Pope Thanks Roosevelt.

ROME, April 17.—The pope was gratified when informed that President Roosevelt, on the celebration of the papal jubilee, had forwarded to the pontiff, through Cardinal Gibbons, the volume containing all the messages and official documents of the Presidents of the United States. He said: "The messages are the essence of a century and a half of American political wisdom. I shall be happy in having it as a companion to the set of President Roosevelt's own literary works, sent by Governor Taft last year." The pontiff added that he will thank the President by sending him an autograph letter.

WILL END LAND WAR

Irish Convention's Changes in Land Bill.

GOVERNMENT WILL ADOPT THEM

Redmond Says Landlords Will Agree and Balfour Will Accept Amendments—Bill Proclaimed Precursor of Irish Home Rule.

DUBLIN, April 17.—The Irish National Convention concluded this afternoon. In two days it got through a large amount of controversial work and emerged, to quote T. P. O'Connor, "scathless and honored from a test that the wide world was watching. It was not only shaping the destinies of Ireland, but it held in its hands the fate of the powerful British Ministry."

John Redmond, replying to an enthusiastic vote of thanks for his chairmanship, declared that the convention was a credit in every particular to Ireland.

In a statement Mr. Redmond makes the important announcement that the amendments adopted by the convention will be accepted at the joint conference, at which Lord Dunraven, Lord Mayo, Captain Shawe-Taylor, John Redmond, William O'Brien and T. P. O'Brien will meet. This practically insures the passage of the Irish land bill. The delegates returned to their homes tonight in a happy frame of mind, echoing John Redmond's parting words: "May the God of our fathers once again visit this land with the peace and plenty that are her due."

T. J. O'Connor, summing up today's proceedings, writes the following for the Associated Press: "This was the day for agreeing on the amendments to the land bill which are considered essential. Most of these were proposed by William O'Brien. They covered several important questions, including demands for more liberal treatment of the congested districts and of the laborers. The proceedings were extremely harmonious. There was an animated but good-humored discussion on the retention of an eighth as a rent charge, proposed by Mr. Davitt and myself, the former representative of views in favor of the nationalization of the land while I put forward those of peasant proprietors. Ultimately a resolution was adopted condemning the eighth, but retaining a technical rent charge."

One of the most important amendments was that proposed by Michael Davitt, that the principle of the American homestead law be added to the land bill to "safeguard the peasant from the results of improvident borrowing and the operation of land-grabbers and land-jobbers."

Precursor of Home Rule.
John Redmond made the following statement to the Associated Press: "The convention was the most important as yet held in Ireland during the last 100 years. If its recommendations be substantially carried out by the government, the land question will be settled and the whole future of Ireland will be full of hope. The convention recommendations will be supported by the members of the land conference, and they will be presented to the government as the demands of both landlords and tenants. I have the strongest possible hope that the govern-them. If all goes well, the result will be the absolute end of the land war in Ireland, the union of all classes and creeds in this country, with the inevitable result of the concession, almost immediately, of a system of national self-government.

"I congratulate the whole Irish race, at home and abroad, on this most magnificent result of the labors, sacrifices and sufferings of the men who have conducted the Irish national movement in the past few years, and who, I hope, will live to see the triumph of their principles. This blessed situation is largely due to the magnificent support we have received from the Irish in America and American public opinion generally."

Still Want Home Rule.

The convention reconvened early today in the round room of the Mansion House. There was a smaller attendance.

In view of the misunderstanding in the case of certain English papers, John Redmond introduced a strong home rule resolution, declaring that the Irish nation would never be satisfied until it obtained a full measure of self-government. "No substitute," said Mr. Redmond, "can or will be accepted."

Michael Davitt briefly seconded the resolution, saying Irishmen would be neglecting their sacred duty to the cause if they did not send such a message to their race throughout the world. Mr. Redmond's recommendations were carried by acclamation.

mounted the platform. His appearance created laughter.

"I did not," he said, "travel 150 miles to be laughed at."

A few seconds later Mr. Flynn held the convention spellbound by the extraordinary eloquence with which he insisted that the present occupants of holdings which formerly belonged to evicted peasants should themselves be evicted. This peasant orator worked up a storm against "grabbers," but Mr. O'Brien's more moderate counsels prevailed. Throughout the morning peasant speakers discussed the details of the bill with intelligent rhetoric. Mr. O'Brien's suggestions, as a rule, were passed without a division.

Davitt Starts a Fight.

Michael Davitt had a long fight against Mr. O'Brien's peasant proprietorship proposals. He maintained that nationalization of the land was the only method for making Ireland prosperous. When a division was threatened, Mr. Redmond effected a compromise, with the result that the convention emphatically endorsed Mr. Davitt's well-known theories, but retained Mr. O'Brien's suggestion. The convention was concluded without any special incident.

A resolution was passed demanding the immediate release of Colonel Lynch. Mr. Kilbride, a former member of Parliament, and Major Jameson and Jasper Tully, members of Parliament, were read out of the party for "dereliction of duty and lack of loyalty to the United Irish League."

A motion was passed urging Thomas Sexton to return to Parliament. John Redmond and Lord Dunraven had an informal meeting this morning and decided to postpone the sitting of the landlords' and tenants' conference, which will probably be held in London next week.

LONDON, April 17.—Such cold and snow falls as were experienced in the United Kingdom during the past week were unprecedented in 20 years. Nine degrees of frost were registered last night in the Thames Valley and snow storms were again reported today in various parts of the country. The same conditions prevail
