FUEL BROUGHT FROM BRITAIN.—A lot of "patent fuel" in square blocks was piled on Ash street, near the corner of Third, yesterday, and attracted the attention of many. The stuff came from Antwerp, a ship having brought 100 tons and burned it. It was disposed of in five and ten ton lots and is found to burn very well, leaving only a small amount of ash. It appears to be made of fine or waste coal mixed with something which holds it together when pressed in solid blocks. It seemed singular to see artificial fuel in Oregon, where there are such large forests and to learn that it had been brought all the way from Belgium. Frank Bottel, who bought 10 tons of the stuff, said he found that three tons of it was about as good as two tons of coal. There is no probability of this kind of fuel being brought to Oregon in large quantities.

LAYING TELEPHONE WIRES.—A property-owner on Morrison street, between Fourth and Fifth, was pleased yesterday when a gang of men cut a trench in the pavement in front of his place and began excavating. He said to a friend: "They will soon have the sewer completed along here and it will not be half as much bother to us as we had expected." This is not the sewer gang, replied the other. "These men are putting down a conduit for telephone wires. The pipes are piled up on Fourth street. There are three blocks to be put in and the men are hurrying the work so as to complete it and get away before the sewer men get up this far. They will be at work here as soon as these men leave." "Well, we ought to be thankful, I suppose," said the property-owner, "that both gangs of men are not here working in the same place at the same time."

LOGGING BUSINESS DULL.—The logging business is rather dull at present for several reasons. The weather has not been very favorable. The men have hardly got over their holiday vacation, and many of the mills have been making more or less extensive changes in their machinery, as is usual at the beginning of the year. Every prospect is favorable for a large logging business being done this year, and logging railways are being extended in all directions. Several companies have been incorporated and are projecting roads into the Nehalem country. Among these are the Columbia & Nehalem, the Goble & Nehalem, Clatskanie & Nehalem and Big Creek & Nehalem, all pushing forward roads into the Nehalem Valley, but they have not all got there yet.

PRUNES FOR PERMANENT EXHIBIT.—A number of sample boxes of a brand of fancy evaporated prunes have been sent to the permanent exhibit on Washington avenue by the Oregon Fruit Growers Association, of Salem, to be placed on exhibition. There are several varieties of prunes in the lot, the largest being the "Willamette," 30 to 35 to the pound; the "Oregon," which is the Columbia brand, 25 to 30 to the pound; the Reine Claude, and the French Petite. This association shipped 4,000 pounds of prunes last season, having filled one order for 12 carloads for Portland and the rest for other places. The prunes are packed in very neat little boxes of Oregon manufacture, and the label bears a life-like representation of the Mongolian peasant in colors.

CAUGHT BY BAD WEATHER.—Few persons would consider the weather as favorable for trout fishing Sunday, but nevertheless Messrs. Moody and Stolte caught 40 trout, and the latter a foot in length, but a few several inches over. They were very fine, plump fish, looking as if just in from the sea, and made up by a handsome crew. The trout as could be desired. These persistent fishermen do not say exactly where they go fishing, but sometimes it is in one place and sometimes in another, and there are more places than fish.

THE GREAT DEMAND.—There is a great demand at present for railroad ties, the price of which has advanced during the past season from 25 cents to 35 cents per tie. All the lines between here and the East are in need of ties, and 800 for California were loaded on the Lakme, which went down to Westport yesterday to complete her cargo. The supply of ties to a certain extent limited, as the O. R. & N. has taken all that it could get hold of and others have to hustle for supplies. A dealer said yesterday that an order of over 50 cents had been made for a lot of ties.

RUSH FOR PARK JOBS.—Park Commissioner J. D. Mayer has received so many applications for positions in the City Park that he is afraid he will not have enough situations to "go round." He has not been sworn in yet and has no idea how many men will be needed. Nor how many situations other commissioners are promoting, but says he has promised all the good ones and would like to see the rest of his friends apply early. Commissioner Hawkins says when people apply to him for situations he refers them to the park keeper and lets him make his own selections.

TO RUSH WORK ON CAN FACTORY.—F. P. Kendall, manager of the branches of the American Can Company in Oregon and Washington, who has been away on business, is in the city again and has commenced the erection of the company's factory here. The piling foundation was completed a short time ago at an expenditure of over $50,000, and the plans and specifications for the factory building are prepared. It is probable that proposals for constructing the factory will be asked for in about a week.

EIGHTEEN NEW SEWERS.—No less than 18 proposed sewers will come up for consideration at the meeting of the Common Council Wednesday. It is probable that ordinances will be passed declaring the time and manner of building each. Some of them are quite extensive ones, the one on East Burnside street being from Buchtel avenue to East Twenty-fourth. Sewer contractors are kept busy figuring up the cost of these sewers preparatory to submitting proposals for constructing them.

VARIOUS LUCK OF DUCK-HUNTERS.—Sportsmen met with varied luck Sunday. At one place a Columbia slough the limit of ducks, 50 to the man, was shot without trouble, and at a nearby preserve less than 10 to the man was all that could be shot. Results were about the same all along the line, and hunters admit that the season's good shooting is past, and many of them have quit.

FIRST BAPTIST REVIVAL MEETING.—The interest created by Dr. Shephardson was not of an ephemeral character, but continues to such a degree that special services will continue, led by the pastor. Dr. Blackburn will preach tonight at 7:45. There will be solos and other attractive music.

SPRUCE LOGS WORTH $40 EACH.—A man who was looking over a raft of logs in the river yesterday in search of spruce logs was little satisfied, when he found that about 40 feet long, he told that they were worth $40 each. He said he wanted spruce lumber to make fishing boats of. The spruce lumber is lighter and tougher and better than fir lumber and does not swell or shrink so much. Port Orford cedar is the best of all lumber for fishing boats and, barring accident, if properly taken care of, lasts forever. The high price of these cedar puts its use for fishing boats out of the question, and spruce is the next best wood obtainable. The owner of the raft soon continued the may have $40 each was not an unreasonable price for the spruce logs he wanted. He said that he had received $100 each for several fir logs he had brought here. They were for special work and were 12 feet long and 40 to 45 inches in diameter at the top. Very few such logs are delivered here, and there is much risk of breaking them in falling them. The logs in a raft run in a usually from $15 to $20 or $25 each. "Such a log as that," said the owner of the raft, pointing to one 41 feet long and 38 inches in diameter at the top, "contains 2000 feet of lumber and is worth $40 a thousand, or $25 in all, but that is a very large log."

BOY BURGLARS GUILTY

FOUR YOUNG MEN ENTER A PLEA IN MUNICIPAL COURT.

Led by Roy Kisor, the "Gang" Robbed a Store—Anxious Mamma Plead With Judge Hogue.

"Guilty of the crime of burglary," was the plea that was entered yesterday before Municipal Judge Hogue by four young urchins, the oldest of whom was scarcely 10 years of age. The ringleader of the bold band, Roy Kisor, is 9 years old, and as he was arraigned had to raise on his tip-toes to see over the clerk's table. This youthful Jesse James had boldly led his followers, G. O. Bozarth, Earl Higley and Ray Yelton, to the rear of Amos Lynell's store, at 238 Front street, and with a skeleton key which he had procured entered the store and gave orders for his men to take themselves with plunder. Tobacco, cigarettes and cigars were taken, and the juvenile burglars retired to their den, which was the Jefferson street depot. Here they cached their spoils, and separating, went to their homes, each a picture of youthful innocence, and informed their parents that they had been playing with the boys in his lack of experience, young Kisor had neglected to cover up his tracks completely, and shortly after his retirement the police officer on the beat appeared at his home and placed him under arrest. As soon as they were confronted by the police officers the boys' courage weakened and they confessed everything.

A sad but rather amusing scene was presented in the Municipal Court yesterday when the four young fellows, who were stood in a half-circle and listened to the reading of the complaint, while four anxious mothers waited. "Those little fellows can't understand what they are saying," said one of the mothers, who was Mrs. Kisor. "The officers of the court, young Kisor, faced the Judge boldly and informed him that he didn't take anything. "Who was with you when you stole a ham a few days ago?" asked the Judge. "Another member of my gang," he responded. "Then we haven't the whole gang?" said the Judge, and Kisor nodded assent. "What did you take yesterday?" "Nothing," replied the little fellow, appearing to still be innocent. Jailer Roberts, however, thought he needed a different sort of questioning, and took charge of the witness.

"What sort of tobacco did you get?" he asked. "Several kinds," said the boy. "Did you bring it back?" "Mamma has it," said the boy, and ran to his mother and got a package, in which was wrapped several sacks of tobacco. The mother was then called, and said she thought she could manage the boy in the future if the court would let him go. As this was not his first offense, however, and the parents were not to be trusted, the court ordered the little fellow, Judge Hogue turned him over to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society. He gave the Judge a piercing look, smiled complacently, and without a word walked over to the Boys' and Girls' Aid Society, who were present to take charge of him. G. O. Bozarth was also assigned to the care of the society, but was allowed to go with his mother, with the understanding that he was to report to Officer Hawley every Saturday. Earl Higley's parents promised to send him to a boarding school at once, and he was allowed to go. He burst into tears and promised that he wouldn't go back, but had to wait until the Judge talked to him about the penitentiary and other places he had heard of with terror.

The evidence showed that Roy Yelton had been afraid to stay with the gang, but had waited outside, and was given his portion of the tobacco when they came out. He was allowed to go home, and his mother was told that she would have to keep him under better control.

BURNS' NEW RESERVOIR.

The Site Shown to Be Feasible by an Engineer's Survey.

BURNS, Or., Jan. 19.—(Staff correspondent.)—A dam 40 feet long at the bottom, 60 feet high, and 730 feet long at the top would make a lake of 15 miles in length. The lake would be 3 1/2 miles in length; it would average 1 1/2 miles in width; it would have an average depth of 20 feet of water. It would be fed by the streams that drain 12 townships of high mountain lands, which receive the heaviest snowfall of the region. There are said to be in all 17 of these streams, and they reach up to the summit of the southern spur of the Blue Mountains. Any person can easily believe that all that mountain region would furnish a constant supply of water for the rich soil of Harney Valley.

Mr. Johnson surveyed two sites for the dam, and the well-known limits of the lake in one flood season and furnish a constant and adequate supply of water for the rich soil of Harney Valley.

FOOD VS. DRUGS.

A Drug Man's Wisdom That Counts.

It's a shrewd man who, while in the drug business, learns that although there are all right in their place, the use of proper food will make medicine unnecessary in the majority of cases.

"Traveling through various towns," writes a drug salesman from Los Angeles, Pa., "drinking different waters to which I was not accustomed, eating strangely prepared meals at irregular hours, I contracted dyspepsia, accompanied by nervousness, loss of sleep and, consequently, loss of energy. I often had the 'blues,' that indescribably tough feeling which makes one look on the dark side of every picture and see the shadows of life rather than the substance, imagine the thousand calamities that were never in existence, and so render life almost unbearable. Many thousands of men under the circumstances resorted to stimulation from drugs or liquor."

"I happened to read an article on Grape-Nuts about a case similar to my own and determined to give the food a trial. It agreed with me from the start, and the miserable distress that usually came after eating did not manifest itself when I ate Grape-Nuts. I asked for this food at every hotel at which I stopped, and made it the principal part of the meal. My stomach soon got so that I could eat any kind of rich food in connection with Grape-Nuts without it distressing me. My dyspepsia and nervousness disappeared and life looked bright and happy once more. I am now well, healthy, happy and able to work 16 hours out of the 24, and can sleep like a healthy child the other eight hours."

"My family soon tires of mushy cereals, but we never tire of Grape-Nuts. The children thrive on it and enjoy it. You may publish this if you think it will encourage others to try Grape-Nuts instead of medicine or spirituous remedies that stimulate the system for a time, but do not build it up." Mr. Johnson says that the site he investigated is such that it would be almost impossible to find another that would equal it. Its scope is magnificent in proportion to the expense of labor and capital involved in the question of construction. Its proximity to building material is important. There will be no patching of weak walls, for the point of least resistance was long ago found by nature, and when that shall have been walled with masonry, the limpid gem will be locked securely in the heart of the mountains. And agriculture will hold the key to its treasure.

VALUABLE FIGURES.

Down in Wilmington, Del., an enterprising insurance man, by the name of H. M. Fell, has compiled a little pamphlet showing how fast small savings increase and how much life insurance can be carried in an old line company by the daily saving of such amounts as 5, 10 or 20 cents a day. To read of the insurance these small savings will buy is staggering to a layman. It runs up into thousands of dollars. But the pamphlet itself is well worth looking through, and we understand it is distributed free.
