BOOK AGENT KEPT THE MONEY .- The work of a bogus book agent has recently been brought to the attention of the police. The case against him, however, is about three months old, and there seems but little hope of catching the offender. About three months ago Mrs. Charles Miller, who lives at Mount Tabor, was induced to give her subscription for a monthly periodical known as "The Brown Book," of Boston, and to pay 16 months' for a subscription in advance. She was told that by paying for the 16 months in advance she would be given a large cook-book free of charge. She walted until the the second paper was due, but never heard from her subscription. As a last resort she addressed a letter to the firm in Chicago, and was told that the agent had no authority to work for them, and that he had not sent them the price of her subscription. The firm did not wish, however, that patrons should lose any-thing by the action of such agents, and promptly sent her a receipt for a year's subscription to the paper. They asked her to report the matter to the police, and have them make an effort to find the offender. Mrs. Miller was in the possession of a receipt for her 16 months' subscription, which was signed W. M. Hull. The police think he has made good his escap before this time, but will make an effort to find him.

GUESS AT WEIGHT OF HOGS .- A plle of carcasses of dressed hogs in front of a commission house is certain to attract a crowd, every person in which is desirous of judging the weight of each of the car-cusses. Yesterday such a crowd was col-lected around some larger and more interesting hogs than usual, and soon judg-ing weights commenced, each marking his judgment on a slip of paper. Some one proposed to bet that he could guess near-er the weight of the largest hog than any one else. Several wagered $1 on their own judgment, and all were much below the man who proposed the betting when it came to the show-down. He had marked down $50, and said that was the weight of the hog. The dealer, who came out to see what was going on, pointed to 450 marked on one check of the hog's jaw, and said it was not the weight of the hog, as the bettor had evidently supposed, but was the number of the carcass on the shipping receipt. All bets were declared off on the ground of fraudulent marks.

SCHOOLBOY FALLS DEAD .-- While on his way to school yesterday morning, Joseph Campau, aged 13 years, suddenly dropped dead from heart failure. Dr. Zeigier was Immediately called and did what she could to restore him to consciousness, but no trace of life was left in his motionless form. After examining the case carefully, Dr. Zeigler said that she felt sure it was heart failure that caused his death. The way that he fell shows that he was dead before falling, and that the fall did not cause his death. His face struck souarely on the walk, and his hands were not put out to check the fall. If he had been alive at the time he fell, he would surely have tried to check the fall with his Mr. Howard saw him fall and ran to pick him up. There was no trace of life from the first. The boy resided at 850 Davison street, and was attending the Clinton Kelly School. His people are said to live out in the country, and he was arding here and going to school.

Little Minister" is a play that has the distinction of making one of the most pronounced successes ever recorded a pro-duction in the history of theatricals in this country. It is a play that appeals to the inest feeling of all who witness a per-formance. It abounds in situations that are filled with charming sentiment and quiet comedy which never fails to to As bring forth the most hearty approval. Lady Babble, the part in which Maude Adams achieved so much success, will be will be given an interpretation by Catherine countiss that will surprise her most ar-ient admirers. She has the peculiar qualfications the part calls for, as well as the artistic finish necessary to its proper portrayal. George Allison, as the little minister, will give a pollshed delineation of the character. William Bernard has the role of Lord Rintoul, which in his hands will receive a portrayal that will be flawless. A character given into his keeping will always receive the proper interpretation. The seats for every per-formance of "The Little Minister" are in great demand, and every performance durthe week will see the Baker jammed to the doors.

"The Tyrnnny of Tears."

Paul Gilmore, who will appear at the Marguam Grand Theater next Monday night in Haddon Chambers' comedy of temperament, "The Tyranny of Tears," is a young actor of magnetic personality who starred for a number of seasons in the romantic drama. As D'Artagnan in the romannic drama. As D'Arlaghan in Durnas, "Les Trois Mousquetairs" and as the dashing Gil de Berault in "Under the Red Robe," Glimore made a pro-nounced success. The part of Clement Parbury in "The Tyranny of Tears" is well calculated to display the great talent of Mr. Glimore, who has the advan-tage of a fine voice and stage presence. The company and production are of the best and play has the advantage of nor-

he finds every one very cordial, and old subscribers nod a welcome, and say: "Put me down for the same as last year." He has already $5500 subscribed, but wants $5000-"the same as last year." The first year the Board of Charities was organized the amount of subscriptions was $3600, and the average since has been between $5000 and $6000. In the Winter of 1853-4, after the financial crash, when hard times struck the city, the subscriptions amount-ed to $12,500, and several hundred men who had no work were given employment on the streets. As much money as is really necessary for charity purposes can always be obtained, but in prosperous times there are not so many applicants for charity.

FIRST-STREET REPAIRS DELAYED .- Man-FIRST-STREET REFARES DELAYED.-MART-ager Fuller, of the Portland Raliway Company, and Manager Swigert, of the City & Suburban Raliway Company, had arrived at an amicable arrangement with City Engineer Elliott in regard to repairing the pavement on their rights of way on Front street, but the repair work has been laid aside for the present. The propbeen had aside for the present. The prop-erty-owners on the street concluded that it was desirable that a new improvement should be made, and a petition is being circulated asking that a pavement of wood blocks treated with preservatine be laid, which has been signed by some of the largest preservation by some of the largest property-owners. On account of this the railway companies will not undertake to make repairs which in a short time they might have to tear up and replace with an entirely new pavement.

SOUNDING COLUMBIA'S DEPTHS .- Parties of surveyors are engaged under direction of Captain Langfitt, United States Enneers, ascertaining the flow of the Co-mbia at low-water stage below The Dalles, and taking soundings in the gorge of the dalles, where the river is about as deep as it is wide and has been described as standing on edge. Some extraordinary depths have been sounded, which prove much deeper than any soundings made heretofore. The parties will have completed their work and be ready to submit reports before long. All this gauging and measuring is in connection with the problem of providing facilities for steamboats to surmount the dalles.

RELICS FOR HISTORICAL SOCIETY .- Henry Nichols, of Benton County, a ploneer B. Nichols, of Benton County, a ploneer of 1550 and a member of the Constitution-al Convention of 157, has written to George H. Himes, expressing his regrets on account of his inability to be present, at the meeting of the Historical Society on December 20, and sending an interest-ing collection of Indian curios and relics, collected by himself from Indian burial places near his home. Mr. Nichols is about 80 years of age, and is still in good health, and promises to furnish some of his reminiscenses of the convention.

SMALLPOX PATIENTS .- Last week the number of smallpox patients in the pest-house was increased from two to seven, and this week the number has been increased to 14. Several of these are children, and none of the cases is severe, so the increased number is not a matter of any great importance.

Taken all in all the company that will present "Down by the Sea" at Cordray's beginning with tomorrow's matinee is one of the very best on the road this gea-son. This beautiful play makes no attempt to idealize or transfigure human nature, nor is it a play of deep motive and entangled plot. It is a comedy-drama of absorbing interest, a tender and di-versified picture of life "Down by the Sea." Humor and sentiment are effectively commingled and the situations and climaxes, while surprising and thrilling, still possess a great degree of heart in-terest. The scenic effects are unsually magnificent and realistic, especially the great storm scene in act 3. The company contains the names of some of the most prominent actors in the profession, and
