BUSY BEES DROP DEAD .- The life of the little busy bee, which "improves the shining hour," is not altogether one of pleasure, any more than that of human tollers. A person who has lately found out that many hives of bees are kept in this city, and that much very good honey is made by them, has been looking into the bee business. To his surprise he found that bees are kept by his neighbor across the street, and also that his next-door neighbor has a hive in his attic, and on fine days a steady stream of bees can be seen going out and another returning loaded with honey. He was pained to learn that many of the little workers apparently miss their way or became tired fom packing heavy loads and so sag in their homeward flight and go in through a second-story window, instead of the attic, and, finding themselves astray and tired in a strange place, exhibit much dis-couragement and disgust, and fly about in distress, either not knowing where to look for their hive or unable to elevate themselves another story in their wearied and overloaded condition. He was aston-ished to find numbers of dead bees on the walks near, and on mentioning this to the keeper of the bees was told: "Oh! yes, they keep dropping dead all the time. So he no longer would he "were a bee to flit from flower to flower."

WOODLAND STRIPPED OF VERDURE.-The dlands everywhere within a few miles of this city are likely soon to be stripped of all the rank undergrowth which aid by shading the ground to keep the moist-ure in it. Wagon-loads and wagon-loads of ferns, flowering shrubs and flowering plants are constantly being hauled to florists in this city to be used in decorating all sorts of rooms for all sorts of ocrant, the pink blossoms of which are one of the earliest evidences of the arrival of spring, is the first victim and is becoming scarce. The "chittim," or dog-wood, is also in great request. Salal, and all the ferns, of which there are many large and magnificent kinds in the Oregon are cut in sheaves. Yesterday a load of the "high-bush" huckelberry, with its delicate limbs and foliage, sted with pretty red berries, was brought in by a country man, who said he had to go four miles for the load. He also remarked that he had been hauling greenery for ornamental purposes to the city for 14 years. When the trees are all gone and the shrubbery has followed the gone and the shrubbery has followed the land will go into the semi-arid district, and people will begin to figure on irriga-tion to restore verdure to it.

WHY MEAT IS NOT GOOD .- There have been numerous complaints that the quality of the beef and mutton supplied by dealers this Spring has not been so good as usual, even first-class Spring lamb has been comparatively scarce. Dealers say it is owing to the lateness of the season, and that only now is nice grass-fed beef beginning to come to market. Those fond of tender, julcy grass-fed beef will do well to indulge their taste for it as soon as possible, for, although the grass has as possible, for although the grass has only reached maturity, it is already near the middle of July. The sun is warming up, and will soon scorch the grass and make the fields brown. Oregonians can only congratulate themselves on the fact that nowhere else is there such grass or are the fields verdant so long as they are in Oregon, and the means raised here are shead of the grass-fed meats of other PUBLIC SHOULD HAVE PATIENCE—The contractors for the improvement of Alder street appear to imagine that some statements in regard to delay in the completion of improvements of this kind which appeared in these columns yesterday were more to them. They were than the first unjust to them. They say that they find it very difficult and often impracticable to get along with the improvement of streets on account of the building mate-rial piled in many places. There is a sample of this on Alder street just above Seventh now and preparations are being made for encumbering Seventh just be-made for encumbering Seventh just be-low Aider with material for a building to be crected there, probably on a more ex-tensive scale than the same street is ob-structed just above Aider. Buildings must be crected and streets must be improved, and where work of these kinds is delayed and delayed by unfavorable weather or strikes and building and street improving starts up simultaneously, there is certain to be some one inconvenienced. If all interested would do the best they ould to expedite matters, there are few the would be so unreasonable as to find fault, but in this free and easy-going city many care only for their own con-venience, and if they get possession of a street they take their time in regard to building or making improvements, and ose no sleep about the inconvenience they cause others. The asphalt company is pushing along the work of paving Third street from Main to Yamhill, and prospects appear very favorable for their get-ting at work on the repair of Morrison street very soon. They will doubtless get on as rapidly as possible with all the other jobs awaiting their convenience. People should remember the old saying: "Patience, and the mulberry leaf becomes

THOUGHT THESE THIEVES CONTEMPTI-BLE -Several laboring men taking lunch at noon yesterday under shade trees by the side of the street they were working on, were discussing the case of the baker held up by two ruffans a few nights ago and robbed of $90, all the money he had. The workmen were unanimous in saying that they would like to assist in hanging the contemptible thieves who robbed this poor man. When it was remarked that this would be rather a severe punishment for such a crime, they insisted that it would be none too se-vere. The poor baker who had lost his wife was working hard to bring up a family of children, and the children were helping him by carying around the bread, and for a pair of contemptible sneak thieves too lazy to work and worse than worthless to rob them of their little hoard worthless to rob them of their little noard of savings was no triffing crime, and they would be properly punished by being hanged without fudge or jury. They said there are so many sich worthless scamps collected in this city now and so little has been done to punish them or drive them away that something in the way of a lynching was just about what is needed here. Of course, many law-abiding citi-zens will disapprove of the sentiments expressed by these working men, but their ideas show how lynchings are brought about when the enforcement of the law is lax and inefficient. Shining specimens of the riff-raff of all creation have been flocking here in numbers of late. There appears to be no one here to detect the difference between them and honest men, and they carry on their profession here as comfortably and with less annoyance than if engaged in a legitimate business for they pay no license.

AGAINST CABLE FERRY.

Chamber of Commerce Opposes Albina Project.

The Chamber of Commerce yesterday resolved to oppose the additional ferry at Albina only if a cable is to be laid across the river for the new boat. A number of dockowners have signed a remonstrance to the Executive Board against another cable ferry.

The shipping interests of the city are unmistakably aroused against another cable and the agitation which they are making may result in the removal of the cable of the present ferry. "A cable across a river," exclaimed a shipper yesterday, "is a relic of barbarism."

"The Circus Girl," was sung last night at the Marquam Theater by the Augustin Daly Musical Company, for the first time on the Pacific Coast, and it was an instant success. All seats were occu-pled over the entire house, and the gallery fell enthusiastically in love with the pretty melodies long before the close of the first act. "The Circus Giri," as a catchy, bright, refined musical comedy, is ahead of its great rival, "The Runaway "Girl," sung last week Saturday night by Girl, sung last week Saturday night by the same company. The former success is written in two acts, by J. T. Tanner and W. Palings, music by Ivan Caryli, additional numbers by Lionel Monkton, and lyrics by Harry Greenbank and Ad-rian Ross. It was first sung about six years ago in London, England, and ultimately became all the rage at Daly's Theater, New York. Since then the solos and choruses have been played and whistled everywhere.

The opening scene starts in Paris on the

coulevards, outside the Cafe de la Regence, during the fetes of Mi-Careme. Sir Titus Weymss (Harold Vizard), an English aristocrat, has plenned to marry has only daughter, Dora (Marie Doro), to Hon. Reginald Gower (Louis J. Mintz), but Dora, who has been sent to school in Paris, secretly loves Richard Capel (Alfred Hickman). The latter had won her trusting heart by falsely telling her of his alleged feats as a circus performer. Gower oves a real circus girl, La Favorita (Iso-bel Hall), and the comedy end is attended to by John R. Slavin, in his famous im-personation of Biggs, an American barnder. He is ably assisted by Violet Dale as Lucille, a slack-wire walker at the cir-cus. The strenuous laughing scene takes place when little Biggs challenges seven-foot Toothick Pasha, the Terrible Turk, to a wrestling match, to win a large purse of money. Slavin, with his usual cleverness, fills the Turk with liquor and the wrestling match turns out to be a fake, in which Siavin pushes over the Turk and wins the money. When he kept the stage, the theater rang with laughter. Marie Doro, looking like a sweet, dainty Japanese maiden, excelled with her spiendid singing of the bailed, "Just a Little Bit of String," and Miss Hall was encored for her artistic rendering of "The Creole Love Song." "The Circus Girl" will be heard at the matinee this afternoon at 2:15 o'clock and this evening at 8:30. Tomorrw night the company goes direct to New York. Last Day of "The Circus Girl." This afternoon and evening the Augustin Daly Musical Company will repeat the performance of "The Circus Girl." The presentation last night was given to a crowded house and was thoroughly en-joyed. The matines today promises to be liberally attended by the fair sex, and another crowded house will no doubt greet the final performance tonight. Organizaturn out in a body. public is fond of playing favorites in the theatrical world. Probably no perespecially no singer, has had be-on him more generous, lavish or unstinted praise than has Richard J. Jose, the celebrated contra-tenor with the bird-like voice. Mr. Jose will be pleasantly remembered as a v member of many companies, the Homestead, William H. West's Min-strels and Thatcher's "Tuxedo" company among the rest. His voice is the best and sweetest in tone upon the American stage, and his name upon the bills has never failed to pack the house wherever he has appeared. He comes this season at the head of his own company, the Richard J. Jose Minstreis, to the Maruam Grand Theater, next Monday and Tuesday nights, July 13 and 14, with an organization of over 40 star artists, in-cluding William Keller Mack, the comedian; William McDonald, the basso, late of the Bostonians; Frank Cushman, the well-known minstrel, and his own orchestra and band. Special scenery is carried, which is elaborate and costly. In the first part alone 200 incandescent lights are ourning. All lovers of good music, rare voices and clean, wholesome humor and the best in comedy will find it in the Jose Minstrels. Seats are now selling.

Exceptional Bill at the Empire. For next week at the Empire Theater be-ginning Monday, July 13, Manager Baker has prepared a bill of exceptional strength and one that is bound to hit the public fancy. McIntyre and Primrose, the merry minstrel men, head the programme, and are followed by a number of clever bur-lesquers, including such foes of sadness as christy and Willis, the tramp juggler and the dancing soubrette; Conroy and Pearl, in a little bit of "coonism"; Marsh Craig, the wonderful equilibrist; Hayward and Hayward, novelty entertainers, and World and Kingston, a duo who made an intertainers. stantaneous hit on their first apearance at the Empire a few weeks ago. They appear in an entirely new act.

Stock-Reducing Sale of Fine Pianos Closes This Even-Ing. If You Want One You Must Not Delay Your Selection.

This is an exceptional opportunity that will never be presented again. It was only because these fine pianos came piling in on us so rapidly that we determined to make it an inducement to buyers to take a lot of them off our hands now. The response to our yesterday's announcement of this sale was cordial and enthusiastic, and as a consequence many who had no idea of ever possessing pianos of such a high grade new have elegant instruments in their homes and have made arrangements for paying for them on very moderate installments. But no more after this week. If you want one you will have to buy it today.
