Industries Thrive on Lower Columbia—A business man who has been cruising about on the lower Columbia has had his ideas in regard to the magnitude and value of the humbering and fishing industries greatly advanced. He visited the logging camp just being started by Poster Bross., at Cathlamet. They have a tract there on which there are 10,000,000 feet of logs, which they expect to cut within two pears. They have a donkey engine and S head of cattle on the ground to start in with, and the chips will fly when they get things going. At the camp of Planders & Lorsen, Brookfield, he saw a great lot of tideland spince, so much in demand now for cutting into veneers for berry backets and for making boxes. He measured trees if feet in diameter, 700 feet tall and straight and free of many limbs. Spruce, hemlock INDUSTRIES THRIVE ON LOWER COLUMand free of many limbs. Spruce, hemlock and fir are all of fine quality there, and sell for the same price. He also ran across a cooperage somewhere down there in the woods, where large numbers there in the woods, where large numbers of barrels and tierces are made for packling salt salmon, many of which are shipped to San Francisco. Preparations are being made on all sides for the salmon fishing. A lot of traps are being built between Pillur Rock and Miller's Sands, and the indications are favorable for a prosperous season. There are plenty of salmon in the river now, as is shown by the fact that a gillneiter was nicked up a few days are with 700 pounds. picked up a few days ago with 700 pounds of chimook salmon in his boat, caught in violation of the law, and still the people of Portland cannot have a mouthful of ing salmon, unless they import it from

To Stock Streams With Thour.—There is quite a number of young trout in the hatchery on the Clackamas to be distributed about the state this Spring. There are not nearly so many as could be desired, however, as there has been much difficulty about procuring the eggs, and some were spoiled in the packages while coming. Still there will be some young rainbow and brook trout to distribute, and the sportsmen of different sections are anxious to secure their proper apportionment. Members of the Oregon Fish and Game Association at Pendleton, where there are over 100 members, held a meeting a few nights ago to discuss this matter and devise ways and means for increasing the influence and efficiency of the Fish and Game Association in Esstern Oregon. Many from neighboring towns were present, and speeches were made by some ten leading sportsmen of that section. There are several fine trout streams in that region, and it was TO STOCK STREAMS WITH TROUT.-There rout streams in that region, and it was lecided that the young trout which may be secured from the Clackamas hatchery will be distributed in Mescham, McKay, Bear and Pearson's Creeks, where it is hoped they may increase and prosper if carefully protected. The meeting also fa-vored an effort being made by the asso-ciation this year to introduce more Eng-lish parridges into this state. partridges into this state.

CRANITE THAT IS SOFT.—Otto Schu-mann, stonecutter and expert of the com-mittee appointed by the Mayor to exam-ine stone quarries from which stone might be produced for improving streets, pronounces the stone of the quarry on the O. R. & N. Co.'s property, at Wyeth, as of no value for street work. It is, he says, a sort of bastard granite, which easily disintegrates under action of the elements, and, in fact, may be called rotelements, and, in fact, may be called rot-ten. He says there is much better stone to be obtained near home. That from the quarry at Oswego and the one at the head of Sixth street being far superior to The case with which this rock disintegrates accounts for the vast quantity found in a loose form.

STRUCK BY IRON BAR .- A rut beside a cartrack, and a bar of iron projecting from the rear end of an express wagon came near making an end to a man at Second and Morrison streets yesterday. The wagon was passing the intersection, and the man, a stranger from the coun-iry, was in a hurry to cross the street. iry, was in a hurry to cross the street. He cut around the rear of the wagon, and was fairly "up agin" the bar of iron before he saw it. Just then the wheel struck a rut and the bar of iron struck the man across his stomach, doubling him up as limp as a dishrag. A friend assisted him to the sidewalk, and he soon recovered his broath and went on his way, but not rejoicing, for he was sore whout helps hit. about being hit.

SPECIAL MEETINGS AT GRACE M. E.

CHURCH.—The special meetings at the Grace M. E. Church continue in interest. The Lenten Bible talks by Miss Carrie A. Holbrook afternoons have proved of especial profit. This afternoon the last especial profit. This afternoon the last will be given upon "My Bible and L." At the evening service, beginning promptly at $ P. M., 29 business men will make two-minute talks upon the benefit of the Christian life in business. Rev. J. R. T. Lathrop, the pastor, has charge of the services, and Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Hamilton conduct the singing. The song service begins at 7:46. The services tonight will be largely in the interest of business young men and women and young people. Logs Flennipul.—Logging camps have been throwing logs into the water at a been throwing logs into the water at a been throwing loss into the water at a great rate during the late fine weather, and all the millimen are well supplied. Loggers do not expect the mills to accumulate any surplus before August. Then they will begin to stow them away in sloughs against Winter. Each mill company has some place where logs can be stowed away for reserve stock, where they will be safe from floods and frashets. they will be safe from floods and freshets, and in these places the companies will stow away from 5,000,000 to 20,000,000 feet bext Pall, to draw upon in the Winter. when logging operations are temporarily Establishing Oil Station.—The National Oil & Transportation Company, of San Francisco, has, during the past four days, had a force of men employed at Linnton, leveling off the ground for the foundation for three steel tanks for storing crude oil. One is 11s feet 6 inches in diameter, the others not quite so large. Three carloads of the steel plates, about half an inch in thickness, are on the side-track by the site, and in a few days there will be 10s to 12s riveters at work. The largest tank is to be $5 feet in height. The site is near the oid sawmill in the north end of the town. The scheme has been in contemplation for some time, but very little has been said about it, and the cilizens were somewhat surprised when the company's foreman, J. Doyle, who came upon the last steamer from San-Francisco, arrived among them hast Sunday to lisok over the ground, and on Monday commenced the work of grading. He employed six men, beside two he brought with him, but has not been able to secure any teams yet, as all the teams there are busy plowing. The business of the company is dealing in crude oil, and it proposes to supply demands here, and also to ship to the Orient. There are 155, 500 barrels ordered already to be furnished from this station.

MULTNOMAR MEN SHOW GREAT FORM AS SOUBRETTES.

Full Dress Rehearsal of "The Winard of the Nile" Makes Even Stage

This is one of the "Sidie" days in the history of the Multnomah Amateur Ath-letic Club, for tonight the boys will wear their sweetest smiles, he adorned with their swellest clothes, and look and sing their best, in presenting the comic opera, "The Wizard of the Nile," at the Mar-quam Grand Thenter. The libretto is by Harry B. Smith, music by Victor Harbert, and the parts for women's voices have been arranged for men's voices by W. H. Boyer, who will have the direction of the chorus. The stage direction will be under H. D. Allen. The ballet has been drilled by Mias Buckenmeyer, and the principals by William Bernard. This is the cast:

Kibosh, Robert McCraken; Abydos, Ed War

This is the cast:

Kibosh, Robert McCraken; Abydos, Ed Warnock; Prolemy, G. A. Eastman; Simoons, Louis P. Bruce: Cheopatra, Louis Gerlinger; Piarmigan, N. C. Zan; Cheopa, Stuart Maguirs; Obilisha, Sam D. hearsal at the Marquam Grand Theater, and Bob McCraken's jokes were so funny that even the hardened stage carpenters went about wearing a broad grin. He has the Daniels dry humor, the Daniels laugh and the Daniels walk, coupled with the McCraken personality. When Bob uttered one of his special wittickems last night the accompanies laughed as much that he the accompanist laughed so much that he nearly stopped playing until he recovered his breath. The other boys beseched "Kibosh, the magician," not to make their nouths twitch.

But those "Sadle girls." How can cold type describe their many charms, their blushes their coquetry, their glances and their wonderful poetry of motion as they whirled in their maddenling dance? Anna Held's girls of the "Sadle" type are not in it with the Multnomah girls, and it is safe to say that they will be the sense. in it with the Multnomah giris, and it is safe to say that they will be the sensation of the opera. It is worth the whole price of admission to see and admire those Sadie giris. Louis Gerlinger is sweet as Cleopatra, a Princess who does not know what love is until he explains it to her, and he displayed a good tenor voice. N. C. The whole chorus sang effectively, and with a volume of tone that was clear and solid.

The Marquam Theater is sure to be crowded ionight, for very few seats are left, and seats are nearly all sold for to-morrow night. But there are still vacant morrow night. But there are still vacant seats for the matinee tomorrow afternoon. "The Wizard of the Nile" is the funny opens of the season, and the Multnomah boys guarantee that all who attend any of their performances will laugh and wish to hear them again. The scenery specially puinted for the production is highly artistic, and is the work of Ernest Miller. The orchestra will include about 18 musicians.

A man present at the rehearsal last night remarked that as all the Multno-mah boys are popularly supposed to have one girl, there will be a few girls at the performances.

"One girl each?" echoed the man about town, who heard him. "Say three or four, and you will be nearer the mark. You don't know the Multnomah boys. O. yes. the girls will be at the performance

BURIED UNDER DIRT TRAIN Henry White, a Negro Laborer, Is Killed Near Sellwood.

Henry White, a pegro laborer, was killed yesterday by a runaway dirt train at the Springfield grade works of the Oregon Water Power & Rallway Company.

White was at the foot of a grade, and the train in coming down the incline gained such headway that the brakeman was unable to control it. Rushing against the buffer at the end of the track it bounced over the obstruction and buried bounced over the obstruction and buried the negro under a mass of dirt. Though the deadly load upon the unfortunate man was removed as quickly as possible, there was removed as quickly as possible, there were no signs of life when the rescuers dug out the body. The skull was fractured by the tremendous weight which had failen upon him.

Evidently White had thought that the buffer would be sufficient to stop the momentum of the cars, and had not considered it necessary to get out of the way when he saw the train coming swiftly down the grade.

COMING ATTRACTIONS.

Great Play Will Be Acted. A play that is cheered. A romantic tory of the late War of the Rebellion.

story of the late War of the Rebellion. This is the sum and substance of "Shen-andoah," the great war drama, which is being produced at the Baker Theater this week. "Shenandoah" contains the most realistic battle scene ever presented on the stage. It is pronounced by critics to be a most powerful war play filled with pathos and heart interest and bubbling over with. and heart interest and bubbling over with bright and sparkling comedy. That it is written by Bronson Howard is sufficient guarantee that it is a great play, and that it is produced by the Baker Stock Com-pany is sufficient evidence that it will be well worth while to see. Notable Events at the Baker.

Next week two very important events will take place at the Baker Theater. On next Monday evening one of the most fashionable society audiences that ever honored a theater with its presence in Portland will, under the auspices of the Council of Jewish Women witness the latest New York success. "Mass Hobbs." Every seat in the Baker Theater has been sold for that night. The other event is of special note for the reason that Portland Lodge of Eliks voted to attend this popular playhouse on Friday evening, April 3, in a body. The entire lower floor has been reserved, and there is no doubt that the theater will be crowded with Elks and their families as a compliment to the popular Baker Theater company. "Miss Hobbs" will be the attraction all next week, starting with the usual Sunday matines.

"The Wizard of the Nile" Tonight. "The Winned of the Nile" Tenight.

Tonight the first performance of the burlesque of the "Wizard of the Nile" by the Multnomah Club will be given at the Marquam. The sale of seats has been very large, though seats may still be secured for any performance, and there is no doubt that the affair will be one of the greatest theatrical events of the season. The boys have had the best of instruction under W. H. Boyer and William Bernard, and have worked hard and long. The prediction may safely be made that, high as is the standard set by previous groductions, this will surpass them all in music, in comedy and in costumes and scenic effects.

Tonight at Cordray's.

Another well-pleased audience witnessed "The Darkest Hour" last night at Cordray's Theater. This fine scenic comedy-drama, the latest from the pen of Lincoln J. Carter, is pleasing every one who at-tends. Carl Gardner, the German come-dian, causes a laugh every time he utters a line. He sings several songs with good effect, and his Irish sweetheart entertains with a fine dancing specialty. The other characters are well sustained. There will be but three more performances-tonight and tomorrow night and a special ladies' and children's matinee tomorrow after-

"A Fatal Wedding" at Cordray's. Among the attractions booked for Cor-iray's Theater, commencing Sunday mat-nee, March 2, is the powerful comedydrama, in four acts, entitled "The Fatal Wedding." The play is from the prolific pen of the successful young author. Theo. Kremer. It is not an exaggerated story. Archer. It is not an exaggerated story, but contains strong and vivid characterizations taken from real life in thrilling scenes illustrating the passions that stir men's souls. The scenery for this production was painted by the celebrated scenic artist, Harley Merry. There will be a special ladles' and children's matings Saturday.
