want to say that there is to be no more graft if I can help it, and that I shall be in a position to keep my officers from grafting. I am glad that this thing has come up and that it is now known how the graft has stood." People of the Whitechapel district, who but a short time ago were afraid to talk of the graft in any way, now assert boldly that they will not pay it any longer and that they have been duped into pay-ing it as long as they have.

"I quit paying the graft some five months ago," asserted R. W. Patterson, "and shortly after that I heard that there was some question about my get-ting my license. I believe that it was because I would not pay the graft that I did not get my license."

At the Paris House the special officer is said to have made his rounds as usual Saturday night for his 11 from each wo-man in the house, but went away with the same amount that he came with. Duke Evans, manager of the house, had blue Evans, manager of the nonse, had given orders to all of the renters not to pay him when he came. "For nearly three years," ran the tes-timony of a number of the women seen there, "we have paid $1 to Tim Hoare every Saturday night, but last Saturday light we mould not new. We have found night we would not pay. We have found out that he cannot give us any protection and we will not pay for anything that we do not get." Duke Evans said: "I do not wish to talk about the matter at this time. I will not deny anything that the others have said, but do not quote me as con-firming it. I will say, however, that there will be no more graft paid from this house. I will also say that while I have been here there has been no money paid to any police officer."

PLANS NEARLY COMPLETE

Good Progress Made in Arranging Details for Enlarged Postoffice.

R. Bernard Talcott, the supervising engineer of the Treasury Department, who is working on the plans for the enlarged postoffice, expects to complete the ar-rangement of the details tomorrow. The plans will then be forwarded to James K. Taylor, supervising architect of the Treasury Department, who will pass upon every art of the design.

will keep the cost of the alterations and extension well within the limit of the $200,-000 appropriation made for that purpose Several changes had to be made in the plans brought from Washington, for they were drawn after inspection of the origi-nal design of the building, which is kept in the Trensury Department. Since the building was crected several changes have been made in its interior, of which the department draughtsmen knew nothing.

for no records of these alterations were made at the time, Mr. Talcott is a slender, wiry-looking man, who handles a drawing pencil with a speed that puts local architects to the

"I hope to get through with this job Thursday," he said yesterday, while at work in Postmaster Croasman's office. "Before I leave Portland 1 will inspect the heating plant of the Custom-House, which is also under the care of our department. These plans for the postoffice may be changed somewhat by the super-vising architect, James K. Taylor, and the details cannot be made public until it is decided just how every part shall be arranged.

Mr. Talcott was asked as to the truth of the report that he has already recom-mended the Seventh and Stark streets site for the temporary postoffice.

for the temporary postoffice. "I have nothing to do with it," he de-clared. "A stranger in the dty cannot decide upon such a question. That is the province of the Postmaster." So the question of the location of the temporary postoffice remains unsettled. Four bids are known to have been sub-mitted, three of them are on buildings to be arceted if the bid is accented while to be erected if the bid is accepted, while the other factor in the competition, the Snell-Heitshu-Woodard building, at Sixth and Ankeny streets, offers the advantage of a larger structure than either of the others. The present tenants, the Pacific Coast Biscuit Company, cannot be moved for six months, however, and in time a building the size of that contemplated by the Elks could be easily erected. ITS ANNUAL MEETING.

Amendments to By-Laws Are Proposed and Minor Changes Made-Prosperous Year Closed.

At the annual meeting of the Multnomah Amateur Athletic Club, held at the clubhouse last evening, the following five members were elected to serve as directors for the ensuing two years: R. F. Prael, C. W. Stinger, C. F. Swigert, Dan J. Moore and J. C. Veazie. C. D. Brandan and J. T. McKee were elected to serve a term of one year each.

The meeting, which was held in the The meeting, which was held in the gymnasium, was well attended and very enthusiastic. The members sat on a grandstand, and Vice-President Herdman, Scretary Swigert and Treasurer Buck-enmeyer sat at a large table in front. In the absence of President Prael, Mr. Herdman occupied the chair, and, after calling the members to order read bis calling the members to order, read his annual report. The work of the club in every line of athletics was treated of thoroughly, and the members who made the year success-ful in their respective lines of sport were commended. The work of the members themselves, the woman and girl mem-bers, and the classes were discussed in de-tail and the mitter of the disk former tail, and the matter of the club's finances was brought to the attention of those present. The matter of securing new members for the organization was said to be of the utmost importance, and every member was requested to see what he memoer was requested to see what he could do in the way of swelling the mem-bership list during the coming year. The report was greeted with much ap-plause, and, on motion of W. C. Duni-way, it was received with a vote of thanks to the outgoing officers.

The report of the nominating commit-tee was called for, and Lansing Stout sub-mitted the following list of 14 members, seven of which were to be chosen direc-tors, five for two years, and two for one: R. F. Prael, C. W. Stinger, C. D. Bran-dan, C. F. Swigert, Dan J. Moore, J. H. O'Bryan, D. B. Smith, J. C. Veazle, J. McKee, E. B. Miller, A. W. Chance, H. Wickersham, Irving Rohr and W. Duniway.

Communications were read from Messus. Miller and Chance, requesting that their names be taken from the list of nominees, as they would be unable to serve in case of selection. Duniway also withdrew. In the order of new business Duniway proposed an amondment to the forth the roposed an amendment to the effect that the 11 directors should be chosen each year, instead of the present hold-over method of choosing six directors one year and five the next, for terms of two years each. A. E. Mackay also proposed an amendment to have the nominating committee select the exact number of nominecs for directors, instead of twice as many, as now required, the reason for the amendment being given, as there were many who were nominated, and not elected, who did not feel right on being defeated.

J. N. Teal thought Duniway's motion unwise, and spoke against it. While the pro and con talking was going on the chair looked up the matter of amend-ments in the by-laws, and found that the board of discussion and that the board of directors made them, and not the members themselves. This fact was announced, and Duniway appealed from the decision of the chair, saying that the members should have the choice if they wanted it, as it was a case of the tail wagging the dog. Mr. Teal thought the only thing to do was to remoive that it was the sense of the meeting that an amendment should be passed by the board, and send the resolution to the board; but he continued by speaking in opposition to the resolution, saying that to have five or six of the old board work with the new members elected would accomplish things better than to have an entirely new board elected every time. After some more talk on the matter, Swigert wanted to know how the amendment could go into opera-tion if it were to be left till the first meeting of the new board. Duniway then raid that he merely wanted to see what the general opinion was on the subject, and finding that more members were in favor of continuing the old method, he

for Protection.

William Rickers Tells of an Attempt of ex-Sergeant Church to Collect Money and of Sums Paid to Deputy Sheriff Tim Hoare.

GIVING TRIBUTE

"I am told that a Deputy Sheriff has received $1 per wich from almost every prostitute in Whitechapel," said Chief Police Hunt yesterday, after a crippled prisoner had told of paying Deputy Sheriff Tim Hoare and ex-Sergeant of Police Church for the privilege of running a bunco game. "I am determined that this thing shall stop. I have made inquiry among the people of Whitechapel, and I find that the money has practically all been paid to one man. 1 shall know that no office of my force takes a cent of graft, and I shall also make conditions such that other officers cannot collect the graft. I want the people of Whitechapel to know that no one is in a position to give them any protection. The only way they can avoid being arrested by the police is to run respectable and orderly places. Any graft that they pay is money thrown away."

The arrest of William Ricker, a cripple, who has been running a wheel of fortune at Third and Couch streets, brought to light some startling charges concerning a "graft" which certain officers of the law have been receiving from the lawless

Ricker told, when questioned, how he had been driven out of businees, by ex-Bergeant of Police Church because he would not pay a large enough graft, but later had been allowed to run by paying Deputy Sheriff Tim Hoare the modest sum of $1 per week. By further investigation Chief Hunt has n told that a Deputy Sheriff has been been told that a breat meanly every pros-taking $1 a week from nearly every pros-titute in the North End, until last week. Hunt's course is said to have made these people believe that the Deputy Sheriff is people believe that the Deputy Sheriff is people believe that the Deputy Sheriff be not able to give them any protection, and they say that last Saturday night they refused to pay their customary dollar each when he made his rounds. The people of Whitechapel openly assert that Tim Hoare has received a dollar a week from each of them, that he continued to collect every Saturday night until the time that he resigned the office of Deputy Sheriff and that ence that time his brother, Jack and that ence that time his brother, Jack Hoare, made the collections every Satur-day night until last Saturday, when they The plans as drawn up by Mr. Talcott refused to pay.

During one of his tours of inspection about the city. Chief Hunt noticed the wheel of fortune being run by Ricker and thought it did not seem to be a square thought it did not seem to be a square game. He sent one of his men to look into it and found that the wheel was so constructed that a man could win or lose just as the dealer desired. Ricker was brought to the Police Station, and when he was questioned some startling charges were revealed. He bore a petition which was signed by a number of good citizens asking that he be allowed to run his game. The examination had no sooner com-The examination had no sooner com-menced than the Chief appeared at the door of his office, and invited The Oregonfan reporter in to hear the conversation.

"This man tells us some interesting things," said the Chief. "They might make good reading." The reporter took a seat in the room, while Detective Sam Simmons and Officer Franklin assisted in the questioning. Ricker talked without

"Why was it necessary for you to get up a petition to run?" he was asked. "At the time that I got up this peti-tion," he explained, "there was a good deal of this sort of thing going on. I had been running but a short time when Sergeant Church came along. "Look here,' said he, 'you are not giving up anything to run this game. How much do you think you can stand?" I told him that I did not think that I could stand much, as I was making but dittle money.

ney. I,' said he, 'if you want to run you will have to dig up $5 a week, the same as the others do.' I told him that I thought I could manage to pay $2 a week, but he just laughed at me and a few days later came around and said that he hed orders to close me up. I was then out of business for quite a while, but after presenting the petition was allowed to start up again in a new place. "Tim Hoare came around to see me and was a great deal more reasonable. I told him that I was having a hard time and him that I was having a hard time and was not making much, so he let me off with a dollar a week. I didn't mind that so much, but I don't think it was right for Church to ask $5 a week." "You say, then," interrupted Detective Sam Simmons, "that you paid Tim Hoare I a week to be allowed to run the game?" "You'r melical the crimele "I always

"Yes," replied the cripple. "I always paid for the privilege of running the game and have always done the right thing."

"Have you ever paid any one else for the privilege of running?" "No," said Ricker. "I have never paid

"No," said Ricker. "I have never paid any other officer." "This is a thing," said the Chief after the conference, "that I have known of for some time. I am told that there has been an enormous graft in the North End. I asked a number of the people there about it and they told me that it had all been paid to a Deputy Sheriff. I asked them if any of the police officers had been paid anything and they told me that they had not." "But I am determined that this thing shall stop," continued the Chief. "I shall stop," continued the Chief. "I shall be able to see that none of the officers of my force are connected in any officers of my force are connected in any way with a graft, and if it is possible for me to stop other departments from graft-ing, I will do it. I went through White-chapel and gave orders to all of the people there not to pay another cent to any one. A number of them confessed to me that they had been paying a graft to a deputy sheriff," and here the Chief looked sig-ificantly toward those who had heard Ricker's confession of having paid a dollar a week to Hoare. "I told them," he continued, "that they could not get any protection, no matter

THINK WAGES TOO HIGH

Master Builders Refuse to Grant Request of Carpenters' Union.

At a regular meeting of the Master Builders' Association held last evening, a resolution was unanimously adopted that the Master Builders' Association refuse to concede the demands of the Carpenters' Union for an advance to $3.50 per day as minimum rate of wages for eight hours. The reasons given for such action are that two years ago carpenters' wages were $2.50 per day of nine hours, and in the Spring of 1901 the carpenters asked for and were granted, an eight-hour day, though it was at no inconsiderable sacri-fice to many of the contractors. The Spring of 1902 brought the demand for a minimum wage of $3 per day, which was granted. "And now," said a contractor last night,

"the Spring of 1906 brings the demand that the minimum wage shall be $3.50 per day of eight hours. The majority of the men ho are competent to earn it are now, who are competent to earn it are now, and have been for some time, receiving $3.50 per day for eight hours, and quite a num-ber are already receiving more than they can earn, as very many of the so-called carpenters of this city are utterly incom-petent to give a fair day's work in return for a fair day's wage. No contractor has any heattance in naving computent works any hesitancy in paying competent work-men a wage in keeping with their ability to earn it.

withdrew his proposed amendment. Dr. Mackay's motion was then taken up, to have the nominating committee report the exact number of directors to be elected instead of twice that many, and on being put the motion was carried.

As two of the new directors were to fill nexpired terms of one year only, it was decided that the five receiving the high est number of votes get the two-year terms, and the next two below the oneyear term.
