They laughed at Sam Morris, those Sacramento baseball tossers, when he stepped to the firing line at 24th and Vaughn street yesterday afternoon. They hoisted, yelled and insulted him, but with the stoicism for which his race is noted he paid no more attention to them than he would have paid to the far-off cry of a harmless night-bird on the Nez Perce Reservation. They laughed at Sam Morris, Sam Morris the Indian, the amateur, but it's dollars to a punctured yen that if a fan should mention his name in the hearing of Harry Hogan and the rest of Mike Fisher's crew, they would blush in sheer chagrin of it.

They laughed for just four innings; then that laugh died into a sickly grin when he lined out two-base hit that would have been good for a triple but for interference at second at the hands of Eagan. Levy evidently wasn't watching or Morris would have been waved to the third cushion. They laugh, the grin, the hoisting, the yelling and the insult died away and became an unhappy groan in the sixth, when Morris sent the ball over the fence for one of the longest home runs ever made on the home grounds. Sam knew that the Underwriters were there to laugh and confuse him if they could. He knew it was part of the game, and that's why he forgave Harry Hogan for saying the things to him that should not have been said. Morris would have been justified had he chased Hogan off the coaching line. He had heard of revenge, he heard, and he certainly earned it in while he was at it. Think of the disgrace of it. Think of the hot benches that will be passed out to the Sacramento players when they return home. What a triumph they would have for those angry fans to explain away their defeat, which, had Morris had the faultless support that was accorded McFarlan, would have been more decisive? They can't look at Levy's conduct as the best excuse they can offer for "slump in their betting department" and "the Browns are hitting like wildmen." This will do. It's lame, frightfully lame, when the tabulated scores show that Portland was guilty of making nine nerve-racking errors.

Browns Have an Off Day.

Through the long bingle-student, ten-innings finish "Old Sam Morris fought his way to victory over those black-sacked Sacramento Underwriters, and a heart-breaking task that the Browns set for this wonderful Indian amateur. In no game this season have the Browns had such an off day in their fielding, and which their insupportable home crowd Sacramento to move up and tie the score in the eighth inning, that grandstand and those bleachers contained about two thousand of the most thoroughly disgusted and angry fans that the city has ever seen. self and that the breaks the Browns were making were the luck of the game.

Among those who came from Salem to see Morris appear in fast company were the wonderful Indian second-basemen of whom so much has been written, and Dr. Jessup. Dr. Jessup sat in the press box and telephoned the game by innings to the anxiously waiting fans at Salem.

When Sam drove out his home run, in all that great hat-waving, yelling crowd there was none more happy than Dr. Jessup. The sight of the grandstand and bleachers standing on their toes, waving their hats, canes, umbrellas and yelling like mad, and Morris, his inky black hair waving and tossing wildly as he ran around the bases in that long, graceful, looping gait, was something worth seeing. The scene was by far the wildest and most joyful ever seen at the Twenty-fourth street grounds.

KICKED AT THE EMPIRE.

Why Roseburg Players Walked off the Field at Salem.

ROSEBURG, Ore., Aug. 2.—(To the Editor.)—In behalf of the Roseburg Baseball Club I desire to take exception to the following erroneous and misleading article which appeared in today's issue of The Oregonian:

Salem, Ore., Aug. 2.—(Special.)—The game between Salem and Roseburg today, the last of the series for the present, the Williams Valley League, was forfeited to Salem, 9 to 0, on the refusal of the visitors to play. Roseburg got "cold feet," and rather than lose the game by playing without an excuse for not playing, they first demanded half the gate receipts; not being successful in this they refused to play if McCormick, official scorer for Salem and Eugene, officiated in the game.

The writer being connected with the management of the Roseburg team and having taken an active part in the arrangement of the game, I desire to present the following facts to the public and correct as far as possible the erroneous impression the Salem management is and has been trying to create in the minds of the patrons of the game on that day and who were at a loss to understand at the time why the Roseburg team walked off of the grounds. First, I want to say that Roseburg did not demand any part of the gate receipts. This question was settled several days previously by the Salem management refusing to live up to the agreement made by their manager, which was to pay the gate money equally, our team paying their own expenses. Neither did we forfeit the game because we were afraid of being beaten by Salem, as we felt fully confident of winning the game, but we did object very strongly to McCormick as umpire, as our boys have never been able to get what they considered fair treatment at his hands.

We therefore entered a protest with the president of the league against McCormick umpiring the game which would decide the pennant and wherein his home team was one of the contestants. The president of the league stated that he had appointed Ranking of Portland, to officiate, which was entirely satisfactory to us, and we boarded the train for Eugene and Salem.

After reaching Salem and about three hours before the game was called, the Salem management received a telegram from the president stating that McCormick would officiate, and the spirits of the Salem fans went up about 100 per cent. Why the president changed his mind we can't tell, but have a very good idea that at least one party in Salem could, if he felt so disposed. We offered to compromise by letting our umpire officiate, and the offer was treated with contempt. We knew from experience what to expect if McCormick umpired, and rather than have it handed out to us in big bunches we forfeited the game, that was worrying Salem more than a little. We only asked for a fair show, and could not get it. C. B. CANNON.

CORBETT SELECTS HIS GLOVES.

He Will Do No More Heavy Work for Great Match With Jeffries.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 5.—James J. Corbett has selected the gloves he will use in his contest with Jeffries. He stated he will do no more heavy work, but will engage chiefly in sparring until the date of the fight. He takes issue with pugilistic critics who have asserted that he will not be entitled to the championship if he merely outpoints Jeffries, but at the same time claims to be capable of knocking out the best of the world.

Jeffries is still hard at work at Harbin Springs. Today he put in the morning at the gymnasium. He boxed Fitzsimmons, Kennedy and his brother Jack. He has been examined and pronounced physically sound in every particular by a physician sent up for the purpose by the Yosemite Athletic Club.

TRAINMEN GET DEMANDS

Danger of a Strike on the Rock Island is Passed.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—Officials of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway representatives of the grievance committee of the trainmen and conductors were in conference today, and as a result all danger of a strike is declared by the union leaders to be passed.

By the terms of the settlement, wages will be increased and the working rules revised. According to the agreement which takes effect August 1, passenger conductors will receive 12 per cent more than the scale of January 1, 1902, which was $125, and freight conductors will get a 15 per cent increase over the scale of 1901, which was $100.

The increase of freight trainmen is 15 per cent over the former scale of 5 cents a mile, and passenger brakemen will get an increase of 12 per cent over the old scale, which varied in different parts of the country.

CONGRESS CANNOT ACT.

Roosevelt Tells "Mother Jones" States Must Deal With Child Labor.

NEW YORK, Aug. 5.—"Mother Jones," who recently marched to this city from Philadelphia with a small number of striking textile workers, and visited Outer Bay with the object of seeing President Roosevelt, has given out the following letter received in that connection from Secretary Bureau:

"I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of the 30th ult., and state that it has been brought to the President's attention. The President, as was shown by his action while Governor of New York, has the heartiest sympathy with every effort to prevent child labor in factories, and on this matter no argument need be addressed to him as his position has been announced again and again. Under the constitution it is not at present seen how Congress has power to act in such a matter. It would seem that the states alone at present have the power to deal with the subject."

Vote to Remain on Strike.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 5.—The Ingrain Carpet Weavers of the city who are on strike along with other textile workers, held special meetings tonight and voted to remain on strike. A committee of manufacturers on Monday and offered to waive the 15-hour week and go back to work if they were granted a 19 per cent increase in wages for a 60-hour week. This the manufacturers refused to do, and tonight the meeting was held for the purpose of settling the question of whether to go back to work under the old conditions or to remain on strike.

HARLEM RULES THEM OFF.

Racing Firm Jockey and Stablesman Blamed for Orsina's Bad Showing.

CHICAGO, Aug. 5.—The racing firm of Lind & Co., of San Francisco, Jockey Trainer, James Lynch and James Harris, the latter two employees of the Arthur stable, were ruled off the turf today by the stewards of the Harlem Jockey Club and the Chicago Jockey Club.

The action taken by the Harlem officials was due to the poor showing made by Orsina last Monday, when it was alleged she was deliberately pulled by Jockey Trainer.

In the July selling stakes at Hawthorne last week, Orsina, heavily backed by his owner, James Arthur, ran a bad race, and complaint was made that his horse had been tampered with. An investigation was started by the track officers, and it is claimed alleged evidence was secured showing that James Crabb, an employee of the Arthur stable, had given Orsina two powders, and that they came from the Lind stable, which had Orsina in the same race.

FEW BABIES ARRIVE.

Balance of Births Over Deaths in Portland is Slight.

Since January 1 Portland matrons have increased the population of the city only 70. The stark has made 73 visits in that period, but Father Time, with his scythe, has cut off 90 persons. It is a tight race. Portland would have for citizens if it were not helped out by immigration. A physician declared yesterday that, but for the newcomers, who broke after they get here, Portland would be on the down grade of population.

Last month not one lawyer, physician, preacher, in fact, not one professional man, according to the city record, was presented with a young hopeful. The wives of laborers, however, made up a great part of the deficiency by bringing 30 babies into the world. The occupations of the men whose homes were visited by the stars were as follows:
