Paul Wessinger, chairman of the committee on the Osaka exhibit, reported in favor of an appropriation of $2000. He said that the Chamber of Commerce, Board of Trade and Manufacturers' Association had about raised en additional fund of $2000. Mr. Dosch's estimate of expenses was $3000, and $400 had been added for contingencies. The O. This discussion grow partly out of a request of Mr. Doseh that an overdraft of $167.31 be charged to the new account. His expenses to Japan had exceeded the $1000 set aside for his mission by that amount. The finance committee had remated his salary and expenses before he left at $500. The sum of $200 more had been granted for contingencies. His claim was disallowed by the adoption of the finance committee's report.

TO KEEP POSTOFFICE YARD Object of Postmuster Cronsman in

"What I want to do is to keep the Postoffice yard intact as much as possi-ble, so that the green grass will be an ent to the immediate neighborhood, said Postmaster 'Croasman yesterday afternoon, when asked about his plans for the improvement of the building. Con-tinuing further, Mr. Croasman said: "Three things had to be taken into consideration when the plans for the enlarge ment were drawn up. First, we had to see that the new part of the building would not shut off light, that the yard would be disturbed as little and possible, and that we should not have to move out when the improvements were going on.

"The lighting problem is very important. There are no light shafts in the present Postoffice, and if the plans of the department are carried out, and the ad-ditions bullt along the sides on Fifth and Sixth streets, many of the rooms in the old part of the building will have to have artificial light all the time. I wanted to make some plan that would obviate this, and have the additions where they would

"Then, again, if these proposed additions are going to be placed on the Fifth and Sixth street sides, over half of the best part of the yard will have to be done away with; but if they follow my plans I think the yard can be saved, and the building will not be an eyesore, either. "We ought to be able to make the changes without having to seek temporary quarters while the work is going on. If we have to move far from the business portion of the city for many weeks the resulting inconvenience will be very great, and we should be able to find some way of scounting it so far as possible. "I don't know just what the department wishes to substitute for the plans I sent, as the only word I have received has been the letter published from Senator Mitchell and the dispatches from Washington. Of course, the architects may have worked out a better plan, but I think that I gave matter very careful consideration, and that what I proposed would be as good n improvement as any.

"I am very proud of the Postoffice square. There are many old trees that were planted over 20 years ago, and I think that the green grass and foliage are very beautiful. It should be disturbed as littlé as possible, and we will do our best to improve the building without injuring yard, that has been one of the points of beauty for so long."

CRISIS IN OUR MORALS.

Dr. Wise Prenches an Eloquent Sermon.

"There are tens of thousands of men who are simply walking cash registers of their business," said Dr. Stephen S. Wise last evening at the Temple Beth Israel. The subject of his sermon was "The Present Crisis in Morals: an Echo of the New York Conference of Religious."

Dr. Wise has recently returned from this conference, which is a branch of the National Congress of Religions, an outgrowth of the International Parliament of Religions, held during the Chicago World's Fair. His subject was divided into four heads.

DEATH OF PROMINENT MASON.

Alexander Thomas, a thirty-sec ond-degree Mason and resident of Portland for 40 years, died Thursday evening in his apartments in the Selling-Hirson building, after having been an invalid for several years. He was the son of the late Captain Isaac Thomas, who operated a steamer line on the Upper Columbia and Snake Rivers.

Mr. Thomas was born in New York in 1858, and came to the Pacific Coast when he was 7 years old. At the age of 18 years he was appointed a cadet from Washington to West Point, and after graduating served three years as Second Lieutenant in the Army. He then re-ired to engage with his father in the steamboat business.

The funeral services were held yes-

NOT FOR INCORPORATION.

Montavilla Citizens Vote Down the Project.

At a slimly attended meeting of the citizens of Montavilla last night in Aylsworth Hall a vote was taken at the close which stood 7 for and 17 against incor-poration. The meeting had been called to take steps to incorporate, and the result was reached after a fair and thorough discussion. E. M. Stephens was elected chairman, and W. C. Aylsworth secre-

Mr. Stephens made a statement as to he object of the gathering, and invited a full expression for and against incorpora-tion. Dr. S. Murray spoke for incorporation, which he said was the only way to get an abundant supply of pure water and maintain good order, and also keep out of Portland. He thought that, if incorpor-ated, Montavilla would be able to pro-vide a water system of its own. Furthermore, without incorporation Montavilla was sure to be gobbled up by Portland in a short time. He said that he had been informed that a scheme had been concocted to bring all of Mount Tabor into Portland as far as the Mansfield road.

George Berringer spoke against incor-poration, as also did Captain Schneider, They were of the opinion that it would be better for the place to remain as it was for a few years longer. Mr. Berringer said that a great many people had moved into the Villa beause they could have cheap homes. Captain Schneider re-marked that the first thing that would be done after incorporation would be to issue bonds and pile up expenses.

W. C. Ayjsworth, who is the leader of the movement for incorporation, stated his position on the subject. He said that the question of annexation had been disposed of at a former meeting, and it only remained to settle whether the place should incorporate, and whether the 2000 people who lived in Montavilla should continue to do so without government or police regulations. He gave several in-stances where the peace of the place had been broken by outside toughs with perfect impunity. He also spoke of the water question and of the shortage during last Summer. Mr. Aylsworth also said that he had heard that a scheme had been con-cocted to bring Montavilla into Portland at the next session of the Legislature, and he declared that next Summer those who were now opposed to incorporation would

Owing to the absence of Dr. William DeVenny, champion of annexation, the meeting was rather quiet.
