TACOMA, Wesh., April 27.-(Special.)-The work of the Portland team today was high class in every department of the game. Lundblom started in to pitch the game, but split a finger at the opening of the third inning, and was obliged to re-tire. Wallace going in without warming up. One lone hit off Lundhlom and three widely scattered hits off Wallace were all the Tigers could do with the Portland

Anderson's home run over the rightfield fence in the second gave Portland the first mark on the blackboard. In the seventh, with two men out, Hutchinson muffed Hanley's foul fly, after which the lad cracked a choice single to right. Painter rapped a grounder to Hutchinson, who messed. Wallace drove a hot single through the diamond to center, upon which Hanley scored.

Little Diesel put another in the same place, scoring Painter. A base on balls for Holland, followed by Byers' home run over the back fence, gave the Tigers their two runs in the ninth. The ninth inning was where Tacoma could have won the game but for Hanley's performance in Portland's behalf in the seventh. Holland was first up and drew a complimentary ticket. Rockenfield struck out, Byers came up next, and the way he hit the ball was a caution to the natives. The ball sailed over the back fence, and Holland and Byers both crossed the plate, while the fans simply went bughouse with gice, Hutchinson was out on a fly to Parrott, and Joe McCarthy rapped to Painter, who messed things, and Joe was safe. He stole second, but was left there on Fisher's out,

The captain of the steamer George Strecker, which went down during a blizzard in the whirlpool of the Green River, had navigated the rapids for over 20 years previous to the fafeful the passengers had breakfasted, and many of them were on deck watching the troubled waters. Among them was Miss G. E. Redfern, of No. 38 Ambrose street, Rochester, N. Y., and her acing rescue gives the best story of the passengers' flerce struggle for life.

K C Rowe, Dayville "When the boat sank," says Miss Redfern, "some of the men jumped into the water and swam for shore. Others were clinging to floating bales of goods, and these were rescued by some men in tion of the steamer and went down with her. One of the crew dived and brought me to the surface, when somebody threw a life-preserver over my head. A young man helped me on a bale of wool which floated past, and so

At the time of the accident Miss Redfern was returning to Rochester from Kentucky, but owing to the shock of the accident she reached home in an
