Standing of the Clubs,

Before the Browns could put Parke Wilson's Siwashes in pickle yesterday after-noon by morguing them so quickly in the final inning by a score of 5 to 4, the Browns were forced to play 47 varieties of giltedge baseball. Hens and his eight team-mates played the National game right from the sound of the gong as it ought to be played at all times. That's why Parke Wilson believes that lightning struck him twice yesterday, and that is why he tried the wonderful Semple after a chap named Klinkhammer went up in the sir like a skyrocket. The first bolt hit the Siwashes in the third canto. A couple of errors and two timely singles tied the score in a hard knot, which, in spite of the appearance of Mr. Semple as first aid to the injured, they could not untie. The second bolt hit the Scattle baseballists in the fifth chapter, when Semple's two fres tickets to first loomed into one julcy run when Whispering Phil Nadeau, whose clever and heady bit of work on the witch between first and second got the Wilsonites all tangled up and allowed the Deacon to score the tying run in the third, made a single, scoring Raidy.

third, made a single, scoring Raidy.

The Siwashes were ahead just long enough to make the crowd exceedingly anxious, but the one tally that the Browns took into camp in that fifth stanza was only thing in the way of real goods that the visitors could not ac Browns did not get started until late When they got into action, with a very large bunch of thanks due to Catcher Hess and his "stonewall" infield, they ran over the poor Siwashes with all the abandon of a Red Devil automobile increasing silent population. Kostal Wakes Up.

And all this happened after Carlo Smith had, just when it looked like out into the field quick with the Indians in the first inning, when two men were on bases spanked the ball over the rightfield fence for a home run. When this clout straightened out one of Joe Kostal's swift splitters, this little pitcher's fac-an undertaker's study in gravity and painful surprise—just as if the corpse had awakened to life. Joe woke up, and after that he kept his servations wide, although the lanky one connected for a couple of singles and came near duplicating the omer in the last act. Zinssar, Joe's ormer sidekick, also showed an early, king for Joe's curves, and he was mean nough to hit him twice, for a single and a two-bagger. The first one counted, but the second failed to deliver any goods to Wilson market. linkhammer, as stated, started, but Klinkhammer, as stated, started, but didn't finish. He was wilder than a sou-brette at a rum party, and Wilson sent and Schmeer jammed his slow ones for a near double-sacker before the matinee closed. The game was as full of features as a sleve is full of holes. There was a couple of diamond mass meetings, and, of course, Umpire O'Connell came in for a neat bit of teasting. Once he said that Sammy Vigneux had missed the initial cushion when Zinssar threw high to Zieg-ler. Sam placed his pedal extremity on the bag, but the judge didn't see it and Columbia. P Van Houte Sammy had his romp to second for noth ing. But it's no use to discuss these things-they won, so what boots it? Browns Do Great Fielding.

It was worth twice the price of admis-sion to see that ball game. That infield worked like a lot of beans on a hot grid-Andrews and Raidy were everything, like clearing up a midday meal of porridge. Hess acted as pall-bearer to no less than four of the Indians, and he was high executioner on three other occasions. He were no crepe either when the curfew bell rang, and the crowd scampered home for its breadstuff. Sammy Vignoux got a chance at six, and was an active participant in the death of two others. Andrews nailed five of them to the cross, Raidy three and assisted five others to the morgue, while Van Buren and Nadeau got two each. Anderson also had two die on his hands, and Kostal two. That's not bad, considering the cannonading, both on the diamond and among fell down again today before Oakland in a well-played game that was lacking in sensational features. COLLEGE LEAGUE MEET TODAY. Albany Team Is Confident of Taking

ALBANY, Or., June 1-(Special)-The Minnville tomorrow to compete in the an-nual field meet of the Collegiate Athletic League of Oregon, The Albany team won the first meet of the league, which was held in McMinnville in the Spring of 1902. That year McMinnville College was a close second. Last year the victory and pennant went to Pacific College (Newberg) by half a point. The Albany College team was the one that held the close second place. Newberg's victory was due to the phenomenal work of Roy Heater, who won nearly all the first places in the Next Friday the Albany team expects to add another pennant to the trophies in the college halls by winning the third annual 'meet of the league. McMinnville College will probably be the closest com-petitor of Albany, and McMinnville was defeated by Pacific University, whom the University of Oregon sent down to defeat. This, if there is anything in comparative figuring, will give Albany College an easy victory.

Albany's men will be in fair shape the meet, and will do some fast work. If the track is in good snape and weather conditions are favorable, nearly all the track records of the Collegiate Athletic League of Oregon will be broken by Albany's handful of sprinters.

The distance runs will be close between Cummins of McMinnville, Morris of Newberg and Marks of Albany. Albany will have an unbroken string of first pinces in the dashes and hurdles. Coates holds the state records for this season in the

The neld events will break about even among the five schools in the league. This will give Albany the victory.

The schools represented in the Collegiate Athletic League of Oregon are: McMinn-ville College, Pacific College (Newberg), Monmouth Normal School, Dallas College and Albany College. Each school enters three men in every event, making 15 men three men in every event, making 15 men in the start of each race. This, on a wide, straight-away track, makes a fine specta-cle. McMinnville Colloge has one of the best tracks in the state.

Yesterday was a "sad but glorious day" for the Greengages. It might have been Mr. Pitcher Quick been herded on the bench, for it was in the three innings which it was given to him to hand up the leather that the savages from 'Frisco frolicked, disported and made medicine and incidentally many scores. When Miller relieved him the game was so far to the bad that nothing short of a miracle could have saved it. In all other de excepts Painter's sloppy work at short, but when the visitors got away with eight scores in two innings it took the heart out of the best of them, Miller did mself proud, and with him on the bridge there was no more frisking. He pitched remarkably good ball, allowing but four hits in five innings, and no bases, whereas Quick had been wild, hitting two men and going into the air at critical times, Miller was as steady as a

The new man, Perham, was tried out yesterday. He may be what is claimed for him, but his work yesterday was color-less. The absence of McCarthy was keen-ly felt, and it is evident that Manager Grim will not let him go without a fight. McCloakey denies that he has signed him or that he is attempting to do so provided McCarthy can be persuaded to continue with the Greengages, but word comes from league headquarters that the recreant one has already been signed by San Francisco and will be here today to join the nine. There is evidently a Senegambian concealed somewhere and a tiny blood clot on the moon is visible. McCloskey's team is well averaged as

For the first five innings the locals were unable to score, and it looked very much like a shut-out, but in the sixth, after Miller was caught out on a foul, Donahue hit to short and made first on Giendon's Delsel then hit safely, advance ing Donahu to second, and Parrott made one of his famous drives, scoring Donahue. Anderson then dropped a long one into left garden, and filled the bases. This looked good and the crowd woke up and rooted manfully. Davis, however, spoiled the great opportunity by flying out to center, forcing Deisel off third for the retiring out. After this it was tit, tat, toe, three in a row for both teams until the field.
