BURY THE HATCHET

Parisians Decorate in Honor of King Edward.

HAVE FORGOTTEN PAUL KRUGER

Hotel Where Boer President Dwelt Now Wears Bunting in Honor of Once Reviled British-Officials Go to Meet Him.

PARIS, April 30.—This city has taken on an aspect of festivity in anticipation of King Edward's arrival here tomorrow. The boulevards and avenues radiating on the Place de l'Opera are beginning to assume a brilliant appearance. The buildings are looped with bunting and flags, and the avenues are filled by a succession of handsome arches resplendent with flowers and flags. A driving April shower late today bedraggled the bunting and held out threatening prospects for tomorrow.

The decorations symbolize by the entwined flags of France and Great Britain the resumption of cordial feelings between the two countries. Many of the balconies bear floral legends reading, "God Save the King" and "Welcome." One striking feature of the display is the decoration of the front of the hotel where ex-President Kruger stopped. The newspapers comment on the fact that the same show of bunting, etc., which greeted Mr. Kruger is now used to greet King Edward. Gigantic, crowns, shining with myriads of electric globes, are notable features of the general ornamentation. Sir Edmund J. Monson, the British Ambassador, left here today to meet King Edward. The French officials representing the government have also departed. The royal train will emerge from the Mont Cenis Tunnel in France at 3 o'clock tomorrow morning. The official welcome of King Edward will take place when his train reaches Dijon at 10 A. M. There Admiral Fernier, General Lacroix and Commandant Cahabad, in the name of the government, will welcome him to French soil. The King will leave Dijon at 11 o'clock, arriving in Paris about 1 P. M. A large force of troops has been concentrated here to render military honors to King Edward tomorrow.

EDWARD STARTS FOR PARIS.

Embraces Between Two Kings Mark Farewell to Rome.

ROME, April 30.—King Edward left Rome for Paris today amid a tremendous crowd of well-wishers. The streets were crowded and the windows and balconies were filled with people. Before leaving, the British King told Premier Zanardelli that he hoped the friendship between Great Britain and Italy would ever increase. King Edward and King Victor Emmanuel embraced and kissed each other at parting.

COTTON GREET'S LOUBET.

American Fleet Salutes Him on Arrival at Marseilles.

MARSEILLES, April 30.—President Loubet arrived here today from Bizerta, Tunisia, which place he left yesterday on board the warship Jeanne d'Arc, escorted by the French fleet. As the President's ship approached the port, she was saluted by the land batteries and the American warships under the command of Rear Admiral Cotton.

As the Jeanne d'Arc entered the roadstead, Admiral Cotton proceeded in a steam launch alongside of the French cruiser. He was met at the rail by the captain of the vessel, who presented him to M. Loubet. Admiral Cotton greeted the President and expressed the affectionate sentiments of President Roosevelt and the American people toward the government and people of France. So great were the cheers which surged around the wharves waiting for the President, that M. Loubet, Chief of the Special Service of the Government, forbade any further access to the pier.

Rear-Admiral Cotton has won universal esteem by his courteous attentions to the French authorities. During the morning he received visits from the Cuban Consul, Admiral Rouvier, the Marine Commandant at Marseilles; M. Mastie, Prefect of the department; M. Chanot the Mayor of Marseilles, and General Machias, commanding the Fifteenth Army Corps. Many members of the American colony were also among the visitors.

LOOKS AS THOUGH PILLAGED.

Terrible Result of Anti-Jewish Riots at Kischeneff.

LONDON, May 1.—Letters which have been received in London, from Kischeneff, Bessarabia, confirm previous accounts of the Easter anti-Semite riots. Over 200 shops and stores in Kischeneff were wrecked. Not a building in the Jewish quarter was spared; there was much destruction on the fashionable thoroughfares, and only military protection saved the banks and commercial houses. The town today has the appearance of having withstood a siege, and there are 15,000 troops there. The streets are patrolled by armed men. Seventy persons are known to have been killed, or to have succumbed to their injuries. Of this number 20 were Jews.

Although the riots took the form of a savage and merciless attack on the Jews, there is little doubt that the outbreak was engineered by secret Russian industrial societies desiring to injure and discredit the government. The rioting ceased immediately when the government authorized the Governor and the Commandant to fire on the rioters. Until this authorization was given, the soldiers did not fire a single shot. Ten thousand Jews have fled from Kischeneff.

NEW PICTURES OF SEASON.

Portrait of Roosevelt, Creflixion and St. Pierre Disaster.

PARIS, April 30.—A preliminary view of the pictures of the national salon was held yesterday. Today is vernalizing day. Many pictures of high order are exhibited, and Chartran's portrait of President Roosevelt occupies a prominent place. Opposite the portrait of the American President is hung one of the sensational pictures of the exhibition. This is Ferris's representation of the catastrophe at Martinique. It shows masses of vivid flame enveloping the town of St. Pierre, and the ships in the harbor with a mythical figure hovering above and hurling down the anathemas. A portrait of Mr. Kruger, in which the old Boer is shown bending over his Bible, draws attention with the Roosevelt portrait.

THEY FIGHT WITH BOMBS

REBELS IN TURKEY BLOW UP BANK AT SALONICA.

Salonica, European Turkey, April 30.—The Ottoman bank here was destroyed by dynamite today. The Turkish Post-office and other buildings were also attacked, resulting in a panic, during which two men were killed and two persons were injured. A detachment of 2000 additional troops has since arrived here from Smyrna.

OBJECT OF EXPLOSION.

Rebels Hope by Outrages to Provoke Intervention in Turkey.

LONDON, May 1.—The attack on the Ottoman Bank at Salonica has an ominous parallel in the Armenian raid on the Ottoman Bank at Constantinople on August 26, 1896, which provoked the Moslem massacre of Armenians on the following day. The supposed object of the present attack is to provoke Turkish reprisals and European intervention.

According to the account furnished by the Ottoman Embassy in Paris, the bank was burned, having been set afire at the same moment that agitators in carriages threw bombs at the buildings. The Embassy declares there is no doubt that these agitators were Bulgarian revolutionists. Two of them were killed and three others have been captured. A soldier and another man also were killed. There were no deaths among the employees of the bank.

The instigator of the outrage is a Bulgarian schoolmaster named Yorgi, who reached Salonica by sea. After the outrage he boarded a train for Uskub. He was captured, however, and will be brought to justice.

RUSSIA AND TURKEY ALLIES.

They Join Hands to Curb the Turbulent Bulgarians.

LONDON, May 1.—In a despatch from Uskub, European Turkey, the correspondent of the Morning Post says Russia and Turkey have entered into a temporary alliance. It is a working agreement to curb Bulgaria. Its drift and purport may be summed up in the expression: "Turkey is letting a room to Russia in order to be master in the rest of the house."

BLOODY BATTLE IN TURKEY.

Many Rebels Killed by Turks, Who Rout Them.

VIENNA, April 30.—The Neue Presse

Presse says the fighting reported from Sofia, Bulgaria, yesterday between Turkish troops and a large band of insurgents near the frontier of Bulgaria, in Macedonia.

donia, occurred last Tuesday. The insurgents lost 21 men killed and the Turks had 13 killed or wounded.

Another Bank Is Burned. VIENNA, May 1.—Telegrams received here from Sofia declare the Mitallens Bank at Sofia has been burned.

THE DAY'S DEATH ROLL.

Paul B. du Chailin Is Dead. ST. PETERSBURG, April 30.—Paul B. du Chailin, the American author and explorer, who was stricken with partial paralysis yesterday, died at midnight. A brother of Vereshchagin, the Russian painter, will arrange for the burial of the body in the Littereurs cemetery, if it is desired that the interment take place here. Paul Belloni Du Chailin, beloved of all juvenile readers in civilized lands, was born in Paris, France, July 21, 1858. At an early age he went to the West Coast of Africa, where his father was stationed. In 1883 he came to the United States with a cargo of ebony, and soon after published in the New York Tribune a series of articles on the Gaboon country which elicited much attention. He became a citizen of the United States. He again sailed for Africa in October, 1885, and spent the subsequent four years exploring that country, traveling on foot, unaccompanied by any white man, upwards of 800 miles. He shot and stuffed over 300 birds, of which 60 varieties were previously unknown, and killed over 1000 quadrupeds, among which were several gorillas, never before shot, and probably never before seen by white man. His statements upon his return were discredited, but he was later vindicated. He undertook and completed another more thorough exploring tour, adding much valuable data to the world's knowledge of Africa; and he has published many works of rare interest. He had a passion for travel and adventure in wild lands, and was a man of great personal courage and nobility of character. Lynch Law for Cattle-Rustlers. TUCSON, Ariz., April 30.—Advice from Fort Huachuca report that the body of a Mexican cattle rustler named Vasquez was found hanging from the limb of a tree eight miles from the fort, on Tuesday. While there is no definite knowledge as to who committed the act, it is generally believed that it was the result of concerted action by cattlemen of that section, who have been losing a large number of cattle at the hands of rustlers. Another Mexican was shot and killed three miles from the line in Huachuca the same day by line-riders, who caught him and two others in the act of skinning a yearling. The man attempted to escape
