The Russian government is therefore now more intent on efforts to localize the outbreak than hopeful of any outcome to the Austro-Hungarian scheme of reform In pursuance of this object, Russia has advised Bulgaria to declare a state of siege in agitated districts.

Swindlers Interrupt and Contradict Witnesses-Evidence of Cremieux. PARIS, Feb. 12.—The trial of the libel suit brought by M. Cattaui, a banker, against the Humbert family, which began yesterday, was resumed today. There were large crowds inside and outside the courtroom. M. HOPES FOR PEACE IN IRELAND. Earl Dudley Rejoices at End of Coercive Measures.

DUBLIN, Feb. 12.-The Earl of Dudley Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, at the annua dinner of the Royal College of Surgeons here yesterday evening, made a very op-timistic speech, during which he declared that the prospects for the future of Ireland are very encouraging. Agitation has been largely abandoned, he said, and he hoped that those who are responsible for the government of Ireland will never again be compelled to enforce the ex-ceptional treatment which they had been obliged to impose early in 1992. Never in his life had he signed anything more gladly than last week's proclamation. The country has shown a genuine desire for a just final and amicable solution of the question, he said, and he believes the recent land conference will prove an epoch in Irish history, the mainspring thereof being toleration, moderation and co-operation, and with these principals is nothing Ireland cannot

HOUSE COMMITTEE SAYS ELKINS BILL IS EFFECTIVE.

Minority of Committee Condemns Shelving Littlefield Bill as Scheme to Fool People on Trust Laws.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.-The report on the Elkins bill, ordered favorably reported by the House committee on interstate commerce yesterday, was filed in the House today by Mann of Illinois. "In extensive hearings before your committee on the general subject of the proposed amendments to the interstate commerce law," the report says, "It was strongly urged by the members of the Interstate Commerce Commission that the provisions of the existing law providing for punishment of the officers or agents the railroad itself, prevented the enforcement of the law forbidding rebates and discriminations. The experience of the Interstate Commerce Commission has been that it is impossible to obtain proof of the granting of a rebate by the officer of a railroad to some favored shipper, un-less the officer himself gives the evidence, in which case he is free from prosecu Continuing, it says: "The existing law prohibits rebates and discriminations, but does not prevent the cutting of published rates unless discrimination is shown. In most cases it is practically impossible to show the dis-crimination. In the investigation made by the Interstate Commerce Commission respecting rates on dressed beef and packing-house products from Kansas City and Chicago, it was finally discovered that for years the railroads had constantly and habitually disregarded their published tariffs and carried such products at rates below the published tariff to an amount so great that the difference between the published rate and the actual rate amounted to millions of dollars a year; and it was the unanimous testimony that all the shippers who were interested in There was, therefore, no discrimination between the shippers, and no shipper was liable to prosecution for obtaining a rate which discriminated in his favor. But the place in the hands of a small aggregation of shippers the absolute control of the business, for no person can afford to enter into competition who does not receive the cut rates, and no person is in a position to demand or receive such rates until after he shall have be lished in business and have the extensive ousiness behind him After reviewing the provisions of the bill, the report says:

"The first and second propositions practically exhaust the power of legislation to prevent rebates and discriminations through criminal prosecutions. We conceive it to be the desire of Congress to ab-solutely prevent, if possible, the grant-ing of discriminations in the way of railby many claimed to be the greatest abuse of the day. But we all know that the of-ficers of the railroads who grant rebates and the officers of the private corpora-tions who solicit and accept them are men of high standing in their respective of munities, and that it is a very diffi matter to obtain evidence sufficient to in-

The report says further: "Your committee believes that the leg-islation proposed by the Elkins bill, together with the interstate commerce law, covers about all the ways that thought or language can devise or describe to prevent discriminations in favor of one ship-per as against another, or the holding of one concern through the favoritism of railroad corporations,"

In addition to the amendments heretofore published, the House committee restores the words "whenever the Attor-ney-General shall direct, either on his notion or upon the request of the Interstate Commerce Commission," which apwas eliminated by the Senate.

The six minority members of the com-mittee on interstate and foreign commerce, Representatives Shackelford Davey, Adamson, Ryan, Davis and Rich-Shackelford. ardson, also filed their views. After say ing that they do not oppose the bill as reported, and that it will not afford much relief, they add that the little of good that it does contain the people should have. Continuing they say:

"The bill now reported is not nearly efar-reaching and radical as the Littlefield till, which a few days ago passed this House on a roll call by a unanimous vote. In the debate on the Littlefield bill, it was freely predicted that it would never be a law, and it was openly charged that its passage in this House was mere ly for the sinister purpose of deluding the people into the belief that the dominant party was willing to enact legislation limiting the evils of monopoly. Since the passage of the bill, the public press from day to day has teemed with uncontradicted announcements that the Littlefield bill is to be thrust aside and the Elkins bill stituted therefor, and that no other or further anti-trust legislation is to be en-acted. Such a course would be to jest with the country upon the most solemn question of the day, and to trifle with the most serious interests of the people. If the Littlefield bill was meritorious when it passed this House a few days ago, it is meritorious now. It does not in any manner conflict with the provisions of the Elkins bill now reported from this

The minority proposes that the bill be amended by adding the principal feature of the Littlefield bill.

CONSIDERING LITTLEFIELD BILL. lenate Committee Tries to Distin-

The committee was especially concerned today in an endeavor to so amend the Littlefield bill as not to make it burdensome to small corporations It practically is the unanimous opinion of the committee that a bill should be enacted into law, but there is much difference as to the phraseology to be employed. There also is practical unanimity as to the desirability of making the proposed law apply to corporations which are capable of becoming oppressive in their operation and of relieving those which are beneficent and whose operations are not extensive enough to require close supervision. The committee is finding difficulty in de-
