In defeating the Pirates from Washing-State the Greengages won a game t they earned. It was not presented to m—they had to fight for it. Miller, the did things for the serving station for lack Grim's tribe. Wallace, the Portland had artist, who studies batters as a student does his lesson, certainly had his mortar and pestle with him, and the way be mixed the siants and benders for that Spokane angregation was sinful. Only four hits were made off him during nine ngs, and they were scattered so care was nothing doing with the score column. The pearly-toothed youngster rapped out single that brought in a run, and also kene started out with a rush, and "real" impudent. Ferris hit the d ball whipped over the plate to tter, and he was out to Davis. Henricks drew a journey to first on four vide ones, and then Klopf bumped one oo deep for Painter to catch and Ferris rought in the first run. Neither Nordyke brought in the first run. Neither Nordyke nor Elsey could negotiate. Then Mr. Miller began to grind out his grist. He was us wild as that proverbial March hare, and Delsel walked, and Donohue sacrificed him to second. "Slats" Davis, that past master of baseball repartee, waved his club in deflance at Miller. A ball or two, then a strike or two—biff and away flew the ball into bingle land, and in came the trigger-legged Delsel, and the ssore was even. Donohue's error and Kane's single gave the visitors their second and last run. It looked so much like Spokane that the crowd of pretty women began to discuss the Easter bonnets present and scuss the Easter bonnets present and e recent row in the Woman's Club. The scussion waxed fast and furfous until to fourth inning. Then things broke ght garden, who had taken an early king to Miller's grist, punched his bat gainst a wobbly out-curve, and it sailed arrily into left field just out of reach of Reed. Wilson tried to commit petty lar-eny and was caught by a city block at second, while Hanley was being presented with a fielder's choice. Painter connected with one, and it flew into Nordyke's waitonds in bringing the score home. Wai-lace, too, wanted a look in at the swat-ting, and he joited out a single beyond fielding distance. Painter had traveled to the siding at third and came in on the Millier did not like the appearance of sel, so he walked him again; then sobue hit to left, past Reed, and Wal-

Anderson slugged out a double-sacker,

In the seventh canto, Parrot's bat got in the way of a bender for a single, but Wilson's way of a bender for a single, but Wilson's "buntation" to Miller forced him out at second. Wilson was safe, and waiting for the triple that Painter was to drive to the right-field fence. The seventh run came in the eighth inning. Donohue drew free transportation, got to second on Zulusky's victous throw, and stole third while the ball was being fielded. Anderon's long hit brought him home. The
