copic of any outlying territories, much less those of Hawail, to conduct their government upon the practical ideas of a monarchy under the forms of a republic. The centralized power of the ancient mon archy, exercised by the few, should no be perpetuated by tacit assent or other whee. The people of Hawaii were led, a the time of annexation, to believe they were to have a hand in their government that they would be granted a greater right to participate in the government than they formerly possessed, and if this right is held from them, a general feeling of distrust will no doubt epring up among them, which may lead to open revolt.

Unjust Taxation.

The Senate committee found endless complaint of the unjust system of taxation prevailing in the islands. All taxe collected were gathered into the Terri-torial Treasury at Honolulu, and from there distributed by boards appointed by the Governor, in such proportions for lo-cal and general improvements, and in such localities, as these boards might de that the City of Honolulu has re termine. celved far more than its proportionate share of these funds, and a like unjust expenditure has been made on the Island of Oahu. All funds for harbor improve-ments, for erecting school buildings, opening streets, sewer construction and like nutroores were construction and like purposes were allotted by these boards. The residents of rural districts are forced to help pay for city improvements; lot-holders within the cities con tribute nothing toward street improve owners of property adjacent to a desired street cannot compel the opening or improvement of a street. Everything depends upon the autocratic will of the Commissioner of Public Works, and when he orders such work done, the expense is taken from the general fund. The coffee planter on the mountain, the sugar plant-er in the valley, the rice cultivator in the marshes, and the farmer on his home stead all contribute of their substance to beautify and furnish gas and electric lights and a water supply for the cities. This is one of the results of a policy that rejects the wholesome American doctrine of municipal government, and one of the evils sought to be corrected by compell-ing city, county and town organizations.

Co-operation Is Desired.

committee must not be misunder owever, by what has been said that it advises any numerous or drastic changes in the organic act." continues the report. "Upon the contrary, your committee is of the opinion that by an intel-ligent, generous, patriotic and deferen-tial co-operation upon the part of the local government with the general Govern-ment, coupled with a few direct changes in the organic act, the centralized charactor of the government, and many of its monarchical and un-American features, against which there is much complaint by the great body of the common people, can be eliminated." The establishment by aw of county, city and town organiza tions, which would have control of loca improvements, the assessment and col-lection and disbursement of the taxes for local improvements would substantially accomplish that which, in the judgment of the committee, is so highly desirable, and which would eliminate those feature which are very objectionable under th present system, and against which the copie of the islands, other than Oahu are vigorously protesting. There was very general complaint that the City of Honolulu and the Island of Gahu were receiving much more than their just pro portion of the taxes' contributed by the people of all the islands.
