HE SHOULD HAVE BROUGHT HIS WIFE .-There is some delegate from somewhere attending the Irrigation Convention who should have brought his wife with him to take care of him. A letter from him to his wife was picked upon the street yes-terday. It began: "Dear Wife: I reached here all right, and have had a good time, but I lost my vallse. I attended the meet-ing of the association. See The Orego-As he lost his valise and his letter to his wife, it is evident that he should not go abroad without her. The letter was addressed to a distant part of the state, and had not been inclosed in an en-velope, but the identity of the writer cannot be revealed, as it would make his wife feel sorry to have him exposed. In future an effort will be made to hold meetings of the Irrigation Association here when lawn-sprinkling is in order and the employes of the water committee are kept on the jump to prevent citizens from turning the city's whole water supply loose on their grounds and the streets in

REPAIRS TO ALDER-STREET WHARF.—The extensive repairs to the wharves at the extensive repairs to the wharves at the foot of Alder street, owned by H. W. Corbett and the Macleay estate, are beginning to approach completion, and will be a great improvement to the property. A new slip has been built, new roadways to the upper wharves put in, and the decayed upper ends of the piles under the cayed upper ends of the piles under the lower wharves sawed off and stout beams or caps laid on the tops of the piles to support the floors. Nothing in the way of permanent improvement has been done to these wharves since the great flood, and they were in need of the thorough over-hauling they are now receiving, which will last for some time. A few days ago the river was rising so fast that the workmen began to fear that it would come over the lower wharf and drive them off, but the rain stopped in time to prevent this.

ON WRONG GAME PRESERVE.-The special Deputy Sheriff secured by hunting clubs who shoot along Columbia Slough to protect their preserves from poachers is an energetic man, who attends strictly to business. He found a man at large on one of the shooting grounds a day or two ago and captured him, took his gun from him, and marched him down to F. Beals' place to turn him over for execution or such fate as might await him. The prisoner had been invited to shoot on a preserve, but had innocently strayed on the wrong place, and felt that he had got into "bad sledding." Fortunately for him, Mr. Beal knew him, and so he was al-lowed to go at large, and is not likely to go astray on the wrong shooting ground

-As Special Officer Nash was patrolling his beat last night, about 9 o'clock, he no tleed smoke coming out of E. B. Madden's printing office, First and Alder streets, and he broke in a door and sent a telephone message for a chemical fire engine. In the meantime he exercised excellent judgment in pouring water over the flames, until the firemen arrived, probably preventing what might have been a serious fire. As it was the loss was allest. it was, the loss was slight.

PET HOLLY TREE IS STOLEN .- A small holly tree disappeared from the premises of L. A. Shaw, 580 East Davis street, late-ly, and Mr. and Mrs. Shaw are very anxlous to secure its return. The tree was the pride of their little daughter, who died a short time ago, and, as she had always tended it and considered it her own, it has seemed to be a tie between her and her parents, who greatly deplore its loss, and would gladly pay a reward for its return.

Gladissee, sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary; George Hammond, under a two years' sentence; William Baldwin, sentenced to two years, and George Baldwin, to one year, were taken to Salem yesterday evening by Deputy Sheriff Her-man Schneider and an assistant.

THE First Baptist Church will hold a Christmas bazaar Friday eve., Nov. 21.

BIGGEST AND OLDEST EXPRESSMEN.-The business of an expressman is evidently healthy, for some people at least, as among the expressmen of Portland can be found probably the heaviest man in the city and one of the oldest. The former is J. W. Fleming, who has been in the express business for many years, and appears to have grown stouter year by year, till he now weighs 303 pounds, and looks as plump and rosy as a well-fed country boy. Fleming was formerly driver of an ox-team, and is familiarly known among his old acquaintances as "Multitude," from the number of yokes of oxen he used to drive. He attributes his stoutness to a habit he acquired some time ago of a habit he acquired some time ago of using one to haif a dozen glasses of beer to wash his lunch down. He has quit this now, and diets a little, but his weight grows no less. The other expressman mentioned is J. W., Painter, who is 84 years old, and has been in the business some 20 years. He is as lean as Fleming is the opposite, and weighs little over a third as much, but he gets out every day and attends to his business. It was rathand attends to his business. It was rathand attenus to his business. It was rather a dreary, cheerless morning yesterday for so old and frail a man to turn out, especially as there was not much doing; but he says he has to get out and stir around to limber up.

GATHERING STATISTICS ON PHEASANTS-Game Warden Quimby was going the rounds of the commission houses yester-day with a record-book under his arm. inquiring how many Mongolian pheasants had been received by each of the commission men, whence they came, and to whom they were sold. The law requires commission men to furnish the Game Warden with this information, which he says will give him a pretty accurate account of the number of pheasants marcount of the number of pheasants market during the season, as very few hunters ship direct to the market men.

Mr. Quimby says that not nearly so many pheasants have been arriving as he had expected, probably owing to the stormy weather, but if the weather clears up the hunters will be out in force. But little idea can be formed of the number of pheasants received at the markets by the numbers seen exposed for sale, as the birds are coming and going all the time. There is a lively demand for them, and all that can be obtained can be sold.

THOMAS CAT IS BEYER'S CHUM.—Some years ago there was a dog in this city which was infatuated with the police uniform, and would at any time follow any one wearing it. Now there is a big, black Thomas cat connected with a Front-street business house which, whenever Police-man J. H. Beyer comes clong in the pa-trol of his bent, follows him off and stays with him the remainder of the night. If Beyer has occasion to go into a saloon, the cat follows him and makes himself at the cat follows him and makes himself at home. He asks plainly for something off the lunch-counter, and busies himself with a piece of bologna or whatever is given him until Beyer leaves, when he hastily him until Beyer leaves, when he hastily wipes his paws on his tongue and follows The cat has never shown any desire to follow any other policeman except Beyer, and probably the lunches he gets in saloons have something to do with his at-

CHANCE FOR ROOSEVELT TO KILL BEARS, Among the many millions of Americans who feel sorry because President Roosevelt could not get a chance to kill any bears on his late hunting trip is John Brigham, of this city, who owns a large ranch in Tillamook, on the Nestucca River. Mr. Brigham says, if President Roosevelt will come out here, he will engage to take him to Tillamook, and within two days to find six bears for him to shoot; and he wishes the President to look upon this as an informal invitation. There will be no mistake about the bears, Mr. Brigham says, for his ranch and the woods all around are just full of them. He has known three to be killed at a time there. This is a kind and generous offer on the part of Mr. Brigham, but perhaps it may be overdone, as the President might not care to risk the lives of his "suite" in a place where there are so the week, so that the hunters may kill plenty to furnish a good treat for the institutions.

Edward Jackson, and Fred A. Mullin, who is accused of stealing meerschaum pipes, mates of the institutions. is accused of stealing meerschaum pipes, were each held to await the action of the grand jury by Municipal Judge Hogue. Their bail was fixed at $1000 each.

ROBBERS SCARED OFF WITH LITTLE PLUNDER.—Robbers forced their way into Caswell & Kelly's saloon, Seventh and Morrison streets, early yesterday morning, and got safely away with about $6 in small change, after smashing furniture, etc., to the value of $20. They attacked a rear door, which leads into a pathway running into Seventh street, and the noise they made awoke a Chinese janitor, who notified his employer, and the latter tele-phoned to the police station. In the in-terval that elapsed, however, Policeman Gassett came along, but the robbers had caught the alarm first, and had made Captain Bannan, for many years connected with the Portiand police force, but who, on account of failing health, took up his residence at Long Beach some 12 or 15 years ago, is in the city on a vacation. He has been greatly benefited by his life by the sounding sea and the allowance of crabs claims, etc., which he mixes with his diet, and is looking about as robust and sturdy as a man of his age can expect. and sturdy as a man of his age can ex-pect. He still feeds a large herd of clams every Winter, but they rapidly disappear in the early Summer, when the city people begin to arrive at the beach. The visitors also absorb a large percentage of the ozone in the air, so he thinks it no more than right to lock his cottage for a spell in the Winter and come to town for a change.

News Sought of W. R. Hurst.

Treasurer Werlein received a letter from J. F. Henderson, of Aleda, Ill., yesterday, bluff," replied Mr. Baker, with a happy smile on his face. The friend did step in, saw the sign was justified. "A abouts of W. R. Hurst, who, the letter states, was a resident and a propertyowner in Portland in 1893. Mr. Henderso says Mr. Hurst has a sister living in Aleda, who has not heard from him in nine years. She is now more than 50 years of age, is feeble, and as she feels her end approaching would like to hear from him before she dies. The name of W. R. Hurst does not appear in the directory of 1832, or in that of the year preceding or following and within a large of the week, the "standing-room only" sign will be hung out every night.

It would take a Philadelphia lawyer to point out the weak points in "Alphonse and Gaston," a musical melange that was presented on the Marquam stage last night. But somewhere there is a fatal de-fect, an error, a fault, a dereliction, a lack in the tacking together of this vivalous mechanical mixture.

The plot is a filmy nothing, a bubble of floeting fancy, a vanishing color in a fad-ing rainbow. Were it now a sine qua non, this matter of a plot, a hapty observer might opine that this precious es-sence had been dissipated by the heat of the dialogue. But, of course, it's there It is unquestionably true that about the same characters are on the stage at the end of the last act that were there when ena took place. There were songs, pres-tidigitations, acrobatic marvels, dances and dire portents. Throughout, Gaston and Alphonse conducted themselves with propriety and decorum. They said their little lines and bowed their little bows, made their jokes and threw their fits with Gallic grace. Sometimes when there was nothing to do behind the scenes, some beauteous maidens came out and danced and chirruped sweet ditties and displayed mexceptionable gowns. Candor compele the admission that the chorus girls were pretty well trained, and, if their vocalic talents had equaled their willingness, there would have been music. But let a veil be thrown over the latter. We may cull from the graves of the departed a flower for memory's sake, but to dig up, carry off and flaunt-well, it seems too

"Belle of New York" Tonight.

Tonight at the Marquam Grand Theater the ever welcome musical comedy, "The Belle of New York," will begin an engagement of three nights with a special mat-inee Saturday at 2:15 o'clock. The company this season is up to the same high standard as heretofore, and one of the most enjoyable performances of the year may be looked for. Included in this com-pany are Miss Floye Redledge, or the Salvation Army Loise, Mr. James Darling. who will again be seen in his splendld character creation of Kenneth Mugg. Mr. Joe Natus, so long with the Hoyt farces and a man with a grand voice, will be seen as Blinky Bill. Looking Forward to Duck Peasts.—The inmates of various Homes and charitable institutions have heard of the annual donation of game which they are likely to receive soon, and are looking forward with much pleasure to feasting on wild ducks. Ducks have been so plentiful this scason that nearly everybody has foasted on them, but they have not been seen at charitable institutions yet. It is to be hoped that the weather may prove favorable for duck-hunting the latter part of the week, so that the hunters may kill plenty to furnish a continue was a kind and generous offer on the part of Mr. Brigham, but perhaps in the part of Mr. Brigham, but perhaps as kind and generous offer on the part of Mr. Brigham, but perhaps the right and character actor of ability, will be seen as Harry Bronson, while Mr. Ned Nye, who is almost a replica of Mr. Dan Daly, will be seen as Ichabod Bronson. "Hearts of Onk."

The advance sale of seats will begin to morrow (Friday) morning for James A. Herne's beautiful play "Hearts of Oak," which comes to the Marquam Grand Theater next Monday and Tuesday nights November 24 and 25.

The beautiful scenery and massive me-chanical effects used in the elaborate scenic production of Joseph Arthur's drama "Lost River" are conceded to be the most costly and elaborate ever given a production of this kind. Besides this outlay the play has a multiplicity of effects from a camera to a heavy toll-gate which stretches across the West Haden toll-road. Down this road three thoroughbred horses and their riders dash at full speed during one of the thrilling situations with which the play abouted Gassett came along first, and had made caught the alarm first, and had made their escape. Then the patrol wagon dashed up, ready for action. A search of the place revealed that the robbers tried situations with which the play abounds. Contented Woman," Hoyt's greatest com-edy, is presented by one of the best stock companies ever seen on the Pacific Coast, namely, the Neill Stock Company.

On next Sunday afternoon, at the Baker Theater, the Neill Stock Company will present, for the first time in Portland for years, that excellent comedy, by Henry Guy Carleton, in which Nat C. Goodwin made his first and greatest success, Gold Mine," in three acts. This play will be the bill at the Baker Theater all of next week, including a special matinee on Thanksgiving day, Thursday, November 27. The play is one of exceptional merit and a comedy of the highest order, giving the members of the Neill Stock Company an unlimited scope in which to display the splendid ability of its members. The scene of "A Gold Mine" is laid in Eng-land, and tells of the comical experiences of a resident of the State of Call fornia while visiting the empire across the pond. Silas K. Woolcott, of California, is the part in which Mr. Goodwin made his first great hit, and the role in the hands of Mr. Charles Wyngate will not go beg ging and will be played with all the artis-tic finish of a meritorious actor. Miss Countles will sustain her enviable reputa tion as an accomplished actress in the character of the Hon. Mrs. Meredith, the sister of Sir Everard Foxwood. She will give the part all the attention of the true artist, and success will crown her ef-and repaired. H. Singheimer, 73 Third st. There is a great demand for seats for every performance next week, and what new scheme Manager Baker will invent to make comfortable the immense crowds which will attend the Thanksgiving per-formances it is hard to conceive. But that which will attend the Inanagyving per-formances it is hard to conceive. But that they will be carefully provided for there is no doubt, for Mr. Baker has the splen-did faculty of always contributing to the comfort of his patrons.

RESCUED FROM STORMS.

difesaving Crew Does Good Service in Alaska-Outlook at Nome.

J. F. Sinnott, deputy Collector of Cus-toms for Alaska, and a well-known young man of this city, is home for a month's visit. Mr. Sinnott was first appointed by ex-Collector J. W. Ivey, and when the latter's office was taken in charge by Lieutenant Jarvis, the new Collector at once reappointed Mr. Sinnott as deputy, ognition of ability and service Mr. Sinnott came down from Nome on the last trip of the Roanoke. "It was a constant storm since October 8, at Nome, he said yesterday. The Ohio had to remain 17 days before she could complete the discharge of her cargo and take on her passengers. The Garonne, Kimball and Roanoke were unable to land all their freight on account of the weather, and also because of the lack of lighters, so many of the latter having gone in the recent storms.
"Our lifesaving apparatus has done

some good work this Fall. Lieutenant H. G. Hamlet and his boat crew, who were landed from the reveune cutter Bear to take charge of the lifesaving outfit, rescued many people off barges, and in the case of two schooners that ashore, fired a line over each and got the crews off without loss, Lieutenant Hamlet, referred to by Mr. Sinnott, is the executive officer of the Bear, and is one of the most popular and efficient officers in the revenue cutter service. He has had long experience in the stormy waters of the North, and is well known to many a stranded whaler and prospector.

Mr. Sinnott and Dr. Call, who jointly attended to Collectorship affairs under Lieutenant Jarvis at Nome, kept a record of arrivals and departures from that port. This shows that $700 people landed at Nome from the States during the past year, and 4500 have come away to the States. It is estimated from these figures that about $500 people will Wiston. that about 2500 people will Winter at Nome and vicinity this year. Mr. Sin-nott says that the production of gold at Nome will be very much greater next season than ever before, because of the increased facilities afforded by the building of so many flumes and long ditches. He will return to Southeastern Alaska in about one month.
