PEACE MUST BE KEPT

Sheep and Cattlemen Threaten Trouble.

THE GOVERNOR IS NOT PASSIVE

Proclamation Issued Calling on Law Officers to Do Their Duty, and an Appeal to the State Will Meet Ready Response.

SALEM, Or., July 17 .- (Special.) -- Governor Chamberlain proposes to do all that is in his power to preserve peace among the owners of cattle and sheep in Eastern Oregon, and has assured the local authorities in that section of the state of his readiness to take such measures as may be necessary in order to prevent lawless-ness, destruction of property and murder. In pursuance of that policy he today issued the following proclamation:

Whereas, complaints have been and are being made to me that in certain counties in the eastern portion of the state, notably in Grant, Baker, Crook, Wheeler and Harney Counties, threats to do injury to life and property are openly induled in, and serrous conflicts are imminent between the owners of cattle and sheep because of differences as to their respective rights on the public ranges unless the greatest vigliance is exercised by the local au-efore, in the hope that such calamity may be averted, and our state saved from the discredit which would attach to it in the event of such conflict as appears possible, I do earnestly appeal to the several District Attorneys, Sheriffs. Constables and other of-ficers in said counties to whom is entrusted the enforcement of the law and the protection the life and property of the citizen, to exercise the greatest vigilance and care that overt acts of lawlessness are indulged in by any of the contending factions, and to arrest promptly and realously prosecute all persons implicated in the violation of the laws. In the event of any trouble which the local authorities are unable to control, an appeal to state will meet with such response as the aw will warrant in the emergency.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused to be affixed the great seal of the State of Oregon, this sixteenth day of July, in the year of our Lord, one thou-sand nine hundred and three. GEORGE E. CHAMBERLAIN,

P. I. DUNBAR, Secretary of State.

Peacock, who is now at the State Penitentiary awaiting the execution of the sentence of death passed upo him by the jury at the last session of the Circuit Court, has been circulating a petition to have the death penalty muted to life imprisonment. The pe muted to life imprisonment. The p of the attorneys of the county have signed the petition, but it is understood the trial Judge and jury have not been secured. The plea for securing signers is the same as that used on the trial, namely, insanity. Many cirizens seem to hold to the belief that he was minted with criminal insanity, owing to the fact that he was often bragging of his shooting, and also that he had often threatened to kill other citizens in the neighborhood in which he lived. Peacock was exceptionally bright in some things, and formerly worked on one of the local newspapers, and wrote with more than average ability.

OAT HARVEST COMMENCES. Large Acreage in Benton County-

Large Vetch Fields. CORVALLIS, Or., July 17.—(Special.)— Binding will begin in many of the cats fields in Benton County next Monday. In some fields there has been a day or two of preliminary cutting during the current work. In the county there is an un-usually large acreage of oats, and the crop is apparently the best in many years. A prolific growth is also apparent in the wheat and vetch fields, and if the yield turns out to be as good as present conditions promise, the crop of the county will be the best in many years.

Of vetch, a large acreage is now grown in this county for seed. John Whitaker's farm has 100 acres of it, and on the J. farm has 100 acres of it, and on the s, N. McFadden farm there is a still larger acreage, while on many other farms there are fields of leaser size. The vetch for seed is mostly cut with the mower, shocked and threshed from the shock. Vetch threshing will begin within a week or ten days.

Company H, of this place, and the company at Oregon City were the two selected by the board to be disbanded. It is quite a disappointment to the mem-bers of the company here, as they have been cherishing happy anticipations of the coming grand encampment, which will be held at American Lake, near Tacoms, in

PASSING OF ONE OF THE BUILDERS OF THE STATE

The late George Shambrook,

March 6, 1847, he joined a small party in Dupage County, Illinois, and started across the plains. His party was joined by others and on Platte River fully organized and elected a captain. The company endured many hardships and before reaching this side of the mountains divided; a small portion, of which he was a member, reached the Whitman Mission in October.

Here a part remained, and about two days before the Whitman massacre, Shambrook was sent by Whitman to take some parties to the Valley, arriving at Oregon City late that season. In June, 1849, he gold excitement, returning to Oregon City in September of that year and opening a butcher shop, which business he followed until June, 1a52, when he came to Douglas County, and settied on a donation claim on the Umpqua River.

He was married to Mrs. Lucretta Ridenour November 15, 1855, who survives him. Of this union 13 children were born, of whom seven are living: Mrs. Mary McKechnie, Astoria, Or.; D. R. Robert Insley Wounded at the White House.

UNKNOWN FIRES THE BULLETS

Prompt Aid of Physician Saves His Life-Friends Conceal Identity of Assailant and Save Him From Arrest.

Because he insisted upon making trouble at the White House, a man giving his name as Bob Insley was shot in the head three times last night at 10:30 o'clock, and that the wounds did not prove fatal was due to the timely presence of Dr. G. H. Strowbridge, who cared for the injured

The firing of the shots is a mystery, and those who were present at the White House at the time the trouble occurred insist that they have not the slightest notion who was the guilty party.

Mr. Insley, accompanied by a woman, whose name could not be learned, had gone out to the White House in a rowboat to spend the evening. They resorted to feasting and wine, as a means of ment, and before it was time to start home both were very drunk. In his drunken condition Insley became convinced that he had no friends, and that every one was to be treated as a bitter enemy. Accordingly, he started trouble with each supposed enemy, and when he thought he had them all vanquished, he started in to breaking up the furniture and defacing the building.

Robert Wiltz, manager of the White House, stood all the abuse as best he could, and offered the man no violence. or, at least, this is the statement of Dr Strowbridge, who had driven up to the White House a few moments before the

Despite the fact that no one oppose him on his wild frenzy, the drunken man heaped abuse on the heads of every one present. He called them names of every kind and description, and challenged them to fight singly or collectively. By persuasion and gentle treatment, the manager finally managed to convince the well-known salesman that he was not doing the right thing, and Insley said he would go back to the boat and return to

With his woman companion Insley left the house, and those present breathed a sigh of relief as he departed. They were surprised a few moments later to see him coming back, swearing and abusing every one in a high pitched voice.

"We cannot have him back here," said omeone, and they were all wondering how they would induce him to keep away when the question was solved in a startling manner.

"Crack, crack, crack," rang out three pistol shots, and the man dropped in his tracks. Dr. Strowbridge, who was out driving at the time, hastened to the aid of the wounded man and found him very weak, and losing blood rapidly. The shock from the shots had been great, and but for prompt action on the part of the physician it is thought that he would not have recovered. He was hastily taken into the house, and his wounds dressed. That the shots had been fired with an intent to kill, was shown by the fact that each of them had hit the victim in the head, and that the three shots had struck but a short distance apart. That his life was spared is probably due to a false wig that he wore. All three shots struck in the wig, but were turned upward causing no wound that pierced the brain. "The man will live," said Dr. Strowbridge, "but his case looked dangerous for a while. He was very weak when I picked him up." Asked is there were any suspicion as to who fired the shots, Dr. Strowbridge said that he had not the least idea. "The shot was fired from the house," said he, "while the man was still out in the road. He was shot three times in quick succession, but as to who fired the shots I can form no

Benefit. NORTH YAKIMA, Wash., July 17. (Special.)--Preliminary steps have been taken on what promises to be the greatest irrigation scheme in the Northwest and probably in the whole country in a canal system for the Yakima and Kittitas Valley that will water about 40,000 acres of desert land. Yesterday the Yakima Development Company, capitalized at $250,000, filed articles of incorpora-tion with the County Auditor. The pres dent is Attorney Edward Whitson, of this secretary and treasurer, H. S. Jud-of St. Paul, Minn., and associated with these two men is L. A. Nares, of Fresno, Cal., who has interests and con-trols 6000 miles of canals in the San Joaquin Valley, California, Messrs, Judson and Nares arrived her-Wednesday afternoon, and have since been engaged in getting their plans un der way. They were here last February and went over the field and directed that surveys of the canal be made at once So favorably were they impressed with the result of the survey that they are here to do business and are ready to invest $3,000,000 in the undertaking.

The plan of the company is to build a storage reservoir at the lakes at the head of the Yakima River, for which purpose an appropriation has already been made, and increase the water sup-ply from 5000 to 4000 cubic feet during the owest period in the river's flow. canal will carry the water through the Kittitas Valley to the land in the Moxee district and thence to the Mr. Judson is one of the larges stockholders of the Yakima Land & Liv stock Company, a corporation which owns 38,000 acres in the Moxee Valley above the present irrigated district. As a result of the preliminary work done the Northern Pacific Railway has withdrawn all its land from the market; the state has also done the same, and it is likely the Government will take the same Jay Lynch, the superintendent of the Yakima Indian reservation, has been no tifled by the Interior Department to advertise for bids for the construction of the canal on the reservation. This work was ordered done last March, but was held up by certain parties who interposed because of an alleged shortage of water The Interior Department sent an expert on here to make an investigation, and he has found that there is more water going to waste in this valley than is utilized by the farmer, and he also found that a great many farmers were rulnin their land because they used too much water for irrigation purposes. The canal will cost $45,000, and will water acres of land, said to be the finest in the valley. This is all Indian land and will be subject to lease at the rate of 5 cents and $1 per acre.

It is understood that Eastern parties were here a short time ago and made an effort to lease 19,000 acres of the land, out were unsuccessful. The work on the canal will all be done by Indians insofar owing to his long experience, is able to diagnose most cases and prescribe, providing a good description is given by letter.

Although we number our patients from every state, our business is not confined to this continent, but we send treatment to nearly every country in the world. Not long ago a gentleman sent a letter describing his case and also a money order from Paris, France, and asked us to send him treatment, remarking that we had cured a certain gentleman who was a friend of his. Another gentleman, residing in the Province of Posen, Germany. wrote, saying that he had seen our advertisement, and would like to have us send him treatment for stricture, if we were not afraid to trust him across the sea. We sent treatment by mail, and in 60 days received a letter saying he had sent a postoffice order by same mail, and that our treatment had cured him entirely. He incidentally remarked that he believed the specialists of the United States were far superior to those in Germany. We have also patients in Australia, Sandwich slands and in the Philippine
