Erection of Monument Stand by Sonunion Men Causes Threat Committee Will Seek Pence-Not Enough Curringes.

Unless the stand from which President Rooseyelt is to speak is erected by union labor no member of a labor union will take part in the parade in honor of the

This ultimatum has been served on the Presidential reception committee, and it has been made plain to the members that all union bands and union carriage drivers will be forbidden to take part in the demonstration. If such a programme were carried out, no music save that fur- this nished by outside nonunion bands would be provided, and volunteers would have to drive the 30 or more carriages in line.

The representatives of the labor unions interested in the fight served notice on Mayor George H. Williams, chairman of the general committee on the President's reception, to the effect that they would hold aloof from the demonstration if an "unfair" stand was erected. Mayor Willfams promptly turned the matter over to mmittee on details of programme, and this furnished the chief topic of an executive session held in the Commercial Clubrooms last evening.

The question was discussed at som length, and it was generally conceded this ultimatum threatened the success of the Presidential parade. Without music and carriage drivers the parade would lose many of its attractive features, and it was determined that an effort should be made to conciliate the unions.

Committee on Conciliation,

John H. Hall, United States District At-John H. Hall, bursed states of the terney; F. E. Beach, president of the Board of Trade, and Judge W. M. Cake, president of the Commercial Club, were named as a special committee to confer with the union leaders and endeavor to effect an understanding.

The Presidential recention committee is

The Presidential reception committee is in a delicate position in regard to the ultimatum of the unions. The stand has been contracted for by the Lewis and Clark committee, and its erection is a matter that is of no great concern, under ordinary circumstances, to the commit-tee in charge of the President's recep-tion. The ceremonles at the City Park are not under the control of the general committee, and nothing save the matter of the parade and entertainment of the President after his speech at the Park has been considered by the general com-

The special committee was named, however, to do whatever it could toward reaching an understanding.

No idea of abundaning the parade, the der any circumstances, has been enter-tained by the Presidential reception com-mittee. The members of the committee are confident that the pageant will be a feat-ure of the entertainment of President Roosevelt, and that it will be successfully handled.

Arranging the Details.

Details for the parade were discussed to some extent, but, as there were some questions of minor importance relative to the make-up of the line, the matter was left in the hands of General Charles F. Beebe, grand murshal. Word was received by the committee that the students belonging to the Corvallia Agricultural College would enter the parade, and Marshal lege would enter the parade, and Marshal Beebe was instructed to give them a

Beyond determining the fact that Governor Chamberlain and Mayor Williams would ride in the first carriage with the President and his private secretary, not much was accomplished relative to the distribution of places among the carriages. Az present the committee has 30 carriages engaged and a list of names long enough to indicate that twice that number could e filled. There are many invited guests of the Lewis and Clark Fair directors who of the Lewis and Clark Fair directors who will probably be unable to attend the ceremonies, so until definite answers have been obtained the detail of the programme committee cannot fill out its list. The matter, after a desultory discussion, went over until Monday night.

on the afternoon of Saturday, May 23, for Everett, soing by steamer, and will return late in the evening. Alaskans, officially and individually, will receive him at the dock and take him to the Grand Opera-House, which will be decorated under their direction. Here the majority of the Alaskans will be seated prior to his arrival. It is expected that Governor Brady, who has been invited, will attend with other prominent citizens. The President will address the Alaskans and be presented with an invitation to visit Alaska at some future time. The people of Alaska are somewhat disappointed at the failure of their efforts to get the Chief Executive into their territory, but they are making the best of the situation. After the reception the Alaskans will escort him to his hotel.

The executive committee which has made these arrangements is the one selected at a general matter of Alaskans.

The executive committee which has made these arrangements is the one selected at a general meeting of Alaskans held in Scattle about April I. The project of having the President receive them was decided upon, the invitation sent and his acquiescence gained.

The executive committee now asks all Alaskans to be present at the reception. Members of the Portland reception committee have received letters from R. S. Ryan, the secretary of the committee, asking them to notify Alaskans in Portland.

CHANCES 3 TO 1 THAT MAY 21 WILL BE A FAIR DAY.

As the day of the President's visit approaches, people are naturally wonder-ing what kind of weather we will have on the 21st. Forecast Official Heals, of been digging up the musty rec-ords of his establishment, trying to solve the question. His instruments and scientific theories only allow him to forecast the weather with more or less accuracy for about 36 hours in advance, so in making a guess at this early day, he is forced to rely upon averages. As weather con-ditions are apt to repeat themselves somewhat, he has gone back and reviewed the state of the weather on each May 21 since 1872. This record of 31 years shows that on eight of the days there was sufficient rainfall to in-terfere with outdoor exercises, which, according to the law of averages, would make the chances about 3 to 1 favor-able for a fair day when the President comes to town. The temperature average on each May 21 in the period re viewed has been 67 degrees in the afternoon and 46 degrees at night. The state of weather has averaged clear to partly cloudy, and the prevailing wind has been from the Northwest.
