HOW MUCK IN FIGHTING FUND?

Minor Leagues, It Is Said, Are Beady to Pat Up a Large Sum of Money-Maybe They will.

ous leagues must keep these bail lossers on their pay roll or lose them, and there is already danger of their developing into star players. What easier thing than fattin this army of players to the two or perhaps five clubs that the Pacific North-west people claim they are going to put in the field?

West people claim they are going to put in the field.
The would be like getting money from name, because it would enable the many anter who are backing the new clubs to get a full list of players (many of cours would be on the interfor order), without much delay and for very little money.

They are wrathy at the way their players have been coaraed to the Coast by the top sala-ries which have been offered always by President Harris. They would like to see the Pacific Coast League marked off the slats, but whether or not, when it comes to forking over the hard-carred coin, their addre will not dampen remains to be seen. They are in the fight now coin, their andor will not dampen remains to be seen. They are in the fight now and af course they will stay, for a time, or at least until the drain on their ex-chequer reaches the stage of all going out and nothing coming in. They will be dead willing to furnish players and utmpires, but the money-well, that's an-other question.

All of the minor leagues, east, west, south and north, have a big string of young players, too good to be dropped all together, not fast enough for fast company, but good farming material.
