BETTER FOR VISITORS.-There is much BETTER FOR VISITORS.—There is much more room and comfort for persons visiting the County Recorder's office to examine records, or for any other purpose, since eight of the cars loaded with 90 record books each have been located permanently in the big vault provided for records. The wheels have been taken off the cars, and four cars placed on top of the other four, with an alley between and a passageway all around, so that any volume of records desired can be easily got at and a wide shelf along each side got at, and a wide shelf along each side of the vault makes a very convenient place for examining records. Two cars containing the latest record books, some not yet filled, are allowed to remain in the office during the day, but take up very little room. The long steel index case at the north wall of the office has een raised a little higher, which makes ch more convenient, and the slop shelf in front, on which the indexes laid to be examined, has been made sloping, which is another improvement. It had so much slant that the books often used to slide off and tumble on the toes of those examining them. The changes suit everybody, especially those who had to wheel the eight heavy cases of records in and out of the vault every day. The increased space gives visitors more liberty and privileges, and Captain Alexander, who has had a chair their, and has been making abstracts of records for a generation, is occasionally discommoded by some of the callers "ab-stracting" his chair, which, though only a cheap and well-worn affair, is the only one in the office he can be comfortable in. The next janitor who hides that chair will wish he hadn't. THIS TREE NOT SPARED .- Half a dozen cords, more or less, of mighty poor wood ricked up in the gutter on Fifth street, near Lincoln, in front of a stretch of new ement sidewalk, is all that remains of what was the largest remaining poplar tree in the city a few days ago. Lovers of shade trees, when they saw this tree etanding after the sidewalk had been completed, were in hope that it was going to be spared, but suddenly arrived "Tom" Scott, contractor for removing shade trees, and undermined the trunk of this grand old tree, which was 5 feet through and towered to the stars. Down it came with a crash which shook the neighborand saws and axes soon made kind-f it. When Scott was asked if he did not regret destroying such a grand old tree, he said he did not. It was all a matter of business with him, and he had disposed of over 200 shade trees along the streets of Portland, some of them larger than this. What he did regret was having been delayed till the sidewalk was laid, whereby his work was doubled, so that he was poorly paid for it by what he bad contracted to do it for. He said some unpleasant things about his luck in this matter, but allowed that having agreed to remove the tree, he was bound CHINOOK SALMON IN MARKET.—There was plenty of genuine chinook salmon in the market yesterday. The fish appeared to have been waiting for the season to open, and were battering at the doors of markets by the ton for entrance before 6 o'clock in the morning. They were received with open arms and taken in by the ton, and fine big fellows of 50 pounds or more were numerous. Most of them came from Oregon City way. Numbers of them were shipped to San Francisco, Puget Sound and all over the Northwest during the day. They retailed at 13% cents per pound, and are much better than the salmon which have been coming in on fee from San Francisco and Fuget Sound for the past month or two, while tons have been caught in the Columbia and Williamette and pickied.

Policemen Puff and Blow.—City Physician Zan, assisted by Dr. Slocum, yesterday commenced making physical examinations of the rather large list of applicants for positions on the police force. They managed to get through with ten during the afterneon, and judging from the appearance of the men as they came out, puffing and blowing, they had gone through a "pretty severe course of aprouts," one expressed it. The doctors will try to dispose of ten a day till they reach the end of the list. All those examined yesterday were able to satisfy the examiners as to their physical qualifications for filling the position of policeman, but it now remains for them to satisfy the Civil Service Commission.

yesterday were surprised to see a force of graders at work cutting a street through the tier of double blocks between of graders at work cutting a street through the tier of double blocks between Twenty-second and Twenty-third streets from Washington to Everett streets. They were anxious to know why this was being done, and in an effort to ascertain, the following information was elicited: Twenty-one years ago William M. Ladd and Fred R. Strong, then both "young fellows," invested $15.000 in a tract of unimproved land on the outskirts of the city, owned by William L. Halsey, a partner of Ben Holladay, containing $36, acres. Many old-time residents will remember Mr. Halsey, who, with his family, sojourned here for several years. Since that time three streets have been extended through the tract—Cornell, Everett and North Twenty-third. Now Messra Ladd and Strong are about to plat the tract in conjunction with some fractions of the adjoining Meade estate, which squares up corners, and will make in all about $0 lots, and will be called the Strong Addition. They are having a street 50 feet in width opened through this tract, from Washington to Everett, which is to be named Lucretia street, work on which was begun yesterday, and the grading of which will be completed in about ten days. This information will probably satisfy all anxious inquirers, but it may be stated that it is proposed to lay gas and water mains in Lucretia street, and improve it with bituminous macadam before putting the property on the market. As lots in that locality are worth from $3000 to $360 each, it is probable that, notwithstanding interest and taxes, Messrs. Ladd and Strong are likely to make something on their investment

POTATO-MARKERS MAY BE CALLED OUT. -The striking of workmen has now reached a stage when people are begin-The striking of workmen has now reached a stage when people are beginning to Joke about it. On Front street yesterday it was rumored that the potatomarkers had struck. There are three of these artists, who mark sacks of petatoes on the docks for shipment on the steamers, and it was said that, if an increase of wages was refused them, they would call out every man in town. "And it is just safe to bet," continued the narrator, "that they will 'come out, too.' " The demand of truckmen and draymen for an increase of wages has recalled a similar strike two years ago, and the case of an employer who replied that he could not stand the increase, as he was making nothing. To this his employes replied that, as he had charged his bookkeeper with embezzling $20,000 of his funds, without his knowing it, it was evident that he had been making money without knowing it, and the bookkeeper had, therefore, taken it. As to the threatened strike of the truckmen and draymen, it is said they are sure to set the advance asked for, as the truckmen and draymen, it is said they are sure to get the advance asked for, as the porters in warehouses and stores will not help to load trucks driven by non-union men. RAISED RENT WITHOUT OWNER'S CONsent.-Increase of rent has troubled many poor people in this city of late, but yesterday a wealthy man had trouble from the same cause. He bought a house and lot a month ago for $10,000, which promised to be a good paying investment, as the tenant was one who paid the rent promptly. Yesterday the purchaser coming by the property saw the people moving out, and was told that their reason for moving was that the rent had been raised. This rather astonished him, as he had not ordered any increase of the rent. On inquiry, he found that the agent of the former owner had taken it upon himself to raise the rent. "Now." said the new owner, "I shall have to overhaul and repair and renovate the house throughout at a considerable expense, and be getting no rent for a long time, and, after all, will have to hunt up a new and, after all, will have to mix up a new tenant, and perhaps get a bad one. I don't like this at all," he said, producing the card of the over-officious agent, "and I am just going around to give this fel-iow a piece of my mind on the matter." Probably this did not increase the peace of mind of the party to whom it was

AT THE THEATERS.

Shakespeare's great tragedy of "Macbeth" was strongly presented last night at Cordray's Theater by John Griffith and his company, and there was a good audience present. Mr. Griffith was well received and had to respond to a number of curtain recalls. The production is a new and original one, and although the action is built on original lines yet much is left to the individual perception of the players. Mr. Griffith is built on heroic lines to act Macbeth. He is in the prime of manhood, weighs 250 pounds, has muscles on his upper arms like those of iron, and stands about 5 feet 10 inches tall. As all the world knows, Macbeth was a and stands about 5 feet 10 inches tall.

As all the world knows, Macbeth was a famous Scotch warrior, being a Thane of Glamis, Forfar County, in a lovely valley called the Howe of Strathmore, and famous in minetrel bailed and story.
The trend of the story is Celtic, and it is interesting to know that Mr. Griffith's parents were Scotch. So, by temperament and lineage, he is well fitted to portray Macbeth. He has played the part for six months, with a good degree of tray Macbeth. He has played the part for six months, with a good degree of artistic success.

At the opening of the tragedy Mr. Griffith's reading of Macbeth is that of a rough but brave warrior, ambitious, ill-at-ense, and lacking that high purpose which spurs one to high deeds. He yearns for power, and aspires to the crown of Scot-land worn by King Fornean Miss Louisa power, and aspires to the crown of Scot-iand worn by King Buncan. Miss Louise Ripley, who recently earned a name for herself by her excellent acting in "Pud-d'nhead Wilson," is the Lady Macbeth, and she it is who stirs the slumbering ambition in her husband's heart and be-comes his evil genius. Miss Ripley's por-trayal of Lady Macbeth will compare favorably with that of any other actress who has played that part, in Portland. who has played that part, in Portland, for a long time past. When her husband grows faint after he kills King Duncan, she sneers at his terror, and becomes she finishes the work her craven hus-band has begun.

Mr. Griffith's work in the banquet scene, where the ghost of Banquo haunts ilm, was thrilling, awe-inspiring and hair-raising. His strongest work is in the last act, where he becomes physically brave, and a man again, as he has a furious hand-to-hand fight with Macduff (Warren Conlon) and falls dead, like a soldier. The scenery is carefully repro-duced from historical pictures, and is handsome. The best electrical affects are in the fifth act, when the faces of several of Macbeth's victims flash on a wall, like the vision recorded in the book of Daniel. Mr. Griffith has a strong. well-modulated voice, and his enunciation is splended, His support is good. "Mac-beth" will be the attraction at Cordray's Theater this evening, tomorrow and Saturday evenings, with Saturday matinee.

Fine Acts for the Benefit

There is every indication that the bene-fit performance to be given at the Marquam Theater Tuesday afternoon, April II, at 2:15 o'clock, by the combined theater people of Portland, in aid of the Robert E. Beil fund to establish a sanitarium for consumptive actors and actresses in Colorado or Arizona, will be liberally patron-ized. Tickets may be purchased at the Marquam. Baker's and Cordray's Theaters tomorrow morning and exchanged for seats at the Marquam Theater box office Saturday morning at 10 o'clock. The following have volunteered to take part in the performance: Mrs. Brune, in one in the performance: Mrs. Brune, in one act from "Unorna"; Hetty Bernard Chase, in one act from "The Resurrection"; Harry Corson Clarke, in one act from "What Happened to Jones," all of which will be interapersed with high-class vaude-ville.

Harry Corson Clarke is nightly giving amusement to large audiences at the Baker Theater, and the walls of the building ring again with laughter at the comic situations of "His Absent Boy." Mr. Clarke has more than sustained the high reputation which he had, and the opinion has been freely expressed in the theater-lobby between the acts that the claims which were advanced before he came that he is the natural successor to Nat C. Goodwin is no idle talk of a ubiqui-tous press agent. As Pennie Mr. Clarke made a really insting laughing hit, it is something far more than a mere cos d'estime" that he has scored this and it is so

The advance sale of seats will begin to-morrow (Friday) morning at 19 o'clock for the talented young actrees, Mrs. Brune, who comes to the Marquam Grand Theater next Monday and Theater next Monday and Theater next Monday and Theater nights, April 29 and 21, in a dramatization of F. Marion Crawford's novel, "Unorna." A novel electrical effect is introduced in "Unorna." The sacred River Ganges is shown as the daylight fades and the second own, as the daylight fades and the m rises slowly. By means of a machi which is called a ripple machine, the fect of the moonbeams dancing on the placid waters of the great stream is shown. This is only one of the spisndid scenic effects shown in "Unorna." The supporting company is exceptionally strong, including such prominent people as Erroll Dunbar, Frank Hennig, Junius Brutus Booth, Claus Bogel, Hilda Verson, Ida Werner, Nancy Paget and oth-

Charles B. Hanford Tomorrow.

The attraction at the Marquam Grand Theater tomorrow (Friday) and Saturday night, with a matinee Saturday, will be the eminent tragedian. Mr. Charles B. Hanford, who recently played in this city at the same theater, Mr. Hanford will present for his opening bill "The Taming of the Surew," in which he made such a decided hit last year. Saturday matinee Shakespeare's delightful comedy, "Much Ado About Nothing," will be the offering. Saturday night "The Merchant of Venice" will be the play. Mr. Hanford is surrounded this season with a most excellent company, and a feast of all that is good and best in the drama may be looked for. Seats are now seiling. Charles B. Hanford Tomorrow. for, Seats are now selling.

Cordray's Bill Next Week. "Macbeth" will be the bill at Cordray's Theater tonight, and for the balance of the week including Saturday matinee. There will be two attractions at Cordray's Theater beginning next week. Commencing with a Sunday matinee, and for four nights, the much-taiked-of and much-written about play. "The Reserved." and for four nights, the much-taiked-of and much-written-about play, "The Resurrection." Count Tolstot's latest masterpiece, will receive its first production in this city. It is rare that such great interest has centered round a dramatic presentation as has been shown in every city where this play has been produced. The second play will be a new melodrama entitled, "California," in which Ray Bronson, a very clever soubrette, will be seen in the star part.

DILLEY, Or., April 15,-(To the Editor.) green blackberry with some surprise, as this berry is of such poor flavor and quality that it does not seem possible that it could ever be in demand in any form. And aside from its poor quality, form. And aside from its poor quality, its habit of growth is such that it is almost impossible to gather the fruit; the suggestion of a denim suit to wear does not fill the bill at all—a complete

I am most heartly in accord with the idea that we should grow and can up great quantities of blackberries, and not only them but all the other fruits that are suitable for the purpose, because this Willamette Valley is pre-eminently suited for that branch of the fruit in-dustry. But I fear that the canning of an inferior fruit by an inferior process is not the best manner of procedure.
