Consolidation Gives Country Children Equal Chances.

CAMPAIGN OF EDUCATORS

Superintendents Robinson and Ackrman Stirring Up Eastern Multnomah-President Campbell Will Address People.

FAIRVIEW, Or., May 15.—(Special.)— County Superintendent of Schools R. F. Rosinson opened the campaign for con-collisation of county schools last evening to Fairview. He was assisted by State Experintendent J. H. Ackerman, both entiemen uniting in presenting the sub-ect to the people in some very forcible and convincing explanations.

The meeting was held in Artisans' Hall, which was filled to its capacity, many of the patrons of adjoining school districts being present, as the matter at issue af-fects them seriously.

Hon. S. A. Johns acted as chalrman and introduced the speakers, Professor Ack-erman being the first to address the #### Review of Movement.

The speaker began by giving a review of movement during the past two years, se it was first broached in this state, said that the country schools were doing better work now than ever before. He advanced the idea that the boys and girls of small districts would do better if brought to the larger districts, but deprecated the idea that they were not learning anything in their own little schools. All children he said, should have the same facilities, and the best was none too good for the poorest. The proposition is this:

proposition is this:

If a graded school and a high school is a good thing for the city boy or girl why is it not a good thing for the country boy or gir? The speaker had seen just as good work in small schools as in the City of Portland; it is not the number of pupils that make a good echool—it is the classes, which can only be obtained by a large attendance properly graded. by a large attendance properly graded.

Enthusiasm comes with numbers and there can be no advancement in a small

Success of Other States.

Professor Ackerman read reports and letters from other states, each proving that the consolidation system was a success in all localities wherever tried. The modus operandi of conducting consoli-dated schools, together with the transportation of pupils, was thoroughly ex-plained. The costs, the speaker ex-plained, would be about the same where three or four districts were placed to-gether as if they were separate, but the moral influences of higher grades is something great and the turning point in many young lives often comes when the child can advance above the ulterior in-fluences of vicious surroundings. That That time may come to all who can have the advantages of higher grades and better advantages for a higher education. Mr. Ackerman closed his address by explaining the new law governing con-solidation. He instructed the people how to proceed to secure a vote of the various districts, and advised the people that the new law did not compel transporation, even if the districts were consolidated. All extra expense is borne by the dis-tricts just as now, but usually there has been no extra expense in other localities wherever tried.

As a pleasing interlude an appropriate song was given by eight boys and girls of the Fairview School. Following the long came an address by Professor Rob-

Professor Robinson Gives Facts.

The speaker began by presenting an rray of facts from other states where the consolidation plan is in operation. He showed that the cost per capita was less for each day's attendance than under the old system. The saving in cash was actually about one-third but the enrollment was always greater, making the cost of running such a school much less, in proportion to the days' attendance.

Cided to rebuild the road from Coquille City to Myrile Point.

This piece of road has not been in use since the high water last January, which has been a great inconvenience to the people of the Upper Coquille. in proportion to the days' attendance, than the single districts had previously Professor Robinson's address dealt prin cipally with the idea of consolidating Districts No. 7 and 8 with the Fairview district. He showed how there could be two more grades taught if the three dis-tricts could be brought together, instead of ceasing at the eighth grade, as is This would practically give high school and save the cost Fairview a high school and save the of sending advanced pupils away for a higher education.

By consolidating the three districts Pro-feasor Robinson showed that the cost of tuition would be about $500 less than at present each year. That amount could be applied toward transportation, but would probably not be quite enough, and the aggregate cost would be a trifle more.

Statistics of Districts.

The following statistics were given con-cerning the three districts which it is proposed to join together: District No. 7 has a total valuation of property amounting to $84,595; the average daily attendance last year was II and the cost of running the school was $754,03. No. 8 showed a valuation of $49,290, with average attendance of 22, at a cost of

No. 16, which is Fairview district, had assessable property to the value of $83,-600, but its records show only an attendance of 33 daily last year, while the cost was $1180.05. Fairview is in debt about $2000, but in the event of consolidation the other two districts will not be called upon to help pay it off.

Other Points to Be Visited.

The two superintendents will go to Latourell today and will hold a similar meeting in Grange Hall tonight. Three districts near there are preparing to unite and will put up a modern school-bouse in a central location. They have maken up the matter of their own accordand up the matter of their own accordand will probably have the first convenind will probably have the first consoli-

Much interest is manifest in the matter at Gresham and a large percentage of the people will turn out to meet the distinguished educators them upon this important to will address them upon this import ant subject.

REPEATED VOWS TAKEN FIFTY YEARS AGO.

REV. AND MRS. MARTIN COOK.

NEWBERG, Or., May 14.—(Special.)—The golden wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mra Martin Cook, of Newberg, was celebrated at their home, Monday, May II, very pleasantly and somewhat uniquely. Rev. Mr. Cook is a minister in the Friends Church and the celebration took on the form of the old style Quaker wedding, simple and impressive, by which the elderly bride and groom were united in marriage 19 years ago in Warren County, Iowa. The "meeting" sathered in silence a little after II o'clock, and after a prayer, followed by another period of silence. Rev. Cook and wife arose and went through thrings certificate, prepared with pen in the the old discipline, by which they performed their own ceremony. A mare ceremony in the prescribed words of old-faahioned way, was read, and signed by the contracting parties and by all the witnesses.

After the ceremony, Hon. B. C. Miles, son-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Cook, on behalf of the children, presented the parents a cancelled note and movegage, which makes their pleasant home on Wynooski street free of all incumbrance. The wedding dinner followed.

The children who witnessed the second marriage were: B. S. Cook, of Prosser, Wash.; Mrs. Sam Gardner and Mrs. J. A. Cook, of Portland; Mrs. W. G. Allen, of Eugene, and Mrs. B. C. Miles, of Newberg, Other children are: Mrs. Walter Kirk, Spokane; Alva Cook, Myers Falls, and J. H. Cook, Prosser, Wash. Eight grandchildren were present and one great-grandchild—the young son of Mr. and Mrs. Jay Gardner, of Portland.

In the evening a number of neighbors and friends called with expressions and tekens of exteem and congratulation.
