FOR FOURTH TERM

Richard Williams Is Elected School Director.

NINE VOTES CAST AGAINST HIM

School Board Canvasses the Result and Finds 356 Favorable Ballots-H. Wittenberg Assumes Duties of Chairman.

For the fourth time Richard Williams has been elected a director of District No. 1, which embraces the city of Portland. The election yesterday was a tame affair, Mr. Williams receiving 256 votes against nine in favor of four others.

The vote was very light in all parts of the city, and but little interest was taken in the selection of a school director. Since I. N. Fleischner announced his withdrawal from the prospective contest Mr. Williams election was considered certain, and the result of the halloting yesterday was a surprise to no one.

Sunnyside was the only precluct which did not give him a large majority. Sunnyside was the only precinct which did not give him a large majority. Thomas C. Trengove, a resident of Sunnyside, received six votes in that precinct, while Mr. Williams' friends numbered but three. Four other received one vote each. They were Thomas Whalen, J. C. Jamison, T. E. Maher and Mr. Tucker. No report was received from the Lee Chapel precinct in Brooklyn. Neither indges nor clerks sent returns, not even

APPOMATTOX.

Reflections on the Occasion of the Recent Confederate Reunion.

New Orleans Times-Democrat When on that April morning 28 years ago General Robert E. Lee surrendered to General Ulysses S. Grant, a great issue was decided. For four years Federal and Confederate had contended in the hot con-flict of war. Each side had spoken its mind from the cannon's mouth. The declama-tion was veciferous, the rhetoric magnifi-cent, the argument conclusive. And when the footcore Confederate soldier, buttoning his parole in his faded gray jacket, as the son of a Confederate has pictured him, "surrendered his gun, wrung the hands of his comrades in silence and, lifting his tear-stained and pallid face for the last time to the graves that dot the old Virginia hills, began the slow and painful homeward journey," he understood that the war was over, that the Union was pre-nerved, that slavery was abolished and that the doctrine of "states' sovereignty" could thenceforth have no place in the American policy.

This, however, was not the complete significance of Appomattox. The surrender of that army—the parole of that Confederate soldier—meant more than the emancipation of a race—more than the political welding together of separate and individual sovereign states. It meant that a new opportunity was presented to the American people.

NEW HIGHLAND SCHOOL.

Improvement Over Others-Enough Children to Fill It.

The new schoolhouse at Highland will be ar improvement over the other mod ern buildings erected by the district dur ing the past few years. The contractor is pushing work. He has the foundation completed and the frame nearly up. Prin-cipal J. H. Stinley thinks in the matter light and ventilation the Highland will be the finest schoolhouse in the city. The basement walls are higher above the ground, and it will be as well lighted as the classrooms, which is not the case with the basements of the other buildings. Also the lighting and ventilation of the classrooms will be as near perfection as possible. There will be 14 rooms besides the fine assembly hall.

Owing to the start that has been made before the vacation, it is expected that this building will be completed by the Fall term. Mr. Stanley says that unless it is finished about 100 pupils will not be able to start to school at the opening. There is a constant growth in the portion of the district tributary to the Highland School. New houses are springing up and families are moving there, so that the 14 rooms of the new building will probably all be occupied either at the opening of the year or soon thereafter.

At the Stephens School the walls for the basement are completed and some ma-terial is on the ground for the woodwork. For the addition to the North Central the excavating for the foundation is under way. There was some delay in getting started. Brick for the basement walls have been delivered. Both additions will probably be completed in time for the pening in the Fall.
