NEW ORLEANS, April 16.—The eighth annual convention of the National Asso-ciation of Manufacturers ended today with the unanimous election of David M. Parry of Indianapolis, to the presidency. There had been much talk of a movement for his defeat for the presidency of the association, owing to his position on the labor question, but there were no surface indications of dissension when the election occurred, the convention, with cheers, ordering the secretary to cast the ballot of the delegates. An effort was made to the delegates. An effort was made to cure the adoption of a resolution favoring tariff revision, but it was tabled. Pittsburg was chosen as the place of the next meeting. Vice-presidents for the vaus states represented were chosen. The speech delivered by Carroll D. Wright yesterday dealing with the labor question was ordered printed and distributed as as-

who is simultaneously presiding at a private meeting of the landlord's committee, sent word to John Redmond, the Irish leader, suggesting that the land co ence reconvene Saturday after the opin ion of the national convention on the land bill is known, so that both landlords and tenants may then discuss their mutual objections. Mr. Redmond was unable to decide on the proposition until after today's proceedings, for which lengthy agenda had been provided.

These consisted of many propose amendments to the details of Secretary Wyndham's proposals. The chief movers were William O'Brien and Michael Davitt. The former, while congratulating Ireland on the fact that the British Ministry had introduced a bill accepting in principle should be restored to the people, urged the delegates to press amendments enlarging the financial scope of the bill. Mr. O'Brien, however, asked the convention to entrust to the Parliamentary party the power and responsibility of eventually dealing in committee stage with the amendments.

O'Brien Champions the Bill.

While begging the delegates to let their Parliamentary representatives settle the matter, Mr. O'Brien attacked the landlords, Irish Judges and British rule with the same virulence which has always marked his speeches, to the intense de light of the audience, which, swayed by his eloquence, hissed and cheered alter-He concluded by saying that if properly amended Mr. Wyndham's bill would "make the peasants se safe as a king on his throne in the possession of their land." They would never again have to stand trembling in the rent office. Mr. O'Brien added:

"If we go on it is not too much to say that in the next generation it will be as hard to find a man who has witnessed an eviction as it is now to find a man who

Pleading for a friendly spirit in the disussion, Mr. O'Brien remarked:

"If all goes well it will be the greatest ssurrection of hope, joy and happiness that has visited this country in a thousand years. It is the biggest thing English statesmanship has ever done toward restoring the soil of Ireland to Irishmen." Mr. O'Brien ended by saying that while Mr. Redmond himself did not want to entangle the land question with home rule, they mgiht as well "try to turn honest Irish blood into red ink as to allay his own and Ireland's desire for eventua home rule." One of the results might perhaps eventually be to kill the English opposition to a Parliament on College Green, where all Irishmen without distinction of creed and Michael Davitt then received a great He demanded the release of Colonel Arthur Lynch, who is undergoing a sentence of life imprisonment after having been convicted of high treason, and one other Irish agitator who is still in jail and whose continued imprison ment, said Mr. Davitt, was unbecoming to the spirit of peace between Ireland and England. Mr. Davitt expressed many differences of opinion with Mr. O'Brien, Mr. Redmond and the majority of the delegates, but he promised to abide by the decision of the convention, voiced his undving hatred of Irish landlords and said he doubted if Mr. O'Brien was right in believing that they would settle down and help in the development of the country after the passage of the bill.

Mr. Davitt also made a strong plea in behalf of the Irish agricultural laborer, which he will elaborate tomorrow, when the suggested amendments are taken up in detail. He maintained that the bill, even as amended, would not put an end to the land struggle, and moved in friendmotion, providing that the Nationalist members of Parliament refer the bill back to the convention for final approval, after passing the committee stage in the House of Commons, so that the people themselves may say if they accept it as amended, and that the convention be merely adjourned instead of dissolved.

Mr. Redmond, in reply, paid a tribute to Mr. Davitt's fairness and the benefit derived from his presence and support, but he said he believed his amendo would be construed as a vote of want of confidence in the Irish Parliamentary
