They Explain Their Neglect to Act When Notified of Smallpox at

OREGON CITY, Or., May 15.—(Special.)

The attempt of the officers of the Multnomah County Board of Health to place the biame for the existence of some isothe blame for the existence of some iso-lated cases of smallpox in this county entirely in the officers of Clackamas County has aroused the latter. Exception is taken by the Clackamas County physi-cians to the statements and representa-tions of the Multmonah County Health tions of the Maismonah County Heatin officers with reference to the amalipox cases in the vicinity of Sycamore.

"The only notification we have received of the existence of smallpox in Clackamas County," said Dr. J. W. Powell, who with his partner, Dr. J. W. Norris, are the county physicians and health officers for Clackamas County, was about two for Clackamus County, "was about two for Clackamas County, was about two weeks ago when we received a letter from some person connected with the health department of Multnoman County, cailing our attention to the Illness of young Richey with the disease. So poorly young Richey with the disease. So was the communication written that we was the communication written that we were unable to decipher the full text of weer and the suffice. The the letter or ascertain its author. The letter stated, however, that Richey was being properly quarantined and that all precautions were being exercised to prevent any spread of the malady. I wrote Geary, of the Multnomah Board Health, requesting a continuance of the treatment of the Richey case in Clacka-mas County, assuming that no expense for the services would be attached to this We heard nothing further from sage stating that there were several cases of smallpox near Sycamore and in Clackamas County that required attention. I proceeded to that place at once but found conditions other than represented. There have not been to exceed 20 cases of the disease in this county and in every in-stance the afflicted had only mild attacks. I learned that the Rock Creek School, which is located in the midst of the smallpox district, had not suspended sessions a day and that no pupils who had racted the disease, were attending the ol. Henry Troge, a director of the Rock Creek School, was one of the last patients, and when I visited his place yesterday, I found him shearing sheep. He will notify us if any other cases de-velop and all such will be promptly

"Judge Ryan, who, under the law, is e other member of the County Pass, the other member of the County Board of Health, has not been notified of a single case of the disease so far as I am in-formed. The section in which the disease has been confined is one of the most re-mote parts of the county. Being contiguous to Multnomah County, the bulk the trade and business transactions of the community go to places in that county, this city having no direct means of communication with the infected dis-trict. In the treatment of these isolated cases in this county, it has been the policy of the county authorities to allow the at-tending physician to treat the disease if a proper quarantine is maintained and precautions taken to prevent all con-tagion. Any criticism of Clackamas County officials in this connection is un-called for and unjust. When notified of any cases of smallpox or other contagious discase, steps have always been taken immediately to treat the afflicted and pre-vent a spread of the malady. The people of the county have co-operated with the officials at all times and have used every precaution to exterminate the disease."

County Judge Ryan, the County Health
Officer, is out of the city today and could not be interviewed, but it is known that he has at no time been notified of any case of smallpox in the vicinity of Syca-

Zan, and his able assistant, William Beutlespacher, the dis-case has continued to manifest itself. cropping out here and there, and in many instances no authentic trace of its origin could be secured. Since the creation of the County Board of Health the situation has assumed quite an alarming aspect, as on following some of the cases reported here the County Health Officer, Dr. E. P. Geary, and myself, acting as his deputy, have traced up no less than 20 cases of smallpox in Multnomah County, and nearly twice as many more in Clackamas.

Owing to the dread of quarantine in some instances, and failure of the attending physicians in others to diagnose the disease as smallpox, and the lack of a County Board of Health, with proper au-thority to make and enforce quarantines, the disease has continued to spread until whole communities have been infected. Fortunately, the cases in the main are mild cases of a varioloid type, although here and there a case of confluent malignant nature has developed, and in many instances these cases have suffered sever iliness, and a number bear the evidence of disfiguring pockmarks. On their first trip to the infected territory the Multnomah County officers traced the infection to Clackamas, and so notified the authori one instance, owing to the pearness of the county line (about 200 yards), a quarantine was cetablished and Clacka-mas County officials notified, with an offer of assistance in stamping out the cpi-demic. No attention was taken of the report except a letter stating that they presumed their county would not be asked to stand any of the expenses incurred. Shortly after this, the disease being well nder control on the Multnomah side, the Health Board here sent their deputy to the stricken county about Prineville and Shan-iko, in answer to a call from there, where he remained two weeks, assisting in the work. On returning to visit the few re-maining cases still held in quarantine, matters came to his notice that the Clackas County Health Board had ignored his report on the infection, and the rumor that the afflicted persons were going about at will, children from their families at-tending school and no effort being made to care for or protect the surrounding neighborhood, prompted him to report the matter to Dr. Woods Hutchinson, of the State Board of Health.

Armed with a deputyship and an authority to act in the premises, a systematic in-vestigation disclosed an alarming state of affairs. The report thus far was only too one case the family had placed a red flag, signifying scarlet fever, on the gate, but had no physician attending since the first uppearance of the disease, al-though it had been the means of three of their own family having it, and without a doubt exposed many others. A physi-cian called on another matter during the progress of the first case told them that it might be smallpox, but failed either to re-turn or report the case to the State Health Board, although the recent Legislature passed a law providing a penalty for such gross negligence. Section 11 of the state law is in part as follows: "Every physician or other person under

"Every physician or other person under whose charge any infectious or epidemic disease occurs must report the same to the county or city health officer immediately.

Any person violating any section of this act or any part thereof shall be guilty of a misdemeanor and be fined not less than $10 nor more than $100."

Section 13 deciares that an emergency exists, and that the law shall go into effective points of the world. Don't forget this, one pill a dose.

| feet when approved by the Governor. This he did on February II.
| The County of Multnomah, taking cognisance of this law, began immediately to comply with its provisions. The alarming and almost criminal carelessness hitherto connected with this health work has so appealed to the county health officer, Dr. E. P. Geary, and his deputy, that the attention of the state board has been called to the matter and prompt action is now to the matter and prompt action is now assured. The importance of this office was so impressed on the authors of the bill that almost unlimited power is conferred on the different County Boards of Health.

Section 9 says:

"Every County Board of Health shall have the power to quarantine against any other county or counties or adjoining state wherein any infectious disease or diseases exist, if in its judgment it is deemed necessary, and shall also have power to quarantine any case or cases of infectious disease within the county, and shall have authority to call upon all police officers, Sheriffs, Constables and all

This county has had to resort to strincent measures against the State of Wash-ngton once since the act was declared a aw, and, acting through our state board, law, and, acting through our state board, force a proper quarantine and such other measures as were deemed necessary to check an epidemic of smallpox which a county board there refused to quarantine, but reported as "Manila itch," and only by prompt and vigorous action by State Health Officer Hutchinson were matters finally placed under proper regulations in preventing a further spread there, for which this county was put to enormous expense by two infections traced directly to that source. The local authorities there expense by two infections traced directly to that source. The local authorities there ignored the report of the deputy health of-ficer of Multnomah County, delivered in person, and only when their own state board was notified and action forced through it were the proper steps started to prevent the future spread of the eldemic, of which about 25 cases were traced in a territory of five square miles. The intention of the state board is to enforce tention of the state board is to enforce this law to the letter, and the Multnomah board at least has given valuable assistance in establishing a precedent.

TAXES ON NORTH BEACH Delinquents Have Time to Redeen Property.

SEAVIEW, Wash., May 13 .- (To the Editor.)—The article in The Oregonian of the lith inst. entitled "War on the Beach." does unintentional injustice to North Beach and at the same time is an unjust criticism upon the laws of this state in relation to the collection of taxes state in relation to the collection of taxes and tax sales. Four reporter asys that property is sold without a period reserved for redemption. This is not correct, for the period of redemption, so called, is granted the delinquent before the sale instead of after, and in the instances cited, and many others bandless, the parties have falled to pay taxes for nearly ten years and their reconstity sold to y ten years, and their property sold in 1992 for taxes of 1892-4-5. No state in the Union has passed more liberal, conservafive and generous measures and laws in behalf of the taxpayer, than has Wash-ington, and after the hard times of 1881 many measures passed in the Washington Legislature designed to relieve the people. by rebating penalties, costs and delin-quencies; and in some instances cancelling taxes altogether in case the delinquent paid up for certain years within a pre-scribed seasonable time. In March, 1899, there was also an act passed which pro vided that all costs, penalties and inter-est in excess of 6 per cent per annum from date of delinquency, which became delinquent during the year 1897 and former desinquent during the year iss; and former years should be remitted if taxes were paid on or before November I, 1899. The constant aim of the Washington Legislature has been to forgive and relieve the "forgetful" delinquent.

For example: In March, 1901, it was provided that foreclosure proceedings for taxes of 1896 and former years should not be had until after December 1, 1906, and no certificates of delinquency held by the county for taxes of 1856 and former years such proceedings should not be had until December 1, 1800, and not later than Jan-

And in the act of 180L it is provided that after five years delinquency, prop-erty remaining on the tax rolls shall be foreclosed for the county. How much more time does a delinquent Portland PORTLAND, May 15.—(To the Editor.)—

And if he cannot "remember" that he has not paid, although he has had from five to ten years' time within which to "scratch his cranium." then he ought to lose it, as a means of eccaping the continuing odium of "grafting" on the good citizens, resident and nonresident, who do pay. North Beach is all right, the laws of the state are fair and generous to a fault, and prospective investors need not fear unfair treatment if they will do as they would be done by.
