Roots Obstracer Sewher.—The city's sewer-repair goard are having a hard time endeavoring to clear out a choked sewer in front of the Elishop Scott Academy on Everett street, between Nine-teenth and Twentieth. By gotting down a manhole into the sewer and probing it a manhole into the sewer and provided with long sticks fastened together an obstruction was located. A shaft was then sunk flown over this obstruction, the sewer broken into, and it was found that it was choked by a mass of root fibers thrown out by a rootlet from an elm shade tree, which had found an entrance the the wayer through a shight defert. The to the sewer through a slight defect. The obstruction was removed, but the sewer remained choked and another obstruction was located, which proved to be of the same nature as the first, and still the sewer was not cleared. More rode were run into the sewer and a third obstruction was located. A third shaft was sunk and this obstruction was found to be a mass. of root fibers from another elm tree. There is a row of rather handsome elm trees along the block in front of the academy, and the repairers are wonder-ing how may obstructions they will have to remove to open the sewer in front o this block. Of course, they are inclined to hold the elm trees responsible for all the trouble and expense in connection with the clearing out of the sewer, but if it had been made so tight that no rootlet of the eims could have found its way into the sewer, there would have been no ob-

CELEBRATING A SUCCESSFUL YEAR.-The private dining-room of the Commercial Club was enlivened yesterday by a special luncheon prepared for the agency force of the Equitable Life, who spent the af-ternoon at the club rooms in order to celebrate the close of the most successful year which the Equitable Life has ever experienced, as well as the most successful year of the Oregon agency since its organization. The best of feeling prevailed and while the inner man was amply taken care of, the mind was by no means neglected. Many entertaining incidents of the agency corps' past year's experiences were related and congratulatory telegrams from the home office, commending the spiendid results attained, were received with intense en-filusinsm. Special satisfaction was expressed at the home officers' hudatory mention of the quality of the risks placed on its books by the Oregon agency, which has kept the death rate phenomenally small and increased the renewal collec-tions to $23,000. Considering Oregon's ulation this is an enormous sum, and proves conclusively that the in-suring public of the state holds the Equitable Life in high esteem. Before leaving for their homes in different parts of the state the agency force pledged Manager Samuel, that, notwithstanding the large gains of the past year, 1963 would witness a still greater increase.

New Wells-Fargo Barn.—The new barn for Wells, Fargo & Co., at Eleventh and Lovejoy streets, is practically com-pleted and will probably be occupied the first of next week. It is of two stories in height, and is 78x100 feet, with a 25-foot driveway occupying the remainder of the quarter-block. The interior fittings and furnishings of the place will surpues any-thing of the kind in the city. Electricity and gas for lighting will be provided in every department, and steam radiators for heating and supplying bot water for the harness-room and lavatories, which are fitted with marble basins. There will also be a bathroom for the employes, furnished with a gas-heating apparatus, which heats water enough for a bath be-fore one can tell the time on his watch. The style in which the company furnished this building may give a hint of the style of building it will soon erect at Fourth and Yamhill streets.

WORK ON NEW SEWERS.-Work was commenced Monday on the sewer to be constructed in Halsey street, in Holladay's addition. It is quite an extensive job, and the first sewer improvement inaugurated this year. The weather was so fav-orable for such work and there is so much of it to be done this year that the temptation to get this job started could not be resisted. The sewer in Morrison street was started just before New Year's and a trench dug half way across Fourth street, to the disgust of teamsters, but the work has not progressed any further, and as the weather seems to be unsettled in its course for the next month or two, there is no telling when these sewers will be completed. They have, however, not been delayed any by work being started on these

FACTORY FOUNDATION FINISHED .- The extensive and expensive piling foundation for the proposed tin-can factory, on the water front, near the foot of Fourteenth street, on which Messts. Ferguson & Houston, of Astoria, have been engaged for some time, has been completed as far as their contract extends. As there has been no movement toward going further with the work they have removed their plant. Some age beginning to fear that the scheme for building the factory has been abandoned, but this does not appear likely in view of the large amount that has been expended on the foundation, and remarks. the energetic manner in which the work was urged ahead from the start,

ARRESTED UNDER Suspicion.—Several orthice characters were brought into se Police Station yesterday morning by Detectives Kerrigan and Snow. John E. Potter, Joe Duffy, Leo Brown, and Violet Moore were arrested in different parts of the city, but it is thought that they all belong to the same gang. The detectives believe that this is the gang that has been ausing so much trouble, throwing bricks through windows, breaking in doors, and committing other petty thefts. The mem-bers will be held until some evidence can be obtained against them, or this failing

they will be asked to leave the city with all possible speed. HANDSOME ELMS PRESERVED .- A concrete sidewalk is being constructed on the east side of Third street at the interthe east side of Third street at the Intersection of Jefferson, in front of the property which was for many years the home of Rev. George H. Atkinson. There are six handsome elm trees along the curb in front of the property and they are not to be removed on account of the sidewalk.
They were procured from the East and started by Mr. Atkinson nearly 40 years ago, and are now shapely and hundsome trees about a foot in diameter and will be allowed to figurish in memory of him.
To Thas Up East Burnside Street.— TO THAN UP HANT BURNSIDE STREET. Property-owners on East Burnside street are now to have an opportunity to see what kind of an improvement was made on that street, as it is to be opened up by a trench for a water main. This main is to be an eight-inch one, and to extend from East Elienth to Near Theorems and the content of to be an eight-inch one, said to extend from East Eighth to East Twenty-eighth street, and will be a great benefit to the residents on the street. Work on the job has been commenced, and it will be pushed to completion as rapidly as prac-ticable.

FULL-BLOWN ROSES PLENTIFUL.-Fullplaces about the city. They had pretty well disappeared before Christmas, but the warm chinook wind of several days past has caused quite a number of buds to expand into bloom. There are also many species of flowers in bloom, from violets up, and people who take pride in their gardens hope that there will not come any cold spap late in the season, as the sap has not ceased flowing in rose-bushes and shrubbery. A sharp frost would do much damage. The Winter has been a banner one so far and vegeta-tion is more luxuriant than usual at this season. A gardener said yesterday that, owing to their emarkable fine Fall weather, he had raised two crops of potatoes on one patch of ground last year. After digging the first one he let the ground rest for three weeks and planted the sec-ond crop on August 17. The yield was very good, but he irrigated them plentifully in their early stages and did not dig them till after the rains began.

PORTLAND PRESERVERY MEETS.-The Portland Presbytery held a meeting yesterday in the First Presbyterian Church. Rev. J. V. Milligan and Rev. J. R. Weich were authorized to visit Southern Tillameck and organize a church on January IE. Rev. F. A. Mixsell was received into the presbytery. A call from the church of Oregon City was extended to Rev. Mr. Mixsell, which he signified his intention of accepting. Arrangements were made for the installation service. Attention was called to the fact that the General Assem-bly, which meets in Los Angeles the coming Summer, has not planned to visit Oreing Summer, has not planned to visit Oregon or Washington. A committee was appointed to make every effort to have the commissioners visit the Northwest, composed of Dr. E. P. Hill, Dr. W. S. Holt, Rev. W. S. Gilbert, Elders William M. Ladd and S. P. Lockwood. Dr. Hill was asked to confer with Dr. Henry Van Dyke, present moderator, with a view to have him pay Portland a personal visit.

Growth of the Printing Business.—

GROWTH OF THE PRINTING BUSINESS.— The number of job printing offices in Portland at present is about 40, large and small, while 30 years ago there were three, About half these offices are small affairs, the proprietors of which do their own work. There are about 20 in which a large number of men are employed and the proprietors of which are united in an association named in honor of the inventor sociation named in honor of the inventor Benjamin Franklin. The printers have a union for their protection, and the em-ployers have an association for theirs. There is harmony and good feeling be-tween employes and employers at present, but, of course, the employers are looking forward to becoming employers, and the ers are looking out to see that they do not have to become employes in th service of those they now employ, and so all are trying to do what is best. The em-ployes now have to work nine hours a day, but they hope to have an eighthour day by and by.

COOKING LESSON ON SMELT.-The famou Columbia River smelt was the subject of a most appetizing demonstration lecture given by Miss Voorhees yesterday afteron at the School of Domestic Science In one of Miss Voorhees' recipes for smelt she stuffs the fish with a savory onionseasoned mixture and bakes it in the oven, and another attractive way of serv-ing them is in pates—or in the form of pates as they are not chopped, but are rolled into a ring, breaded and baked, A delicious clam coup was also made. Th seasoned, and best of all, the clams were tender. Miss Voorhees says that for the clam soup, either little neck or razor clams may be used, but when obtainable the razor clams are better. In cooking them she avoids excessive heat, as this hardens and toughens them. On Tuesday the same lecture is to be peated with the addition of several new

SPECIAL OFFICERS APPOINTED .- The regular meeting of the Police Commission was held Monday afternoon. Charles Clark and C. J. Laird were appointed special officers for the steel bridge, but will not receive any pay from the Police Department. The resignation of H. C. Wilson was accepted. Bills for the past month were read and approved, and the meeting adjourned after a session of less than half an hour.

BIRD TALK TONIGHT.

John Burroughs Society Will Give Stereopticon Entertainment.

What has been said by an expert to be most charming and lifelike picture of bird life ever shown in Portland will be seen at the stereopticon entertainment on birds by the John Burroughs Club tonight at the chapel of the Unitarian Church, it is a view of a dinner party in a family of chickadees. The matronly air of the mother is contrasted with the ecstasy of a hungry little gormandizer, who, all a-flutter, is in the act of taking the worm from his mother's beak. Next to him on the limb of the tree is another birdling, his head tucked softly down mong his downy feathers, the perfect picture of contentment and satiation, while poised beligerently on the end of the branch is his cross and hungry broth-er, with restless wings, a fighting eye and a wideopen mouth. This picture has been named, "Present, Past and Future." The photographs were taken by W. L. Finley and H. T. Bohlman. The lecture, "Oregon Birds Caught With a Camera," will be given by Mr. Finley. Dr. Woods Hutchinson will make the introductory

Mr. Parsons will probably attend the livestock convention to be held in Kahsas City on January 12 and 13, "I was instrumental in bringing the livestock men to Salt Lake City some years ago, said Mr. Parsons yesterday, "but I would be very glad to see the convention come to Portland in 1904. It would mean a great deal for the cattle industry in Oregon, and the citizens here should make a vigorous effort to accomplish this. There are other cities in the field that will try to secure the convention, and it will not come to Portland if the people here are sleepy

Deputy City Engineer A. M. Shannon, who has been visiting his old home in South Carolina for the past month, has returned and is at his post in the City Hall looking the better for a vacation. He has seen all sorts of weather on his trip, from 33 below zero, while passing through Wyoming, up to sunsiline and a pole game on Christmas at home. He says he saw no country so good as Oren while he was away. Of course Missouri and Central Kentucky beautiful, but there is nothing there like Oregon, no fresh green grass, no bloom-ing roses at Christmas, and Mr. Shannon says he has made up his mind to tie to Oregon, which is the country that sults him best of all.

NEWSPAPER HISTORY. Interesting Paper Rend Before the William G. Ellot Fraternity.

The William G. Eliot Fraternity of the First Unitarian Church of this city is striving to create an interest in the study of historical subjects on the part of its members. The general subject for the season, which began October 14, 1902, and will close May 19 next, is "The History of Oregon to February 14, 1839." This has been divided into sub-topics, beginning with the earliest mention of Oregon and following along step by step through the various phases of development.

On the first Tuesday of each month a special paper is secured from some one who treats the subject assigned somewhat exhaustively. Last evening the topic was "The First Newspapers," and the paper was read by George H. Himes, who has been gathering material relative thereto for more than 20 years. His paper, of more than an hour's length, was listened to with the closest attention. It began with the advent of the first printing press in Oregon, in April, 1839, at Lapwai, now in Idaho, and followed its career until it ceased active service in October, 1848, near Hillsboro. The career of the Spectator was reviewed from February 5, 1846, the date of its first issue, to March, 1855, when it ceased to exist, being followed by the Oregon City Argus, which, after various changes, may be said practically to survive in the Oregon Statesman of today. The original press of the Spectator is yet doing good service in the State Journal, of Eugene. The paper closed with giving somewhat in detail the early history of The Oregonian, showing that the first paper in San Francisco, the Alta; the first paper in Portland, December 4, 1850; the first paper Bird Pictures and Lecture for bene-fit of John Burroughs Society at Unitarian north of the Columbia River, the Co Chapel tonight at 8 o'clock. COMING ATTRACTIONS.

"Princess Chie" Tomorrow.

night, January 10.

Tomorrow (Thursday) night, "Prince Chic," the delightful comic opera, which made such a good impression in this city last season, will again be seen at the Mar-quam Grand Theater. According to the Puget Sound papers the company is even was among the best Portland enjoyed.

"The Wrong Mr. Wright." The advance sale of seats will be gin tomorrow (Thursday) morning, at 10 o'clock, for Harry Beresford in "The Wrong Mr Wright," which comes to the Marquam Grand Theater next Saturday

"The Little Minister."

Starting with the usual Sunday matine the Neill stock company will present all next week J. M. Barrie's famous play, "The Little Minister." "The Little Min-ister" is the play in which Maude Adams made such a tremendous hit, and is con-ceded to be one of the best dramas ever written. The production of the play that will be given by the Nelll stock company will be one of the best that has been seen in this Western country. The scene of the play is laid in Scotland, in and around the little village of Thrums, and gives ample opportunity for the portrayal of the Scot-tish characters whose fame for genuine humor is so well known. No doubt the Baiter will display the "standing room only" sign at every performance.

"Sandy Bottom" at Cordray's. "Sandy Bottom," playing this week at Cordray's, is a most natural and refresh-ing comedy-drama, and is certainly pleas-ing the nightly audiences, judging from the spontaneous applause, which is very frequent. The dramatic incidents are relieved by some very clever comedy on the part of Edward Allen, a colored "gern-man," who had many recalls, and the singing by the village quartet is a treat highly appreciated. The company is an all-around good one, all the characters be-ing well sustained. The play will continue ughout the week, with the usual Sat-

Beginning next Sunday matinee, at 2:15, and continuing throughout the week will successful comedy-drama of life on the sea coast, entitled "Down by the Sea," which comes to Portland overwhelmed with laudatory notices from critics wher-ever it has been presented. RED MEN AT BANQUET. Past Sachems' Association Holds Annual Celebration,

The members of the Past Sachems' Association of the Oregon Red Men cele-brated the sixth year of their history with a banquet in A. O. U. W. Hall last night. It was a thoroughly enjoyable night. It was a thoroughly enjoyable affair, and there was a full attendance. The genial Past Sachems, 79 in number, sat about one long and handsomely deco rated table, and a committee on arrange ments which included President Rudolph ments which includes the Wildi, J. Reisch, A. Koessel, L. Carstensen, G. M. Orton, Dr. S. L. King, J. V. Lankin, J. H. Griebel and Dr. P. S. Langworthy saw to it that the material part of the banquet was all that the eason permitted, President Wildi was presented with gavel, which he lent to Toastmaster J. J. Engelhardt for the evening. Mr. Engel-hardt made a happy presiding officer, and these toasts were responded to: "The Great Council of the United States," by A. B. Cherry; "The Great Council of Oregon," by William C. A. Pohl; "The Veterans," by J. V. Lankin; "The Past Sachems," by Robert Holman; "Our Estate," by G. M. Orton, and "The Aborigines," by S. Louis King.

The association rooms were handsomely decorated in honor of the event. these toasts were responded to: ly decorated in honor of the event.

BARRETT'S GREAT SALE Continues - New Arrivals Also Marked Down.

We confess the magnitude of the response to our matchless New Year sale of lighting fixtures, etc., has surprised us. But don't be afraid; the beautiful goods are not all gone yet. The probability is that the sale will inst all this week. If there was delay in waiting upon you when you visited us yesterday, don't be daunted. Come again today, and buy what you want. We have decided to make no exception whatever in marking down prices-not even the arrivals of new goods which have come in this week, late ar-rivals, yhich should have been here for the Christmas trade.
