Council Forbids Heavy Traffic on Seventh Street.

NEW PAVEMENT SHOWS WEAR

Meat Ordinance Is Introduced and Referred-Franchise for Public Market Is Amended and Ready for Final Passage.

The Council yesterday afternoon passed an ordinance prohibiting all trucks and heavily loaded rehicles from traveling over the asphalt pavement on Seventh street. This recently laid improvement is already showing signs of wear, and the action taken yeaterday was deemed necessary to keep it in shape.

necessary to keep it in shape.

Another important ordinance that came up yesterday, but which was not passed, was the meat inspection ordinance proposed by the Health Board. The ordinance was introduced, but it was tamediately referred to the committee on health and police, which will consider it before the next meeting of the Council.

The ordinance granting a franchise to the Union Meat Company to use the Mechanics' Pavilion site was amended until it was entirely satisfactory both to the representatives of the company and to the Council, and it was then ordered printed, after which it will come up for its final passage.

To Protect Seventh Street.

The Seventh-street ordinance was introduced by Councilman Fred T. Merrill, who made a short talk in its favor. He spoke of places where heavily loaded trucks and drays had already cut fur-rows in the freeh asphalt, and he thought it was high time that the city was doing something toward keeping such vehicles off the thoroughfare. The ordinance he introduced ordered

The ordinance he introduced ordered that all heavy trucks and furniture vans carrying a load of over one ton should not be permitted to travel on any portion of the street between Taylor and Burnaide streets for a distance of more than 125 feet at a time. This distance provision was inserted so as to permit wagons to get to any house or store on the street without inconvenience.

After Mr. Merrill's remarks, the ordinance was put on its passage, and it nance was put on its passage, and it went through unanimously, every one of the nine Councilmen present casting a vote for it. The Mayor announced that he would sign it immediately, so that it would be in full force this morning.

Mr. Rumelin introduced an amendment to the cement sidewalk ordinance, making it prohibitory to repair a sidewalk with more than one-sixth of the number of planks. The original ordinance stipulated that no more repairs should be made for more than one-sixth of the original cost, but this was considered indefinite, and the plank provision was sub-

MUST APPROVE PLANS,

Before Buildings Are Erected Fire Department Must Be Consulted.

Though it is not known to many build-ers and architects in the city there is an ordinance on the municipal statutes requiring that before any building is ersected, the plans must be submitted to the Fire Department. This ordinance has been overlooked by many people in the past, and the members of the department are making an effort to have it strictly enforced in the future. According to the authorities, there are many houses being built without permits from the department. While in most cases architects draw up perfectly ac-ceptable plans, there are some instances where they do not, and the Fire Depart ment has to complain about it afterward enusing long delays and great

BET EMPLOYER'S MONEY. occused Embezzier Gives Himsel

Up, Weary of Being Fugitive. James F. Bowen, wanted in San Fran-cisco on a charge of embezziement, gave himself up to Detective Joe Day yester-day and was locked in the City Jali. A day and was locked in the City Jail. A telegraphic dispatch received by Chief Hunt yesterday said that an officer would be sent at once to take the prisoner back to San Francisco.

Bowen is a pleasant-appearing man, and says that be did not take the money with cripical interest.

with criminal intent.
"I have felt as if I was hunted since I left San Francisco," said he, "and life is not worth living under such circumstances. I have been undecided whether to give myself up or to commit suicide, and have finally decided to face the charges against me." charges against me."

The officers do not believe that Bowen is an ordinary embergier. He is a work-ingman, and seems to have had a good reputation previous to his trouble in San He was a cierk at the Pleas-Francisco. He was a cierk at the Pleas-anton Hotel, owned by O. M. Brennen, of San Francisco. According to the story told by himself, he was drinking one day and became so badly intexicated that he lost control of his actions. He had $28 of his employer's money with him and went to see the races. As usual, a friend gave him a tip on a sure winner. He bet and lost. In his intexicated condition, he imagined that the only thing left for imagined that the only thing left for him to do was to play even. Each bet turned out as the first had done, and before the afternoon was over he had lost the entire amount.

He was in despair and dared not face his employer without the money, so, its employer without the money, so, eaving his wife and family, fied, as he opposed, from the pursuit of justice. No trace of him was obtained, and, as far as is known, little effort was made to follow him, but he imagined constantly that the officers were close upon his track. From Sun Francisco he went to Eureka, Cal., and then came to Portland a few days ago on the steamer Alliance. He was regletcred at the Esmond Hotel under the name of J. F. Buckley.

DEADLOCK BROKEN AT LAST

Contract Let for Drydock Spuds and Bids Opened on Drydock Berth-Advertisement of Bond Sale-About Provision Contract.

The deadlock in the Port of Portland ommission was broken yesterday after-on by the election of C. F. Swigert as The result came in the fifth ballot, Mr. Swigert receiving four votes to three for Captain Archle Pease. Since the Commissioners began voting for a president, on June 3, 40 ballots have been taken. Not until yesterday did any of the five candidates get more than two votes. On the third ballot yesterday Captain Pease received three votes and Mr. Swigert got that number on the fourth ballot. On the last ballot of the day all but these two candidates dropped out and Mr. Swigert secured the majority. Not much thme was jost in choosing the other officers. G. B. Thomas was elected vice-president on the third ballot, receiv-saliet decided who would be treasurer, C. F. Adams getting six votes to John Driscoll's one. John Driscoll was elected secretary, receiving five votes and Captain Spencer two.

The election of Mr. Swigert as president of the commission caused no surprise at the meeting, which led to a bellef that the matter had been arranged since the pre-vious session, though none of the mem-bers would acknowledge this to be a fact. Mr. Swigort was vice-president of the proceding board, and his promotion to the chair seems to be a happy solution of the controversy that has agitated the new ommission since it took charge of the

The meeting opened with Temporary Chairman Thomas presiding. The first business taken up was Engineer Lock-wood's report on the drydock spuds, or guides. These are the timbers that will be used in securing the dock in its berth. The engineer's specifications call for #0 spuds, each 16x12 inches and 36 feet long: 38,400 feet of lumber; 2000 pounds of holts and 1399 pounds of washers. Contractor Wakefield offered to supply the material for $1400, which Mr. Lockwood considered reasonable, and he recommended that the offer be accepted. Most of the members were in favor of this, but Mr. Willis thought it best to lay the matter over until the board had organized.

A resolution was passed authorizing the chairman to sign a voucher for money due from the Government on the lease of the dredge Columbia, which was altered later in the meeting by substituting the newly elected president for the chairman.

Last Ballots on President.

Then the balloting for president was begun. After the first ballot, which gave o indication of a breaking of the deadock, Mr. Willis moved to adjourn aptain Spencer seconded the motion. Driscoll suggested a second try at it, and another ballot was taken without result. It was then Mr. Swigert's turn to get tired, but Mr. Thomas advised persover-When the third ballot showed three votes for Captain Pease and a breaking away from old ties, no one thought of noving an adjournment. With the an nouncement of Mr. Swigert's election he changed seats with Temporary Chairman Thomas and the business of the meeting proceeded.

Only one bid had been received for sup plying the dredges with slabwood fuel E. H. Habighorst & Co., $1.00 a cord for one year, or $1.50 a cord for two years. of Portland with fuel at $1.40 and $1.50 a cord. As there was but one offer, Mr. Thomas suggested readvertising for bits, hoping to hear from the Banfield-Veyeer Company. The latter firm, of course, had not bid, as Mr. Bunfield was a member of the commission when the bid were called for.

Bids on Drydock Berth.

Bids were also opened for supplying pil-ing and other material for the drydock berth at St. Johns. The first bids for this purpose had been rejected as being too high. The lowest bid then was $42,522, while Engineer Lockwood had estimated the cost of the work at $38,165. Yester-day's bids were nearer the engineer's mark. They provided for 1870 piles, 975,000 feet of lumber, 500 cords of brush and 2000 tons of rock. The bids were as follows: Robert Wakefield ......

eph Paquet .... The bids were referred to the engineer for his recommendation. A long-standing case was settled by the coard deducting $563 from the contract price of the drydock machinery, owing to the readjustment of the electrical rolling devices.

The peution of the O. R. & N. Co. fo relief at its boneyard, owing to the shoal-ing of the water there, was again passed over, as the members want to find out just what are their rights as well as property-owners' rights in the matter sides, the river is at a high stage now and no one is suffering from shoals.

Advertise Sale of Bonds. The important matter of advertising for bids for bonds was fully discussed, and Clerk Stevens was authorized to attend to the advertising. It is proposed to sell $300,000 worth of drydock bonds and $300,000 of refunding bonds. The bids will be opened July 25. President Swigert called attention to the need of an auditing committee, and was authorized to appoint three members on it. He will name them in a few days. so that when the board meets again the
