negro, who killed his white wife Annie Smith. The motion for a new trial was denied by the court yesterday

Judge George, in denying the motion, reviewed the evidence thoroughly, and consumed about three-quarters of an hour in so doing, and stated that the counsel for the defendant had a misconception in many instances of what the testimony really was, that the court in its rulings was more than lenient to the prisoner. The evidence of Detective Snow was first referred to. The court said he had looked ver the record and ascertained that Snow had been granted permission to give what testimony be could regarding threats made by "Kansas" against Smith, and had not een prevented from so doing.

The question of newly discovered evidence was next touched upon, and Judge George said that the Supreme Court of the state recently rendered a decision that a new trial cannot be granted upon newly covered evidence of an impeaching na-e. "It was urged," said Judge George, "that there was no motive for the crime, yet Smith admitted having killed his wife to the Chief of Police."

Concerning the sickness of the juror, Chauncey Ball, the count said Ball was not so sick as to be anable to attend the trial. The affidavit of John Landigan that he agreed to a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree because he did not wish to detain Mr. Ball longer in the juryroom, the court held, was overcome by the affiduvits of other jurors. The self-defe plea, Judge George stated, was an after thought on the part of Smith. He said nothing about it in the first place, when he confessed to the Chief of Police.

According to law, 30 days must elapse between the time of sentence and the day Charies A. Petrain, attorney for Smith, has not yet decided if he will appear to the Supreme Court. The scaffold for the hanging of Belding is now in place, and contains two traps. Sheriff Storey would like, if possible, to hang the First and Mill streets, on August 26, -02, was tried before Judge Cleland yesterday. The case was submitted to the jury at a o'clock in the afternoon, with instructions return a sealed verdict. The contention of the plaintiff was that the car, which was in charge of Motorman C. F. Larson, was run in a reckless manner, at a rapid rate of speed, and that the motorman saw Wolf when he was at least 100 feet away, and when he had started to cross in front of the car, and that, had the motorman been careful, he could have stopped the car in time, and the accident would not have occurred.

Lawson testified to the contrary. He admitted that when he first observed Wolf starting to cross the street Wolf was some distance from the car, and said he put on the brakes, and slowed down and also rang the gong. He said Wolf stopped Woodcraft, is at the Imperial. and looked up at him, and, thinking Wolf intended to wait until the car had passed, he loosened the brake and proceeded to go ahead, when Wolf suddenly started to run in front of the car, and was struck by the car before it could be

FOR LOSS OF BOY'S HAND.

His Father Claims Big Damages From Lumber Firm.

Cleo G. Parker, 11 years old, by his father, John J. Parker, as guardian, yes-terday filed suit against the J. A. Martin Company in the State Circuit Court for $30,000 damages, on account of personal in-juries sustained while working in defendant's planing mill. The complaint recites that on September 10, 1902, the boy was employed to work at and with a sander machine, used for sanding and smoothing wooden door panels, and that his right hand was caught in the machine between one of the cylinders and rollers and crushed, bruised, mangled and maimed, It is alleged that the member has been permanently disabled, and that Cleo Parker has been compelled to pay $312 for medical treatment. It is further averred that the machine was in a defective condition, and that the J. A. Martin Company was warned of this, and also that Parker had no knowledge concerning the operation of a sander.

CRIPPLED BY COLLISION.

Mary Stackpole's Suit for Damages Against Railroad Company.

The trial of the case of Mary A. Stack-pole against the Northern Pacific Railway Company was begun before United States District Judge Bellinger yesterday without the intervention of a jury. The plaintiff seeks to recover $28,000. She alleges that on October 9, 1901, she was a passenger on the train from Deer Lodge, Mont., to Portland, and that at Garriso the train collided with a freight car. The force of the collision threw the plaintiff against the seat, and caused severe injuries to her spine, arms and shoulders. She asks for damages in the sum of $25,-000 and for the further sum of $1000, paid for medical attendance. The trial will be resumed this morning, and the arguments will be made before the court today.

FRUITMEN TO COMBINE

MULTNOMAH GROWERS WILL COM-PLETE THEIR UNION.

Movement Begun in Spring Gains Headway-Chief Want Is Market House in Portland.

The directors of the Multnomah Fruit-growers' Association have fixed the time for holding the Fall meeting Saturday afternoon, November 22, in Odd Fellows' afternoon, November 22, in Odd Fellows' Hall, Grand avenue, H. C. Welch, of Mount Tabot, is president, He is anxious that there should be a large attendance of the fruitraisers in the vicinity of Porttoo busy with their crops to attend the meetings. An association was then formed and incorporated, with a nominal capital stock of $100, with the intention of again taking up the work in the Fall, when the farmers would have time to attend the meetings, and hence the time was fixed for the afternoon of the 22d.

Mr. Welch makes an urgent request that every fruitgrower who sells his berries is Portland attend this gathering and sup-port the effort to form a union. The constirutions of the Hood River Association and several fruit associations of California have been secured; also considerable and has been secured; also considerable data has been gathered as to their methods of doing business. Armed with all this, the promoters of this movement hope to form a union of growers who market their produce in Portland that will be highly beneficial to them, to the consumers and to the consumers.

surners and to the cannerles.

M. J. Magoon, of Gravel Hill, said yes-The attorneys for A. T. Gladissee were allowed by Judge Cleland yesterday until Thursday to file a motion for a new want several things which I am satisfied we growers can never get until we have a strong union. We want a market-place in Portland, so we will not have to stand on the streets. So far the growers have falled to organize, but now they will have another opportunity, and it will depend entirely on them whether it will go or not If they will turn out and support the effort, it is sure to succeed, but if they do as they have done in the past, it will have to be dropped for all time." Every fruitgrower interviewed on the subject expresses himself favorably to a union, but a considerable number are hold-ing back, fearing there may be a repetition of the old union, which proved a failure. However, President Welch says that if 73 per cent of the growers will come into the new movement it will succeed. That num-ber will be sufficient to control the mar-ket, secure rates for boxes and have a potent influence in getting a market-place at some central point in Portland.

RICH STRIKES AT NOME. Several Creeks Show Up Well Late in the Season.

Mr. W. H. Lang, resident of this city at 704 Everett street, has returned from Nome, Alaska, having come on the Ohio. He reports many rich strikes in the Nome district during the senson, notably on Hastings, Pceluk and Oregon Creeks. These strikes were made late in the season. Mr. Lang is interested on all three creeks and has accomplished sufficient development work this season to begin active operations in the Spring. On one of the Oregon Creek bench claims. Mr. Lang took out one nugget weighing $28 and on Peeluk what little ground he was produced $1.40 to the cubic yard from the surface down. Peeluk is a small creek putting into Behring Sea between Nome and the barracks at the mouth of Nome River three miles east of Nome. Thou-sands of pedestrians have walked over the very ground where Mr. Lang's cabin is situated and where two men with a force of miners washed out $25,000 in 26 days this season Hastings Creek is one of the new dis-coveries of this season and Mr. Lang's most prominent claim is on this creek. His interests in the Nome district are large and very valuable. They are situated on Dexter, Bourbon, Anvil, Hast ings, Dry, Newton and Oregon Creeks, all of which have showed very rich results of this season's development. Mr. Lang exhibits some fine samples of nuggets and dust from several of his claims nost of which samples assay $19 to the sunce. His associates are J. W. Bellevue, of Boston, Mass., and Dr. S. S. Craig, Mr. Lang reports that the failure of Portland's business men to secure the steamship Indiana for the home-coming of a large number of Nomeites, among whom were a number of Portland people was a great disappointment in Nome, but he attributes the failure to the enterprise and sagacity of Seattle companies suffrage states." who, having failed to who foresaw the detrimental effect such action would have on Seattle trade. He says that Mr. Hoxie (formerly of Portlagainst the movement exactly as Brig-land) and others had without difficulty ham Young did when he saw that the old every berth and every inch of freight space on board the Indiana, and when the news was received announcing the fact that the scheme of sending the ship in behalf of Portland was off, passen gers and freight intended for Portland had to be transferred to other boats booked for Seattle. This he regarded as but he may rest assured that they won't reason that it would have brought many Nomeites to this city for the Winter, nearly all of whom would have outfitted here in the Spring. He also thinks it would have had the effect of advertising ortland in the North and diverting con iderable of the Nome trade to land from other points; bu, shile Port-Seattle headed off the movement and precented its execution

Mr. Lang's estimate of the mineral re sources of Nome and adjacent tributary district is indeed flattering. He reports great development in placer finds of the season, at Council City, Soloman River, Candle Creek and Gold Run, while near Nome the benches and tundra have produced very rich deposits. He says that Nome is better this year than ever before and that the camp will continue to improve for many years to come. From a camp composed largely of gamblers, toughs and speculators, it has settled down to a solld, prosperous mining came of the first magnitude, and the trade for the year 1968 with that coast will be nearly as great and far more profitable than it was during the rush of 1900. Mr. Lang says that the Nome district and its tributary country is one of the best camps in the known world, and that quartz lodes of great extent and richness will be developed in the next few ears, in his opinion. Nome is the distributing point for arge territory and will continue so long as auriferous deposits are found in paying quantities in that part of Alaska. While millions of dollars in dust have been taken from Nome and its tributary mines, the industry in that region is not yet out of its swaddling clothes and coming events will demon-strate the fact that Nome is yet to contribute millions of dollars to the wealth of the world. The sum of $10,000,000 has been brought out of that part of Alaska this year alone. Mr. Lang thinks that the declaration by competent mining men familiar with that country for years. that every square mile of the Seward Peninsula is underlaid with gold deposits, in many cases in fabulous quantities, is strictly true.

Mr. Lang went to Nome in the Spring of 1900 along with the thousands of Arctic argonauts in quest of gold and while his efforts during the first two years were attended with indifferent success he had the tenacity to cling to his determination to succeed, believing that his esti-mate of the country and its hidden wealth upon the occasion of his first visit to be correct. He now believes more firmly than ;ever in the possibilities of that country and will depart for the northern gold fields early in the Spring, spending the Winter here, as has been his custom.

ROSES AND BRICKBATS. Mrs. Duniway Discusses Them and Other Things.

PORTLAND, Or., Nov. 9.—(To the Edi-tor.)—When the world began to shower roses upon the venerable and now venerto the footlights and said, with mingled tears and laughter: "If those were brick-bats I would know what to say, for I am used to brickbats." I too, was once accustomed to brickbats, though it is so long since anybody shied them at me that I am taken just a little by surprise. Yet I am not sorry; for there is nothing that so thoroughly arouses the deter-mination of the chivalgous sons of Oregon's woman taxpayers to make way for liberty for them as to see them assailed by a disgruntled hobby-rider from "two secure the women's vote he looked for, either for his hobby or himself, now turns women of his church would vote against polygamy in secret, even though they had espoused it openly, under compul-sion. BOYS WOULD NOT "PEACH." Those Accused of Brenking Down Bridge Barricade Set Free.

Fifteen beys attended the Municipal Court yesterday to tell what they knew about destroying the barricade and danger notice on First street near Gibbs, Hallowe'en night. These boys plea guilty: James Junger, Robert Matlack Harold Potter, Fred Harnden, Roy Gunn A. Bachman, A. Smith and Walter John son. These other boys entered a plea of not guilty: Ed Sloan, J. M. Coulter, Henry Lauer, George Upton, Ed Prideaux, Roy Williams and P. McDowald. The matter ended in all the boys being discharged, as none of them seemingly told all they knew and they would not "peach on the gang." Most of the boys agreed that un-known persons broke down the barricade and tossed several of the timbers into the gulch, and several boys asserted that the barricade fell when other boys, names unknown, fell against it.

Evidence brought out by Deputy City Attorney Fitzgerald showed that the barricade had been erected across the road-way and sidewalks of First street near Gibba, to warn people that the bridge was unsafe for travel. The evidence given by one witness, Ed Sloan, is a sam ple and was:

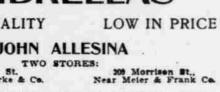

"I was not on the bridge when the bar ricade was torn down. I was out with the boys, to see what was doing, and nothing was doing. I was out for nearly two

"What were you doing during that time?" insisted Mr. Fitzgerald. "I wasn't doin' a thing," answered the witness.
