M. LOUIS COMBES.

NEW BACON CIPHER.

St. Louis Man Lays Claim to Discoverer in Shakespearean Lore. ST. LOUIS, Aug. 9.—(Special.)—According to a cipher discovered by Dr. W. H. Ford, of this city, not only were the Shakespearean plays and sonnets the work of Lord Francis Bacon, but in them lies indisputable proof that Bacon in his closing days bitterly resented the injustice being done to him, and spoke disparagingly of the "rot" and "ignoble" Shakespeare.

LET LAW PREVAIL.

as of all free governments, is respect for and obedience to the law. Where we permit the law to be defied or evaded, whether by rich man or poor man, black man or white man, we are by just so much weakening the bonds of our civilization and increasing the chances of its overthrow and of the substitution thereof of a system in which there shall be violent altercations of anarchy and tyranny. Sincerely yours, "THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Aug. 9.—Governor Durbin said tonight regarding President Roosevelt's letter: "I naturally feel gratified over the commendation which the Chief Executive of the country has seen fit to bestow on my acts in connection with the trouble at Evansville, and I certainly regard it as a great compliment to have his approval. In my opinion, however, it is not for the executive of the state to meet conditions to which he refers as much as it is for the people themselves.

QUARANTINE AGAINST YELLOW FEVER.

LAREDO, Tex., Aug. 9.—The quarantine which was established against San Luis Potosi a week ago, because of the appearance of a case of yellow fever, is being rigorously enforced. Citizens of San Luis positively deny that any yellow fever exists in that territory, and have forwarded a petition to the United States authorities at Washington, asking that the quarantine be lifted.

Marseilles Police Rescue the Would-Be Murderer from the Hands of the Mob—Interrogated by His Intended Victim.

MARSEILLES, Aug. 9.—As Premier Combes was returning this afternoon to the prefecture from a banquet given by the Friendly Society of Teachers, at which M. Pellatin, Minister of Marine, and Henry Brisson, Deputy for Marseilles, and a number of Senators and Deputies were present, two pistol shots were fired at the carriage in which he was riding. The Premier was untouched meanwhile Cardinal Macchi descended to pray. The altar was surmounted with a baldachin, supported by four historic bronze pillars taken from the Pantheon. The appearance of the pope in that elevated position called for another burst of enthusiasm. The pope then blessed the altar and after a saying of "In Imprimis," the maniple, a symbol of the cord with which Christ was bound on his capture, was placed with great ceremony upon the pope's arm. At the same time prayers for the coronation were recited by Cardinals Vannutelli, Mocenni, Agliardi and Sestili. Returning from the crypt, Cardinal Macchi placed upon the shoulders of the pope the pontifical pallium and attached it with three golden jeweled pins, saying: "Receive this sacred pallium as a symbol of the fullness of the pontifical office, in honor of Almighty God, the most glorious Virgin Mary, his mother, the blessed apostles, St. Peter and St. Paul, and the holy Roman Catholic church."

Mass was then celebrated with great pomp and ceremony, the voice of the pope becoming gradually more distinct until it was even audible in the most distant corner of the immense church. Following this, Cardinal Macchi performed the rite of incensing the pope, whom he subsequently kissed three times on the cheek and chest as did Cardinals Segna and Vannutelli.

Salutation of Ecclesiastics. On the Pope's return to the throne, the cardinals offered their last obeisance to the pontiff, kissing his hands and feet, and receiving embraces by him twice in turn. The bishops and archbishops kissed his foot and right knee, while the abbots kissed only his foot. The holy father then walked to the shrine of St. Peter for the culminating rites of the extremely fatiguing ceremony.

The whole Sacred College gathered about the pope, singing Palestrina's "Corona Aurea Super Caput Eius," while the choir burst forth into song. Cardinal Macchi recited the "Pater Noster," and offered the following prayer: "Omnipotent and ever eternal God, dignify of the clergy and author of sovereignty, grant thy servant, Pius X, grace fruitfully to govern thy church so that he who by thy clemency becomes and is crowned as father of kings and rector of all the faithful, through thy wise dispensation may govern well."

"Amen," rang out from all corners of the cathedral, from the choir, the people, the clergy and the patriarchs. Cardinal Deacon Segna then raised the pontiff's mitre, and Senior Cardinal Deacon Macchi placed on the white head the triple crown.

Acclaim of the Faithful. At this moment the church was filled with the ringing of bells, the blowing of silver trumpets, the triumphant strains of the choir and the acclamations of the multitude, which could not be repressed. When comparative silence had been restored, Cardinal Macchi addressed the Pope in Latin, as follows: "Receive the tiara, ornamented with three crowns. Remember thou art father of Princes and Kings, the rector of the world, the vicar on earth of our Savior, Jesus Christ."

"Amen," again burst forth from the concourse. Pope Pius X was almost overcome and had scarcely strength left to impart the apostolic benediction. Cardinals Macchi and Segna granted plenary indulgence to all present, and the procession then reformed and left the Basilica in the same form as it came. The pope was visibly fatigued, and his right hand shook as he raised it time after time to bestow his blessing.

Basilica Quietly Empty. When the ceremony was over all the exits to the Basilica were opened, and within less than an hour the hall was empty. Strong as Pius X is physically, he supported the ordeal of his coronation today perhaps with less fortitude than did Leo XIII when he was crowned, although Leo was merely a shadow of a man. But he possessed a will which nothing could break. This evening, when the pontiff received the Duke of Parma, he said to him: "Not counting the election, today was the most tremendous experience of my life. I must find a way to stop the noise in the church. It is an offense against religion."

Although there was a tremendous crowd at St. Peter's today not a single untoward incident occurred, and the perfect order is attributed to the good organization of the military and the police. Premier Zanarini, although not well, remained in Rome purposely to direct the policy of the government. He left immediately after the coronation, saying: "Rome and Italy have given proof to the world of the freedom of the church."

No Recognition of Quirinal. The officers of the Vatican refused diplomats, accredited to the Quirinal, any facilities for being present at the coronation. Nevertheless, some of them were there as private individuals, through the courtesy of their colleagues of the French Embassy to the Vatican.

Besides Cardinal Gibbons, there were present at the coronation today Monsignor Kennedy and the entire American College party, the archbishop of Manila, Monsignore O'Connell, rector of Washington University, and Very Rev. Charles P. Granahan, of the same institution. Father Wall and Father John E. Burke, of New York; Father E. W. Fowler, of St. Louis, Mo.; and Father Thomas B. Donovan, of Montgomery, Ala. The only member of the pope's family present was his nephew, Parolin, who is a parish priest.

Cardinal Gibbons, after participating in the coronation ceremonies, started for the villa of the American College at Castle Gandolfo, accompanied by Monsignore Kennedy, rector of the college. The cardinal will spend a few days in rest. Tonight all the churches and religious institutions and many private houses are illuminated in honor of the occasion. The pontiff was so fatigued by the ceremony that the meeting of the consistory, which was to have been held tomorrow, was postponed.

LAST SNUB TO MILES

Laudatory Letter Torn Up by President. IT WAS WRITTEN BY ROOT.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(Special.)—Secretary Root has always had the greatest admiration for General Miles as a soldier, and had matters been left in Mr. Root's hands, the General would have retired with flying colors, instead of with an unprecedented snub.

Mr. Root wanted General Miles to have the honor of being the last Commanding General of the Army, as Congress intended, and a week ago issued an order which clearly indicated that the command was to be discontinued. At the same time, he prepared a farewell letter to General Miles, which was of the most laudatory type.

Mr. Root took the matter to Oyster Bay and submitted it to the President. Roosevelt tore up the letter, and ordered that a retirement letter of the coldest and most formal style be issued, and that General Young be appointed to the command of the Army for six days, so that General Miles would be deprived of the honor which Congress intended him to have.

In the past it has been the custom of the President of the United States himself to issue an order announcing the retirement of the Commanding General of the Army, and at the same time calling attention to his honorable service, etc. President Cleveland issued such an order when Lieutenant-General Schofield, Miles' predecessor in command, retired in 1886. The same thing was done on other similar occasions.

Everybody in Washington is discussing the matter, and on all sides it was agreed that the President had gone out of his way to administer a parting snub to General Miles. People in Washington have known that the President hated Miles, but it was not believed that the Chief Executive would take occasion to show it so plainly. Miles' friends characterize the matter as a piece of despicable meanness.

Miles himself has nothing to say about it. He has been handled so roughly that nothing coming from his superiors is a surprise to him. He naturally feels hurt, but has adopted the plan of ignoring the whole incident.

Another incident which was most humiliating to General Miles occurred at the War Department during the reception by the retiring Commanding General of his brother officers. General Miles himself wore an undress uniform, as usual in his office, but General Young appeared arrayed in the complete regalia of a Lieutenant-General.

General Miles was astonished and an-

OVATION FOR MILES.

Retired General Warmly Greeted in Maryland Town. CUMBERLAND, Md., Aug. 9.—General Nelson A. Miles, en route from Washington to San Francisco, was given an ovation upon his arrival here today. The Union Veteran Legion and members of the Grand Army were at the station in large numbers and cheered the veteran to the echo, while the South Cumberland Band played National airs. There was cheering and waving of handkerchiefs by many thousands of persons, including many women.

General Thomas R. Scott, of Baltimore, made a short speech, referring to General Miles as the "greatest living soldier," and he recited by the friction between the Colorado City Mill and the Smeltermen's Union and the United States Reduction & Refining Company, the former claiming that the latter company has failed to carry out its agreement entered into when the recent strike was called off.

A committee from the unions of this district has notified Manager McNulty, of the United States Reduction & Refining Company, that unless the demands of the millmen are met by tomorrow strikes will be declared at the mines which furnish ore to the Colorado City plant of the company.

Trolley Strike is Settled.

WATERBURY, Conn., Aug. 9.—The strike of trolley men which began 30 weeks ago, was settled today, the company agreeing to take back part of the strikers at once at the old wages, to give employment to the others as soon as possible.

WE CURE MEN

Every contracted disease is attacked by grave dangers that nothing less than a thorough and absolute cure can remove. To take even the slightest chance in such cases is to invite lifelong misery. Men do not realize life as they should. A partial cure is followed by a chronic stage, with all its horrors. The same as though the disease had not been treated at all. We positively will not claim a patient until every possibility of relapse is removed. By our system of treatment every patient is soundly cured, and made as free from disease taint as he was before the ailment was contracted.
