SALEM, July 23 .- (Special.) -- Secretary of State Dunbar today filed with State Treasurer Moore a list of the corporations which have complied with the terms of the Eddy corporation law. This list constains the names of all domestic corporations that had filed their annual reports by July 15, or have been incorporated since May 21, and of all foreign corporations that have filed declarations of intention to transact business in this state. From this list it appears that out of some 8500 companies that have been incorporated in this state only 1063 are now authorized to transact business as corporations. The other 7000 and more have either abandoned their corporate existence or have neglected to comply with the Eddy law and their corporate powers are suspended until they

It also appears from the list filed by Mr. Dunbar today that the 1063 domestic corporations which have filed statements and new corporations have a total capital stock of $329,830,271. The annual license fees upon this total will be $45.785. This must be said to the State Treasurer by August 15. The largest capital stock is that of the Oregon Railroad & Naviga- PACKERY FOR CLARK COUNTY. tion Company-$35,000,000. The smallest is that of the Hub Land Company-$50.

Some Foreigners Pay Up.

Declarations have been filed by 46 foreign corporations which have paid $7500 eign corporations which have paid $7500 rate a large fruit-packing-house in the in filing fees and license fees. Foreign City of Vancouver, and at a meeting it corporations have until August 15 to file was decided to put 1000 shares of stock declarations, and it is expected that nearly 50 more will make their filings, thus doubling the revenue from that source.

As stated above, the list compiled by Secretary of State Dunbar does not contain the names of domestic corporations which filed their statements after July 15, when the list, according to law, must be made. Since that date some 100 corporations have filed statements, and the license fees due from them will aggregate $4000. From the facts now at hand it is therefore evident that the state is certain of a revenue of $50,000 from domestic corporations, and $15,000 from foreign corporations, this year. It is also clear that a large number of domestic corporations which have not yet complied with the law will later in the year find that they must do so in order to do business, and these will probably add another $15,000 to the revenue. This will make an income of and it is probable that next year the receipts will nearly reach that amount.

Delinquents Make Inquiries.

From day to day corporations are learning that they cannot long evade the payment of their license fees. Already inquirids are being received at the office of the Secretary of State concerning the status of certain corporations. In some cases the corporations inquired about are engaged in lawsuits and in others perhaps they are attempting to sell land or transact other business. Defendants in suits brought by corporations will, if given an opportunity, raise the statutory defense that the plaintiff has not complied with the Eddy law, and hence cannot bring suit. Persons who are buying land from corporations will hesitate to take deeds from them unless they have compiled with the terms of the Eddy law. In this way many corporations will be compelled to file their statements and pay their licenses We hout any demand from the state.

Up to the present time the corporation department of the Secretary's office has been overcrowded with work. In a few days the rush will be over, and then the records will be examined to ascertain the names of corporations which are known to be doing business in this state but which have not complied with the law. Notices will be sent to all of these, reminding them of their delinquency and demanding compliance with the law.

These notices will bring reports from many concerns which have neglected the Committees representing the two classes of mechanics named went to St. Paul some time ago to confer with the company with reference to a raise in wages. Negotiations were carried on quietly, and although the agreement was eigned on July 16, not a word was said about the matter, and the members of the committee hurried to their homes as soon as copies of the new contracts were placed in their hands.

Tells What He Saved Out of the Wreck-Jacob Eppinger Absent on Account of Illness.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 23 .- Some of the methods of bookkeeping by the defunct firm of Eppinger & Co. were brought out today in the examination of Herman Eppinger before Referee Milton J. Green. For six years Joshua Eppinger, the son of the man under examination, was drawing money from the firm in all kinds of amounts. On May 1 of this year the young man was credited with $12,000. Herman Eppinger made again the state ment that his brother Jacob had with-drawn money from the firm, but he could not tell how much. Jacob Eppinger was to have been present today, but was absent on account of Illness. His examination was postponed until next Thursday morning.

Referee Green presided over the court and Herman Eppinger was accompanied by his attorney, Henry Ach. Mr. Fried-enrich represented the creditors, and plied the witness with questions until the latter begged off on the plea that an answer might tend to incriminate him. This was on the advice of his attorney.

Mr. Friedenrich was desirous of learning something of the personal property of the witness. He asked him with regard to what he had saved out of the wreck. Herman Eppinger replied that he had a small reposit in the First National Bank of Oakland and another in the Canadian Bank of Commerce. He has an interest in a mining claim in Siskiyou County, which he believes to be valueless. He also had several insurance policies which had been assigned to his wife. He said that he knew little about the books, saying that the firm was a "one-man power and he only guessed how it was getting along. He decilned to answer when asked what occurred at an interview between himself and Manager Bowles, of the American National Bank, on the ground that it might tend to ineriminate him.

Manager Bowies said Jacob Eppinger would be examined on Thursday, July 20.
