CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Oregonian's Telephones.

WHOM WAS THE JOKE ON?-A well-known insurance agent a few days ago ordered a suit of clothes from his tailor, residence. His brother chanced to repair of parts of his own, which had caused the mistake. When the matter was explained to the owner, he exclaimed: "Well, that is a good joke on me." The brother replied: "It may be a good joke, but to my notion it is on me."

good loke, but to my notion it is on me." as the fellow's tombstone was, according to the inscription on it. The tailor had taken a wide "hem" in the bottom of the pants legs, and he is now turning this down, and will put a facing of some other cloth inside, but the brother is not much pleased with this. The moral is: "Hang your clothes on your own hooks," but just whom the loke is on

TO EXPLOIT BORAX FIELD.-A sample of crude borax from a deposit about 10 miles square, lately discovered in Eastern Orogon, has been sent to Woodard & Clarke for testing by W. C. Cowgill and Professor A. H. Willis, of Baker City. Professor Willis is the engineer and geologist who discovered the deposit. The deposit appears to be very rich, in many places being almost pure borax, as it crops out of the ground. Most of the borax in use now is distilled from take waters and marshes, a rather expensive process, and the price is higher than usual, about $150 a ton, owing to the fact that all the borax-producing fields in the United States are controlled by a trust, and the additional fact that borax and boracic acid are entering more largely into use in manufactures than ever before, in the face of a constantly increasone than a gold mine, and will add very largely to the wealth of Oregon.

Council has an ordinance requiring fireescapes to be put in all buildings where they are necessary. No one disputes the propriety of this ordinance, but many ob-

DELAY IN POSTOFFICE IMPROVEMENT .-

On inquiry at the Postoffice yesterday, it was learned that Mr. Croasman had not yet been notified of the change in plans for the new addition, and that all he knew of the matter was the dispatch published in yesterday's paper. No place has been selected for the temporary of-fice, as the plans and proposals have not been forwarded to

NO MAIL DELIVERY ON IMPASSABLE No MAIL DELIVERY ON INPASSABLE STREETS.—The evil effects of allowing streets to become impassable is visible now in connection with East Thirtieth street from Belmont to Stark, and Marguerite avenue south of Hawthorne avenue, which are in such bad condition that mail carriers provided with horses and carts are not able to deliver letters there. The residents affected would have the carriers leave their horses and carts are not to them on foot, but and make their way to them on foot, but this is not allowable, as it is not safe for a carrier to go too far away from his cart. The people who cannot be reached by the carriers have to go to Section C for their mail for the time being. They have no recourse and no just cause of complaint, as the postal authorities do not undertake to establish mail delivery service in streets which are not improved or sidewalked, or where the houses are not numbered. If they want their mail delivered at their residences by carriers, they must put these streets in order. From the condition of some of the streets which carriers do deliver mail on, it can be seen that they are not afraid of a little mud, but when a street becomes so bad that a horse and cart cannot with safety be driven along it, it is time to abandon maii delivery on it.

SAD FATE OF CHINESE PHEASANT .-- Among a lot of Chinese pheasants reserved by a dealer here yesterday was me which had been wounded and crippled last scason. One of its legs had been broken at the knee joint and a number of shot had remained in the leg, which had healed up in such a crooked shape that it was of no assistance to the bird in walking or running. Some of the shot protruded from the side of the leg and were polished quite bright from com-ing in contact with grass or brush as the bird hopped around. Notwithstanding its fortune, the unfortunate bird had naged to live another year and was in fair condition to make a meal for its shooter. It played in rather hard luck to go through all its suffering and live another year, only to be shot and eaten at last, but such is life to all creation

POULTRY CROWDS THE MARKET.-Turkeya, geese, ducks and chickens are so plentiful at present that they are fairly crowding one another, and pedestrians as well, off the sidewalks in many places. The sale of poultry has been lessened of late by the large amount of game thrown on the market, and large quantities have accumulated on the hands of commission men and dealers. As Thanksgiving ap-proaches, turkeys begin to move more rapidly, and there will be such a demand from now till next Thursday that there will be but little poultry or game left after the 27th. The receipts of Mongolian pheasants, blue and ruffed grouse and quall grow larger daily since the storm ceased, and all who desire to feast on any of these fine birds will be able to do so if they have money enough to buy

OLD SHANTY IS TORN DOWN .- The old shanty on the property of the Burke es-tate, adjoining Woodard, Clarke & Ca.'s store, which is being torn down, to give place to a one-story brick to be creeted by A. S. Hall, for a restaurant, is rapidly disappearing. The joists and other tim-per in the building, which are sound, have been purchased by an electric lineman, who is going to build himself a house. A new building on the quarter block owned by the Burke heirs will soon be necessary, but, owing to legal complica-tions among the heirs, it is not likely to be built for some time. Hall has a lease of a part of the property for five years. TEMPERANCE SUNDAY.—Tomorrow, which is known among Sunday-school workers as World's Temperance Sunday, will be usual interest in Trinity Episcopal Sunday school. In ad-dition to a brief opening service, inter-spersed with patriotic hymns, there will be a blackboard "chalk talk" by H. W. Stone, general secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and the presentation of a beautiful and appropriate souvenir by the super-intendent of the school. A large attend-ance is expected. Parents and friends are cordially invited; also temperance workers connected with other Sunday schools. School opens promptly at 9:39 A. M., Bishop Scott Armory, Nineteenth
