LEE PAGET SPEAKS IN PAVOR OF STANJARD BREEDS.

State Poultry Association Discusse Everything From Incubators to Setting Hens.

The State Poultry Association, at its meeting in the Board of Trade pariors in the Chamber of Commerce last evening. listened to a short though very interesting siddress by B. Lee Paget, the former president of the association, Mr. Paget chose for his subject "The Standard-Bred vs. the Scrub." He said in part:

There is nothing strange to me in the fact that there is not more enthusiasm enkindled generally in the poultry industry. The only wonder is that the average chicken, such as is commonly displayed in our markets, is ever tolerated on the promises of any self-respecting citizen. Imagine any one getting entitused or fed-ing any pride in rearing the ordinary scrub and mongrel, such as are raised by about w per cent of our Oregon farmers. If they had cattle or horses of a correspondingly low grade, they would hide their heads in very shame. This condition arises largely from lack of education, and the Oregon State Poultry Association is putting forth a determined and persection of the condition of the cond vering effort to bring about a revolution along this particular line, and it has al-residy met with sufficient success to war-rant a continuance of its endeavors, and it should command a far larger measure of public commendation and support than it has received up to the present time.

"I do not remember having ever met any one with sufficient temerity to advo-cate the advantages of scrub chickens as mpared with standard-bred, or to con test the claim that the advantages are the same in every respect with the latter. To sum up these points in the briefest de manner, it may be stated without tear of contradiction that the standard-bred specimen develops much more quicky and attains far greater size, and at the same time consumes no more food. The firsh is of much closer grain, and finer quality, and it is consequently a far more marketable bird. It will lay larger eggs mark-clable bird. It will lay image reason more of them, especially if it comes from a carefully bred and selected strain, and, last but by no means least, the increased satisfaction to be obtained from their ownership on account of their superior appearance is a factor that it is usible to overestimate

Pollowing Mr. Paget's address an hour was spent in discussion on different points of interest to the poultry fanciers. Some had troubles with incubators to relate, while others had troubles with the hens, the brouders, fertile eggs, deformed little chicks, roosters, feeding, watering and all the interesting developments that and all the interesting developments that me with Easter and the egg-laying

"I would like to asked the gentleman to care for young chickens," said

Mrs. Paget.
Thereby evidently hung a tale, for Mr.
Paget coughed a little and replied that he supposed the best method was to turn em over to the better half of the house-

Mrs. B. Murray responded to the call for advice on the feeding of young chick stating that it was her experience that young chickens were better off if al-lowed to forage for themselves for the first week at least, as overfeeding was more dangerous than a slight lack of food. She related how her husband had taken particular pride in some young standard-bred chicks and had fed them so often that it resulted in their death, while she had allowed a brood to scratch for them-selves, resulting in a fine lot of chickens that afterwards became great egg pro-

President E. J. Ladd then spoke a few words in regard to the prevailing impression among poultry-raisers that there was a danger of stock becoming too much in-bred. He pointed this out to be a mis-take, cialming that by in-breeding the finest chickens and most of the prize winners at the poultry shows had been raised. As an example of his argument be pointed out the fact that the Chinese pheasant intro duced into this state only a few years ago had become a larger and more flour-ishing bird than his predecessors. al-though only a very few had been originally introduced into the state. He also used as a proof the underlable evidence that the English sparrows in Portland were as big as the birds in their native land, although only a few had been intro- TO GREET IRISH PATRIOTS duced in the state.

The question of keeping standard-bred chickens in pens in order to keep them separate from the other breeds was a subject for some little discussion. The scrub chicken that was allowed to run at large was regarded by some as having tange was regarded by some as having the better chances for development. One distinguished partiols, Hon. Joseph Devdistinguished patriots, Hon. Joseph Dev-lin, Nationalist Member of Parliament, from Ireland, and Colonel John F. Fin-erty, of Chicago, Ill., National president gentleman, however, found a remedy for lin, Nationalist Member of Parliament, this as well as for the other troubles. "I from Ireland, and Colonel John F. Fincut up a few cabbages in quarters," he crty, of Chicago, Ill., National president said, "and hang them on strings in the of the United Irish League of America, said, "and nang them on strings in the pens. The chickens fight for the cabbage and this causes it to swing about, and when they run after the cabbage they get the necessary exercise, as well will visit Portland on or about April 19.

Mr. James H. Murphy was elected chairman, and Mr. John P. O'Hara was elected as the greens."

"I think I have solved the incubator problem," said a happy-locking functor, who occupied a back seat. "I have been three years in learning how, though I first experimented with my incubator by putling in 200 ergs. Of these 150 hatched, some lame, some sick and many deformed. It is a rather questionable story, but with Griffin.

It is a rather questionable story, but with Griffin. all the tender care I gave those chickens, but one lived to be full grown. This one my wife took into the kitchen to nurse. She named it Jim, and it turned out to e a pullet and a fine egg producer. I kept right on experimenting, though, until today I am able to bring out 170 healthy chicks from a setting of 200 eggs. Prices of eggs during the different seasons was also a subject of interest. The oultry-raisers are all trying to invent a scheme to make the hens lay when eggs are worth 60 cents a dozen. A gentleman in the audience claimed that his hens all hald in the Winter, but upon question-

The next open meeting of the association will be held in September, and another meeting in October will be the last before the regular annual meeting held each year in connection with the annual M. BOW TO MAKE POULTRY PAY, ! Good Work Being Done by Oregon Association.

PORTLAND, April &-(To the Editor.) The Oregon State Poultry Association, by holding its open meeting whon everyone interested in poultry is welcome, is doing a good work for the industry. The question, "Does Poultry Pay?" has been so well unswered that comment is unccessary. When eggs cost but 5 to 8 cents per dozen to produce, and sell in the open market at from 15 to 20 cents per dozen, a simple example in arithmetic shows the profit on the side of the hen. Because some men fall to make money out of the business, don't blame the hen. It may be not generally known that the poultry industry of this fair state exceeded by considerable $2,000,000 in 1802 and the indications are that the present year will exceed $2,000,000, as prices are higher than ever before. That it may ever be thus is the sincers wish of those who are bravely working for the successful outcome of the business from a financial standpoint. Even at present prices chicken is still theaper than beef, and if anyone is still a doubting Thomas let him go to the mar. kets, interview the dealers and find out for a surety if poultry is better in quality, size and general makeup than it was some years ago. If they frankly acknowlsize and general makeup than it was some years ago. If they frankly acknowledge that the improvement is very noticeable (and they can't say otherwise) then the efforts of the State Association have not been in vain. By no means is the one application for divorce, which was Association satisfied yet. Excelsion is the motto, and as all are as a unit in pushing and working for one end, and that, "better poultry and more of it," success is bound to come and no one is more certain that poultry will soon be one of the leading industries of Oregon than, yours truly.

CAUGHT WITH TON OF WIRE Men Arrested in Astoria Thought to Be Implicated in Portland Theft.

ASTORIA, Or., April L-(Special.)-Two men, who gave their names as J. W. Smith and S. L. Lyman were arrested by Sheriff Linville tonight, and it is thought they are wanted in Portland on the charge of larceny. The men came down the river this morning in a large skiff in which they had fully a ton of copper wire, much of it being street-car trollay

Bishop W. F. Heil, of Allentown,

The detectives here believe that the men arrested at Astoria yesterday are con-nected with the large copper wire theft from the street railway companies of the city. William Masters, William Fraily and Harry Thompson were arrested for the crime and confessed their guilt. "We were not alone," they said at first,

"We were not slone," they said at first, and tried to implicate Joe La Barge. La Barge proved that he was innocent of the charge, and the boys then said that they had done the work by themselves.

The detectives have thought from the first that more were implicated in the theft, and have also thought that a large amount of copper wire was stored away. The capture of the two men with nearly a ton of wire yesterday seems to indicate that the detectives were right in their supposition, and it is thought that Sheriff Linville has made a good capture. Chief Hunt will take steps today to have the wire identified by the owners and to have the prisoners brought back to Port-
